From the Office of the President: The Employee United Way Campaign

Dear Colleagues:

Each year at this time we participate in the local United Way fundraising campaign. It is an employee campaign; Andrews does not provide any corporate support. And of course participation is completely voluntary. United Way supports many local agencies and services that assist needy families and children in our neighborhood. I believe it is a worthy cause. In past years our Andrews family has contributed in excess of $10,000 and I hope we can do so again. During the week of September 12 you should receive by campus mail a United Way pledge form. It is self-explanatory but if you have a question, feel free to contact Dalry in my office. She has volunteered again this year to be the campus representative. Please submit your completed forms to the Office of the President, campus mail 0670, or you may hand deliver it if you wish.

On behalf of United Way I thank you for your generous support of our local community.

Niels-Erik Andreasen
President

Carry Your Country’s Flag in the Parade, Then Raise it at Flag Raising

Friday, Sept. 30
Parade: Meet at PMC Parking Lot at 4:30 p.m.
Flag Raising: Meet at the Administration Building parking lot at approximately 6:15 p.m.

We invite YOU to be a part of TWO Andrews traditions—The Alumni Parade and the International Flag-raising ceremony! Whether you are simply proud of your international roots; have served as a missionary outside the U.S.; or are currently part of our international student body, we invite you to participate in both of these meaningful Alumni Homecoming events on Friday, September 30. You are welcome and encouraged to bring your friends and family to participate.

Carry your flag in the Alumni Parade, which will organize at 4:30pm in the PMC parking lot. The flag raising is immediately following.

Flag-bearers do not need to be natives of the specific country. Also, if you have international dress, you are invited to wear it for both occasions.

To participate, email your name and country of interest to imc@andrews.edu.

CERT Class Offered

Thursday, September 22
7 p.m., Buchanan Fire Station

The Buchanan Township Fire Department is hosting a CERT (Community Emergency Response Team) class program. CERT Programs educate people about disaster preparedness for hazards that may impact their area and training in basic disaster response skills, such as fire safety, light search and rescue, team organization, and disaster medical operations.

The fire station is located on Main Street in Buchanan, Michigan. There will be a meet and greet meeting (involving paperwork, etc.) on Thursday 9.22.11 at 7 pm. The first session will then begin on Thursday 9.29.11 at 7 pm.

This learned classroom training, combined with exercises, enables CERT members to assist others in their neighborhood or workplace following an event when professional responders are not immediately available to help. CERT members are also encouraged to support emergency response agencies by taking a more active role in emergency preparedness projects in their community.

If you are interested in enrolling in the CERT class at the Buchanan Township Fire Station, please contact Rojelio Castillo, Operations Lt., at the Office of Campus Safety so that your name and telephone number can be provided to the Buchanan Township CERT coordinator.
ChemSem: Shawn "Doc" Hitchcock
Thursday, September 22
4:30 p.m., Chemistry Ampitheatre

The presentation will be live-streamed at: http://andrews.adobeconnect.com/chemsem

To sign in, connect as a "Guest" and put your real name in when prompted. Guests will be able to communicate by writing questions for the speaker when online. If you miss the live presentation, we will provide you with a link to the archived presentation.

Thursday's seminar is about:
Chiral Synthesis of a Thyroid Disease Drug

The speaker is:
Shawn "Doc" Hitchcock, Professor, Organic Chemistry, Department of Chemistry, Illinois State University

Cardinal Yearbook Contributors Needed!
The 2012 Cardinal Yearbook is looking for student artists, photographers, and writers who are willing to work on a contract basis taking photographs, creating illustrations, designing info-graphics, writing essays, and crafting short works of lyrical verse. You will get paid! If you are interested (and you know you are), contact the yearbook staff at 2012CardinalYearbook@gmail.com.
Cedar Point Trip Rescheduled for Oct. 16

The Cedar Point trip, sponsored by the Office of Student Activities & Athletics, has been rescheduled for Sunday, Oct. 16. Andrews’ transportation (the bus) is full, however, students who can provide their own transportation are still able to purchase tickets at the reduced group rate of $33. Tickets cannot be charged to ID cards. The deadline to purchase tickets is Friday, Oct. 7. Contact srfun@andrews.edu or knowlton@andrews.edu for more information or to purchase tickets.

ACES Service Change

During the next few weeks, Telecommunications will be making some upgrades to the campus cable TV system, commonly referred to as ACES.

On Friday, September 16, between the hours of 8 a.m. and noon there will be two service outages. The first outage will last approximately 2 hours and will impact all ACES users. The second service outage will also be approximately 2 hours long and will impact many ACES users in the University Apartments only.

In the next 2 weeks we will begin delivering our premium content digitally. We will distribute a new channel lineup to our premium subscribers at that time.

In early October, we will discontinue delivering premium content via analog. All premium subscribers will need a “Clear QAM” capable TV or other tuning device to pick up ACES content after this change has been made. A vast majority of new TVs sold in the last 5 years have this capability.

In the following weeks, we will add significant content to our basic lineup as well, all in digital and some of it in high definition. Some of the existing analog basic content will also be available in digital. An updated basic/premium channel lineup will be distributed after this basic “enhancement” is complete.

At this time, no decision has been made on when basic analog service will cease. ACES users who have analog only TV’s can still receive basic signals for the time being.

Attention All Departments!

As we are getting settled into a new school year, I would like to remind all departments, clubs and organizations on campus to include the Center for Adventist Research on your mailing lists and email lists for any newsletters, newspapers, or electronic news publications that you produce.

The Andrews University Center for Adventist Research is one of the premier centers for the collecting and use of Seventh-day Adventist materials. Please visit our web page, http://www.andrews.edu/library/car/, for more information about our Center.

Thank you for your help providing important material for our researchers.

First Griggs Grads at Andrews
On Sunday, July 31, 42 MBA students from Vietnam marched into history at Andrews University, becoming the first graduating class of Griggs University to participate in Andrews University commencement exercises since ownership of Griggs was transferred to Andrews in November of 2010. The students had traveled to Berrien Springs, Mich. from Vietnam, where each one is a working professional, to graduate at their American university. Read full story.

AMG Project Aids Berrien County
Berrien County is full of hidden treasures—fruit stands, mom-and-pop cafés, wineries, little museums, and the ubiquitous beaches. Area residents can enjoy sun-warmed peaches or find antiques in the villages, but how to draw people off the highway to your u-pick farm or ice cream shop? Together with the Bridgman/Lake Township Economic Growth Alliance, Martin Smith, assistant professor of architecture, and the Architecture Missions Group, both of the Andrews University School of Architecture, are conducting a Wayfinding Study along a 6-by-16 square mile area known as the Shawnee Road Corridor. On Sunday, July 31, 42 MBA students from Vietnam marched into history at Andrews University, becoming the first graduating class of Griggs University to participate in Andrews University commencement exercises since ownership of Griggs was transferred to Andrews in November of 2010. The students had traveled to Berrien Springs, Mich. from Vietnam, where each one is a working professional, to graduate at their American university.

Griggs University dates back to 1909 when Frederick Griggs, an Adventist educator, convinced the Seventh-day Adventist Church’s leadership that the church needed a correspondence school “to fill in the gaps that the resident schools could not fill.” His vision was to make Adventist education available around the world while still bringing the same quality education to those unable to attend traditional schools.

Over the next 100+ years, 380,000 individuals have obtained a faith-based education through Griggs University. For this most recent graduating class, their story first begins with the fall of 2007 decision by Griggs University to enter into a partnership with the Center for Educational Technology & Career Development (ETC), an associate organization of the National University of Vietnam in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City. They began offering both BBAs and MBAs, and classes formally launched in March 2008 making Griggs the only fully licensed American university to offer an MBA in Vietnam. The very first graduating class from this partnership participated in Commencement exercises at Griggs’ previous location, the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventist headquarters in Silver Spring, Maryland.

"With Griggs in Maryland, it was definitely a distance education program housed within an office building,” says Trinh Phuong Nhi, program coordinator for ETC. “Here, at Andrews, there are students, a library and a busy campus. It makes a big difference in the eyes of our students. We were very excited to hear the good news that Griggs merged with Andrews because not only is Andrews the flagship Seventh-day Adventist university, but it also has a good reputation outside of the Seventh-day Adventist system.”

The graduating students represent a wide spectrum of working professionals, from business owners and customs border officers, to sales and marketing executives and educators, even medical doctors and securities stock market traders. All are living and working in Vietnam, a nation that has been making headlines as having one of the top 10 fastest growing economies in the world.
Hoang Ha, senior sales and marketing director for Yamaha Motor Vietnam, is one of the Griggs University graduates. Ha and his fellow classmates spent two years, meeting for class two days out of the week, working toward their MBA. “It was a great program and was very flexible, which is a great benefit for a working professional.” Ha says of his graduation experience, “Andrews was amazing. I didn’t expect it to be so big. Graduation was very emotional for me and unlike anything I’ve experienced before.”

The Griggs/ETC program started with 33 students. In just four years, it has grown to over 3,000, adding about 100 new students every month. “It’s grown so fast!” said Alayne Thorpe, president of Griggs University and dean of the School of Distance Education at Andrews University. “Vietnam is growing at such a rate that they need business leaders to help steer the economy in the right direction. It’s a wonderful thing to feel that we’ve actually made an impact on a country.”

With enrollment numbers skyrocketing, some may wonder why the Griggs program in Vietnam is so successful. Thorpe says, “We have a very good partner in ETC and are affiliated with the National University of Vietnam. They are positioned in the country in a way that they are able to find the very best teachers in the country, and many of them are international business people hailing from places such as the United States, Australia, South Africa and many from Europe, all of whom are in Vietnam due to the rapid growth of the Vietnamese economy.”

The students gather two days a week, studying together in a classroom with live professors. They also benefit from this web-enhanced program, meaning some course content is delivered online.

It’s also a very practical program, with appeal to working professionals. “It doesn’t teach just theory. It’s so much more than that,” says Thorpe. “On both sides, we have both said this program is stronger because of the other partner. The more we learn from each other, the more we grow together and the stronger we are.”

MarketWatch.com: Walnuts Boost Cognitive Function
True or False: Walnuts can improve the odds of correctly answering a true or false question. The answer is true according to newly published research in the British Journal of Nutrition (http://journals.cambridge.org/walnuts). The study conducted by researchers at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich., found that walnuts--already known for being a power food--can help increase inferential reasoning, specifically, the ability to discover true from false. WSBT.com: Andrews presents series of 9/11 events
BERRIEN SPRINGS -- Andrews University will host the panel discussion "Theological Perspectives on 9/11" from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. today in the Seminary Chapel.

Stanley Praimnath, a 9/11 survivor who was on the 81st floor of the World Trade Center, Tower 2, and saw the plane heading toward him, will give his testimony titled "Faith When the World is Changing" at 11:30 a.m. today in the Howard Performing Arts Center. Praimnath will also participate in an interactive session from 5 to 6 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center.

Walnut Consumption on Cognitive Performance in Young Adults.” Pribis, along with a team of student researchers, tested whether a short, intensive supplementation of a diet with walnuts can have an effect on memory, intuition, mood and critical thinking skills in young adults. In short—would a walnut diet improve cognitive functions?

"We discovered that students who consumed walnuts experienced improvement in critical thinking, specifically inferential reasoning,” says Pribis.

Using two test groups of Andrews University students, each group ate two slices of banana bread daily for eight weeks: one group ate banana bread with ground walnuts and the other group ate banana bread without walnuts present. Each student was tested for inferential reasoning by reading a short narrative followed by five statements. Students then decided whether the statements were true, partially true, false, partially false or there was not enough information to make a judgment.

"Students consuming walnuts showed a significant improvement in inference after consuming one-half cup of walnuts daily for eight weeks,” says Pribis. "Walnuts will obviously not make you a critical thinker; this comes after years of studying. However, students and young professionals in fields that involve a great deal of critical thinking or decision-making could benefit from regularly eating walnuts.” Pribis concludes further research should be done to gain a deeper understanding about the impact of walnuts on cognition.

The study was funded by a grant from the California Walnut Commission. The Commission did not have any input on the study design or findings.

Founded in 1874, Andrews University is the flagship institution of higher education for the Seventh-day Adventist church, located one-half mile east of the U.S. 31 Bypass in Berrien Springs, Mich.

‘Sing-Off’ stars to perform at Andrews

Committed, winners of NBC’s a capella series “The Sing-Off,” will be bringing its vocal talents to Andrews University on Sunday, Sept. 25 at 7 p.m.
The group began as a quartet at Forest Lake Academy in 2003, and expanded into a sextet in 2005. Today, Committed is Maurice Staple (first tenor), Alain Gervais (tenor, lead vocals, beat box), Theron Thomas Jr. (tenor 3, lead vocals), Geston Pierre (bass), Robert Pressley Jr. (tenor 4, lead vocals, beat box) and Dennis Baptiste Jr. (baritone). Pierre is a graduate student at Andrews University.

After winning the 2010 nationally televised competition with a record number of votes, the group signed a contract with Epic Records and recently released a self-titled album that combines their jazz background with their gospel roots.

The group’s repertoire, well-sampled on the album, reinvents audience favorites such as Al Green’s “Let’s Stay Together;” Michael Jackson’s “Hold My Hand;” and “Sweet Home Alabama,” as well as powerful gospel songs such as “Down by the Riverside” and an original composition, “Break Free.”

Committed understands the power of the human voice both to entertain and to change lives. When they performed Michael Jackson’s “Hold My Hand” on “The Sing-Off,” one judge and several of the singers cried. Their songs are also a tribute to God’s continual power in their lives.

Tickets for Committed can be purchased by calling the Howard Performing Arts Center box office at (269) 471-3560 or (888) 467-6442. Tickets for reserved seating are $25, faculty and staff tickets are $20 and Andrews University student tickets are $5. Special rates apply for groups and Flex Series tickets. Three men share memories, hopes and fears after 9/11

By JOHN MATUSZAK - H-P Staff Writer

Published: Sunday, September 11, 2011 1:06 PM EDT

How did the events of Sept. 11, 2001, change individual lives and the life of the nation? How are we still changing, and what can we gain from those terrible events?

Three men, two of whom were in the South Tower of the World Trade Center when it was hit, share their experiences and hope for a stronger America.

Blood brothers

On Sept. 11, 2001, Stan Praimnath said his usual daily prayer, put on his lucky shoes and went to the building where he had worked for 13 years.

By the end of the day he would find a strengthened faith and a new brother.
Praimnath spoke at Andrews University last week as part of its weeklong "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope" commemoration of the 9/11 attacks.

He was on the 81st floor of the South Tower when the plane hit and was one of only 18 at or above the point of impact who survived.

Because the walls around him were soundproof, he didn't know at first that the North Tower next door had been attacked. He received calls from family members worried about his safety, not realizing the source of their concern until he saw chunks of burning debris falling from the neighboring tower.

He took an elevator down to the 78th floor of his building, but returned to his office with other executives of Fuji Bank after a security guard assured everyone that they were not in danger.

He dropped his phone and dived under his desk as the plane hit. A piece of the wing lodged 20 feet from his desk.

Part of the floor had collapsed, and "everything looked like matchsticks. The air was so thick you couldn't breathe," he told the audience. Air pressure was sucking everything out of the shattered windows.

That's when Praimnath made a deal with God, saying, "Anything you want me to do I'll do if I live."

He began to call for help, and at that instant a flashlight beamed through a hole in the wall.

"Talk about a powerful God," Praimnath said.

The flashlight was held by Brian Clark, an employee of another banking firm who worked a few floors above Praimnath. He had been arguing with other survivors about whether to continue down the stairs or try to reach the roof when he heard Praimnath's cries.

In later interviews Clark said that responding to Praimnath's call for help saved his life. The people who tried to get to the roof were never seen again.

To escape, Praimnath had to get over a 10-foot tall wall of sheetrock. He jumped and missed the top on his first attempts, puncturing his hand on a nail. He bolstered himself by saying, "I can do all this through Christ, who strengthens me," and made it over the wall with Clark's help.

On the other side they tumbled together. Clark then gently took Praimnath's injured hand in his own bleeding hand and said, "All my life I was an only child and I always wanted a brother. I have found that man. Today we are blood brothers. Let's go home."

They had 80 chaotic floors to descend first. Praimnath said his lucky shoes gave him added traction on the slippery stairs.

After all these years, Praimnath said there is one image that still haunts him. They came upon a man with massive head injuries and a broken back, being attended to by a security guard. The injured man cried out "Please tell my wife and baby I love them. We just got married."

The security guard chose to stay with the man, and they both died, Praimnath said.

Praimnath and Clark exited the South Tower minutes before its collapse, and were separated in the cloud of dust that enveloped them. But they have remained bonded ever since.

Praimnath has kept the promise he made on the 81st floor, speaking about his faith to schools, church groups and other organizations. He also has become an ordained minister.

Today he will be at his home church, Bethel Assembly of God in Ozone Park, Queens, New York, with his blood brother, Brian Clark.

Since 9/11, Praimnath thinks Americans have become "a little more resilient ... more vigilant, stronger."

In his travels Praimnath said people embrace him and welcome him to their homes. "Americans are warm, loving people. In adversity people come together."
Man's best friend

Roselle was afraid of thunder.

The guide dog awoke in the early morning hours of Sept. 11, 2001, as a storm approached. Her master, Michael Hingson, blind since birth, got out of bed to comfort her and then decided to get some work done before leaving for his sales job on the 78th floor of the World Trade Center's South Tower.

Hours later the two of them would be caught in the violent maelstrom of the terrorist attacks, saved by the unflappable calm of Hingson's canine companion.

Hingson, who with Susy Flory co-wrote the book, "Thunder Dog: the True Story of a Blind Man, His Guide Dog & The Triumph of Trust at Ground Zero," will talk about his amazing escape and his crusade to restore trust and teamwork to America at four events at Lake Michigan College's campuses Monday.

When Hingson was born blind, his parents were advised to place him in an institution, an option they adamantly refused. They treated him in the same way as his sighted brother, fostering a strong sense of independence. He learned to detect objects around him with his other senses and could often be seen riding his bicycle around his rural neighborhood in Palmdale, Calif.

"Eyesight isn't the only game in town," Hingson said during an interview from his California home. He refers to sighted people as "light-dependent."

Over the years he learned to rely on a series of guide dogs, as well.

It was clear from the start that Roselle, a golden retriever, was special.

Being a guide dog can be stressful, Hingson knew. "I asked for a dog with an on-off switch who knew the difference between work and play."

Roselle was that dog. He describes her personality as "pixie-like," with a predilection for hiding his socks.

"She was serious when she had to be," Hingson said. "We worked well together. When the harness came off she was a very playful dog."

After the South Tower had been hit, Hingson and office mate David Frank were the last ones off their floor, making sure everyone else had left.

Roselle led them down 1,463 stairs to safety, offering licks to the firefighters who made their way up the stairwell.

"It's not her job to know where I want to go," Hingson said. "It's her job to be sure the handler walks safely" and to avoid obstacles.

"I'm the navigator, she's the pilot," Hingson explained about the relationship.

They emerged onto the street minutes before the tower collapsed. Roselle went from gold to gray with dust.

Following their escape, Hingson and Roselle had hundreds of interviews. In 2002 Hingson joined Guide Dogs for the Blind as a public relations specialist, and in 2008 he formed the Michael Hingson Groups to talk about trust and teamwork.

"Thunder Dog" became a New York Times best-seller three weeks after its release this year.

Over the years, Roselle endured numerous illnesses that Hingson believes were related to ingesting dust on
She died June 26. It was later learned that she had been named a finalist for the 2011 American Humane Association's American Hero Dog Award. In her memory Hingson is forming Roselle's Dream Foundation to educate people about blindness and to provide children and adults with helping technologies.

Hingson isn't happy with the direction the country has taken since 2001.

"I'm very saddened that we didn't learn the lessons from 9/11," he said.

After the attacks there was a lot of unity," but then we took our eye off the ball" with the war in Iraq and running up huge deficits, Hingson said.

Politicians only say what will get them elected, he added. We don't trust Muslims, "who are as peace-loving as we are," and we don't even trust each other. "Trust is under attack."

We need teamwork, and that starts with trust, Hingson continued.

"I develop a team with every guide dog I get," he said. "Her job is to walk the way she is directed. My job is to direct her. If she is distracted by a duck, we have a discussion."

Hingson won't be at the dedication of the 9/11 memorial in New York City today. Survivors of the attacks weren't invited, he said.

Instead, he will be at a speaking engagement in Port Arthur, Texas, before flying to Southwest Michigan.

"Learn to focus on your job. Learn to focus that you're part of a team," Hingson said.

"Keep your nose to the ground and stop being distracted by things you can't do anything about."

... and justice for all

Like millions of people in America, Imam Mustapha Elturk first heard about the attacks on the World Trade Center while on his way to work. In his case, he was heading for TRW in Troy, Mich.

The electronics engineer had immigrated from Lebanon amid its civil war in 1975, "so I know about hearing the roaring of guns and cannons, I know about hearing the roaring of airplanes and seeing people's lives shattered," he told an audience at Andrews University Thursday.

"I thought, 'My God, this is real,'" said Elturk, emir of the Islamic Organization of North America.

The terrorists attacked people of all backgrounds, and Muslims were among those who perished on that day, Elturk said.

But he knew that he and others of his faith would be potential targets for retaliation in the days and weeks to come.

As an imam, or spiritual adviser, he had a responsibility to protect his community. Women in particular, conspicuous because of their dress, were advised to be careful and to only go out when necessary.

Hate is so indiscriminate that the first fatality from the backlash was not a Muslim but a Sikh, targeted because of his turban, Elturk said.

He recalled the pre-9/11 days when he and his family could move right through airports. Since Sept. 11, Elturk, an American citizen, has been detained by U.S. officials four times, twice at airports and twice at the Canadian border, according to an online article.

In 2004 he and others sought to build a mosque in Warren, Mich., but had their request rejected by city leaders based on what Elturk said was religious discrimination.

"I never had such a heartache," he said. "It was indescribable. I began to doubt my faith. I began to ask, 'Is my faith really that evil?"

Then he realized that his faith teaches him to fight evil with good.

Without even being asked, Christian leaders joined the Muslim community's effort to open their house of worship.

They banded together to present to Warren civic leaders a resolution promoting the values of "freedom, equality and justice," which was later adopted.

The former city council president, now the mayor, who had opposed the mosque, "turned 180 degrees around" and became very supportive, Elturk said.

Since that time three interfaith Thanksgiving celebrations have been held, and "Listen, Learn and Live" cultural exchange programs have been held.

A summer program to educate middle school students in the values of "freedom, equality and justice" also is offered.

Elturk expressed confidence that the nation could look forward in hope rather than backward in hate, so that "9/11 stands for hope and unity rather than death and violence."

Many universities are preparing a number of lectures, public forums, and open discussions regarding the 10th anniversary of the September 11th attacks. Sunday will mark a decade since buildings and lives were destroyed when planes were flown into New York City, Washington DC, and Pennsylvania. Below is a small sampling of interesting events taking place across the United States.

On Thursday, Sept. 8, Camden County College will welcome award-winning journalist Murray Weiss, author of The Man Who Warned America, a profile on former FBI counter-terrorism expert and Atlantic City native John O'Neill.

O'Neill, who had spent nearly a decade investigating bombings by religious extremists for the FBI, was killed on 9/11 when terrorists crashed two planes into the World Trade Center towers, where he had just begun working as security director.

The World Affairs Council of Harrisburg and Lebanon Valley College will co-sponsor a conference titled "Ten Years Later: The Aftermath of Sept. 11" on Saturday, Sept. 10, at the college's Miller Chapel. A day later, the Lebanon Valley College Conservatives will host the 9/11 Never Forget Project, in which students will create a 2,977-flag memorial on the academic quad, one flag for every life lost on Sept. 11, 2001.

Andrews University in Berrien Springs is hosting a week long event, "Memories of Sacrifice, Reasons for Hope." On Sunday, an art exhibit opened called "Post 9/11 Reflections."

"Post 9/11 Reflections" art gallery:
Smith Hall Art Gallery
Monday: 12 p.m. - 5 p.m.
Tuesday-Friday: 9 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Sunday, September 11: 12 p.m. - 5 p.m.
Featuring artwork by Dave Sherwin, Greg Constantine, Brian Manley and Vicki VanAmeyden.

Shippensburg University Student Veterans of America (SVA) will be hosting its Second Annual 9/11 Memorial event on Sunday, September 11 at 2:00 p.m.

The event, which will be held on the Shippensburg University "quad," will feature keynote speaker and university president Dr. William Ruud. Dr. Denny Terrell, vice president for administration and finance and a retired Air Force general, will also be speaking. Dr. Ron Taylor, who is a retired Colonel and a professor at Shippensburg University, will also be speaking. And finally Josh Lang, the founder of the Shippensburg chapter of the Student Veterans of America and current Pennsylvania Outreach Coordinator, will also be taking part in the event.

Twin towers survivor at LMC

BENTON HARBOR — Blind since birth, Michael Hingson, a survivor of the 9/11 World Trade Center attack, will make three appearances Monday (Sept. 12) in Berrien County.

His book "Thunder Dog: The True Story of a Blind Man, His Guide Dog and the Triumph of Trust" recounts how his guide dog, Roselle, guided him and others down 1,463 steps from the 78th floor of Tower One of the World Trade Center moments before the building collapsed.

Hingson has said his disability and the dog's skills helped ensure his survival.

After speaking at Lake Michigan College's Mendel Center from 7:45 to 9 a.m., he'll sign copies of his book and head to LMC's South Haven campus before returning to LMC in Benton Harbor for a lecture from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. He'll close the day speaking from 6 to 7 p.m. at LMC's Bertrand Crossing Campus in Niles.

Again, another useful event that isn't communicated in time to give people a chance to participate. A day or two in advance would be nice.

CERT Class Offered

Thursday, September 22
7 p.m., Buchanan Fire Station

The Buchanan Township Fire Department is hosting a CERT (Community Emergency Response Team) class program. CERT Programs educate people about disaster preparedness for hazards that may impact their area and training in basic disaster response skills, such as fire safety, light search and rescue, team organization, and disaster medical operations.

The fire station is located on Main Street in Buchanan, Michigan. There will be a meet and greet meeting (involving paperwork, etc.) on Thursday 9.22.11 at 7 pm. The first session will then begin on Thursday 9.29.11 at 7 pm.

This learned classroom training, combined with exercises, enables CERT members to assist others in their neighborhood or workplace following an event when professional responders are not immediately available to help. CERT members are also encouraged to support emergency response agencies by taking a more active role in emergency preparedness projects in their community.

If you are interested in enrolling in the CERT class at the Buchanan Township Fire Station, please contact Rojelio Castillo, Operations Lt, at the Office of Campus Safety so that your name and telephone number can be provided to the Buchanan Township CERT coordinator.

For more information on CERT the URL is http://www.citizencorps.gov/cert/index.shtml

Berrien Springs Camera Club: October Meeting

Wednesday, October 5
7 p.m., Berrien Springs Public Library

The monthly meeting of the Berrien Springs Camera Club will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library. This month’s program consists of a competition of slides and digital images, either projected or printed, submitted by members, the first competition of the current season.

There will be two select topics for the month. In addition, "Nature" is always an acceptable category, as are "Open" (any subject) and "Portraits." The two select categories for the October competition are "On the Farm" and "Railroading." "Nature" photos are to show nothing from human hands (no wires, fences, cultivated flowers, etc.). Thus a member can submit images in any of five categories or a combination thereof.

Prints, at least 5" x 7" in size, should be mounted, with the title and photographer’s name on the back. Digital submissions, however, need to be sent in a week ahead, with instructions for submitting them on the club’s Web site: http://photoclub.berrienspringsmi.us/

Any member may submit up to 10 projected images and/or 10 prints for the competition, but no one is obligated to do so. Pictures are shown one at a time, and three judges score them by machine. The total points determine whether a photo is rated "honor," "acceptance," or "out." A slightly lower rating will be used for beginners in hopes of encouraging them in photography. From the "honors," a Slide-of-the-Month and a Print-of-the-Month are selected. Photographers’ names are not revealed for the "out" category. No one need feel embarrassment; this is a group of friends sharing experiences and tips for better photography.

All are welcome. Refreshments will be served.
