Hope

"I hope..." How many times do you think you've said this phrase in your life? Hundreds, maybe thousands, of times? I know that there was a phase in my life where it seemed that most all of what I said revolved around, "I hope." Regardless of the number of times "you hoped," frequently or not, hope is something that we all have.

A few weeks ago, my daughter, Rebecca, wrote a poem that touches on hope in its truest form.

Hope

I am now reminded of a bracelet I used to have. This bracelet was not an ordinary bracelet, but it was a friendship bracelet. This bracelet was pink, with a metal square on it that read two words, which was "Best friend." Time and time again, I would wash my hands with it on, causing it to become rusty. Before I knew it, it was too rusty to see the word that was written. Before I knew it, it was too rusty to see the word that was written on it. I have now come to understand that the same thing that happened to my bracelet can happen to a relationship. It's not that the love isn't there, It's just that the anger, the fights, and the frustration of not being understood have become too overbearing, for the love to be magnified. But the way I see it, as long as you know that the love is still there, Your relationship has hope. And sometimes, hope is all you need. Because hope gives you the power to forgive. Hope gives you the courage to love. Hope gives you the strength to live life.

By: Rebecca Overstreet

Simply stated! Hope inspires forgiveness... courage... love... life. It is comforting to know that no matter what hurdles or troubles you are currently experiencing in your life, you will always have salvation waiting for you. Christian hope is based on this simple fact. Never in your life will you be alone. Jesus Christ will walk beside you and this is the reason that you should feel hope.
