VALIC Rep on Campus Jan. 22

Casey Quinn, our VALIC financial advisor, will be on campus Wednesday, January 22, 2014. Meetings will take place in the 2nd floor conference room of the Administration Building, near the Office of Human Resources.

To sign up for a session, faculty and staff are invited to go to https://my.valic.com/SeminarRegistration/Index.aspx and enter the following code: 2047BER11AA.
Advanced Connections for Student Employees--Tuesday Choices

The Office of Human Resources is excited to provide an opportunity for our student employees to participate in Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices this spring semester, beginning January 28.

Advanced Connections was developed with the intent of improving the quality of service provided to internal and external customers of an educational institution, and Andrews University has been offering this professional development opportunity to its faculty and staff for several years now. We recognize that a significant portion of our workforce on campus is student employees, with many of these students on the "frontlines," providing customer service to many individuals here on campus.

In an effort to improve our culture of service, we are excited to be able to provide this opportunity for student employees to attend Advanced Connections training! Topics to be discussed will include building a service culture, overcoming barriers, effective communication, checking for customer satisfaction, meeting service challenges and more.

Student employees wanting to attend Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices will need to RSVP by emailing training@andrews.edu, and they will need to provide their full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which they work. Please note that in order for them to receive the certification, you will need to attend all 6 sessions being offered during Tuesday Choices. There are only 35 seats available for this training.

New Employee Orientation

The next New Employee Orientation is scheduled for Thursday, February 6, 10:00am-3:00pm. New full-time (or part-time with benefits) employees need to RSVP to training@andrews.edu, and include the employee's name, ID#, email address, and department where they work.

Please feel free to contact Anita González at 269-471-3884 (Training & Development, Office of Human Resources) for further information or details.

AICER Symposium - Dr. Sawyer, Integration of Faith & Learning
AICER presentations for the Spring 2014 will resume on Tuesday, January 14, at 5:30 p.m. in Bell Hall, Room 013, with a presentation entitled, "A Qualitative Study of the Integration of Faith and Learning: The Levels of Integration Model”

Presenter: Dr. Pauline Sawyer, Associate Professor of Psychology at Oakwood College

In this presentation Dr. Sawyer will discuss how professors at a faith-based institution integrate faith and learning? The results from the qualitative grounded theory study involving semi-structured interviews of twenty-eight faculty indicate that faculty integrate faith both in and out of the classroom, in practical as well as theoretical ways that positively impact the students both academically and spiritually. She will propose a model of the levels of integration to summarize the findings, and compare the model with other integration models.

Face-to-face participants meet in Bell Hall 013.
Online participants to login as "Guest" at https://andrews.adobeconnect.com/_a877709416/research/ or http://www.andrews.edu/sed/aicer/researchwebinars/ whether or not they are registered Andrews students.

Congratulations to the Bon Appétit Management Company Terrace Café at Andrews University for receiving their Great Expectation III (GE III) certification for the first time. The Bon Appétit staff has worked persistently to contribute to the unique dining experience of every guest in order to achieve this accomplishment.

The certification requires a rigorous inspection of specific details of Andrews’ operations including product sourcing, cleanliness, service standards, décor and food presentation. The GE III document breaks down these traits into specific measures that are applied station-by-station and program-by-program.

"GE III certification is the honor given to those accounts that completely adhere to the many operating standards of Bon Appétit," says J. Mark Daniels, general manager and director of Bon Appétit. "It is a stringent process and the standards are high. There are only a small percentage of accounts nationwide that have earned this coveted certification."

Carrie Buckley, director of merchandising at Bon Appétit, was impressed by aspects of the cafeteria’s operation including the restaurant-quality breakfast with a made-to-order omelet station, the diverse vegan and vegetarian-only menu, the exceptional salad bar, the perfect sanitation and the organizational and descriptive signage. The Thai pesto was such a favorite among the reviewers that they even asked for the recipe.

The GE III certificate was created by Michael Bauccio, chief operating officer of Bon Appétit, to provide each unit with a standardized set of standards and operating procedures. These include alignment with the philosophy of cooking and purchasing that make Bon Appétit unique in the marketplace, creating the look and feel of an attractive and professional café, enhancing the experience of the guests, providing for guests with special dietary needs by clearly labeling food, enlightening guests to healthy food options and ethical food usage, creating a safe environment for everyone and, of course, guest and client satisfaction.

"In many ways this is the culmination of the efforts of myself, HR and the management team to build a strong group of individuals who are committed to excellence," says Daniels. "It took a few years to make the changes, but the effort has been worthwhile and we are now ready to explore new and exciting ways to serve our guests and grow our market share in the community."

Audrey Castelbouno, associate vice president for development, and T. Ryan Keough, senior development officer at Andrews University, received the prestigious credential of Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) from CFRE International in fall 2013.

Founded in 2001, CFRE International is a nonprofit organization that provides a reliable certification process for fundraising professionals. This program is the only professional certification for fundraisers and is known for being a difficult test that the majority of applicants fail multiple times before passing. Both Keough and Castelbouno, however, passed on the first go.

"With two certified fundraisers on this campus, it is a confirmation that we have a solid program in place at Andrews," says Keough. "CFRE is an ethical fundraising program. When you are working with people and their finances, ethics must be held to the highest standard. We want Andrews donors to know they can trust us to do exactly what we say we are going to do with their donations. The ethics of fundraising are probably not as well known outside the fundraising world, but we're trying to change that."

Starting at Andrews in 2008, both Keough and Castelbouno were required to gain five years of experience before taking the exam, meaning the earliest they could attempt the certification exam was in 2013. Applicants must also complete a required amount of academic and professional performance and volunteer service experience to qualify. Test-takers are expected to have a thorough knowledge of a variety of fundraising techniques and practices.

"I never thought God's plan for me was in fundraising," says Keough, "but I find that there are correlations between fundraising and my prior experience in the automotive industry as a quality control engineer: I can figure out where a donor's goals match the goals at Andrews University and start a productive relationship. And really, the relationship is what fundraising is all about."
Of the 201 institutions formally ranked in U.S. News & World Report as top national universities (there are 276 listed overall, but 75 are either unranked or do not have published rankings), Andrews is listed at #181 this year, an improvement over the 2013 rankings. Andrews is the only Seventh-day Adventist institution included in this classification and U.S. News list.

According to U.S. News, schools in the National Universities category are ranked by the Carnegie Classifications, a category that also includes Columbia University and Stanford University. The ranking indicates that Andrews and other national universities in this category offer a full range of undergraduate majors, plus master's and PhD programs. These universities also are committed to producing groundbreaking research.

Andrews University made a few other U.S. News & World Report college ranking lists. With a diversity index of .74 (the closer a school's number is to 1.0, the more diverse it is), the University is tied second nationally in Campus Ethnic Diversity among national universities, a ranking shared with Stanford University, University of Houston and St. John's University in New York.

With 14 percent of our student body composed of international students, Andrews is once again tied for 9th (with Brandeis University in Massachusetts) in Most International Students.

The physical therapy and social work programs at Andrews made the top 150 of U.S. News' "Best Grad Schools 2014" list. Andrews' graduate programs in counseling psychology and nursing, along with the University's School of Education, were also included in the overall rankings. In the U.S. News' "Best Online Programs 2014" ranking, the University's online MBA and graduate education programs were both listed among the top online programs (ranking #69 and #109 respectively among nearly 150 ranked programs in each area).

Andrews was also listed within other "best of" lists in U.S. News' annual rankings for national universities, including "A+ Colleges for B Students," "Economic Diversity," "Freshman Retention Rates," "Highest Level of Need-Based Aid Awarded" (ranking #58 out of 250 national universities listed), and "Highest 6-Year Graduation Rates."

Forbes.com also ranked Andrews University #543 (an improvement over 2013 rankings) in "America's Top Colleges," a compilation of the 650 best educational institutions (out of more than 6,000) across the country. Forbes gives an overall rating and smaller subcategory ratings; once again, Andrews University also made the lists "Best Private Colleges," "Best Research Universities" and "Best in the Midwest."

Like many universities nationwide this fall, Andrews University has seen a decrease in its 2013–2014 enrollment, with 3,516 undergraduate, graduate and post-doctoral students enrolled on our main campus. This represents an overall decrease of 35 students, or one percent fewer than last year. Even with that decrease, over the past decade, enrollment on the University’s Berrien Springs campus has increased by more than 500 students, or 17 percent.

"The trend in our enrollment this fall reflects a national trend in undergraduate higher education, especially with decreases in freshmen student populations across the United States," says Randy Graves, vice president for enrollment management. "We’re challenged to continue to find ways to contain our costs, as well as find effective ways to help assure our students graduate in a timely way and, as a result, reduce their overall level of student debt. We’re working together as a campus this fall to understand how we can tighten our focus on serving our current students as well as those who will attend Andrews in the future."

Elsewhere on the Berrien Springs campus, the graduate programs enrolled 386 new graduate students this fall, the highest number in five years, and an increase of 29 new students over last fall’s enrollment in this category.

Three years ago, Andrews University assumed ownership of Griggs University & Griggs International Academy, previously operated by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

The newly created School of Distance Education oversees the operations of these Griggs programs, and also coordinates affiliate and extension education sites for the University throughout the United States and around the world. Altogether, 3,049 students pursue Andrews University degrees at affiliate or extension sites worldwide (this number includes 994 Griggs University students).
Griggs International Academy teaches 1,562 students worldwide. These include students at both elementary and high school levels doing home schooling or studying full-time at Griggs International Academy sites globally, along with Job Corps, a program that offers high school diplomas and job skill training to at-risk students throughout the United States.

U.S. News & World Report
Forbes
The first item addressed in the President’s report was the issue of diversity. The current trend is a reduction in the number of white students at Andrews University, while the number of Asian and Hispanic international students is rising.

The President also reported that in the Midwest half of all private colleges and universities and one third of public colleges and universities did not reach their enrollment and budget expectations this year. Trends are the same across the country but less pronounced. This could possibly be related to the fact that the number of high school and academy graduates in the country is dropping, particularly in the Midwest and East.

Randy Graves, vice president for enrollment management, spoke to the board about initiatives to give the recruitment team an edge in attracting students. One is to reward students for finishing their degree in four years, and another is to give transfer students a similar financial aid option to what freshmen are offered. An important initiative that was completed in November was installing an accurate, up-to-date cost calculator on the Andrews website. The University’s commitment is to get more information out earlier so parents and students can determine their bottom line sooner.

A report from the audit committee included no corrections or complaints from the auditors.

Although tuition during summer sessions in 2013 put budget a couple hundred thousand dollars ahead, fall enrollment patterns put it behind. Andreasen pointed out that the bigger challenge to operations this year is that health benefits are above budget by several hundred thousand dollars. The enrollment budget for 2015 will be built on 98 percent of the current year. Tuition and fees will increase by three percent, the smallest increase proposed in the last five years, and Church support will increase by two percent at the General Conference level and one percent at the North American Division level. To achieve the board requirement of increasing operating expenses budget by 3.3 percent, Andrews will reduce expenses by $900,000 across campus next year.

The Governance Committee updated their bylaws to reflect changes in procedures.

The Academic Committee shared information on two new degrees: a Doctor of Missiology in the seminary focused on missions abroad and a Bachelor of Science in music through the College of Arts & Sciences.

Finally, Larry Schalk, vice president for financial administration, shared preliminary designs for the health and wellness center, developed by committees with help from the architecture program at Andrews. Though its proposed interior and exterior designs are preliminary, its location has been determined to be northwest of the Howard Performing Arts Center and south of PMC.

The second part of the wellness initiative is more mission driven and less to do with the facility, involving things like food service, the exterior campus environment and hiring a wellness advocate.

Current funding for the wellness center totals just over $11 million, and conversations are in progress regarding another $3 million. Additional commitments totaling in the hundreds of thousands were made during the board meeting.

The board also voted the following faculty and staff appointments:

Alumnus Stops to Help

Local ER doctor and Andrews University alumnus Jason Hamel was noted in the Journal Era for stopping on his way to work to assist a handicapped woman who had fallen in the snow and could not get up. See the attached file for the full story and a letter of thanks from a grateful citizen.

Thank You from the Paynes

On behalf of my daughter, Sheri, and her family, I would like to thank my campus community for the outpouring of caring and concern and especially the prayers for my grandson, Ewan, as he underwent chemo for a massive abdominal lymphoma. I am happy to report that he completed all five rounds of chemo in three months (half the time they initially indicated) and was discharged from BC Children’s Hospital on December 23, cancer-free and just in time for Christmas. God’s fingerprints could be found all throughout this very difficult but amazing journey. I am particularly thankful for His grace and mercy and of course, your prayers. Ewan turned three years old two weeks ago and is eating well and driving his two older sisters crazy, so all is well in his house!

Resident who fell at mailbox thanks local doctor for helping her

Dear Elizabeth,

On January 2 when it was cold and snowing, I drove my car out to my mailbox which is on Me-139 about 10 p.m. I am handicapped, I was going from my car to my mailbox when I slipped and fell. Cars were going by—although there was not a lot of traffic. I was wondering how I was going to get up; I did manage to pull myself up to my feet. But I was hurting myself and needed help. I only had my night clothes on and shoes. I was freezing and could feel my fingers turning. A SUV went by and turned around and came back. The driver introduced himself as Dr. Jason Humel, an emergency room doctor, and asked me if I needed help. He was on his way to work at the time. He picked me up and drove me to the garage, helped me into the house. He told me to get my wet clothes off right away. As it was the next day I had huge blisters from the cold on one of my hands—if I had been out there any longer I would have had frost bite. I want to thank him; others went by and did not stop to help. I want to thank the local doctors for taking time to help a local resident.

A Different Perspective
Some Thoughts on Income Inequality

In an attempt to get the eyes of the public off of the fiscal crisis surrounding his introduction of the Affordable Care Act, otherwise known as Obamacare, the President has introduced a new legislative agenda for the coming year. One of his major initiatives in dealing with income concerns within the American population. There is a growing disparity between those who social scientists would consider to be, "within the working class," and those at the upper end of the economic scale. America has been described as a nation of middle-class people. These are the people who work in the economy through their demand for consumer goods. However, in recent years the middle-class has been shrinking rapidly. Historically, the Democratic party has been champions of working class middle-class income people. (Please note: I use the term middle class and working class interchangeably.) Republicans by contrast have been a discussion of the issue as being "class warfare." There are a number of reasons for the decline of the middle-class. Among these most prominently mentioned is competition from low-wage work in other countries which has some say in the increasing globalization of the world economy. Another factor in the rapid reduction of middle-class workers. For example, when I was a college student there were no loans or grants from the government. Eventually, I ran out of money and had to drop out of school and go to work in a factory as a welder. I had no particular skills for factory work and was given those three days to learn how to operate the different types of welders at my work station. I was paid $3.00 an hour which was 2% times the minimum wage. In today's numbers, with the minimum wage being $7.25 that would be an equivalent of a little over $1.00 an hour. I doubt that there are very many individuals in which pay that low of a wage today. Thus, while 40 years ago it was possible with minimal skills to earn a middle-class income it isn’t true today.

So, how should the federal government relate to this situation? Democrats have suggested various forms of governmental intervention while the Republicans have suggested that it should be done by state and local government. In terms of this is what our voice needs to be heard in the discussion of this issue. The Republicans will not do anything to increase the minimum wage or additional minimum benefits. They view all lower income people and those living in poverty as basically lazy and in need of some minimalism. If they want to improve their life in the way they want to get out of welfare and into the workforce.

The Republican's primary response so far is to suggest that low income workers should get the additional training needed to obtain higher paying jobs. They strongly resist what they refer to as the redistribution of wealth in America. They view with alarm any attempt by the federal government to assist low-income or impoverished people with welfare type benefits. From my perspective, they are at least partly right, helping people on steps to help them become self-sufficient. On the other side, there are those who believe the public needs to have the public policy that would provide for the needs of those in need.

Letters to the EDITOR...

Reader thanks community for helping him grow in the right direction

Dear Editor,

I have been a Maryland resident for the past 33 years; but I grew up in Berrien Springs. My parents were farmers, and through the years I've made many trips to visit them. During one of these trips I reflected on the gift of growing up in this small southwestern Michigan village. The Schools helped me lead one day, the Results helped to keep me warm. People such as Mrs. Prouty, Ruth Kaines, and Ethel Weeks helped to advance me, or at least they gave me in their best efforts—I wasn’t exactly a model student. Dr. Long and Dr. Bixler helped me in a way that was very personal and very engaging.

Today this less community’s biggest help is, even beyond the general help is, we are the beneficiaries of a community. A community that helped me to grow in the right direction.

Reliable Used Vehicle
Initially purchased this car 02/2005 with only 3600 miles on it. I have always kept up with the maintenance of this vehicle. I flushed the transmission fluid in 2010. Tune-up was done in 2012. This is a very reliable vehicle. The drivers seat is worn down on the side (3’ x 2’), the headliner needs to be replaced and the radiator fluid needs to be flushed. I am willing to negotiate with the price keeping in mind the things that need to be repaired and maintained. I am only selling it because I have purchased another vehicle.

Regular Caregiver Needed for Infant
I am a single mother of my infant and I am a young healthcare professional with Borgess. I live in Dowagiac, MI. and I am looking for a caregiver who will come to my residence and sit with my infant and provide care while I work Monday through Friday 8:00 am. to 4:30 pm. This would be ideal for an Early Childhood Education student and/or a student taking evening classes.

My current caregiver is providing care in my home for $100.00 / Wk. I also pay a steady paycheck to the caregiver, regardless if I have to take time off of work for doctors appointments, holidays, etc. My infant is almost a toddler and is exclusively breast fed, so it really makes the job easy. I come home at noon on my lunch break and nurse my daughter.

We are a small Christian family and the ideal candidate would respect our beliefs and wishes, not drink, not smoke, not do any drug of any kind, not have any criminal record, have a true passion for children, does not have a pet allergy as we have an elderly fixed feline, cpr certified preferred, and that is willing to commit to our little family.

Interested and qualified candidates should send their resume with at least 3 professional references to Tanya.Thomas@borgess.com as references will be checked.
