INTERNATIONAL Advance Deposit: Applicants attending the main campus from outside the United States (except Canada and STUDENTS Mexico) must make an advance deposit of $2,000. This deposit must be paid in cash. No university scholarships may be applied to pay the deposit. Deposit Allocation: This deposit is not available to cover registration expenses; the deposit earns interest during the time the student is enrolled. The deposit plus interest is refunded when the student's enrollment is terminated; alternatively, it can be used as partial payment for the final semester of registration. International students do not get a discount on their deposit when the deposit is used to pay tuition costs. Resource Verification: Bank documentation as well as other forms of financial documentation are required to prove ability to support one's educational expenses. This documentation must be sent to the university directly from the bank. The applicant must demonstrate adequate financial support for the duration of the program for which (s)he is applying. I-20 Form: Once the deposit and resource verification are received and accepted, the university authorizes the International Student Services Office to issue the I-20 Form for the purpose of securing a United States student visa (F-1). Statement of Acknowledgement: The International Student Services Office provides an agreement called Statement of Acknowledgement by which the prospective student/sponsor commit themselves to maintaining a full study load at Andrews University and to abiding by the INS rules and regulations. This signed statement is required of the student, sponsor and parent or spouse (if applicable) and should be mailed with the application.
