For the past year, Pacific Publishing Association has been involved in a project to digitize and bring back to market old out-of-print books for both short run printing and electronic readers. This project, known as the Adventist Heritage Library, will again make available many of the more than 3,000 titles Pacific Press has published in the past. The three books featured below are some of the first fruits from the Adventist Heritage Library project.

Are there old titles that you would like to see back in print? Let us know by visiting the Adventist Heritage Library Facebook page or send an email. Watch our short YouTube video to learn more. ~Steve
Malinki of Malawi
By Josephine Cunnington Edwards

This is the story of the struggle of Malinki and his mother for their existence in Africa. But it is more than the struggle for existence; it shows the courage and strength of one born in slavery to forge ahead and make a better life.

These Fords Still Run
By Barbara Westphal

To know Orley and Lillian Ford is to understand how Seventh-day Adventists have carried the gospel to nearly every country. Lifelong dedication, heroic faith, almost reckless courage, plus an ever-present sense of humor – these traits have distinguished this pioneer missionary couple.

The Seventh Escape
By Jan Doward

Like millions of other Europeans, Walter Logé was caught in the violent vortex of World War II. An ambulance driver in the German army, he was taken prisoner toward the end of the conflict and shipped by boxcar deep into Russia to the gloomy labor camp of Makeyevka.

I’m Never Alone
By Derrol Sawyer

I’m Never Alone reminds us that through trials, disappointments, hardships and pain, God always has each one of us on His mind and we are never alone.
