Textbook Ordering Information
Over the summer, the Andrews University Bookstore transferred to the management of Tree of Life Bookstores, a Christian organization serving many universities nationwide. The new management offers expanded purchase and rental options for the textbooks you need, including a wider library of electronic textbooks. The Bookstore is open Monday–Thursday, 9 a.m.–5 p.m. and Friday, 9 a.m.–1 p.m. It is closed on Saturday and Sunday.

Under the bookstore's new management, books for on-campus and distance classes can be found at one URL: andrews.edu/bookstore. Once on that page, you can then choose the appropriate course designation.

To search for textbooks for your class, you'll need to choose first the department and then the class code. We've included a handy department code list in this email for easy reference. So if you're looking for a psychology class, you'll need to first select "BHSC" (Department of Behavioral Sciences) from the "Department" drop-down menu. Then select "PSYC" from the "Class" drop-down menu.

New Astronomy Class This Fall

Date: August 23, 2013
Contact: physics@andrews.edu
Website: http://www.andrews.edu/physics
Phone: 269-471-3430

This semester Andrews University Department of Physics introduces Observational Astronomy, a one-credit evening laboratory class.

"The impetus behind the creation of this class was that there were often students who had taken a 3-credit science course for General Education credits, and were short a lab and an additional credit," explains Margarita Mattingly, chair of the Department of Physics. "This class offers both, as well as some incredible opportunities to observe our skies."

Geared to appeal to students with varied levels of experience and knowledge in astronomy, this class will teach participants how to set up and align a computer-controlled portable telescope as well as the observatory's 14-inch telescope, use a spectrometer, access online planetarium programs to view maps of the sky and locate objects of interest, and more.

"Students will plan observation sessions noting which celestial objects will be above the horizon during that session," explains Robert Kingman, professor of physics and instructor of this course. "We'll also have access to large international telescopes and observatories online."

Students will use the Andrews observatory, various telescopes, and high-power binoculars to view the following:

- Earth's moon
- Planets of our solar system
- Stars, star clusters, gaseous clouds, and exploded stars in the Milky Way galaxy
- Galaxies near the Milky Way galaxy

"This class will develop in participants a sense of the enormous size of our universe and increased appreciation for the beauty found in the heavens," says Kingman. "Studying and teaching astronomy has given me a greater understanding of God's love for each of us, and I hope to pass that understanding on to my students."

Observational Astronomy will meet every Wednesday evening from 6:30-9:30 p.m. For more information, contact the Department of Physics at 269-471-3430 or email physics@andrews.edu.
What goes on at Andrews University during the summer? In the Department of Physics, students and faculty create and construct a six-foot Tesla coil.

"In laymen's terms, a Tesla coil is a lightning generator," explains Brendan Cross, instructor of physics at Andrews. "In even simpler terms, it makes big sparks."

In more technical terms, a Tesla coil is a resonant transformer circuit used to produce high-voltage, low-current, high frequency alternating-current electricity. The device is named after Nikola Tesla, a Serbian inventor, engineer, and physicist who invented the coil around 1891.

Though the coil is being built in the department labs, it will, for obvious reasons, be moved outside to be used. Under Cross' careful supervision, three students have been involved with putting the coil together: physics majors Samantha Easton and Mateja Plantak, and engineering major Robert Polski.

And why are they building it?

"Why not?" replies Cross. "We're always looking for cool ways to demonstrate how science works. We already have a large parabolic mirror, a giant vortex cannon, a trebuchet and a quantum locking track; we go big here."

The department's coil will be six feet tall when finished, and will emit sparks within around a 26-foot diameter. It will be used for class demonstrations and an aid to learning for both college and on-campus high school students.

While there is some danger of damage or injury, Cross and the students are taking no chances and safety procedures are in place for when the coil is in use. They intend to build a Faraday cage to complement the Tesla coil once it is completed.

Named for English scientist Michael Faraday, a Faraday cage is an enclosure that blocks external electric fields. It works by using an external static electrical field that causes the electric charges within the cage's conducting material to be distributed such that they cancel the field's effect in the cage's interior. Faraday cages are often used to protect electronic equipment from lightning strikes and electrostatic discharges.

"We do have a lot of fun toys in this department," says Magarita Mattingly, department chair, "and we need them so students can go hands-on and figure out and understand how things work. And the toys we have always change because once we figure it all out we move on to the next fun thing. Whoever said learning can't be fun?"

Cross and the students plan to have the coil completed by mid-November; any public opportunity to watch the device in action will be announced as information becomes available.

Military Honors Funeral Service on Campus

On Aug. 25 at 3 p.m. a memorial service for John Weekly, a veteran of the Armed Forces, will be held at Pioneer Memorial Church. John will be receiving full military honors at the service, which will include a 21 gun salute. The 21 gun salute will consist of 7 individuals firing 3 rounds each. The rounds are blanks so they will only make a sound, no projectile. The Berrien Springs American Legion will be conducting the military honors portion of the service. The salute is expected to happen around 4 p.m. and will be located on the East side of PMC, somewhere between the steps and the flag pole.

If you have any questions prior to this event, please contact Ben Panigot, captain and assistant director of campus safety, at 269-471-6692 or panigot@andrews.edu.

Camera Club in Berrien Springs

The Berrien Springs Camera Club will open its new season on Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Community Library at Cass and Union. The club’s season runs from September through June each year, with programs alternating between an informative presentation about some aspect of photography, and a competition open to members.

The September meeting will be about improving our photography and clarifying policies governing the club’s competitions. Members Tom and Suzanne McDonough will review these and update members on a few changes. Members are also invited to submit up to three digital images, taken this summer, for projection and critique. The critiquing will be a group activity by the other members, nonjudgmental but thinking out loud how each picture might be improved. Anyone who plans to join the club that evening may submit their three images, in jpg format not larger than 1024 x 768, to BerrienSpringsCC@gmail.com.

Programs for November, January, and March will be announced in later articles, but probably will include a presentation on Photoshop and some that showcase the work of good digital photographers. In competition months members can submit up to 10 digitally projected images and up to 10 prints (mounted, at least 5” x 7”) for judging. Awards are given for the top projected images and prints. Acceptable topics always include Nature (nothing domesticated or showing evidence of mankind), Portraits, and Open (anything), plus two special topics each month. The special topics for each competition month this year are:

- Oct. 2: Action; Cracks and Crevices
- Dec. 4: Graffiti; Street Art
- Feb. 5: Patterns; Shadows
- Apr. 2: Sky and Things in It; Vents, Grates, and Manhole Utility Covers

The May 7 meeting is for final judging of the year’s acceptances, when 3 judges will select the top 10 projected images and prints of the year, and the June 4 end-of-season meeting will include a potluck meal at 6:30 and a show from the year’s acceptances.

Club officers this year are:
- President—Cheryl Thomas
- Vice President—Shelly Martinez
- Treasurer—Rob Shellhammer
- Coordinator for Judges, Programs, and SWMCCC affiliation—Jim Lynch
- Publicity—Madeline Johnston
- Digital Projection—Suzanne Anderson and Tom McDonough
- Webmaster—Tim King

The public is welcome to attend and enjoy the competitions. To submit pictures, one must be a member. Other activities are being planned for members, such as outings, exhibits, and publication. Annual membership fees are $5 for students, $15 for other individuals, or $20 per family. Refreshments are served at each meeting.
