School Picnic

Today was a special day of school. The first part of the day was a chapel that continued the chapels from the week. Next there was an assembly for inducting the new SA officers into their positions. The transfer of Officers began with the current officers introducing next year's Student Association officers followed by the swearing in of each .

The spring picnic began right after the Transfer of Officers assembly was over. Students could chose which sports event they wanted to participate in. Such as volleyball, tennis , volleyball, soccer, basketball, and baseball. It was good to see almost everyone participating in the games. It was also great to see the good sportsmanship; on several separate occasions I saw a person accidentally knock someone over, who immediately stopped playing and helped the other person up.

As part of any good spring picnic a lunch was provided for each student. We thank the numerous students and parents for helping prepare this meal, your volunteer help saved the school hundreds of tuition dollars. Numerous groups of students sat together finishing lunch and enjoying the warm sunshine filled day.

Yearbooks

At lunch, the 2015—2016 year books were handed out. This year's theme was; "Oh the places we'll go!" The color scheme and title were taken from Dr. Seuss' books. It was dedicated to Mr. Vandenburg for all his years of service and love he's shown the students.

The students loved the yearbook and spent the rest of the afternoon taking part in activities and getting people to sign their books for them.

Chapels

For all the Chapels this week a special Christian Drama class presented a play they'd practiced all semester. It portrays the remnant trying to travel from the darkness to the light. In an intriguing story-line, it held many parallels to what the Bible tells us what will happen during the end times along with Jesus's sacrifice, His death on the cross, and His resurrection.

To end, Mrs. Jacobsons gave an appeal to those who have not yet given their lives to God in Baptism to come talk to her later and she can get things lined up for them. Ruth and Taylor sang a song of commencement to close the program. After the first verse was finished, they invited the whole cast of the play on stage to sing with them. It was a touching performance to all, and many broke into tears towards the end.

A big thank you goes to Mr. Flores for all the time and effort he puts into developing the skills of the students and presenting the concert. I'm so impressed with how much music and variety of music the students learn. They recently returned from a week-long trip to Thailand, presented the Seven Last Words of Christ, and then a few weeks later this entire concert!

It was a wonderful evening of great music.
