Photo of the Week: Over 500 people stopped by the roof of the Science Complex to view the transit of Venus on Tuesday, June 5. Three telescopes with solar filters were set up to accommodate the long lines of people anxious to take advantage of this rare opportunity when Venus passed directly between earth and the sun. The entire transit lasted about six hours. The event was coordinated by Kelly Youngberg, staff for the Seminary’s DMin program and a dedicated attendee to the Andrews Observatory’s night-sky observing sessions. (Photo by Darren Heslop)

Lost item at Andrews University

Hi, my name is Slavisa Jankovic, student at Andrews University, and I lost my camera case on May 29, Tuesday, probably at Garden of Grace by PMC or in PMC itself but it has not been turned in neither to PMC nor Seminary lost/found. The case is black and has set of batteries and a charger in it along with few different kinds of cables. I also have some extra items in it which are so valuable to us since related to some precious family memories. Their worth, in terms of money, is not big but they are very valuable to us. So, please if you know something about this let me know. Thank you so much in advance.

My phone number is 269 471 6929, email slavisajankovic5@gmail.com; jankovic@andrews.edu

School of Education Receives Continuing NCATE Accreditation

In May, the Andrews University School of Education received formal notification from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) of its continuing accreditation for initial teacher preparation and advanced preparation levels (School Counseling, School Psychology and K–12 Educational Leadership). Andrews University has held continuous accreditation with NCATE since 1973.

NCATE President Jim Cibulka stated in his letter, “Special congratulations are in order because the Unit Accreditation Board has cited no areas for improvement relative to any of the standards. This accreditation decision indicates that the unit and its programs meet rigorous standards set forth by the professional education community.”

In November 2011, a five-member Board of Examiners committee and one member representing the Michigan Department of Education conducted a four-day site visit. During their campus visit, they interviewed some 170 administrators, School of Education and College of Arts & Sciences faculty members, teacher education candidates and alumni, and K–12 school partners. In addition, they evaluated all written program materials. The team then created a preliminary report based on the team’s review of all the evidence provided.

"This has been a five-year process of preparing evidence to meet the rigorous NCATE standards. This highly positive outcome—without any areas for improvement cited—reflects the hard work of our faculty and staff, and the extraordinary commitment of our students, alumni and partner schools, especially the College of Arts & Sciences,” says Jim Jeffery, dean of the School of Education. "The accreditation process is so thorough that the entire community has to be engaged. We were extremely proud of the response from our Andrews community.”

NCATE is the major authorized accrediting body recognized by the U.S. Department of Education for schools, colleges and departments of education that provide professional preparation for elementary and secondary teachers and other school professionals: school counselors, school psychologists, curriculum and instruction specialists and school principals. The Andrews University School of Education offers BA and BS degrees in elementary education, master’s degrees in school counseling, special education and K–12 educational leadership, the Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) and the EdS in school psychology. As well, the School of Education collaborates with the College of Arts & Sciences to jointly offer 18 secondary education majors and minors in fields ranging from the sciences to social studies.

Inaugural Ethics Oath Ceremony Held

On Friday, May 4, students graduating from the School of Business Administration took part in the inaugural Ethics Oath Ceremony in the Garber Auditorium of Chan Shun Hall. Twenty-two students voluntarily took the oath, pledging to work in an ethical manner for the great good: striving for Excellence, building Trust, being Honest, preserving Integrity, Character, and being good Stewards. Over the past decade, there have been numerous business-related scandals shedding light on unethical business practices. The School of Business Administration is committed to promoting a higher ethical standard for its students, branding itself as a business school focused on Christian Ethics. A celebration lunch in honor of the graduates was held immediately following the ceremony.

The Herald-Palladium: Architecture camp slated at Andrews
BERRIEN SPRINGS - Registration is underway for Renaissance Kids, an architecture day camp for kids 5-16 at the Andrews University School of Architecture, Art & Design, the university announced.

There are five week-long sessions and one two-week session offered during June and July. Campers get to experience hands-on fun with design, drafting, building, sketching, watercolors and more. While exploring the discipline and lessons of architecture, Renaissance Kids provides a fun array of hands-on projects through which children learn about history and culture, design concepts, the architect's tools, construction and materials, community and citizenship. Read full story.

If you'd like fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables delivered to your door each week, here's a cool program that might interest you.

Students at Andrews University are harvesting a huge Student Garden for their Community Supported Agriculture program.

Right now the program is working to receive organic certification.

Beginning today through October 22nd, subscribers can choose between a full share of produce for $600 and a half share - for $400.

Each basket includes at least six types of fresh produce, such as tomatoes, eggplant, melon, broccoli, corn, kale, carrots, cucumbers and peaches.

Delivery is free within a 10-mile radius of the campus. And others can pick-up in Berrien Springs.

The lure of Venus

By RALPH HEIBUTZKI - H-P Correspondent
Published: Wednesday, June 6, 2012 1:04 PM EDT

BERRIEN SPRINGS - The lines wound around the rooftop, almost to the service elevator entrance - but the people streaming through Andrews University's Price Hall weren't sneaking glimpses of an A-list movie star.

Tuesday's featured attraction was the transit of Venus - a rare event, when the solar system's second planet moves directly between the Earth and the sun.

Like any rare astronomical event, you won't get a second chance if you missed it, said Tiffany Summerscales, assistant professor of physics.

"The next one isn't going to happen for another 105 years - so, everyone who is alive now is going to be pretty old by the time this (event) happens again," Summerscales said, laughing. "So you want to get in and look at it while you can."

Visitors like Berrien Springs resident Steven Ng needed no special prompting.

"You get to see this in, what, how many (more) years? You've got to see it right now, or you won't get another shot at it," he said.

Patrons could track Venus's movements through three telescopes set up with solar filters.

"Venus is casting a shadow, as we see it, so we'll see a little dot in front of the sun - part of the sun is obscured by Venus," Summerscales said. "This only happens when Earth, Venus and the sun are in a perfect line."

Other safe viewing alternatives included welder's goggles or a Mylar sheet that people could use to cover their eyes when looking into the sky.

Reactions to Tuesday's viewing, sponsored by the Andrews University Astronomy Club, varied widely.

Stevensville resident Eric Ashbrook - who brought his wife, Heather, and daughters Akasha, 12, Mahana, 5, and Sage, 8, to Price Hall's rooftop - said he's "nowhere near a buff (of astronomy)," but does enjoy watching science shows like PBS's "Nova."

"My wife actually surprised me today, because I didn't know about it, and she knows it's something I'd be interested in. It's a whole family outing," Eric said.

Heather, who's studying dietetics at Andrews, describes herself as less of a science buff - but figured her husband wouldn't want to miss the big event. "I knew he'd be interested, and it's all over the news, so I thought we'd come on down," she said.

Berrien Springs resident Jonathan Shepherd joined the line with his wife, Laura, and son, Nick. He doesn't own a telescope, but is interested in astronomical events.

"Recently, I've seen the partial eclipse. Before that, I've seen total eclipses - two (of them), at least. It was interesting," he said.

Venus's next transit doesn't happen until Dec. 10, 2117.
Thank You from Sallie Alger

Thank you to everyone who was able to attend the lovely retirement reception that the library hosted for me. The food was great, the thoughts and good wishes were heart-warming and it was fun to visit with all of you. Thanks, also, for the cards, gifts, and emails to remember you by. I will miss coming to work at Andrews, but will find other things to do—such as continuing with my community activities and doing volunteer fundraising for Adventist Frontier Missions. I also anticipate that we will get more phone calls from Christopher and family in Grand Rapids with extra ‘grandson sitting’ opportunities!

May God richly bless you all,
Sallie Alger

Berrien Springs Spanish Church VBS: Hometown Nazareth
June 17-21
Berrien Springs Spanish Church

Imagine what it was like to live and work in the dusty town of Nazareth, just as Jesus was beginning his ministry around Galilee. You'd hear whisperings about Mary's son, Jesus—the local carpenter's kid who says he's the Son of God. Maybe the boy Jesus even had dinner at your house or played tag with your kids. As you tend your sheep or bake your bread, perhaps you secretly wonder if it's really possible that Jesus—the boy down the street—could be the Messiah. This summer come hang out in Hometown Nazareth, where Jesus was a kid!

The Berrien Springs Spanish SDA Church invites kids ages 4-11 to attend VBS this June 17-21. Your kids won't want to miss this exciting, challenging, super-fun VBS program! The fee is only $5 per family. To register please go to https://www.groupvbspro.com/vbs/hl/nazareth2012.

Lost item at Andrews University
Hi, my name is Slavisa Jankovic, student at Andrews University, and I lost my camera case on May 29, Tuesday, probably at Garden of Grace by PMC or in PMC itself but it has not been turned in to neither to PMC nor Seminary lost/found. The case is black and has set of batteries and a charger in it along with few different kinds of cables. I also have some extra items in it which are so valuable to us since related to some precious family memories. Their worth, in terms of money, is not big but they are very valuable to us. So, please if you know something about this let me know. Thank you so much in advance.
