David Iwasa, the new dean of University Towers, comes to Andrews University from Gem State Adventist Academy in Caldwell, Idaho. University Towers is comprised of Burman Hall, a men’s residence, and Damazo Hall, a women’s residence, which are connected by a shared lobby area.

Prior to his arrival at Andrews, Iwasa worked as a residence hall dean at Gem State Adventist Academy since 2004. While there, he trained and managed staff in both the men’s and women’s residence halls, developed a worship program and taught a math class. Iwasa began his career as the treasurer at Thunderbird Adventist Academy in Scottsdale, Ariz., in 1990, and became dean of men two years later. He assumed the position of vice principal of Thunderbird Academy in 1994. He has also served as business manager and administrator at several assisted living facilities in Oregon and Washington. From 1995 to 1997, he worked as an accountant at Marketing One Securities in Portland, Ore. Of the many capacities he filled, he particularly enjoyed being a girls’ dean. "Difficult but extremely rewarding and character building," he says.

While working at Gem State, Iwasa attended a deans’ workshop at Andrews University and immediately noticed how well the Student Life team worked together. He felt God was calling him to Andrews and had prepared the way for him to arrive. He says, he "appreciates the team atmosphere prevalent in the residence halls and throughout the campus."

He is also the owner of K.I.D. Accounting Services since 2000, a company he started himself.

Iwasa holds a Bachelor of Business Administration and an MAT in educational leadership, both from Walla Walla University. He is married and has two children.

WSJM: Full Slate Of Presentations Planned Next Week To Mark Nine Eleven

Andrews University has a full slate of events planned for next week to mark the tenth anniversary of the September Eleventh attacks. "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope" runs from the fourth to the eleventh, and coordinator Rebecca May tells WSJM that the university is making an effort to reflect on Nine Eleven from several different perspectives. Read and listen to the full story.

Niles Daily Star: Andrews University to remember 9/11 with week of events

Andrews University invites the community to join them in remembering the 10th anniversary of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks with a weeklong series of events, "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope," Sept. 4–11. All events are free and open to the public.

"We've designed the events of this week to inspire faith and hope in God and community, to help us understand ourselves and others through reflection and dialogue, and to remember the lives lost 10 years ago," said Rebecca May, chairwoman of the planning committee.

Andrew Green Reporting

Andrews University has a full slate of events planned for next week to mark the tenth anniversary of the September Eleventh attacks. "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope" runs from the fourth to the eleventh, and coordinator Rebecca May tells WSJM that the university is making an effort to reflect on Nine Eleven from several different perspectives. Being an international institution, Andrews is in a position to do just that:

Listen:

Nine-Eleven will be examined from several historical and religious perspectives, and they'll have guest speakers all week -- including one man who was actually in the World Trade Center when the first plane hit:

Listen:

May tells us that the culmination of "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope" will be on September the eleventh itself, with a morning ceremony and moment of silence at the Andrews center of campus flagpole, and then a seven PM concert at the Howard Performing Arts Center:

Listen:

She says it's almost shocking to realize it's been ten years since Nine Eleven, and the week's planners felt it important to educate the younger students on what the day means to the rest of us:

Listen:

You can see the full list of the events, which are all open to the public and free, at the following page: http://www.andrews.edu/news/2011/08/9_11_events.html.
Andrews University to remember 9-11 with week of events

By Daily Star

Published 6:03pm Friday, August 26, 2011

Andrews University invites the community to join them in remembering the 10th anniversary of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks with a weeklong series of events, “Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope,” Sept. 4–11. All events are free and open to the public. “We’ve designed the events of this week to inspire faith and hope in God and community, to help us understand ourselves and others through reflection and dialogue, and to remember the lives lost 10 years ago,” said Rebecca May, chairwoman of the planning committee. Events include lectures, panel discussions, a gallery show, as well as prayer services Wednesday evening and Sunday morning. The events culminate Sunday evening, Sept. 11, with a concert of inspiring music by University performance ensembles with special guest U.S. Rep. Fred Upton of Michigan’s 6th District. A highlight will be Tuesday morning’s presentation by Stanley Praimnath, who was on the 81st floor of the world Trade Center, Tower 2, Sept. 11, 2011 when he saw a plane heading toward him.
The weeklong series of events begins on Sunday, Sept. 4, with an art gallery exhibit titled “Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope: Post 9-11 Reflections.” This exhibit runs Sunday, Sept. 4 through Sunday, Sept. 11 in the Smith Hall Art Gallery, from noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays, Sept. 4 and 11 and Monday, Sept. 5 and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 6-9. An artists’ reception is planned for Thursday, Sept. 9 from 6 to 8 p.m. On display will be the artwork of Andrews’ artists Dave Sherwin, Greg Constantine, Brian Manley and regional artist Vicki VanAmeyden.
The theological and historical questions arising out of 9-11, including issues of national judgment, fulfilled prophecy, eschatology and impact on Christian missions, will be explored in a panel discussion called “Theological Perspectives on 9-11” in the Seminary Chapel on Tuesday, Sept. 6. Taking place from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., the panel discussion, consisting of Seminary professors Trevor O'Reggio, Martin Hanna, Katrina Blue, Teresa Reeve and Nicholas Miller, will allow the public to consider questions they may have regarding the tragedy of 9-11.
Also scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 11:30 a.m. is University Forum in the Howard Performing Arts Center. Stanley Praimnath, a survivor of 9-11 who was on the 81st floor of the World Trade Center, Tower 2, and saw the plane heading toward him, will give his testimony entitled, “Faith When the World is Changing,” describing how the experience has influenced and strengthened his faith in the God who spared his life. This event is sponsored by the Division of Student Life. Later that same day, from 5 to 6 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center, Part II: Interactive Session with Stanley Praimnath, will be sponsored by the School of Graduate Studies & Research.
Dwight K. Nelson, senior pastor of Pioneer Memorial Church, will be accompanied by a special guest, Imam Mustapha Elturk of the Islamic Organization of North America (IONA) on Wednesday, Sept. 7. The public is invited to join them from 7 to 8 p.m. at the Pioneer Memorial Church to experience the dialogue and prayer services included in this special Interfaith Prayer Service.
Thursday, Sept. 8, begins with another University Forum, “Building Hope,” at 11:30 a.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center. Imam Mustapha Elturk, of the Islamic Organization of North America, will be giving a post-9-11 conversation. In the evening, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., Bridgebuilding Lectures will be held in the Smith Hall Lecture Room. Brian Manley will present “The Art of Peacemaking” and Kristen Witzel will present “Hospitality and Resilience.” Following these lectures, from 6 to 8 p.m., will be an Artists’ Reception at the Art & Design Gallery in Smith Hall. The exhibit, “Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope: Post 9/11 Reflections,” will be on display from Sept. 4-11.

A Department of History & Political Sciences colloquium will be held Friday, Sept. 9 from 12:30 to 2 p.m. This faculty panel discussion, “Terror: Experiences, Perspectives and Judgments,” will take place in Room 135 of Buller Hall. The public is welcome to join this presentation to better understand the effects of 9-11 and open their minds to acknowledging differing perspectives.

On Sunday, Sept. 11, there will be a gathering at the U.S. flagpole on the University Green at 8:30 a.m. Join the nation in prayer and a moment of silence and receive a small U.S. flag. Together we will walk to the University entrance where we will plant our flags. At 8:46 a.m., the time when the first plane crashed into the World Trade Center, there will be a Moment of Silence remembering all those who were lost on 9-11. The week of events will conclude with the “Remembering 9-11 Commemorative Concert,” an emphasis of hope and patriotism through music and readings, at the Howard Performing Arts Center. This fitting concert will be performed by Andrews University choral ensembles, the Symphony Orchestra and the Wind Symphony. Special guests include Upton; Milt Richter, Berrien Springs Village president; Niels-Erik Andreasen, president of Andrews University; and Dwight K. Nelson, senior pastor of Pioneer Memorial Church.
That's the advice photojournalist and Andrews student Ivan LaBianca received, so he did – by going to Libya – and how he's headed back

By KATE GENELLIE - H-P Staff Writer

Published: Tuesday, August 23, 2011 1:07 PM EDT

BERRIEN SPRINGS - In captured Libyan towns, there are the expected faces - rebel soldiers, defectors from Moammar Gadhafi's military and townspeople who joined the revolution. But there are also college students from Canada.

Libya's revolution has drawn to the fight Libyan citizens who have spent most of their lives in Canada, the United States or the United Kingdom, as well as expatriates and foreigners - even reaching as far as Southwest Michigan.

Berrien Springs resident Ivan LaBianca, 24, spent nine days in Libya in June, though while there he carried a camera rather than a gun. He was scheduled to board a plane Monday night to return to the conflict for three more weeks.
"I went to Libya because I was really interested by the way this revolution seemed to be coming up - it's a very grass roots revolution," LaBianca said. "There's a certain purity to it in a way."

LaBianca studied photography at Andrews University and though he had experience in desperate situations - he spent time in Haiti after the earthquake filming the documentary "Adopting Haiti" - Libya was the first time he'd been in a war zone.

He wasn't the only one. When he arrived in Libya, LaBianca met college students who had never picked up a gun.

"They just dropped their books and joined the revolution, for better and for worse," he said.

As a result, the military was not highly organized, LaBianca said. But they were united.

"Up until now, everyone's been very unified because they've had one common purpose ... and that's to get Gadhafi out," LaBianca said. The way civilians looked at it was, "It's worth fighting for our homes and they're fighting to take our homes."

In the towns LaBianca visited, when the rebels took over they would set up a communal kitchen where food, water and other resources could be distributed because most supplies had been cut off, he said.

"It's a collapsed state, so there's no infrastructure. Everyone was surviving just by sharing," he said. Those coming into Libya from abroad would bring suitcases packed with any supplies they could bring on a plane. LaBianca knew of a Canadian who stuffed his suitcase with night vision goggles.

The rebels would also set up media centers where foreign journalists could gather and find guides or lodging.

"They know that getting media attention is a good thing for their cause," LaBianca said.

That's where LaBianca was able to connect with other journalists and catch rides to where the battles were being fought. LaBianca, who had been considering an internship in New York, arrived in Tunisia with no media connections.

LaBianca decided to buy a plane ticket to Tunisia after hearing some advice from a successful freelance journalist: "Go somewhere and do something crazy."

LaBianca was able to get his photographs on Libya TV, an opposition channel, after meeting someone in Libya who worked with the station.

LaBianca's experience in Libya was at times surreal, he said. Libya's an oil-producing country and so many of its citizens were well-off, which resulted in a war that didn't look like what LaBianca expected.

At one point, while traveling toward the front, LaBianca looked at his surroundings and said to himself, "I'm driving in a brand new Landcruiser with a bunch of guys from Canada, listening to Metallica."

Combat itself wasn't particularly exciting, LaBianca said. Until someone is hurt or killed, the explosions and gunfire are just sounds.

"It doesn't really connect how serious it actually is," he said.

The real question is what happens next for Libya, LaBianca said.

The Transitional National Council has been recognized by the U.S. and other countries as Libya's governing authority, but who will lead the country in the future is still unknown. Will it be those who worked with Gadhafi and have experience as leaders or someone unconnected to Gadhafi's 42-year rule, who remains untested?

LaBianca attended a military training graduation with a commander who had defected from Gadhafi's army a few days before.

"He was being celebrated," LaBianca said. "I have no doubt there will be political struggles, I just hope..."
they'll be able to keep that unity."

Benton Harbor, MI 49022

DESCRIPTION & PURPOSE:
This position will work with the Session in planning for, developing, and supervising the Christian education of the church in accordance with the policies and directions of the Christian Education Committee.

The primary focus will be on educational programs for all ages and, working with the Christian Education Committee, to recruit and arrange leadership training for these areas. The secondary focus will be on church growth and development through educational programs geared towards attracting members from the community at large.

This position will be a part time requiring approximately 20 hours per week.

ACCOUNTABILITY:
This position is accountable primarily to the pastor as head of staff and secondarily to the Christian Education Committee.

QUALIFICATIONS:
The individual:

- Is outgoing and dynamic with a strong sense of Christian faith and the desire to grow in that faith through leadership and job performance
- Shall possess a strong knowledge of Reformed Theology and be able to teach within this theological tradition
- Shall possess a strong knowledge of Biblical content and be able to draw upon this knowledge in choosing curriculum and developing a strong Christian Education program for all ages
- Is self-motivated and can effectively direct the work of others and also be inclined to work cooperatively with others
- Is comfortable with diverse viewpoints, different personalities and different leadership styles
- Is comfortable in the up-front role of leadership and encourages others to participate in that leadership as well
- Enjoys working with children and relates well with parents
- Is an effective communicator and can convey educational goals and program details to children, parents, committees, and congregation.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- To coordinate and unify the education activities of the church into an integrated and effective ministry of Christian education
- To attend monthly Christian Education Committee meetings and to serve as consultant to and ex officio member of that committee
- To provide and arrange for training and education of teaching staff
- To develop, order, and maintain all church school curricula
- To maintain resource material for all teaching activities pertaining to the church and youth programs
• To support and assist in special programs related to church school including confirmation classes
• To provide assistance with preparation of a monthly activity calendar, newsletter information, and monthly church school progress reports
• To assist the Christian Education Committee in seeking to involve the inactive members and families in Christian education programs
• To assist in promoting youth and adult attendance at church camp and retreats
• To participate in presbytery education ministry programs
• To have regular posted office hours (or times of availability) that are mutually agreed to with the Christian Education Committee
• To assist the Nursery coordinator in supervision of the nursery attendant and in the absence of the Nursery coordinator, exercise supervision of the attendant
• To be in attendance on Sunday mornings during worship service and church school. Summer attendance will be flexible and will be mutually agreed upon with the Christian Education Committee
• To coordinate and plan meetings and activities of the junior high and senior high youth groups including mission trips
• To counsel with the pastor and the Christian Education Committee Chair for the purpose of updating the progress of the Christian education ministry.

RELATIONSHIPS:
• Accountable to the pastor as head of staff and the Christian Education Committee (in conjunction with the Personnel Committee of Session) in the performance of his/her responsibilities
• Shares supervisory responsibility for the nursery attendant
• Relates to the associate presbytery executive for resourcing coordination, service, and support
