AICER Symposium - Dr. Sawyer, Integration of Faith & Learning

AICER presentations for the Spring 2014 will resume on Tuesday, January 14, at 5:30 p.m. in Bell Hall, Room 013, with a presentation entitled, "A Qualitative Study of the Integration of Faith and Learning: The Levels of Integration Model"

Presenter: Dr. Pauline Sawyer, Associate Professor of Psychology at Oakwood College

In this presentation Dr. Sawyer will discuss how professors at a faith-based institution integrate faith and learning? The results from the qualitative grounded theory study involving semi-structured interviews of twenty-eight faculty indicate that faculty integrate faith both in and out of the classroom, in practical as well as theoretical ways that positively impact the students both academically and spiritually. She will propose a model of the levels of integration to summarize the findings, and compare the model with other integration models.

Face-to-face participants meet in Bell Hall 013.

Online participants to login as “Guest” at https://andrews.adobeconnect.com/_a877709416/research/ or http://www.andrews.edu/sed/aicer/researchwebinars/ whether or not they are registered Andrews students.

The School of Graduate Studies & Research is hosting the Graduate Students Consecration service on Sabbath, January 18 at the Howard Performing Arts Center (HPAC). The Consecration Service his third annual event is designed to recognize the graduate student population and to consecrate their pursuit of higher education. “Philosophically, Seventh-day Adventist education is holistic. Therefore, our students should experience intellectual stimulation, social interaction, emotional well-being, and spiritual renewal,” says Christon Arthur, dean of the School of Graduate Studies & Research. “The Graduate Students Consecration service calls students to holiness, spiritual connectedness, and consecration.”

The featured speaker this year’s Consecration Service is Chaplain Barry Black. On June 27, 2003, Rear Admiral Barry C. Black (Ret.) was elected the 62nd Chaplain of the Senate. He started his work on July 7, 2003. Prior to Capitol Hill, Chaplain Black served in the U.S. Navy for over twenty-seven years, ending his distinguished career as the Chief of Navy Chaplains. The Senate elected its first chaplain in 1789. In addition to opening the Senate each day in prayer, Chaplain Black provides counseling and spiritual care for Senators, their families, and staff – a combined constituency of over seven thousand people. He also meets with Senators about spiritual and moral issues, assists with research on theological and biblical questions, and facilitates discussion and reflection small groups among Senators and staff. He also conducts marriage enrichment counseling and officiates at weddings, funerals, and memorial services. Chaplain Black initiates and participates in special and seasonal observances, leads interdenominational prayer gatherings, and cultivates relationships with local clergy and leaders of humanitarian agencies. His sermon is titled, ”The Blessing of Adversity.” President Niels-Erik Andreasen and Provost Andrea Luxton will address students during the service. Each graduate student was presented with a copy of inspiring book.

Congratulations to the Bon Appetit Management Company Terrace Café at Andrews University for receiving their Great Expectation III (GE III) certification this week for the first time. The Bon Appetit staff has worked persistently to contribute to the unique dining experience of every guest in order to achieve this accomplishment.

The certification requires a rigorous inspection of specific details of Andrews’ operations including product sourcing, cleanliness, service standards, décor and food presentation. The GE III document breaks down these traits into specific measures that are applied station by station and program by program.

"GE III certification is the honor given to those accounts that completely adhere to the many operating standards of Bon Appetit," says J. Mark Daniels, general manager and director of Bon Appetit. "It is a stringent process and the standards are high. There are only a small percentage of accounts nationwide that have earned this coveted certification."

Carrie Buckley, director of Merchandising at Bon Appetit, was impressed by aspects of the cafeteria’s operation including the restaurant-quality breakfast with a made-to-order omelet station, the diverse vegan and vegetarian-only menu, the exceptional salad bar, the perfect sanitation and the organizational and descriptive signage. The Thai pesto was such a favorite among the reviewers that they even asked for the recipe.

The GE III certificate was created by Michael Bauccio, chief operating officer of Bon Appetit, to provide each unit with a standardized set of standards and operating procedures. These include alignment with the philosophy of cooking and purchasing that make Bon Appetit unique in the marketplace, creating the look and feel of an attractive and professional café, enhancing the experience of the guests, providing for guests with special dietary needs by clearly labeling food, enlightening guests to healthy food options and ethical food usage, creating a safe environment for everyone and, of course, guest and client satisfaction.

"In many ways this is the culmination of the efforts of myself, HR and the management team to build a strong group of individuals who are committed to excellence," says Daniels. "It took a few years to make the changes, but the effort has been worthwhile and we are now ready to explore new and exciting ways to serve our guests and grow our market share in the community."

Audrey Castelbouno, associate vice president for development, and T. Ryan Keough, senior development officer at Andrews University, received the prestigious credential of Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) from CFRE International this fall.

Founded in 2001, CFRE International is a nonprofit organization that provides a reliable certification process for fundraising professionals. This program is the only professional certification for fundraisers and is known for being a difficult test that the majority of applicants fail multiple times before passing. Both Keough and Castelbouno, however, passed on the first go.

"With two certified fundraisers on this campus, it is a confirmation that we have a solid program in place at Andrews," says Keough. "CFRE is an ethical fundraising program. When you are working with people and their finances, ethics must be held to the highest standard. We want Andrews donors to know they can trust us to do exactly what we say we are going to do with their donations. The ethics of fundraising are probably not as well known outside the fundraising world, but we're trying to change that."

Starting at Andrews in 2008, both Keough and Castelbouno were required to gain five years of experience before taking the exam, meaning the earliest they could attempt the certification exam was in 2013. Applicants must also complete a required amount of academic and professional performance and volunteer service experience to qualify. Test-takers are expected to have a thorough knowledge of a variety of fundraising techniques and practices.

"I never thought God's plan for me was in fundraising," says Keough, "but I find that there are correlations between fundraising and my prior experience in the automotive industry as a quality control engineer: I can figure out where a donor's goals match the goals at Andrews University and start a productive relationship. And really, the relationship is what fundraising is all about."
Of the 201 institutions formally ranked in U.S. News & World Report as top national universities (there are 276 listed overall, but 75 are either unranked or do not have published rankings), Andrews is listed at #181 this year, an improvement over the 2013 rankings.

Andrews is the only Seventh-day Adventist institution included in this classification and U.S. News list.

According to U.S. News, schools in the National Universities category are ranked by the Carnegie Classifications, a category that also includes Columbia University and Stanford University. The ranking indicates that Andrews and other national universities in this category offer a full range of undergraduate majors, plus master's and PhD programs. These universities also are committed to producing groundbreaking research.

Andrews University made a few other U.S. News & World Report college ranking lists. With a diversity index of .74 (the closer a school's number is to 1.0, the more diverse it is), the University is tied second nationally in Campus Ethnic Diversity among national universities, a ranking shared with Stanford University, University of Houston and St. John's University in New York.

With 14 percent of our student body composed of international students, Andrews is once again tied for 9th (with Brandeis University in Massachusetts) in Most International Students.

The physical therapy and social work programs at Andrews made the top 150 of U.S. News' "Best Grad Schools 2014" list. Andrews' graduate programs in counseling psychology and nursing, along with the University's School of Education, were also included in the overall rankings. In the U.S. News' "Best Online Programs 2014" ranking, the University's online MBA and graduate education programs were both listed among the top online programs (ranking #69 and #109 respectively among nearly 150 ranked programs in each area).

Andrews was also listed within other "best of" lists in U.S. News' annual rankings for national universities, including "A+ Colleges for B Students," "Economic Diversity," "Freshman Retention Rates," "Highest Level of Need-Based Aid Awarded" (ranking #58 out of 250 national universities listed), and "Highest 6-Year Graduation Rates."

Forbes.com also ranked Andrews University #543 (an improvement over 2013 rankings) in "America's Top Colleges," a compilation of the 650 best educational institutions (out of more than 6,000) across the country. Forbes gives an overall rating and smaller subcategory ratings; once again, Andrews University also made the lists "Best Private Colleges," "Best Research Universities" and "Best in the Midwest."

Like many universities nationwide this fall, Andrews University has seen a decrease in its 2013–2014 enrollment, with 3,516 undergraduate, graduate and post-doctoral students enrolled on our main campus. This represents an overall decrease of 35 students, or one percent fewer than last year. Even with that decrease, over the past decade, enrollment on the University's Berrien Springs campus has increased by more than 500 students, or 17 percent.

"The trend in our enrollment this fall reflects a national trend in undergraduate higher education, especially with decreases in freshmen student populations across the United States," says Randy Graves, vice president for enrollment management. "We're challenged to continue to find ways to contain our costs, as well as find effective ways to help assure our students graduate in a timely way and, as a result, reduce their overall level of student debt. We're working together as a campus this fall to understand how we can tighten our focus on serving our current students as well as those who will attend Andrews in the future."

Elsewhere on the Berrien Springs campus, the graduate programs enrolled 386 new graduate students this fall, the highest number in five years, and an increase of 29 new students over last fall's enrollment in this category.

Three years ago, Andrews University assumed ownership of Griggs University & Griggs International Academy, previously operated by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

The newly created School of Distance Education oversees the operations of these Griggs programs, and also coordinates affiliate and extension education sites for the University throughout the United States and around the world. Altogether, 3,049 students pursue Andrews University degrees at affiliate or extension sites worldwide (this number includes 994 Griggs University students).
Griggs International Academy teaches 1,562 students worldwide. These include students at both elementary and high school levels doing home schooling or studying full-time at Griggs International Academy sites globally, along with Job Corps, a program that offers high school diplomas and job skill training to at-risk students throughout the United States.

U.S. News & World Report

Forbes
First addressed in the President’s Report was the issue of diversity. The current trend is a reduction in the number of white students at Andrews University, while the number of Asian and Hispanic international students is rising.

The President also reported that in the Midwest half of all private colleges and universities and one third of public colleges and universities did not reach their enrollment and budget expectations this year. Trends are the same across the country but less pronounced. This could possibly be related to the fact that the number of high school and academy graduates in the country is dropping, particularly in the Midwest and east.

Randy Graves, vice president for enrollment management, spoke to the board about initiatives to give the recruitment team an edge in attracting students. One is to reward students for finishing their degree in four years, and another is to give transfer students a similar financial aid option to what freshmen are offered. An important initiative that was completed in November was installing an accurate, up-to-date cost calculator on the Andrews website. The University’s commitment is to get more information out earlier so parents and students can determine their bottom line sooner.

A report from the audit committee included no corrections or complaints from the auditors.

Although tuition during summer sessions in 2013 put budget a couple hundred thousand dollars ahead, fall enrollment patterns put it behind. Andreasen pointed out that the bigger challenge to operations this year is that health benefits are above budget by several hundred thousand dollars.

Enrollment budget for 2015 will be built on 98 percent of the current year. Tuition and fees will increase by three percent, the smallest increase proposed in the last five years, and Church support will increase by two percent at the General Conference level and one percent at the North American Division level.

To achieve the board requirement of increasing operating expenses budget by 3.3 percent, Andrews will reduce expenses by $900,000 across campus next year.

Governance Committee updated their by-laws to reflect changes in procedures.

The Academic Committee shared on two new degrees: a Doctor of Missiology in the seminary focused on missions abroad and a Bachelor of Science degree in music through the College of Arts and Sciences.

Finally, Larry Schalk, vice president for financial administration, shared preliminary designs for the health and wellness center, developed by committees with help from the architecture program at Andrews. Though its proposed interior and exterior designs are preliminary, its location has been determined to be Northwest of the Howard Performing Arts Center and south of PMC.

The second part of the wellness initiative is more mission driven and less to do with the facility, involving things like food service, the exterior campus environment and hiring a wellness advocate.

Current funding for the wellness center totals just over $11 million, and conversations are in progress regarding another $3 million. Additional commitments totaling in the hundreds of thousands were made during the board meeting.

The board also voted the following faculty and staff appointments:

Bruce Ronk Passed Away
Bruce Ronk passed away during the night between Sunday and Monday.
A viewing will occur at Allred’s Funeral Home in Berrien Springs, Thursday evening from 5:00 to 7:00, and a funeral service will be held in the PMC Youth Chapel on Friday (Jan. 17) at 3:00 pm. I have asked Beverly to arrange for flowers to be sent in the department’s name.
The family would like three to five former colleagues/students to read poetry that they will select for the funeral service. Please let me know if you want to be included as one of the readers.

For newer members of the department: Dr. Ronk was a long-time professor in the department; he left the department in 1990 for employment outside of higher education. However, he continued to support our work by establishing The Bruce Ronk Research Award for Department of English faculty.

Adventist Forum presents Dr. Berecz

Adventist Forum presents John Berecz, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist, on Sabbath Afternoon at 3:30 pm, January 25, 2014, in Chan Shun Hall, on the campus of Andrews University in Berrien Springs, MI.

Dr. Berecz is a clinical psychologist with forty years experience as a therapist, university professor, and author. His Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology is from Indiana University, Bloomington. His internship was at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston; a Harvard Medical School teaching hospital. For 27 years he taught psychology at Andrews University, retiring in 2008. His 2009 textbook “Theories of Personality” is now being used in college classrooms across the country. In addition he has published a half dozen other books.

He is the father of three grown sons (a veterinarian, a judge, and a school psychologist) and is married to Deborah Berecz, a Collaborative lawyer.

Dr. Berecz has provided the following overview of his presentation:

"In a recent interview with Time magazine, J K Rowling described story as 'making meaning out of chaos.' 'Angel Bones' is story < my story < about finding meaning in chaos. It's more about 'being found' than finding. It's about how Sara (my moniker for Spirit) found me and infused my personal chaos with meaning. Angel Bones is also about how forgiveness saved my life and rehabilitated my self esteem. In sum: three themes co-mingle in this personal narrative: Spirit, forgiveness, and self-esteem.

Adventist Forum is open to the public. All are welcome. For information, contact Art Robertson at robertsa2@earthlink.net or call 471-7150.

La Leche League Updates

Due to changes in the schedule for the SJ Public Library, we will need to change our meeting time. This may work out better for many of you, since our meetings can be late for little ones.

As of this month, our meetings will be the 2nd Tues of the month from 530p - 730p. Don't feel that you have to stay that entire time - moms can flow in and out as family needs are more important.

The schedule for 2014 will be as follows:

January 14
February 11
March 11
April 8
May 13
June 10
July 8
August 12
September 9
October 14
November 11
December 16

If there is bad weather, and you do not feel safe to drive (or do not wish to bring your little one out) stay home. Babies, toddlers and older children are welcome, as long as they are tended to when they need it (we love kids!) We also welcome the support people in your life (spouse, mother, friends), or anyone interested in the wonderful benefits of breastfeeding.

If there are runny noses, coughs, fever, etc, please do not bring it with you. Especially now, with the flu in full force. We want to make this a healthy and safe environment for everyone.

Moms who need help, or have questions can always email us at berrienlaleche@att.net or call us:

Nedley Depression Recovery Seminar

Nedley Depression Recovery Seminar
Tuesday evenings, January 21 - March 11
Information Session January 12 at 3 pm
Village Church Fireside Room

Wait! Don’t be fooled by the name! Benefits of the seminar include:
Keeping Your Happy Switch Turned On Improving Your IQ and EQ (emotional quotient)
Recovering from Depression and Anxiety.

The brain is the most complex organ in the body, so it stands to reason that there are many contributors to maintaining mental health and to the development of mental health problems.

*Learn how to:
* Understand nutritional secrets to improve mood
* Recognize and correct distorted thoughts
* Manage stress
* Overcome addictions
* Deal with loss
* Treat depression through lifestyle changes
* Improve spiritual health

Dr. Nedley has researched the epidemic of depression sweeping society. He has discovered that one in three patients seeking medical help is plagued by depression. Through his ongoing study of the current scientific research related to diseases of the mind, combined with years of clinical experience, Dr. Nedley committed himself to finding the root causes of depression rather than just anesthetizing the symptoms with medicine. Dr. Neil Nedley is a full time physician who practices acute internal care medicine. . . He is an experienced national and international speaker.

Plan to attend a free information session Sunday, January 12, at 3 pm in the Village Church Fireside Room. Last year, the cost of the seminar was $100 for new participants (cost of kit materials), $125 for new-participant couples (cost of one set of kit materials plus an extra workbook) and $15 for alumni (who already have kit materials). We expect the prices to be about the same this year and will have the finalized prices at the time of the information session.

If you already know that you want to attend and don't want to or can't attend the information session, please RSVP no later than January 13 or 14. This is especially important if you will be a new participant since we have to order materials in time for the 1st session on January 21. RSVP to 471-7795.

Bobby & Michelle- New nest fund
During the early morning hours on January 5, 2014 Bobby and Michelle Murray, both recent alumni of Andrews University, lost their home and car in a fire that engulfed everything that they own. Thankfully, they were not in their home at the time and Molly (their dog) was safely with them too. Unfortunately, they did not yet have insurance on their home and car and could really use our help to get back on their feet.

If you can donate anything at all, please do. Even $5 would help.

Regular Caregiver Needed for Infant

I am a single mother of my infant and I am a young healthcare professional with Borgess. I live in Dowagiac, MI. and I am looking for a caregiver who will come to my residence and sit with my infant and provide care while I work Monday through Friday 8:00 am. to 4:30 pm. This would be ideal for an Early Childhood Education student and / or a student taking evening classes.

My current caregiver is providing care in my home for $100.00 / Wk. I also pay a steady paycheck to the caregiver, regardless if I have to take time off of work for doctors appointments, holidays, etc. My infant is almost a toddler and is exclusively breast fed, so it really makes the job easy. I come home at noon on my lunch break and nurse my daughter.

We are a small Christian family and the ideal candidate would respect our beliefs and wishes, not drink, not smoke, not do any drug of any kind, not have any criminal record, have a true passion for children, does not have a pet allergy as we have an elderly fixed feline, cpr certified preferred, and that is willing to commit to our little family.

Interested and qualified candidates should send their resume with at least 3 professional references to Tanya.Thomas@borgess.com as references will be checked.
