THE SLOW TSUNAMI

There were rumblings of trouble - drought, disease, Disaster loomed on the horizon.

Last month images of parched terrain, dry river beds, hungry children seeped onto our screens and into our newspapers.

Last week ADRA’s videographer Frank Spangler sent this video update.

But the crisis in East Africa has been two years in the making. Failed rains, 240% increases in food prices and ongoing civil unrest has now pushed an estimated 12.8 million people to the edge.
