Andrews University recently hosted the 42nd annual conference of the International Association of Missionary...
Due to a growing demand for nurses with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN), Andrews University now offers an online BS completion program in Nursing. Many hospitals and healthcare facilities now require that their nurses hold a BSN in order to practice, and the industry estimates that by 2020, 80% of nurses will have a BSN.

The online program, offered at a 50% tuition reduction, is a total of 125 credits, 68 of which come from a previously earned associate’s degree. The remaining 57 credits can be completed in four semesters.

The priority application deadline is August 2, 2013. Materials and other information are available online at http://www.andrews.edu/shp/nursing/programs/bs-nursing-completion.html.

Report from June Board Meeting

Date: June 21, 2013
Contact: pr@andrews.edu

Phone: 269-471-3348

An overview of the plans for the new Health & Wellness Center and governance issues were highlighted at President Niels-Erik Andreasen's spring board briefing held on Monday, June 3, 2013.

The President's Report consisted of a presentation of the campus master plan, entitled "A Campus for Health and Wellness." The plan, designed by the urban design studio of the School of Architecture, Art & Design, envisions new buildings and campus planning meant to guide the University for the next 10 years. The board voted to accept the updated campus plan. The School of Architecture, Art & Design received a first-place award from the State of Michigan for their campus master plan.

The board voted, upon the recommendation of the President's Council, to locate the Health & Wellness Center west of the Howard Performing Arts Center. Andreasen said, "I think it was a very important board meeting—it decided what the campus would look like the next ten years. This is constructive board action and decision, and I personally attach a great deal of importance to that."

Larry Schalk, vice president for Financial Administration and chair of the Health & Wellness Center Site & Cost Committee, has contacted seven firms that plan campus facilities. Three were identified to come on campus and work with administration, and then one will be chosen to help design, locate and shape the footprint and elevation of the new facility.

In the Provost’s Report, Andrea Luxton summarized the response of the North Central Accreditation Association’s Higher Learning Commission to the focused site visit on March 11 and 12. She reported that the visit went well, and the Commission advised the board on one matter of governance.

After reading the University bylaws, a Commission member noted that the laws state that the board appoints the president and all other administrators and staff. The Commission member noted that this stated practice is not considered best practice, and “it’s not even our practice,” says Andreasen. Currently, the board appoints the president after a search process. The president then recommends the other officers of the University to the board for approval. Faculty and staff members are recommended to the provost from the deans and the board then confirms those names. The board put forward an action to authorize the administration to present wording for a revised bylaw at the next board meeting.

Larry Schalk gave a preliminary final report on operations for the current fiscal year, followed by a summary of the year-end state of operations as of April 30, 2013. Due to a number of factors, the University fell short of its $3 million projected gain, ending the year with $136,000. The primary reason was lower than budgeted summer 2012 and undergraduate enrollment tuition, higher than expected utility expenditures and under-production of some auxiliary operations. Andreasen noted that current trends are looking good. Summer 2013 enrollment numbers are higher than 2012, and the University’s investments are doing well in the financial markets.

Schalk also gave a preliminary report on the projected cost of the Health & Wellness Center, approximately $17–$18M, and what entities will be included in the new facility:

Center for Health Promotions, Recreation Center and the Department of Public Health & Wellness. The current Johnson Gymnasium, Beaty Pool and Beaty Gym will also be remodeled. The president will continue to talk with the owners of the buildings surrounding the new Center—particularly the residents near PMC, Integrated Marketing & Communication, and Pioneer Memorial Church.

The board also approved a plan to refinance Timber Ridge Retirement Center, which is projected to save the University and retirement center roughly $75,000 per year, which will be split. They also approved a recommendation from the Investment Committee to allow 5% of the return on investment from the University’s long-term endowment funds to be paid out to student scholarships and endowed faculty chairs. The Investment Committee recommended that Unrestricted Funds be invested as 50% in equities and 50% in bonds and the board voted to approve this recommendation as well.

A presentation of insurance comparisons for aviation programs revealed that Andrews Airpark’s current coverage is far above any other comparable aviation program in the nation. The board made a recommendation that the General Conference Insurance Committee reduce insurance coverage for the Andrews Airpark from $50 million to $10 million, slated to save $50–$70,000 in premiums each year.

Each time the board convenes a special presentation is given for the purpose of board education. At the June meeting, Lowell Cooper, General Conference vice president, gave a talk regarding board independence and worldwide governance.

The board also voted the following new appointments and changes in rank/position.

Staff Appointments

Hansen Wins Best of Show at Michiana Annual Arts Competition

The Box Factory for the Arts, 1101 Broad St., St. Joseph, Mich., announces the winners of the 11th annual Michiana Annual Arts Competition (MAAC). Awards will be presented at 5:30 p.m. to the winning artists at a reception to be held from 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 22. The reception and show are free and open to the public. The exhibits in all three Box Factory galleries will continue through August 8.

Steve Hansen, professor art at Andrews University, won The Best of Show award for his ceramics piece entitled “Problem Girls.” The top prize of $1,000 is being donated by the Berrien Community Foundation.

Best of category winners who will each receive $200 include:
Mixed Media - Mary Amador, Goshen, Ind., for "She Prayed She Wouldn't Snap"
Ceramics - Courtney Copenhaver, Mishawaka, Ind., for "Horned Vessel"
Glass Art - Cynthia Fielding, St. Joseph, Mich., for "Fiery Dragon 1"
Drawing and Pastel - Dorothy Graden, Valparaiso, Ind., for "Holy Ghost"
Computer Art - Kevin Gross of Goshen, Ind., for "Autumnal Projections:"
Painting - Tim MacDonald of St. Joseph, Mich., for "Cocktail Hour"
Sculpture - Dora Natella of Granger, Ind., for "Uovo (Egg)"

Photography - Marc Ulloom, assistant professor of photography, of Niles, Mich., for "Evidence #43"

Young Artist Award - Dustin Timm of Lakeville, Ind., for his sculpture "Decay"

Honorable mention awards went to Rick Bauer, photography; Anne Blackburn and Lynne Tan, ceramics; Diane Cheeseeman and David Jay Spyker, painting; Dorothy Graden and Rebecca Sinclair, drawing and pastel; Rebecca Hungerford and Lynne Tan, sculpture; Robin Maxon and Judith Rein, watercolor; James O'Haver and Kevin Gross, computer art; Carolyn O'Hearn and Eli Zilke and Margie Mattice, glass art; Marcia Sindone and...
An insider riff on outsider art

By JEREMY D. BONFIGLIO - HP Features Writer | Posted: Thursday, June 20, 2013 6:00 am

* This article has been updated to reflect the correct date for the opening reception.

BENTON HARBOR - Steve Hansen's artwork changed the day his daughter Taryn was born. "At the time, I was doing some difficult-to-understand conceptual work and then when my daughter was born, it was one of those watershed moments where you re-examine your entire life," Hansen says. "That's when I decided that I wanted to pursue ceramics, because, at first, I just wanted to do something that was more universally understandable. Everybody likes a good pot."

Eighteen years since that artistic epiphany, Hansen, a 51-year-old Berrien Springs resident, is still working in ceramics. He has, however, ditched the kitchenware for more abstract ceramic sculptures that bridge the gap between the outsider movement and the art establishment.

On Saturday, Hansen will receive the top honor - and the accompanying $1,000 in prize money from the Berrien Community Foundation - for his ceramic sculpture, titled "Problem Girls," during the opening reception and awards ceremony of the 11th annual Michiana Annual Arts Competition on display through Aug. 4 in all three galleries of the Box Factory for the Arts. "There's definitely an insider-outsider art thing going on in that piece," Hansen says. "Outsider art, the untrained find ways of making things that are interesting to them. That aesthetic is ironic in my work, because it looks like a piece of outsider art, but then there always tends to be references to art history and esoteric ways of thinking that are very insider art. It plays on both of those ideas."

Hansen's winning piece is part of a current series of work that uses a clay technique to mimic everything from steel to wood. "The French call the technique trompe l'oeil or fool the eye," Hansen says. "People have been using ceramics in that way since ancient China where potters would make bedpans that looked like iron or teapots that looked like they were made out of bamboo."

Where Hansen's work differs, however, is in imagery that culls together a Midwestern farm aesthetic with an art historian's knowledge of how the female form has been used for centuries.

In "Problem Girls," Hansen takes the iconography of Venus, Wonder Woman, Greta Garbo and B-movie starlets to spotlight the various ways such imagery affects people, particularly women.

"Art history is full of these pictures of fancy ladies, clothed or unclothed, and those became sort of the icons that women would try to shoot for," Hansen says. "The whole bottom section of my work is all about looking. There's The Observer logo and a whole series of eyes from existing logos. The base is what holds up all these examples of what people might think they need to be like."

In addition to Hansen's "Problem Girls," category winners receive $200 each. There are also a Young Artist Award and three merit awards sponsored by Water Street Glassworks, the Twin City Camera Club, and the Krasl Art Center.

The purchase award sponsorship from previous years was replaced this year by an invitation-only preview night in advance of Saturday's public opening.

The MAAC received 404 entries this year; 226 works were selected to be exhibited at the Box Factory by judges Leslie Alexandria, Terry Armstrong and Brett Maniscalco.

"When they told me I had won Best in Show they said that the jurors were magnetically drawn to the piece right away," Hansen says, smiling widely. "That's the kind of thing that you want to hear if you're an artist."

Hansen, who was born in Minnesota, primarily raised in Iowa and moved to Berrien Springs in 1979 when his father got a job at Andrews University, says he always knew he wanted to do something creative. As evidence, all he has to do is turn to his Andrews Academy yearbook.

"In my senior yearbook, they asked me what I wanted to do with my life and I said I wanted to be an artist or a writer," Hansen says. "So I knew for a long time that I really wanted to be in a creative field. I always loved to paint and draw. I was the kid who asked for the how to draw books and paper for my birthday."

He earned his Bachelor of Fine Arts in painting from Andrews in 1987, and his Master of Fine Arts in sculpture in 1992 from the University of Notre Dame. He's also taught art at Andrews since 1987 where he's been a full-time tenured professor since 2003.

"I think one of the great things about being a teacher is you are constantly learning," Hansen says. "I love looking at art. I love reading about art. I love learning about art. You're keeping up with teaching the students techniques or art history. I think there's a lot of crossover from what I teach and what I put into my pieces."

A good example of that can be found in Hansen's second piece in the MAAC show. Titled "St. Andy," the ceramic sculpture combines the head of Andy Warhol and the body of St. Sebastian.

"I like those two together because they both survived being shot only to die in less glamorous ways," he says.

While Hansen's work has also appeared locally at the Krasl Art Center in St. Joseph, the Midwest Museum of American Art in Elkhart, Ind., and in galleries on both coasts, those who frequent the annual MAAC show may also remember Hansen from his previous series of teapots using a similar aesthetic. He won the ceramics category's top prize in 2003 and 2005, and was named second place in the Best of Show category in 2011.

"I guess I have a restless mind when it comes to using images as ways to create concepts," Hansen says. "I also have an ironic sense of humor, which hopefully comes out in my work."

Wilfrida Ruiz, 91, Died May 19

Wilfrida Ruiz, 91, died at her home in Berrien Springs on Sunday, May 19, 2013. She was the mother of Willyta Ruiz-Wamack, housing coordinator for University Towers, and Luz Ruiz, administrative assistant for the School of Architecture, Art & Design.

Wilfrida dedicated her life as an Adventist educator for 31 years in her native country of Peru. She was preceded in death by her husband Esteban Clodomiro Ruiz who died in 1975. She retired in 1981 and decided to move to the U.S. to join her two daughters in Texas. In 1989 she moved to Berrien Springs, following Willyta and Douglas Wamack who were here to pursue their studies. While at AU, she was able to fulfill her long-time dream that was postponed when she had to take care of her husband after he became ill. In 1995, at age 73, she received her master's degree in Religious Education. Wilfrida slept in Jesus at her home with both daughters at her bedside. She will be sorely missed.

Funeral services will be held on Friday, May 24, at Pioneer Memorial Church. There will be a visitation from 12-1 p.m., with a funeral service at 1 p.m. Burial in Rose Hill Cemetery will follow. Online messages for the family may be left at www.allredfuneralhome.com. The family requests that memorial donations be made to the Architecture Missions Group for Palpa School, c/o School of Architecture, Art & Design.

Please remember Willyta, Luz and their entire family in your thoughts and prayers at this difficult time.

More and more our children are being bombarded with non-biblical information and being told it is fact. Evolution, creators from an alien race, the Big Bang theory; these are just some of the things children today are hearing as fact without learning God's true place as Creator. Investigation Station seeks not only to teach the truth, but also teach about the God of truth. Through exploration of scientific facts and biblical accuracy, we hope the young people in attendance will learn that they were not an accident, but rather a creation with a purpose. Looking for Female Roommate for the School Year
Hello there! I currently have a really great apartment already furnished (I am willing to change out/bring in new furniture in if wanted) at Park Manor with newly laminated floors, brand new carpets in the bedrooms, and a renovated kitchen with a dishwasher, microwave, and everything else you could need in a kitchen basically (see photos below). The best apartment in Park Manor - the only one fully renovated.

Rent is $570 a month + electricity ($285 per person + half price of electric). Wifi is free here as well, slow at times but never the less, the free.

BUT my current roommate will be leaving early-mid september so I need to find a roommate for the remainder of the school year.

MUST be:
Female

Very clean (puts things back once done being used/dosen't leave dirty dishes over night or a mess out in the living room, common sense stuff. Personally, it doesn't matter to me how messy their room is though, just don't bring it out into the living space).

Responsible (able to pay rent/bills on time, not lazy, etc)

Respectful (doesn't bring a loud crowd of people over at like midnights on school nights, doesn't give people attitudes and can control themselves under the stresses of school, etc).

Friendly (I would love to be friends with my roommate and be able to talk and chat in the same room without it being awkward, so someone easy to get along with and who also wants a good relationship back).

And would LOVE IT if my roommate enjoyed the heat like me and doesn't want to freeze to death this winter!! (Someone willing to pay a few more bucks with me to keep the temperature at atleast a comfortable 70 degrees when we are in the appartment, and probably 65 when we are out so that we don't need to be huddling under 10lb of blanket anytime we are there).
Feel free to call me if you match up with what I am looking for and are interested or have any questions!

Looking for Home to Rent
My husband and I are looking for a home to rent or to housesit beginning July 28 or sooner. We both work at Andrews University, he as an adjunct professor and myself as an associate professor (I am also a full-time PhD student). Ideally we would like a 3-bedroom, 2-bath house with a basement and garage, but are willing to consider something smaller. We are clean, quiet, have no pets, and can provide excellent references. We have three daughters who would occasionally be visiting.

Massage Therapist
Are the stresses of work and study getting to you? Would you like to boost your athletic performance? Do you have a muscle ache that just won’t go away?

Ray McAllister, an Andrews alumnus who despite total blindness is now a licensed massage therapist, invites you to visit Healing’s Rays Massage. Proficient in deep tissue, sports, and relaxation massage, Ray can relieve aches, help you tone muscles, and give you the energy boost to finish studies. He also offers hydrotherapy, hot stone massage, and reflexology. His wife, Sally, is a certified aromatherapist and will be present for female clients. She sells home-made aromatherapy blends.

Introductory cost is only $25 for your first hour, $15 per half hour, for students all the time. Contact Ray for regular, competitive rates. 30 no-cost massages are available for those with Adventist Risk Management insurance, including sponsored seminary students.
