Watch the Transit of Venus from atop the Science Complex

Tuesday, June 5
5:45-9 p.m. (the transit itself begins at 6:04 p.m.), Roof of Price Hall, Science Complex

All are invited to come view the Transit of Venus on Tuesday, June 5 from the roof of the Science Complex at Andrews University. Telescopes with solar filters will be set up to view Venus passing in front of the sun. This is the last time we'll be able to see this event from earth until 2117. Tiffany Summerscales, assistant professor of physics, will be on hand to talk about the transit and answer questions.

Please wear soft-soled shoes. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Parking is available in any of the lots near the Science Complex. Signs will be posted to direct you to the roof.

In case of clouds or other bad weather, we'll watch the transit in Haughey Hall 133.

Learn more about the transit of Venus.

School of Education Receives Continuing NCATE Accreditation

In May, the Andrews University School of Education received formal notification from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) of its continuing accreditation for initial teacher preparation and advanced preparation levels (School Counseling, School Psychology and K–12 Educational Leadership). Andrews University has held continuous accreditation with NCATE since 1973.

NCATE President Jim Cibulka stated in his letter, “Special congratulations are in order because the Unit Accreditation Board has cited no areas for improvement relative to any of the standards. This accreditation decision indicates that the unit and its programs meet rigorous standards set forth by the professional education community.”

In November 2011, a five-member Board of Examiners committee and one member representing the Michigan Department of Education conducted a four-day site visit. During their campus visit, they interviewed some 170 administrators, School of Education and College of Arts & Sciences faculty members, teacher education candidates and alumni, and K–12 school partners. In addition, they evaluated all written program materials. The team then created a preliminary report based on the team’s review of all the evidence provided.

“This has been a five-year process of preparing evidence to meet the rigorous NCATE standards. This highly positive outcome—without any areas for improvement cited—reflects the hard work of our faculty and staff, and the extraordinary commitment of our students, alumni and partner schools, especially the College of Arts & Sciences,” says Jim Jeffery, dean of the School of Education. “The accreditation process is so thorough that the entire community has to be engaged. We were extremely proud of the response from our Andrews community.”

NCATE is the major authorized accrediting body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education for schools, colleges and departments of education that provide professional preparation for elementary and secondary teachers and other school professionals: school counselors, school psychologists, curriculum and instruction specialists and school principals. The Andrews University School of Education offers BA and BS degrees in elementary education, master’s degrees in school counseling, special education and K–12 educational leadership, the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) and the EdS in school psychology. As well, the School of Education collaborates with the College of Arts & Sciences to jointly offer 18 secondary education majors and minors in fields ranging from the sciences to social studies.

Inaugural Ethics Oath Ceremony Held

On Friday, May 4, students graduating from the School of Business Administration took part in the inaugural Ethics Oath Ceremony in the Garber Auditorium of Chan Shun Hall. Twenty-two students voluntarily took the oath, pledging to work in an ethical manner for the great good: striving for excellence, building trust, being honest, preserving integrity, character, and being good stewards. Over the past decade, there have been numerous business-related scandals shedding light on unethical business practices. The School of Business Administration is committed to promoting a higher ethical standard for its students, branding itself as a business school focused on Christian Ethics. A celebration lunch in honor of the graduates was held immediately following the ceremony.

The Herald-Palladium: Architecture camp slated at Andrews

BERRIEN SPRINGS - Registration is underway for Renaissance Kids, an architecture day camp for kids 5-16 at the Andrews University School of Architecture, Art & Design, the university announced.

There are five week-long sessions and one two-week session offered during June and July. Campers get to experience hands-on fun with design, drafting, building, sketching, watercolors and more. While exploring the discipline and lessons of architecture, Renaissance Kids provides a fun array of hands-on projects through which children learn about history and culture, design concepts, the architect's tools, construction and materials, community and citizenship.

WSBT: Berrien Springs woman crosses item off milking bucket list for 104th

BERRIEN SPRINGS -- Once a farm girl, always a farm girl.

Yes, Luella Jensen, known as Luella Allen when she entered the world in 1908--Theodore Roosevelt occupied the White House--grew up on a farm in central New York. She took a liking to life on a farm, or so it seems to those who look after her in her current home at Berrien Center's Lakeland Continuing Care Center. Read full story.

Seeking Apartment or Roommate
Looking for an off-campus apartment in Berrien and would like to get a nice 2 bedroom apt, but I need a roommate to share it with me. I am a recent graduate and work in South Bend. I'm quiet but love to have friends over. I'm looking for someone with Christian values who is generally clean, responsible and friendly.

Also interested in affordable one-person apartments in the area if I do not find a roommate, so please contact me about these offers as well.

Thank you
