Revive Vespers, "The Radical Invitation and the Extraordinary Life"

Friday, Sept. 7
7:30 p.m., Biology Amphitheater

Theme: The Radical Invitation and the Extraordinary Life
Speaker: Laurence Burn, Field Director, Adventist Frontier Missions (AFM)

3 part series:

Sept 7: "Follow"
The radical invitation of Jesus. What does it mean to be a true follower of Jesus? What are the missiological implications?

Sept. 14: "Grow"
The crucible of growth. What are the opportunities to be a radical follower in the here and now?

Sept. 21: "GO"
Global missions imperative. How are we to focus on the unreached?

University Vespers Tonight Featuring Lael Cesaer

Friday, Sept. 7
7:30 p.m., Pioneer Memorial Church

You are invited to share in a new weekly worship for students, faculty, staff and community members. This evenings presenter is a warm and familiar face to this campus community, Lael Cesaer. During this vespers we are focusing on the idea of 7 Words. You will have the opportunity to share your heart in meaningful praise and in 7 words share what Jesus has done for you this week.

Whenever Lael Caesar summarizes his life he tells you three things: "my father is my hero; my family is my pride; and the service of God is my joy."

Born in the Cooperative Republic of Guyana in South America, Caesar has served the Seventh-day Adventist Church in many areas including, district pastor, in the East Caribbean Union, and as a college professor. He holds a Ph.D in Hebrew from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, has taught on many college and university campuses. He was voted teacher of the year once at Montemorelos University School of Theology in Mexico, and four times at Andrews University. His byline appears in scores of articles in many languages. His wonderful wife, Dr Lena Caesar, former chair of the Department of Speech Language Pathology and Audiology at Andrews University, is now a professor of the same discipline at Loyola University in Baltimore, Maryland. His son, Lloyd, and daughter, La Vonne, are both graduates of Andrews University.

Lael believes Jesus is coming back quickly and wants to share that splendid event with everybody.

Symposium on Postmodernism Sensitive Mission
October 18-20, 2012
Campus of Andrews University

The Center for Secular and Postmodern Studies at the Office of Adventist Mission, General Conference and the Department of World Mission at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Andrews University, are sponsoring a symposium on a postmodern sensitive mission that will be held at Andrews University on October 18-20, 2012.

The symposium is entitled "Revisiting Postmodernism: An Old Debate in a New Era – The Relevance of Adventist Mission in the 21st Century." This will be the very first "official" symposium on postmodernism at this level within our church.

The purpose of this endeavor is to provide the church with a more open dialogue on the subject of postmodernism coming from various areas. This will be an interdisciplinary symposium including papers that have been presented by scholars from different fields such as history, literature, philosophy, arts, technology, urban affairs, theology, and of course, mission.

For additional information and registration you can go to our website www.secularandpostmodern.org or email us at symposium2012@secularandpostmodern.org.

Planning a Campus for the Next Generation of Seventh-day Adventist Education

The planning and design for the future of the Andrews University campus begins now. This fall semester, the School of Architecture, Art & Design is taking the lead to chart a course for the next 10 years of campus development. Everyone is invited to participate!

You are invited to participate in the first Campus Planning Workshop

Sunday, September 9

Hoosier/Lincoln Room, Dining Services
from 4–6 p.m.

This project is being led by the Campus Design Studio from the School of Architecture, Art & Design.

This is an unprecedented campus-wide planning process where students, faculty, staff, alumni and community members will be considering ideas and actions to help shape the next generation of buildings and spaces for a distinctive Seventh-day Adventist Christian education at Andrews University.

The goal is to shape an updated and revised Campus Master Plan and supporting design guidelines by January 2013. The Campus Design Studio was created for this purpose and will work with the campus community through a series of interactive meetings and workshops. This effort plugs into Strategic Initiative #6 of the new Andrews University 2012–17 Strategic Plan. This project is intended to help shape the environment and facilities that support the operation of a quality academic and student life program here at Andrews University.

A detailed schedule of events and information about the project and its interdisciplinary team is available online at www.andrews.edu/campusplan.
Journey Through the New Testament
Read the entire New Testament this school year! Pick up a card listing weekly reading at the Office of Campus Ministries, Office of the Dean of the School of Graduate Studies, or Pioneer Memorial Church lobby. Participate in a weekly discussion of the readings. These discussions take place every Sabbath from 10:30 a.m. – 11:30 a.m. in Nethery Hall room 143. For more information, go to www.anyplaceparish.blogspot.com.
What if all of Andrews University read the Gospels together as a community?

Read the entire New Testament this academic year
Just one chapter a day (and two chapters on Sabbaths during the first semester). Pick up a card listing weekly readings at the Campus Ministries Office, Office of the Dean of Graduate Studies, or Pioneer Memorial Church lobby.

Participate in a weekly discussion of the readings
Designed especially for graduate students and young professionals, this discussion takes place every Sabbath from 10:30 to 11:30am in Nethery Hall 143.

Recycle Unwanted Electronics on Sept. 12

Wednesday, Sept. 12
3–7 p.m., Transportation building

Community members, businesses and residents from surrounding communities are encouraged to recycle their unwanted electronic items at Andrews University’s annual recycling event. The recycling event will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 12, from 3–7 p.m. at the Transportation building on the campus of Andrews University. Green Earth Electronics Recycling will be operating the event.
Accepted items include computers, laptops, monitors, TVs, telephones, cameras, DVD players, cords/cables, printers, toner cartridges, cell phones, refrigerators, air conditioners, appliances, car batteries and any other electronic items or items with a cord. All hard drives are wiped to Department of Defense specifications or shredded. Due to the hazardous nature of CRT glass, there is a small recycling fee of $5 for CRT computer monitors and $10 for tube televisions.

Green Earth Electronics, headquartered in St. Joseph, Mich., is a company whose focus is to keep unwanted electronics out of the landfill by using the best practices in information destruction and domestic recycling. Their services include corporate and institutional pickups as well as community drop-off events for households. For more information visit www.GreenEarth1.com.

Andrews employees should direct questions to Anton Pellegrini at anton@andrews.edu.

Planning a Campus for the Next Generation of Seventh-day Adventist Education

The planning and design for the future of the Andrews University campus begins now. This fall semester, the School of Architecture, Art & Design is taking the lead to chart a course for the next 10 years of campus development. Everyone is invited to participate!

You are invited to participate in the first Campus Planning Workshop

Sunday, September 9
Hoosier/Lincoln Room, Dining Services
from 4–6 p.m.

This project is being led by the Campus Design Studio from the School of Architecture, Art & Design.

This is an unprecedented campus-wide planning process where students, faculty, staff, alumni and community members will be considering ideas and actions to help shape the next generation of buildings and spaces for a distinctive Seventh-day Adventist Christian education at Andrews University.

The goal is to shape an updated and revised Campus Master Plan and supporting design guidelines by January 2013. The Campus Design Studio was created for this purpose and will work with the campus community through a series of interactive meetings and workshops. This effort plugs into Strategic Initiative #6 of the new Andrews University 2012–17 Strategic Plan. This project is intended to help shape the environment and facilities that support the operation of a quality academic and student life program here at Andrews University.

A detailed schedule of events and information about the project and its interdisciplinary team is available online at www.andrews.edu/campusplan.

Constantine’s Poetic Licenses Opens at Several Galleries

Artist Greg Constantine has several current and upcoming exhibits of his "Poetic Licenses" taking place across Michigan, Chicago and New York during the months of August, September and October. Constantine’s new work, “Poetic Licenses,” is text art presented in the format of automobile vanity license plates. The license plate format is that of utilitarian objects transformed into functional objects wearing the mantle of “high art.”

They open another territory in the development of Text Art.

"Poetic Licenses" is an artistic extension of the "Artist Licenses" works Constantine created and exhibited in New York, Chicago, Long Beach, Miami and Paris in 1981 and subsequent years. The term Poetic Licenses is a play on words, and most viewers, when confronted by these groupings, will at first see a random juxtaposition of weathered automobile plates from various countries and states. They refer to the phenomenon of ubiquitous so-called "vanity" plates, with the exception that these have been joined together to form full statements. For example, Picasso’s "Poetic License" states, "WHEN I HAVEN'T ANY BLUE, I USE RED," and Warhol’s says, "IN THE FUTURE EVERYBODY WILL BE FAMOUS FOR 15 MINUTES." While at first glance it may appear Constantine has simply collected old, rusted license plates to create this text art, he actually fabricates, paints and rusticates the pieces himself. Each plate is rendered as a convincing entity.

In June, the MA Doran Gallery in Tulsa, Okla., exhibited one of his Poetic Licenses, a statement quoted from Salvador Dali. Along with having several "Poetic Licenses" presently being exhibited at the Dry Dock gallery in Holland, Mich. and the Armstrong-DeGraaf gallery in Saugatuck, Mich., the Ann Nathan Gallery in Chicago’s River North district is also exhibiting several Poetic Licenses along with a very large major work titled "USA Poetic Licenses" which will be shown in Grand Rapids, Mich. during the Art Prize International Competition Sept. 17–Oct. 7, 2012. As the major climactic event in this series of venues Constantine will have approximately 18 "Poetic Licenses" shown at the renowned OK Harris Works of Art Gallery in New York City beginning Sept. 15–Oct. 20, 2012. Beginning in November, another work of "Poetic Licenses" will be included in a two-year-long traveling exhibit entitled "Scribes of Hope" sponsored by CIVA (Christians in the Visual Arts).

Constantine is presently research professor of art, emeritus, at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich. He came to Michigan in 1955 from his home in Windsor, Canada, to pursue his Bachelor of Arts, graduating in 1960 but returning in 1963 to begin teaching drawing, painting and art history. During his time at Andrews, he also received his Master of Fine Arts in painting from Michigan State University in 1968. His work has been exhibited in national and international galleries for more than 40 years. Since 1975, Constantine has had 54 one-man shows, as well as being part of 60 group shows. He has had six books published, including When Big Artists Were Little Kids, Picasso Visits Chicago and Vincent van Gogh Visits New York. Even after teaching for 43 years, Constantine could not stay away after his retirement in 2006. He continues to be active in the Andrews University Department of Visual Art & Design where his studio is located and to create new works of art. He is represented by OK Harris Works of Art in New York City; Ann Nathan gallery in Chicago, Ill.; and Armstrong-DeGraaf gallery in Saugatuck, Mich.

Recycle Unwanted Electronics on Sept. 12

Wednesday, Sept. 12
3–7 p.m., Transportation building

Community members, businesses and residents from surrounding communities are encouraged to recycle their unwanted electronic items at Andrews University’s annual recycling event. The recycling event will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 12, from 3–7 p.m. at the Transportation building on the campus of Andrews University. Green Earth Electronics Recycling will be operating the event.

Accepted items include computers, laptops, monitors, TVs, telephones, cameras, DVD players, cords/cables, printers, toner cartridges, cell phones, refrigerators, air conditioners, appliances, car batteries and any other electronic items or items with a cord. All hard drives are wiped to Department of Defense specifications or shredded. Due to the hazardous nature of CRT glass, there is a small recycling fee of $5 for CRT computer monitors and $10 for tube televisions.

Green Earth Electronics, headquartered in St. Joseph, Mich., is a company whose focus is to keep unwanted electronics out of the landfill by using the best practices in information destruction and domestic recycling. Their services include corporate and institutional pickups as well as community drop-off events for households. For more information visit www.GreenEarth1.com.

Andrews University Press Releases Book on Homosexuality and the Church

The first major book from an Adventist publishing house addressing the complex issues surrounding homosexuality and Adventist life and faith has just been released by Andrews University Press.

Niels-Erik Andreasen, president of Andrews University and chair of the University Press board, said the topic of this book is timely and needed. “Recent developments in our faith community, religious organizations, American politics and secular society require careful thought on this sensitive subject. Andrews University is pleased to help sort out some of these issues by bringing together a range of perspectives on this subject within our church.”

Titled Homosexuality, Marriage, and the Church: Biblical, Counseling, and Religious Liberty Issues, the nearly 600-page book was released in early August. It is a collection of 14 major essays on a range of topics, and an additional six personal testimonies from individuals who have struggled with homosexuality in their personal lives. The content of the book, including the testimonies, is material largely based on presentations at a conference on the same subject held at Andrews University and sponsored by various entities of the Adventist Church in October 2009.

“Much as it might like to, the church can no longer evade questions about homosexuality and same-sex marriage,” says Nicholas P. Miller, lead editor of the work, along with Roy E. Gane and H. Peter Swanson, all of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews. “Society, with increasing stridency, is forcing Christians to confront these topics,” Miller says.

Miller points to the several states whose legislatures have enacted same sex marriage provisions, sometimes against the convictions of their own citizens. He notes that this fall, at least two states, Maryland and Washington, will have referendums on election ballots, initiated by citizens seeking to overturn the same-sex marriage laws recently enacted.
“Consider the strange controversy and apparent outrage that erupted when the owner of a national fast-food chain recently expressed his support for traditional marriage,” Miller said. “It was the same position held until very recently by the president of the United States. And the media-driven reaction is an indication of how efforts are being made to shift public sentiment on this issue. Meanwhile, a film documentary affirming the gay lifestyle among Adventists is being heavily promoted by some within the church. Through all of this, Adventists must have a clear understanding of all the issues at stake, and they are significant.”

Ronald Knott, director of Andrews University Press, notes that along with the biblical and religious liberty issues, the book makes a passionate case for the highest level of pastoral love and support for those Christians who, he said, “may have been lured down a dangerous spiritual path by charming but false arguments from scripture and political history, coming from outside and inside the church.”

Following a preface and general introduction, various essays and articles are divided into four sections. The first addresses the Old and New Testament biblical material on homosexuality, with articles by Gane, Richard Davidson, and Miroslav Kis, all of Andrews, and Robert A. J. Gagnon of Wheaton College. The second section addresses legal and religious liberty issues, with essays by Miller, Alan J. Reinach from the Pacific Union Conference, Gerald Chipeur, a partner with the Canadian law firm Miller Thompson LLP, Scot Zentner from Cal State, San Bernadino, and Gary Wood from Andrews University. The counseling section features articles by Stanton Jones of Wheaton College, Mark Yarhouse of Regent University, Carlos Fayard of Loma Linda University, and Inga Anderson, founder of a ministry to homosexuals. The fourth section includes the personal testimonies from several Christians who have lived and struggled with homosexuality. An appendix reproduces the various official statements relevant to homosexuality issued through the years by the Adventist Church.

In addition to his teaching responsibility as associate professor of church history at Andrews, Miller is also director of the university’s International Religious Liberty Institute. On October 6, the Institute will sponsor a day-long forum on the political, religious and social issues regarding same-sex marriage. The event will be held at the Spencerville Seventh-day Adventist Church in Spencerville, Md. The forum, planned in the context of Maryland’s ballot referendum to overturn the state’s same-sex marriage law, will draw attention to the issues, to the new book, and will feature panel discussions and a sermon on Adventists and social action by Bill Knott, editor and executive publisher of Adventist Review/Adventist World.

Homosexuality, Marriage, and the Church is available through Adventist Book Centers, and online at Amazon.com and Andrews University Press (universitypress.andrews.edu). Andrews University Press is the only regularly established academic publishing house to serve the Seventh-day Adventist Church worldwide.

Andrews Computing Program is now ABET Accredited

The Andrews University Department of Engineering & Computer Science’s computing program is now accredited through the Computing Accreditation Commission of ABET (Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology). The computing program offers a Bachelor of Science in Computing with emphases in computer science and software systems. The engineering program has been ABET accredited by the Engineering Accreditation Commission of ABET since 2006.

“The Department of Engineering & Computer Science is a family and through a team effort, including the support of Verlyn Benson, immediate past dean of the College of Technology, and Keith Mattingly, dean of the College of Arts & Sciences, ABET accreditation of the computing program has affirmed the strength of our program,” says George Agoki, chair. “We plan to use the processes of accreditation, which includes assessment, to keep our computing and engineering programs on the cutting edge. ABET accreditation is valuable to Andrews University, but more importantly to our students as they continue their academic or professional journeys.”

ABET is the nationally recognized accrediting body for college and university programs in applied science, computing, engineering and technology. ABET is a federation of 31 professional and technical societies that contribute funds and volunteers to set policy, develop strategy and conduct ABET accreditation activities worldwide on behalf of their professions. There are more than 3,100 ABET-accredited programs at over 660 colleges and universities in 23 countries. ABET is recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation.

Andrews University Recycling Event In September

Community members, businesses, and residents from surrounding communities are welcome to recycle their unwanted electronic items at Andrews University's annual recycling event in September. It's set for Wednesday the 12th, at the Transportation building on the campus of Andrews University from three to seven PM. Green Earth Electronics Recycling will be operating the event, and once again, accepted items include computers, laptops, monitors, TVs, phones, cameras, DVD players, and a variety of other things, says Andrews spokesperson Keri Suarez:

Listen:

For the most part, the event is free. However, there is a fee to drop off older model televisions and computer monitors. Again, the event is on September 12th at Andrews U from three to seven PM.
Essay compilation addresses legal, theological issues of homosexuality

Aug. 30, 2012 Berrien Springs, Michigan, United States
Andrews/ANN staff

A new book of essays and testimonies addressing homosexuality is the first of its kind from an Adventist publishing house.

Niels-Erik Andreasen, president of Andrews University and chair of the University Press board, said the topic of this book is timely and needed.

“Recent developments in our faith community, religious organizations, American politics and secular society require careful thought on this sensitive subject,” Andreasen said. “Andrews University is pleased to help sort out some of these issues by bringing together a range of perspectives on this subject within our church.”

The book, released earlier this month, is a collection of 14 essays and six testimonies from individuals who have personally struggled with homosexuality.

“Much as it might like to, the church can no longer evade questions about homosexuality and same-sex marriage,” says Nicholas P. Miller, lead editor of the work, along with Roy E. Gane and H. Peter Swanson, all of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews. “Society, with increasing stridency, is forcing Christians to confront these topics,” Miller says.

Miller points to the several states whose legislatures have recently enacted same-sex marriage provisions. He notes that this November, at least two states, Maryland and Washington, will have referendums on election ballots, initiated by citizens seeking to overturn the same-sex marriage laws recently enacted.

“Consider the strange controversy and apparent outrage that erupted when the owner of a national fast-food chain recently expressed his support for traditional marriage,” Miller said. “It was the same position held until very recently by the president of the United States. And the media-driven reaction is an indication of how efforts are being made to shift public sentiment on this issue.”

Some in the church are trying to reshape attitudes on homosexuality as well. Recently, some Adventists have promoted a documentary film affirming the gay lifestyle among Adventists, Miller said.

“Through all of this, Adventists must have a clear understanding of all the issues at stake, and they are significant,” he said.

Ronald Knott, director of Andrews University Press, notes that along with the biblical and religious liberty issues, the book makes a passionate case for the highest level of pastoral love and support for those Christians who, he said, “may have been lured down a dangerous spiritual path by charming but false arguments from scripture and political history, coming from outside and inside the church.”
The book is divided into four sections: biblical material on homosexuality, legal issues, counseling, and testimonies. An appendix reproduces the various official statements relevant to homosexuality issued through the years by the Adventist Church.

In addition to his teaching responsibility as associate professor of church history at Andrews, Miller is also director of the university's International Religious Liberty Institute. The institute is sponsoring an October 6 forum on the political, religious and social issues surrounding same-sex marriage. The event will be held at the Spencerville Seventh-day Adventist Church in Spencerville, Maryland.

The forum, planned to coincide with Maryland's ballot referendum to overturn the state's same-sex marriage law, will draw attention to the issues, to the new book, and will feature panel discussions and a sermon on Adventists and social action by Bill Knott, editor and executive publisher of Adventist Review/Adventist World.

Symposium on Postmodernism Sensitive Mission

The Center for Secular and Postmodern Studies at the Office of Adventist Mission, General Conference and the Department of World Mission at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Andrews University, are sponsoring a symposium on a postmodern sensitive mission that will be held at Andrews University on October 18-20, 2012.

The symposium is entitled “Revisiting Postmodernism: An Old Debate in a New Era – The Relevance of Adventist Mission in the 21st Century.” This will be the very first “official” symposium on postmodernism at this level within our church.

The purpose of this endeavor is to provide the church with a more open dialogue on the subject of postmodernism coming from various areas. This will be an interdisciplinary symposium including papers that have been presented by scholars from different fields such as history, literature, philosophy, arts, technology, urban affairs, theology, and of course, mission.

Berrien Springs Camera Club

The monthly meeting of the Berrien Springs Camera Club will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library at Cass (Old 31) and Union in Berrien Springs. This month’s program consists of a competition of slides and digital images, either projected or printed, submitted by members, the first competition of the current season.

As usual, there will be two select topics for the month. In addition, Nature is always an acceptable category, as are Open (any subject) and Portraits. The two select categories for the October competition are: Dawn/Sunset & Now and Then: which could include side-by-side comparative collages or individual images showing a contrast between the past and present.

Nature photos are to show nothing from human hands (no wires, fences, cultivated flowers, etc.). Thus a member can submit images in any of five categories or a combination thereof. Prints, at least 5”x7” in size, should be mounted, with the title and photographer’s name on the back. Digital submissions, however, need to be sent in a week ahead, with instructions for submitting them on the Club’s website: http://photoclub.berrienspringsmi.us/.

Any member may submit up to 10 projected images and/or 10 prints for the competition, but no one is obligated to do so. Pictures are shown one at a time, and three judges score them by machine. The total points determine whether a photo is rated “honor,” “acceptance,” or “out.” From the honors selections a Slide-of-the-Month and a Print-of-the-Month are selected. Photographers names are not revealed for the “out” category. No one need feel embarrassment; this is a group of friends sharing experiences and tips for better photography.

All are welcome, either to observe or to join. Refreshments will be served.

Washer and Dryer
Correction of previous Washer and Dryer post. The washer and dryer were both purchased new from Whirlpool on 11/18/11, so longer than six months ago, but they were used for only six months. The model numbers are LCE4332PQ and LDR3822PQ. If you don't have a washer hookup or 220-volt outlet this set is perfect for you since the dryer is 120-volt and the washer hooks up to the kitchen sink. I am selling both for $400 which is a nice discount since I paid $856 for them new. Please take notice that these are apartment size.

Graphic Designer Needed

ADRA International has a job vacancy for a Graphic Designer.

POSITION SUMMARY:

The Graphic Designer, under the direction of the Design and Production Director, designs and produces a wide variety of marketing and communication material such as brochures, direct mail, display graphics, online materials, and specialty items. This position is also responsible for the production management needs of the Design Studio.

QUALIFICATIONS:

- Bachelor of Arts in graphic design or a related discipline.
- Over two years experience or equivalent combination of formal education/training and experience.
- Extensive knowledge and experience in a Macintosh/Microsoft-based design and production system and updated software.
- Proficiency in Photoshop, Illustrator, InDesign, Acrobat (and other Creative Suite ancillary applications) on a Macintosh.
- Candidates with exceptional organizational and project/print management skills highly preferred.
- Demonstrated ability to communicate effectively both verbally and in writing.
- Demonstrated high level of creativity as reflected in a broad-based portfolio.
- Demonstrated sound marketing judgment as seen in their design decisions.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Manages the production schedule and sends out project schedule updates as appropriate.
- Prepares and conducts weekly production meeting.
- Develop specifications for and manages the print buying and mailing services process.
- Manage and maintain the archive of the approval process.
- Work with mail house on receipt of materials and reviewing proofs in a timely manner.
- Take ownership of assigned projects and see them through to a successful and timely conclusion, providing realistic and creative solutions to challenges such as budget restrictions, time constraints, market positioning, and production limitations.

- Create a format and select materials for each project that ensures a quality communication tool.
- Provide creative and technical guidance to project directors regarding information flow and the printing process to ensure satisfied customers.
- Understand each assigned project and its marketing objectives.
- Select and implement appropriate images from ADRA's photo library to convey the message intended for certain projects; assists in maintaining the ADRA Photo Library (scan, key word, catalog, photo requests, and software updates). Assists in responding to photo requests.
- Create customized images and elements (based on existing photography or generated by hand based on the needs of each project).
- Finalize and maintain ADRA's Graphic Standards Manual. Send out updates as required. Respond to logo requests and graphic standards questions from HQ and the network.
- Provide art files to Trinet and the network, as appropriate.
- Organize and store completed projects according to established digital filing procedures.

Pay Range: $16.57 to $24.81 per hour.

College/Working Family Needs Car
College (Andrews University) family of three is looking for a second car to facilitate daily commute to work, school, and daycare. Mom is completing last year of nursing school and works at a hospital in Mishawaka, IN. Dad has finished his degree and will substitute teach throughout the Michiana area. With potential for such lengthy commutes, the need for two cars is extremely high; however, the funds are low. For this reason, we are hoping for a donated vehicle, but are willing to provide owner with minimal compensation. If you can help, please contact Ray at (216) 456-7028. Thank you and God bless.

Web Design Services

A website tailored just for you

Modern customers are searching for a high quality experience. A well crafted website provides a strong and lasting first impression. It should convey the goals and aspirations of a business while speaking directly to the customer's needs and desires. Let me build you a unique website that portrays your best qualities to customers.
