After performing his song ‘Let Me Love You,’ Andrews University student Daniel Regal delighted Sunday night’s audience by getting down off the stage and singing a proposal to his girlfriend Tirza Rideout. To an explosion of cheers, Tirza said, “Yes!” With his new fiance by his side, Daniel received third place in AU’s Got Talent. (Thursday, January 22. Photo by IMC photographer Austin Ho)

Revive Vespers

Revive Vespers

Friday, Jan. 27

7:30 p.m., Biology Amphitheater

This month, Revive is dedicated to the work of evangelism in the end times. The speaker for this Friday’s vespers is Kamil Metz. Kamil is the director of the Publishing Ministry of the Michigan SDA Conference and he will be giving a presentation on the history of adventist publishing and literature evangelism. This will be a transformational experience as we will discover the plans God has to use this branch of ministry in the finishing of the work. Learn more at www.reviveonline.org.

My Andrews Experience Video Competition

Produce an original video clip between 30 seconds and 1 minute in length and win cash prizes!

Who is eligible: This competition is open to Andrews University students, alumni and friends
Deadline: April 2, 2012
Project Theme: My Andrews Experience (Two Categories)

To participate in this contest you will need to create and submit an original video clip anywhere between 30 seconds to 1 minute in length. The clip must use original music and content owned by you or royalty-free music. All Andrews University students, alumni and friends are eligible to participate.

We are looking for creative video representations of your Andrews Experience (current or past), How did the Andrews academic experience impact your life while you were here or how it is currently impacting you? How do newly built or renovated facilities (such as Buller/Damazo/Campus Center) impact your educational or social experience in a positive way? What would the addition of a new sports/recreation/wellness facility mean to you as a student, alum or community member?

Preventing Vehicle Theft
The intent of this article is to focus on prevention and how we can minimize error. Forty to fifty percent of vehicle theft is due to driver error.

A recent news clip (NBC Nightly News) reported that cars are being driven an average of 10.8 years according to the automotive market research firm of R. L. Polk & Co. Therefore, it can be said the possession of a car is an important aspect of a daily life routine. It is ownership, collateral and a means of getting from point to point such as work, school, shopping needs, etc. (Learn more or check out the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration brochure.)

The criminal mind seeks a target, possesses a desire (drive, intent and motivation), and then looks for an opportunity. Therefore, let's reduce opportunity.

- Park your car in a visible area
- Your parked car should have the windows and sunroof closed and doors locked.
- Do not provide opportunities for these thieves by having valuables in plain sight such as purses, loose change, electronic equipment, etc.

Report suspicious behavior in parking lots either to our local police department (911 – emergency or non-emergency 269-471-2813) or the Office of Campus Safety (269-471-3321).

The safety and security of our campus depends on everyone's participation.

Weather Closing Procedures, Personal Responsibility and Class Cancellations

In the event of severe winter weather conditions, the Office of Transportation and the Office of Campus Safety begin conferring at 2 a.m. and again at 5 a.m. Transportation is responsible for clearing the snow from the parking lots and campus roads. Campus Safety sends a vehicle out to personally check the main roads coming into Berrien Springs and confers with colleagues in the offices of the state, county, sheriff and Berrien Springs police, receiving an update on the road conditions in the 36 square miles of Berrien and Oronoko Township.

If the roads are clear, the campus traffic areas can be plowed and weather conditions are reasonable, the day proceeds like any other work/school day. However, if the local roads are impassable, Transportation is not able to keep up with the snow plowing on campus or there are significant power failures on campus, the chief of Campus Safety, Dale Hodges, confers with President Andreasen to recommend cancelling classes for the day.

The president makes the final decision and authorizes the cancellation of classes. It is then the responsibility of the Office of Integrated Marketing & Communication to distribute information to local TV and radio stations; update the school closing hotline (269-471-7660); send a broadcast email to all students, staff and faculty; send an SMS (text message); and post the information on the University website and Facebook page. Please check these sources for information and do not call the Office of Campus Safety. Note: Andrews Academy and Ruth Murdoch Elementary School make their own decisions about closing their schools for weather-related reasons.

Please remember that Andrews is a residential campus and can never really close. Faculty and staff: Plan a conversation with your coworkers and decide together how your department will respond when classes are cancelled. Weather conditions can vary dramatically throughout the county. You are ultimately responsible for your personal safety and only you can make the decision whether or not you should be out on the roads.
Motor vehicles are the primary mode of transportation for most Americans, and often, an indispensable part of their lives. They are used for a myriad of reasons, including going to work, school and the grocery store. But what would happen if that vehicle suddenly disappeared? Many would find it difficult, if not impossible, to take care of even the simplest everyday errands.

A MOTOR VEHICLE IS STOLEN EVERY 33 SECONDS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The top ten reported stolen vehicles from NHTSA's 2008 theft rate data compilation are:

- Dodge Magnum
- Mitsubishi Galant
- Chrysler Sebring
- Chrysler PT Cruise
- Hyundai Azera
- Chrysler Pacifica
- Chrysler Sebring
- Hyundai Sonata
- Dodge Charger
- Mitsubishi Galant

DID YOU KNOW?

- 40-50% of vehicle theft is due to driver error.
- The top two months for vehicle thefts are July and August.
- Only about 57% of stolen vehicles are recovered.

USE COMMON SENSE WHEN PARKING AND EXITING YOUR VEHICLE.

- Take your key; don't leave it in or on your vehicle.
- Close and lock all windows and doors when you park.
- Park in well-lit areas - in a garage, if possible.
- Never leave valuables in your vehicle, and specially in sight.

WE ARE ALL SUSCEPTIBLE TO VEHICLE THEFT.

The ten (10) U.S. States with the most stolen vehicles are:

1. California
2. Florida
3. Texas
4. Illinois
5. Georgia
6. Nevada
7. Maryland
8. North Carolina
9. Arizona
10. Missouri / New Jersey

THIEVES WANT PARTS AND VALUABLE ITEMS, TOO.

Radios and wheel covers aren't the only popular stolen vehicle parts thieves take. They want whatever sells, from the mandated labeled parts to those that aren't. Among some of the most popular parts or items left in vehicles are: engine, transmission, air bags, radios, GPS units, iPods, laptops, and purses.
GUARD YOUR VEHICLE
Motor vehicles are the primary mode of transportation for most Americans, and often, an indispensable part of their lives. They are used for a myriad of reasons, including going to work, school and the grocery store. But what would happen if that vehicle suddenly disappeared? Many would find it difficult, if not impossible, to take care of even the simplest everyday errands.

The Department of Transportation’s (DOT) National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) establishes, implements and enforces vehicle antitheft regulations. NHTSA has set the standard to help consumers and vehicle owners address the vehicle theft problem for more than 25 years.

To learn more about NHTSA’s vehicle theft prevention laws and regulations, visit NHTSA.gov/theft.
Which Vehicles are Most at Risk?

You might think that the most stolen vehicles are expensive sports vehicles or multi-purpose passenger vehicles, but that’s not always the case. In fact, according to the FBI’s 2008 Uniform Crime Report, more than 72% of all motor vehicles reported stolen are passenger cars.

According to NHTSA’s theft rate data, there were a total of 10,919,501 Model Year 2008 vehicles produced in calendar year 2008—and 18,417 were stolen. Of those stolen, 13,850 were passenger cars, 4,209 were multipurpose passenger vehicles and 358 were light-duty trucks.

The top ten vehicles from NHTSA’s 2008 theft rate data compilation are:

- Dodge Magnum
- Pontiac Grand Prix
- Dodge Charger
- Mitsubishi Galant
- Chrysler 300
- Hyundai Azera
- Chrysler Sebring
- Chrysler Pacifica
- Chrysler PT Cruiser
- Hyundai Sonata

For more information on NHTSA’s final theft rate data, please visit NHTSA.gov/theft.

In the United States, a motor vehicle is stolen every 33 seconds.
Target Spots for Vehicle Theft

It doesn’t matter whether you live in a big metropolitan city, surrounding suburbs or the rural countryside—we are all susceptible to vehicle theft. Coast to coast, region to region, no one is immune. The following is a list of the 10 U.S. states with the most stolen vehicles:

1. California
2. Florida
3. Texas
4. Illinois
5. Georgia
6. Nevada
7. Maryland
8. North Carolina
9. Arizona
10. Missouri and New Jersey (tie)

Use Common Sense When Parking and Exiting Your Vehicle

- Always take your key, don’t leave it in or on your vehicle.
- Always close and lock all windows and doors when you park.
- Park in well-lit areas.
- Always keep your vehicle in your garage, if possible.
- Never, ever leave valuables in your vehicle, especially where they can be seen.
- Never, ever leave the area while your vehicle is running.
It's Not Just Your Vehicle — Thieves Want the Parts Too

Radios and wheel covers aren’t the only popular stolen vehicle parts thieves take. They want whatever sells, from the mandated labeled parts to those that aren’t. NHTSA’s regulations require vehicle manufacturers to label their vehicle’s major component parts—called parts-marking—with the vehicle identification number (VIN) unless the vehicle line is granted an exemption. An exemption may occur if an antitheft device has been installed by the manufacturer as standard equipment on the entire vehicle line. Parts-marking has been shown to help reduce and deter motor vehicle theft, as well as help law enforcement authorities identify, trace and recover parts from stolen motor vehicles which ultimately helps with prosecuting the crime.

Vehicle thieves can strip a vehicle in less than 30 minutes—and make two to four times a vehicle’s worth by selling its individual parts.

The following parts are federally required to be marked:

- Engine
- Transmission
- Hood
- Right/left front fenders
- Right/left front doors
- Right/left rear door (four-door models)
- Sliding or cargo door(s)
- Deck lid
- Tailgate or hatchback (if present)
- Front/rear bumpers
- Right/left rear quarter panels
- Right/left-side assembly (MPVs)
- Pickup box and/or cargo box (LDTs)
- Rear door(s) (both doors in case of double doors)

There are other hot parts and items that criminals have recently targeted, but don’t fall under NHTSA’s regulatory responsibility:

- Air bags
- Rims and wheels
- Batteries
- Radiators
- Catalytic converters
- Radios and CD players
- Portable GPS units
- DVD entertainment systems
- Any items left visible in your car, such as iPods, laptops, and purses

Where You Least Expect to Have Your Vehicle Stolen

If you think parking your car at your home is a safe haven, think again. It’s no safer there than in a parking lot garage, on a road or in an alley. Thieves are always on the prowl, canvassing these places. Breaking into homes just to steal vehicle keys is becoming more common. FBI reports show that more than three out of four vehicles are stolen at these locations, and more than one-half of thefts occur in areas where vehicles are parked without attendants.
Did You Know?

Although a vehicle theft can happen at any time, the top two months for vehicle thefts are July and August.
40-50% of vehicle theft is due to driver error, which includes leaving vehicle doors unlocked and leaving keys in the ignition or on the seats.
Tips and Prevention

Theft Prevention Programs, Initiatives and Enforcement Activities

There are various state and federal prevention programs, initiatives and enforcement activities designed to help counter vehicle theft. Some include:

- DOT Federal Parts-Marking and Antitheft Device Regulation: NHTSA has published many antitheft regulations to help in the reduction of vehicle theft and to help inform the public about NHTSA’s important vehicle theft prevention policies. These include a regulation that encourages manufacturer installation of passive antitheft devices as standard equipment in factory-delivered motor vehicles and a regulation that recently extended the parts-marking requirements of the Federal Motor Vehicle Theft Prevention Standard. To learn more about NHTSA’s Vehicle Theft Prevention regulations, please visit NHTSA.gov/theft.

- National Motor Vehicle Title Information System (NMVTIS): Overseen by the Department of Justice, NMVTIS is designed to protect consumers from fraud and unsafe vehicles and to keep stolen vehicles from being re-sold. NMVTIS also assists states and law enforcement in deterring and preventing title fraud and other crimes. To learn more about NMVTIS, please visit http://www.NMVTIS.gov/index.html.

- Watch Your Car-type Programs: Programs such as Watch Your Car provide decals for motor vehicle owners to voluntarily display on their vehicles to alert police that their vehicle is not normally driven between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. Motorists may also choose to display another decal to signify that their vehicle is not normally driven across international land borders or in the proximity of ports of entry.

- Bait Vehicles: Law enforcement agencies plant decoy vehicles in high-crime areas to capture vehicle thieves. When the thief takes off with the stolen vehicle, the police are able to disable the vehicle and capture that individual.

- Free Window Etching: Law enforcement agencies sometimes hold free window etching events where they permanently etch VINs on windows, making it costly for thieves to mask the identity of the vehicle and easier for these agencies to trace and recover a stolen vehicle.

- Public Awareness Campaigns: Law enforcement agencies sometimes put together public awareness campaigns for vehicle owners to learn about the importance of using an alarm system, locking windows and doors and having a visual deterrent like a steering-wheel lock. Other activities that increase awareness include distribution of free steering-wheel locks at public safety fairs, block-watch parties and community events.

The estimated total value of vehicles stolen nationwide is nearly $6.4 billion.
The Insurance Industry: Some insurance companies offer rate reductions for vehicles equipped with antitheft devices, as well as for owners who VIN-etch their windows/glass and garage their vehicles. Other insurance companies advertise cash reward programs for information leading to vehicle recovery and the arrest and conviction of motor vehicle criminals. The insurance industry also works closely with local, state and national law enforcement to report and prosecute fraud in auto theft, provide bait cars to law enforcement in high-theft areas and monitor auctions for suspicious buyers who bid for salvage that will be dismantled for parts.

For more information on local initiatives, contact your local police department, theft prevention authority or insurance company to see if any of these theft prevention initiatives are active in your area. For more information on federal program initiatives, contact NHTSA or the Department of Justice.

In 2008, nearly 1 million motor vehicles were reported stolen in the U.S.

Outwit the Vehicle Thieves

Beat the thieves at their own game. Follow these simple steps to help safeguard your vehicle:

Protect Your Vehicle

There are several different types of antitheft systems and devices designed to make vehicles more difficult to steal and—in the event they are stolen—easier to trace and recover. Here’s how some of them work:

- Audible and Visible Devices: Audible devices deter theft by emitting sound that brings attention to an unauthorized attempt to steal or enter your vehicle, such as a horn alarm. Visible devices are devices that create a visual threat/warning/deterrence to a potential thief—such as those created by the use of steering-wheel, brake and wheel locks—as well as theft-deterrent decals, flashing lights and window etching.

- Immobilizing-Type Devices: Immobilizing-type devices are electronic devices that prevent thieves from bypassing your vehicle’s ignition system and hot-wiring the vehicle. Some electronic devices incorporate computer chips in ignition keys. Other immobilizer-type devices disable the flow of electricity or fuel to the engine, such as fuel cut-off devices, kill switches, and starter, ignition and fuel disablers.

- Vehicle Recovery Systems: A vehicle thief will look for any way to steal your vehicle, and sometimes no matter what you do to prevent or deter vehicle theft, it can still happen. Some vehicle manufacturers are installing devices that use electronic transmission technology to aid in the recovery of your vehicle in the event that it has been stolen. This electronic transmission technology has the potential to also help law enforcement reveal the location of other stolen vehicles—and possibility catch the thief in the act.
“Where’s My Ride?”

Let’s say you’re concluding a nice evening out with friends or have finished running an errand and you notice that your car is not parked in the spot where you left it. If you find yourself in the unfortunate situation where your vehicle was stolen, here are some steps you should take.

Contact police immediately to file a stolen vehicle report. The police will provide you with either a copy of the police report and/or a case number that you will need to provide to your insurance company. You may also be asked to provide the following information: License plate number, make, model and color of car, VIN number and any identifying characteristics.

Contact your insurance company as soon as possible to file a claim within 24 hours of when you discovered your vehicle was stolen. If you find your vehicle before authorities do, contact the police and your insurance company immediately.

Currently, approximately 57% of stolen vehicles are recovered.

Grace Bible duo combines for 42 points in win over Andrews University

WYOMING — The Grace Bible College men’s basketball team raised National Christian College Athletic Association Division II national championship banners each of the past three seasons in large part because of the performance of former national player of the year Allen Durham.

In their bid for a fourth consecutive title, the Tigers are getting important contributions from the entire lineup.

John Oostema and Ryan Dame combined for 42 points to lead Grace Bible to an 80-72 win against Andrews University in front of a few hundred fans Thursday night at Aldrich Athletic Center.

“On any given night, any player can score big for us,” Grace Bible coach Gary Bailey said. “Every guy here loved Allen Durham and they loved playing with him, but everyone can step up for us this season.”

Oostema, a 6-foot senior guard from Grand Rapids Christian, scored a team-high 25 points, including seven 3-pointers, as the Tigers (15-7) returned to their home court for the first time since Dec. 3.

He made three 3-pointers in the opening minutes of the contest.

“Anybody can get hot on this team,” Oostema said. “We have confidence in everybody.”

Dame, a multi-talented 6-7 junior forward from Wayland, put together a strong all-around performance, finishing with 17 points, 10 rebounds, five assists, three blocked shots and no turnovers.

“I think it’s fun when we can move the ball around and get everybody some looks. It’s a good way to get everybody involved,” Dame said. “We’re really coming together as a team. The guys know their roles, and we’re capable (of making another national championship run). I’m confident we’re going to get there.”

The Tigers had to redefine a lot of roles on the team this season.

Instead of providing a supporting cast for Durham, a late bloomer at Wyoming Park High School who turned into Grace Bible’s all-time leading scorer, rebounder and shot blocker, the returning players had to pick up the slack in a lot of places. Oostema said those roles are being defined in the second half of this season.

“At the beginning of the year, coach let us run free a lot of the time and let us determine our roles. I think we’re starting to feel more comfortable who we go to down the stretch in tight games,” he said.

“We’re proving to be a tough team.”

In a tight first half Thursday night, senior point guard Cory Jamieson, of Wayland, stepped up for the Tigers, making a pair of clutch 3-pointers to give Grace Bible a 42-39 lead at the intermission. He finished with 13 points.

In the second half, Andrews, the defending United States Collegiate Athletic Association Division II national champion, made a late run to trim the deficit to 70-69, but the Tigers tightened their defense.

Matt Kurtz, a senior guard from Lowell, hustled and scored off an offensive rebound and Oostema nailed the last of his 3-point shots with 1:18 remaining in regulation to hold off the Cardinals.

Kurtz had 11 points and senior center Ryan Krombeen (Calvin Christian), who had a strong defensive sequence midway through the second half, added seven points, six rebounds, five assists and one steal.

Grace Bible improved to 16-0 all-time against Andrews.

The Tigers, ranked No. 1 in NJCAA-II since January 2009, face a showdown against crosstown rival and fourth-ranked Kuyper College at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Boonstra Fitness Center on the Kuyper campus.

A seminary student experiences a crisis of faith when he finds his life in imminent danger.

By Haengso Hong, Seoul, South Korea

As appeared in

The frozen, snow-covered lake sparkled under my feet in the bright noonday sun. It was the first Saturday in March, still cold enough in Michigan for a coat and gloves even for a short walk. I'd learned to love the rugged Midwest winters during my four years at seminary, one of many adjustments from where I grew up in South Korea.

My eyes traced my footsteps back across the ice, to the trees, then to the retreat center on the bluff, where I’d started my hike and had been staying since the evening before. Other than the caretaker, Robert, and his wife, I had the old farmhouse to myself.

I’d come here to study the Bible, pray and draw closer to God, to better understand his will for my life. So much was happening in the next few months, graduation, returning home to my parents and fiancée, the start of my ministry.

Where would my faith journey take me? I wanted to be prepared. But I couldn’t relax. The isolation was unnerving. Where was God?

That morning I'd sat in my room and read my favorite Psalms. Heavenly Father, hear my prayer, I said after each one. There was no still small voice, only a distant creaking sound. I couldn't just sit there. I had to do something. A little after 12:30 P.M. I decided to hike across the hardened lake to a trail.

I was close to the other side when I reached a large tangle of impassable branches. There was no alternative; I'd have to turn around. Disappointed, I took a step. Crack!

I plunged into the water neck deep. Instinctively my hands grabbed onto the ice. "HELP!" I screamed. "HELP!!!!" Cold stabbed every inch of my body.

I stretched my arms as far as I could, frantically kicking my legs to try to scramble back on top of the ice. A large piece broke off instantly. I lunged to keep hold of it, arms flailing. But my weight pushed it below the surface.

I dog-paddled a foot or two to the still-intact ice sheet and held on with just the tips of my gloves. I didn't dare put any more pressure on it for fear it would break.

"Heavenly Father! Help me!" I pleaded. I opened my mouth, sucking my breath deep into my lungs then pushed it out as hard as I could. "HEL-L-L-LP!!!!" The only response was the sound of the branches creaking in the wind.

There was no one around to hear my cries. Robert and his wife had gone out. I remembered my reading of the Psalms—He knows my every thought. I tried not to panic. God will deliver me.

I couldn't feel my feet. My mind was in a fog. I looked to the shore. Only 100 feet away. Do something, I told myself. I raised a gloved hand and smashed it through a section of ice. I could break a trail to land. Lord, give me strength.

I shifted the chunk that split off behind me, then broke off another piece, steered it out of the way and pulled myself to the next section. I tried to keep kicking, but my legs felt so heavy, like anchors pulling me down.

"Somebody help," I cried. The words came out as a kind of wheeze.

I slammed my fist against the ice again. The glove caught on a jagged edge and tore off. My hand was as red as a strawberry. I couldn't break a trail anymore. It took all my strength to keep from slipping underwater.

My whole body was growing numb. I remembered reading that people could freeze to death in 45 minutes. I glanced up at the sun. It was just starting its descent. Was it 1:00 P.M. yet? How much longer could I last?

My coat seemed to weigh 500 pounds. Take...it...off, my brain told me. I'd be lighter, able to pull myself out of the water onto the ice. I let go of the ice and reached for the zipper. I sank like a stone. My head throbbed. I can't breathe!

One desperate kick and I burst out of the water, fighting for air. I clawed the ice and hung on. I looked up at the retreat center, this place where I'd come to commune with God.

He was the only one who knew I was out here. I'd dedicated my life to serving him. Given sermons on the power of prayer. Trusted that he'd always be there for me. Now the one time I needed him most... Please God! I only have a few minutes left.

I thought of my parents and fiancée in Korea. Would I ever see them again? My heart ached with sorrow. I felt so alone. Forgotten. I wanted to cry, but no tears would come. I couldn't move, couldn't feel a thing.

I gazed helplessly at the shore. I faded in and out of consciousness. It's over. No one was coming to rescue me. My eyes closed. I forced them open. I felt the oddest sensation, not a voice, more like an insistent internal message: Make a noise, like an animal.

I opened my mouth and howled like a wolf. My tongue was so swollen I could barely make a sound. Why had God abandoned me? Was I that insignificant to him?

Everything around me was hazy. Soon I'd slip beneath the surface for the last time. Father God, I give you my spirit. Would he hear me even now?

What was that sound? Someone shouting? A man coming to me carrying a sled. I recognized his face. Robert, the caretaker from the retreat center. Someone had heard me. But it was too late. I was sinking, drowning. Everything went black.

I awoke groggy and disoriented. There was a nurse beside me. “Haengso! My name is Emily. You’re at South Bend Memorial. You’re going to be okay.” I looked around. I wondered how long I'd been here.

“It’s six,” she said. “Still Saturday. Everybody is going to be very glad to see you. You know a person can only last in freezing water for forty-five minutes. You must’ve been in the water that long.”

Friends and faculty from seminary came to visit me. “It’s incredible you survived,” they said. “When you got to the hospital your temperature was only eighty degrees. You’re lucky to be alive.”

I was grateful to have survived, but that's what it seemed like to me, simply dumb luck. It couldn’t fill the emptiness inside of me. I needed to know my life mattered to God. If he'd been with me in the icy water wouldn’t I have sensed it?

The next afternoon I was released. A friend drove me back to the retreat center so I could retrieve my car. Robert answered the door. “Boy, am I glad to see you,” he said. “My wife and I have been praying for you.”

“Thank you for rescuing me,” I said. “They say I’m lucky to be here.”

Robert looked puzzled. “Luck? It wasn’t luck. It was a miracle. We’d just gotten back to the house at one forty-five when I heard a grunting sound. I looked and saw you out on the ice. I ran and got a rope and sled and made my way out to you. But I could only hold you. It was another twenty-five minutes before the paramedics got you out of the water.”

I'd been in freezing water for over 80 minutes! Far longer than humanly possible. I was stunned and a little ashamed. How could I have ever doubted?

I'd come to the retreat center wanting to be closer to my heavenly Father, wanting to feel his love for me. When I fell through the ice, he drew me into his arms and held me close. The warmth of his love, that was what saved me.

Daphne, you are safe in God. You have been in my prayers. -Branden

Don't give up on Him!! Cling to him and tell God you love him no matter what. Our enemy will be defeated. May God be more closer to you than more ever.

Father God, I am so grateful that you hear our prayers; I am especially grateful that one day sickness and sorrow will no longer be part of our world. But for now, while they are, cover Daphne with your presence. Fill her soul with Your peace, her body with your strength, her mind with your love, and her heart with an unflinching faith that trusts you implicitly with her life. Fight for her Lord. Fight! And encourage all of us, her community, to bring her faithfully before your throne each day. She is yours, Father. Care for her I pray. Care for her. Thank you. We love you. Amen.

You are loved and cared for and prayers are going up for you. Meditate in God's goodness always. I pray that you will feel His presence and His peace, and His healing for your soul. Continue to follow Him—even now! Hugs and kisses. D. Brown & Family

Dear Daphne, this is my favored text: "What have I told you to do? I have told you to be strong and full of courage. Don't be afraid. Don't become discouraged or give up, because you don't have to do this all alone. The Lord your God will be with you every step of the way." (Joshua1:9, Clear Word). You are in my thoughts and prayers!

Write something here...Daphne, This is one of my favorite pictures. No, you are doing something difficult but the pure joy and love for gymnastics and performing can be seen. Thank you for enriching our team and for the audiences we performed for. Even if it was for only one year (and it seems like so many more) I am so thankful I got to coach you. We miss you and are constantly praying for you. XN

Daphne, "Fear not, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by your name; You are Mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow you. When you walk through the fire, you shall not be burned, nor shall the flame scorch you. For I am the Lord your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Saviour. ... Fear not, for I am with you. Isaiah 43: 1-4, 25,5. (Kwame)

Dear Daphne, May you feel the warm embrace of God's loving arms surrounding you and carrying you through this difficult experience. May His healing hand be upon you. May this too, work out for His glory and may you be able to proclaim the mighty miracles He has worked on your behalf. Is 40:31. Genaida Benson

Daphne, I am praying for you and your family during this difficult time. May the warmth of God's love envelop you and make his comforting hand be made very real to you. -- Katy Wolfer

Daphne, may the healing hand of God touch you. Albert

God loves you, Daphne. Love Him back and hang on to His Hand for dear life. A lot of people are praying for you! - Rhoda Wills

I'm so sorry to see you in such pain...I said a prayer for you and your family this morning. I have a promise for you from 1 Peter 5:6-7, 10 and its says, "Therefore humble yourselves under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time, casting all your care upon Him, for He cares for you...may the God of all grace, who called us to His eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after you have suffered a while, perfect, establish, strengthen, and settle you." Hope! Filip Milosavljevic Stay strong in the Lord Daphne...He see's the bigger picture and knows exactly why you are going through this difficult time in your life. Know that He is right beside you and will never leave you. Hold His hand tight and be assured that you will find comfort in Him. Take hold of the promises we have in Him =) Praying for you!

Hey Daphne (that's my mother's name :-) We don't know each other, yet my heart is saddened that you have suffer this way. I'm sure God's heart is aching as well because this is not what He intended for you. My prayer is that, no matter what happens, I'll be able to meet you...whether now or by the throne of Christ. God is whispering to you be fearless...because right there with the help you need during this time. :-) LAS

Daphne I don't know you but we are part of the same family in Christ!! I pray that you get better soon and that you may feel God's presence with you every step of the way!! God bless you and your family!! and never forget to be strong in the Lord.

Daphne, It was good to be in your presence, I was one of your drivers on some of the Gymnics trips. Will be praying for you and your family. Get well soon. My daughter is now on the Gym team and loves hanging around the older Gymnics team members Vern Byrd

Daphne Knecht Every time I saw you on campus or in a gymnastic performance you inspired me with your great smile and energy for life. I know you are fighting for your life right now Be sure to know you are not fighting alone Your campus is praying for you We love you! Keep looking up - John 14:1-3 Pastor Ron Whitehead A forever fan and friend.

National Marriage Week: February 7-14

For many people, a new year brings resolutions to improve different aspects of their lives. Striving to maintain better physical or financial health is a worthy goal, but what about improving the health of relationships? National Marriage Week is February 7–14, 2012.

There are two things you can do now to strengthen your relationship:

1. Attend the PMC Couples Agape Celebration at 6 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 17, 2012. Registration deadline is February 8, and you can register by calling Sherrie Davis at 269-471-3134. This event is for married couples of all ages and costs $20 per couple. It will be sponsored by the Family Life Committee.

2. During the week of February 7–14, couples can go to www.CoupleCheckup.com and take the Checkup for the discounted price of $19.95 (regularly $29.95).
