Welcome!

We hope to make this website a one-stop online resource for training, encouragement, program information and all your literature evangelism needs. Let us know if we are hitting the mark or what we can do to make this website more useful to you as you seek to minister to others.

If Given the Chance. . .

If you had the opportunity bring hope to someone who might be on the end of their rope, to share the love of Jesus with someone who may never ever visit a church, to make a difference in literally hundreds of people's lives this summer, to reach your world for Christ, would you take it? The reason why I asked is that we are seeking to give that opportunity. This summer we will be having student literature ministry programs in several locations across America and we are looking for students who are willing to be used by God to reach people for Christ. Maybe you know someone who would consider the possibility of participating. Perhaps you would also be willing to give this summer job opportunity some thought and prayer.

Jesus. All. - the One project

"It emptied me of garbage, to make space for Him."

"It was such a blessing. Jesus is awesome!"

"I want to be saturated by Jesus."

"It" is the One project. The story of its inception is reminiscent of a modern day parable. Seven men shared a common bond: A deep love for Jesus. Their lives were already committed to Christ, but there was something in each of them that desired to be re-centered both in their own spiritual lives and within the Church they love. The question was: how?

Each of them are leaders in the Seventh-day Adventist Church: Alex Bryan, senior pastor at the Walla Walla University Church; Japhet De Oliveira, director of the Center for Youth Evangelism and chaplain for missions at Andrews University; Dany Hernandez, pastor for collegiate and young adult ministries at Forest Lake Adventist Church; Eddie Hypolite, associate youth director for the South England Conference, UK; Sam Leonor, pastor for LaSierra University; Tim Gillespie, pastor for young adult ministries at Loma Linda University Church of Seventh-day Adventists; and Terry Swenson, campus chaplain for Loma Linda University.

For 9 months, they planned. Then came a day in July 2010 when five of them gathered at a Holiday Inn in Denver, joined periodically by the other two through the wonders of modern technology. For two days, they prayed. They fasted. They shared in communion. They reflected upon a simple statement: Jesus. All.

"It sounds incredibly simple, but it was our 'ah-ha' moment," says De Oliveira. They remembered the energy that started the Seventh-day Adventist Church. They shared that same deep desire to see Jesus return.

For two days, they dialogued and dreamed. "We started with a desire to gather people together for prayer, Bible study and reflection on the person of Jesus," says Leonor. "After this first gathering I am ready to say we are addressing a need. The need is Jesus as the center of everything we do."

"Secularism has taken root and the power and presence of Jesus is missing," says De Oliveira. "We have a generation who are almost-Christian but lack vitality in their faith."

As their conversations unfolded, their mission began to take shape. "What if we gathered together leaders from all over the world to celebrate the supremacy of Jesus in the Seventh-day Adventist Church?" "What if we gathered and focused on what it would mean for us, on a personal, and then local, and finally global community?" "What if we had honest conversation about our legacy, heritage and call for our Church today?" "What if we brought leaders, youth and adults, young and old, employed and retired, pastors and members and simply soaked in Jesus again?"

After two days together, the seven returned to their homes and ministries. And like a single pebble thrown into a still lake, creating circles that continue to widen, their renewed passion for Jesus in our Seventh-day Adventist Church spread. Their movement adopted the moniker the One project.

With their hearts on fire for Jesus, these seven modern-day disciples began to seek out others to join them in their renewed mission to celebrate His supremacy. As they looked around at their friends, family, colleagues, students, church members, each of them felt God’s leading as one-by-one, they extended personal invitations for others to come to the next One project gathering.

The One project gathering in Seattle, February, 2011.

De Oliveira invited Kessia Reyne Bennett, a graduate student at Andrews University. "I longed for more of Jesus in my life and in the denomination I love. It sounded like this gathering was going to part of a movement to see that realized. I wanted to be a part of that," she says.

Sam Leonor hopes this movement can turn attention to what matters most. "When William Miller wrote about the soon coming of Jesus, he expressed a deep love and longing for Him. He was less concerned with streets of gold, eternal life, etc. He wanted to be with Him. My desire for our Church is that we renew that kind of devotion to Jesus. That our longing be solely for His presence."

What began with just seven men who love Jesus grew to nearly 180 at the February 2011 One project in Atlanta. There, for a day and a half, it was Jesus alone who took the spotlight. Each of these men shared personal testimony and reflections about their Jesus: Jesus in our Church; Jesus in our History; Jesus in our Theology; Jesus in our Mission; Jesus in our Experience and finally, a Jesus. All. Communion service. The leaders’ heartfelt testimonies, paired with opportunities for dialog, responses, prayer and worship through music resulted in a transformative experience for those who came to see what the One project was all about.
"I chose to attend the One project because I truly believed that Jesus was working in the lives of its leaders," said Leah Rodriguez, a student at Andrews University. "I wanted to be a part of that. I saw it as a chance to see Jesus in a new light."

Benjamin Lundquist, a youth pastor at the Camelback Seventh-day Adventist Church in Phoenix, Ariz., came away from the One project with a renewed energy unlike anything he'd experienced before. "To sit in a room with some of the most influential minds in our Church and purely worship and proclaim Jesus as Savior and Lord! I left Atlanta with a renewed focus and energy for my personal spiritual journey and in my ministry calling. The One project was a chance to leave facades behind, let down your guard, express questions, let the world know you don't have all the answers, and simply 'be' with Jesus."

It began with seven. It has taken a grassroots hold upon a rapidly growing number of faithful believers in the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Their energy will undoubtedly spread. But that's exactly what those seven spiritual leaders dreamed of.

"That's what the One project is about," says De Oliveira. "We dreamed of starting something to stimulate the preaching, worship and adoration of Jesus within and throughout the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

First there were seven. Then there were 180. Only God knows what the One project gatherings in Finland (Oct. 31–Nov. 1, 2011), again in Seattle (Feb. 13–14, 2012) and Denmark (Oct. 29–30, 2012) will hold. But it's not about the numbers, rather, the effect the One project is having upon the family of Christ. For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them. Matthew 18:20.

The One project is partner of the Center for Youth Evangelism, a training and resource center for claiming, training and reclaiming youth and young adults for Jesus Christ. It is located on the campus of Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich., as part of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary. Learn more about the One project at www.the1project.org.
Championship and “knew we had our hands full,” says David Jardine, head coach. The Cardinals started off with an 8-0 run and never trailed, defeating UC-Clermont 69-54.

The USCAA tournament took place on the campus of Penn State Fayette University in Uniontown, Pa., March 1–5. Only the top eight USCAA Men’s Division II teams from across the nation were invited to the event. This is the second year that the Cardinals have participated in the tournament and the first year they’ve made it to the finals.

The Cardinals played their first tournament game on Wednesday and defeated #4 ranked Berkeley College 62-61. Ryan Little, senior guard, sent the game into overtime with a last-second 3-pointer despite the Cardinal’s 7-point deficit with 2 minutes left in regulation. In the final seconds of overtime, Tyler Wooldridge, freshman guard, sank another crucial 3-pointer to put the Cardinals one point ahead, sealing the deal for a Cardinal spot in the semifinals. On Friday morning, the team faced off against #8 ranked Penn State Beaver College and won 61-51.

Following their second victory, the Cardinals advanced to the championship game where they would face off against UC-Clermont, ranked #2 in the nation. UC-Clermont had defeated other teams by as many as 33 points earlier in the week. They were favored to win the championship game against Andrews by some 20 points.

“We went into the locker room before the UC-Clermont game and knew that all the pressure was on the other team. No one really gave us a chance to win. We just knew that we had to play a great game, and everybody had to play to the best of their abilities and play together,” says Jardine. “We [the coaching staff] told the guys that if they could hold UC-Clermont to less than 60 points and out-rebound them, we were going to win. Our guys did both of those things.”

Andrews led by as many as 21 points during the championship game and never trailed. Freshman starters Tyler Wooldridge and Matt Little each scored 16 points with Tyler dishing out 4 assists and Matt grabbing 10 rebounds. Ryan Little scored 19 points in the game, leading Andrews to their first-ever USCAA Men’s Division II National Championship.

The tournament held a special distinction for two members of the team. Tyler Wooldridge was named a member of the Men’s Division II All-Tournament Team. Ryan Little was named a USCAA All-American and Tournament MVP.

“This being my last game, it was exciting to go out with a win,” says Ryan. “... This season has kind of been a dream come true for me. I couldn’t have asked for a better year and a better group of teammates. I think after the game, I just realized that this year has been a blessing and an amazing experience, and it couldn’t have ended any other way.”

Even more impressive than the Cardinals’ winning streak and talent was their Christian example to the other teams. The Cardinals’ Friday night and Saturday morning games were rescheduled by the USCAA “in order to accommodate for Andrews University, a Seventh-day Adventist member...” as stated on the USCAA website.

Though the Cardinals are losing senior starters Ryan Little and Thomas Jardine, the team is already shaping up for next season. Players from various academies who participate in the annual Cardinal Classic have been recruited, and the coaches expect another successful season building on this year’s accomplishments.

BUCHANAN - A 31-year-old Andrews University student had to be hospitalized Saturday after falling into an icy lake and being rescued 25 minutes later, state police reported.

The Niles post reported that the student fell into Still Lake Pond while visiting a church retreat near the water in Buchanan Township. His name was not released.

The incident took place just before 2 p.m. near West Clear Lake Road. The man was walking on the ice when it gave way.

A person living nearby heard the calls for help and saw the man struggling in the frigid water. The neighbor, whose name was not released, carefully crossed the ice and helped the man until emergency responders arrived.

State police, Berrien County sheriff's deputies and state police launched a water rescue, and firefighters from Buchanan and Bertrand townships completed the rescue, the Niles post reported.

The man was taken by SMCAS ambulance to Memorial Hospital in South Bend.

Andrews spokeswoman Keri Suarez said Saturday night that the seminary student is expected to be released from the hospital today.

Suarez said the retreat, Stillwater Retreat Center, is not affiliated with the Seventh-day Adventist University in Berrien Springs.
BUCHANAN — A 31-year-old Andrews University student was hospitalized over the weekend after falling through the ice in the cold waters near Clear Lake in Buchanan.

A resident near the location heard calls for help and noticed a young man had fallen through the ice. The resident carefully crossed the ice to assist the victim until emergency response personnel arrived on scene.

Michigan State Troopers along with officers from the Buchanan City Police and the Berrien County Sheriff’s Department began to attempt a water rescue prior to the arrival of local fire and rescue.

The Buchanan Township and Bertrand Township Fire Department responded to the call and rescued the subject who had been in the frigid waters for approximately 25 minutes.

Ride Needed for Spring Break

RIDE NEEDED TO BALTIMORE, MD FOR SPRING BREAK

If anyone is driving to Baltimore, MD or passing that way over Spring Break and would not mind an additional passenger, please call me at 240-370-1985. I work and can only take calls between 12-1 and after 5, or anytime on the weekend, but feel free to leave a message and I will return your call. I am willing to pay for part of the gas and tolls, based on the number of riders. I am allergic to pets and smoke, so I can not ride with either. I only need a ride one-way and will provide my own way back to campus.

Please let me know as soon as possible and thank you for your consideration,
