The study of history examines humanity through time. It contributes to both social and individual identity and expands awareness beyond the confines of time and place. The Department of History and Political Science promotes such study within the framework of a Christian world view. In addition to the quest for truth, this perspective emphasizes both individual and corporate responsibility for service to humanity.

The department’s General Education courses and majors and minors provide a basic component of liberal arts education.

Pre-Professional Curricula in Public History
Public or applied history refers to careers in history-related fields other than teaching. The major areas include museum management, archival management, and historic preservation, as well as the production of historical programs for the media. A master’s degree in a public or applied history program or certification upon completion of certain graduate courses is needed prior to employment.

The Department of History and Political Science recommends curricula which combine a major in history with a second major or minor and electives, providing an advantageous undergraduate basis for a public history career. Curriculum recommendations are available from the department chair.

Graduate Programs

The Department of History and Political Science offers the Master of Arts: Church-State Studies and in cooperation with the School of Education, offers the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) degree.

MA: Church-State Studies—33
In addition to the general requirements for graduate degree programs listed in the Graduate Admissions section of this bulletin, the following departmental regulations should be noted.

Admission Requirements. Applicants must have completed a bachelor’s degree with a minimum of six credits in history of the Christian Church courses or equivalent.

Degree Requirements

• The completion of 33 credits in graduate history, political science and approved elective courses.
• Required courses: HIST630, 650; PLSC620, 625; HIST698 or PLSC598. Two of the following: HIST440, 447, 448. One of the following in addition to previously listed requirements: HIST698, PLSC698, or PLSC589; One additional PLSC course; and six credits of electives chosen from history, political science or other approved courses.
• Successful completion of a comprehensive examination administered by the Department of History and Political Science.
• Successful completion of two research projects or one research project and an internship; research projects are deemed completed when approved by two faculty members of the Department of History and Political Science.

MAT: History

The degree prepares students for teaching history and government in secondary schools and is offered through the School of Education. Candidates must have passed basic undergraduate survey courses in World Civilizations and United States History. Graduate courses should be elected to include a variety of period, topical, and geographic-area courses. A minimum of 6 credits elected in these areas must be at the 500 level. At least 2 credits in HIST590 are required. HIST459 is required but does not count toward the minimum 12 credits of history.

Candidates select their courses in consultation with the chair of the department or an advisor designated by the chair. See the School of Education section of this bulletin on p. 251 for further information regarding teacher certification and the MAT degree program.

An increasing number of careers demand that students have integrated, advanced skills and expertise in more than one field of study. Careers in education, leadership, management, and religion require a holistic grasp on philosophical, ethical, and pedagogical interrelationships. The interdisciplinary programs provide a framework where faculty and students can engage in scholarly pursuits which require such interrelationships.

The discipline of environmental science deals with the relationships between humans and natural systems. This degree develops an understanding of the relationship between humans and natural systems, expertise in problem solving and communication skills, environmental-management skills, testing and planning abilities, and a strong foundation for advanced study in various professional and basic research fields. It promotes "hands on" as well as basic and theoretical training.

Requirements in seven areas:
Physical/Natural Sciences and Math: BIOL165, 166, 208, 348; CHEM131, 132, 231, 232, 241, 242, 340; IDSC401, 402; MATH145, 182.
Religion: RELT100, RELB210, RELT348, RELP400.
Arts/Humanities: HIST117, 118; IDSC211, 340; PLSC100, 425.
Computer Tools: INF5110 (or pass of competency test)
Social Sciences: ANTH124, ARTH220 or ENGL255; BHSC100, 235; SOCI470; ECON225 or 226.
PE/Wellness: HLED130; two activity courses.

An internship is required, lasting a minimum of three months. Students are encouraged to select other electives with the help of their advisor according to their career interests.
