The Department of Behavioral Sciences is organized as a consortium where faculty share expertise and research endeavors in related disciplines. The behavioral sciences are concerned with the study of how human beings think and behave as individuals, and in sociocultural and ecological systems.

Department Aims
This department aims (1) to introduce students to the salient discoveries and procedures accumulated from research in behavioral sciences disciplines and (2) to empower students to utilize this knowledge in furthering the mission of Seventh-day Adventists: restoring men and women to the image of their Maker. The department fulfills these aims by three principal means: (1) instruction by Christian professors; (2) course work which develops a strong liberal-arts foundation and interdisciplinary preparation leading to many different fields of Christian service; and (3) extracurricular participation by students in voluntary religious activities, community service, and research.

Teacher Certification
Students seeking teacher certification on the secondary level may enroll in the BS in Behavioral Sciences (Student Development Emphasis), the Behavioral Sciences minor in teacher certification, or the Sociology minor. Elementary certification is available only for the Behavioral Sciences minor in teacher certification. See the School of Education for full details.

Minors, Cognates, and Electives
Majors should take advantage of the variety of undergraduate courses available at Andrews to acquire a broad education. Combining behavioral science courses with other areas such as business, health, and language provides avenues for reaching individual professional goals.

Students should counsel with advisors in selecting cognates and electives. Volunteer work is most beneficial and majors are urged to seek opportunities through the Service Learning Program. Those planning to pursue graduate studies should seek opportunities in research.

Research Sequence
It is strongly recommended that all BS majors take the Research Methods Sequence during their junior year.

Administration
__________________________, Director
Oystein S. LaBianca, Graduate Programs Coordinator

The Department of Behavioral Sciences offers master-level education leading to a Master of Science in Administration (MSA) with a focus in Community and International Development. The competencies graduates are expected to acquire include an introductory acquaintance with social-science foundations of community and international development, especially with regard to understanding the causes of poverty and the meaning of people-centered development; skills related to planning, implementing, and evaluating development projects including grantsmanship; knowledge of basic principles of organizational behavior; leadership and management as it relates to not-for-profit organizations; understanding of ethical principles and financial analysis for assuring individual and organizational accountability; competency in at least one concentration area of development emphasis to meet the student's career goals; mastery of social research methods appropriate to the chosen field of concentration, and the ability to communicate effectively to stakeholders about community development program and plans. Courses are taught on the campus of Andrews University, however it is highly recommended for students to attend one off-campus intensive session with the MSA in International Development.

Depending in part on previous work experience, graduates who pursue the MSA in community and international development may find employment working for inner-city development agencies; education based service-learning organizations, church based community service organizations, grass-roots community advocacy groups; national and international faith based NGOs; United Nations organizations; government organizations; and other development and relief agencies. Graduates are not limited by their concentration to opportunities in the humanitarian industry as the MSA training make students viable candidates for a host of consultancy positions requiring persons with skills in grant writing, not-for-profit administration, education, and philanthropy.

Administration of the Program

The MSA in Community and International Development Program is housed in the Department of Behavioral Sciences, which is a part of the College of Arts and Sciences. The program director reports to the faculty and chair of the department and, as needed, to the faculty and deans of the College of Arts and Sciences. Informally, the on-campus MSA program enjoys a consultative and advisory relationship with the Interdisciplinary Master's Council, which administers the off-campus MSA in International Development, housed in the Office of Affiliation and Extension Programs.

Admission Requirements

To be admitted to regular standing in this MSA program, students must
• Qualify for general admission into graduate studies at Andrews University (see p. 44)
• Have a four-year baccalaureate degree or its equivalent
• Have completed an undergraduate course in statistics. Provisional acceptance is granted, with the undergraduate statistics course to be completed during the first semester into the program.
• Pass the GRE test. Provisional acceptance is granted, with the requirement of passing the GRE test during the first semester in the program.

The concentration emphasis in community and international development is designed upon individual choice and will draw on faculty strengths and utilize courses offered throughout the university. The program director, in consultation with the student, will select a minimum of six credits of elective courses related to the chosen concentration emphasis to meet the student's career goals. The student will submit a plan and rationale for the concentration requirements to the program director for approval. Suggested concentration areas include:

- Advocacy
- Education
- Civil Society
- Development Policies of Government and Religion
- Disaster Preparedness
- Environmental Issues
- Family Issues
- Food Security
- Gender and Development
- Intercultural Relations
- Microenterprise
- NGO Policies and Operations
- Peace and Conflict Resolution
- Poverty Mitigation
- Public Health
- Substance Abuse Theories and Prevention Strategies

The list of suggested courses that may apply to a specific concentration is available from the program director. The schools and departments regulate policies that govern the elective courses offered as part of the concentration package. Some elective courses may require pre-requisites and should be discussed in advance with the program director for guidance in completing the concentration.

The Field Practicum and Research Project/Thesis will necessarily be related to the area of concentration in order to provide students with an in-depth understanding of the chosen area, and with the possibility of applying course work in practice. Students are required to undertake a 300-hour internship through a field placement with a domestic, national, or international organization/project. Internships are based on prior approval and advice from the program director. Arrangements for the internship will be made by the program director pending availability and feasibility of the placement proposed by the student.
