Journal of Adventist Education Open House

On January 28th from 1:00 – 2:00 we are having a celebratory get together in Buller Student Lounge. In the latest issue of Journal of Adventist Education the focus was on substance abuse, and many Andrews students and faculty contributed articles that were published in the issue. We are having a “open house” of sorts to handout a copy to the authors and give administration and authors a chance to recognize the accomplishment. Light refreshments will be served at the event.

AU’s Got Talent: Hollywood Red Carpet

AU’s Got Talent is this Saturday, January 25 at 7:00pm in the Howard Performing Arts Center! The theme this year is Hollywood Red Carpet! Come dressed to impress and you will receive priority seating. The talent this year is amazing so you will definitely want to be there. See you this Saturday night on the red carpet.
Berrien Springs Camera Club Meeting

The Berrien Springs Camera Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 5, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library at Cass (Old 31) and Union. This month's program consists of a competition of prints and digital images submitted by members. The selected topics for the month include: 1) Patterns and 2) Shadows. Three additional categories are appropriate for all of our competitions: 1) Nature (nothing domesticated, nothing of a human origin), 2) Portraits, and 3) Open (any other subject).

Photographers and other artists like to find patterns in what they observe. These might be the parallel veins of a leaf, or boats lined up neatly at a marina, or the center of a sunflower. Many options are possible, and it is fun to see what patterns others find in everyday things. Shadows also can bring out creativity—how a subject is positioned in relation to the sun, maybe a whole picture of just an elongated shadow. Prints, at least 5” x 7” in size, should be mounted, with the title and photographer’s name on the back. Instructions for submitting images in digital form are available on the club’s Website: http://photoclub.berrienspringsmi.us/

All are welcome, either to observe or to join. Anyone who wishes to join may submit photos to the competition, up to 10 projected images and/or 10 prints. Refreshments will be served.

Spring GROW Group

Did we receive your registration yet for the Spring GROW Group of your choice? Were you considering Racquetball? I’m soo sorry, it’s filled. There are others that are so close to full too that if you don’t hurry, you will miss out. The topics are terrific, and wait until you meet your leaders. They are even better! So once again, I’d invite you to prayerfully consider your schedule, your preferences, and say, which one do you think God has in place, just especially for you? Go on-line to pmchurch.org/newgrowgroup and make your selection. I’ll be looking for your name!

VALIC Rep on Campus Jan. 22

Casey Quinn, our VALIC financial advisor, will be on campus Wednesday, January 22, 2014. Meetings will take place in the 2nd floor conference room of the Administration Building, near the Office of Human Resources.

To sign up for a session, faculty and staff are invited to go to https://my.valic.com/SeminarRegistration/Index.aspx and enter the following code: 2047BER11AA.
Advanced Connections for Student Employees--Tuesday Choices

The Office of Human Resources is excited to provide an opportunity for our student employees to participate in Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices this spring semester, beginning January 28.

Advanced Connections was developed with the intent of improving the quality of service provided to internal and external customers of an educational institution, and Andrews University has been offering this professional development opportunity to its faculty and staff for several years now. We recognize that a significant portion of our workforce on campus is student employees, with many of these students on the "frontlines," providing customer service to many individuals here on campus.

In an effort to improve our culture of service, we are excited to be able to provide this opportunity for student employees to attend Advanced Connections training! Topics to be discussed will include building a service culture, overcoming barriers, effective communication, checking for customer satisfaction, meeting service challenges and more.

Student employees wanting to attend Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices will need to RSVP by emailing training@andrews.edu, and they will need to provide their full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which they work. Please note that in order for them to receive the certification, you will need to attend all 6 sessions being offered during Tuesday Choices. There are only 35 seats available for this training.

Ameriprise Financial Seminar

The rising cost of health care. What does it mean for you?

Ameriprise Financial invites you to join us for a special seminar, on Wednesday, January 29, from 12:00-1:00 in room 306 of the Administration Building. This seminar will be hosted and presented by Kim D Wooden, CPA, MBA.

During this complimentary seminar, you'll learn about:
- Health care realities you could face after retirement.
- Costs that may or may not be covered by Medicare.
- Personal health care bills and long-term care expenses.

Please plan to attend the following seminar. This is an informational seminar. There is no cost or obligation.

Computer Literacy Training: Module 2

This semester, the School of Business Administration, in collaboration with the Office of Human Resources, is providing an opportunity for staff and faculty to participate in the next phase of the Computer Literacy Training, Module 2: Practical Approach to Productive Software Skills Technology (PowerPoint, OneNote, and Publisher).

Module 2 will be offered during the Spring semester, on Wednesdays, from 10:30am-12:20pm, in Chan Shun Hall 226 (PC Lab), beginning on January 22, 2014, and ending on February 26, 2014. Dates and specific topics are listed below:
- PowerPoint—Introduction to Presentation Software (1/22/2014)
- PowerPoint—Advanced Techniques (1/29/2014)
- OneNote—Basic Use and Application (2/5/2014)
- OneNote—Sharing and Formatting (2/12/2014)
- Publisher—Introduction to Publisher (2/19/2014)
- Publisher—Publishing your files (2/26/2014)

RSVP at training@andrews.edu and specify whether you would like to attend the entire Module 2 training listed above, or if you are interested in going through the training on PowerPoint (2 sessions), OneNote (2 sessions) or Publisher (2 sessions). When sending an RSVP, we will need your full name, ID#, email address, and the department you work in. Seats are limited to 25.

Module 3 (Basic Analytical Software Applications: Excel and Access) will be offered later in the spring; more information will come at a later date.

If you have any questions you can reach Anita González (Training and Development Coordinator) at ex. 3884

Faith Esham & Chi Yong Yun

Faith Esham & Chi Yong Yun
Howard Performing Arts Center
January 18, 2014 7:00 pm

Nationally famous lyric soprano Faith Esham has performed in leading opera houses of the United States as well as Europe. She received a GRAMMY Award as principal soloist and best opera recording in 1984. Known for both her musicality and ability to express poignant emotion, Esham brings theatricality to the classical stage. Most recently, Esham was the recipient of an honorary Doctor of Fine Arts at the May commencement service at Andrews University. The recipient of both the Walter W. Naumberg Award and the Concours International de Chant de Paris, Esham is currently an adjunct professor of voice at Westminster Choir College of Rider University. She will perform selections that include pieces by Hugo Wolf and Henri Duparc.

Journal of Adventist Education Open House
On January 28th from 1:00 – 2:00 we are having a celebratory get together in Buller Student Lounge. In the latest issue of Journal of Adventist Education the focus was on substance abuse, and many Andrews students and faculty contributed articles that were published in the issue. We are having a “open house” of sorts to handout a copy to the authors and give administration and authors a chance to recognize the accomplishment. Light refreshments will be served at the event.

Berrien Springs Camera Club Meeting

The Berrien Springs Camera Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 5, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library at Cass (Old 31) and Union. This month's program consists of a competition of prints and digital images submitted by members. The selected topics for the month include: 1) Patterns and 2) Shadows. Three additional categories are appropriate for all of our competitions: 1) Nature (nothing domesticated, nothing of a human origin), 2) Portraits, and 3) Open (any other subject).

Photographers and other artists like to find patterns in what they observe. These might be the parallel veins of a leaf, or boats lined up neatly at a marina, or the center of a sunflower. Many options are possible, and it is fun to see what patterns others find in everyday things. Shadows also can bring out creativity—how a subject is positioned in relation to the sun, maybe a whole picture of just an elongated shadow.

Prints, at least 5” x 7” in size, should be mounted, with the title and photographer's name on the back. Instructions for submitting images in digital form are available on the club's Website: http://photoclub.berrienspringsmi.us/

All are welcome, either to observe or to join. Anyone who wishes to join may submit photos to the competition, up to 10 projected images and/or 10 prints. Refreshments will be served.

To sign up for a session, faculty and staff are invited to go to https://my.valic.com/SeminarRegistration/Index.aspx and enter the following code: 2047BER11AA.
Advanced Connections for Student Employees--Tuesday Choices

The Office of Human Resources is excited to provide an opportunity for our student employees to participate in Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices this spring semester, beginning January 28.

Advanced Connections was developed with the intent of improving the quality of service provided to internal and external customers of an educational institution, and Andrews University has been offering this professional development opportunity to its faculty and staff for several years now. We recognize that a significant portion of our workforce on campus is student employees, with many of these students on the "frontlines," providing customer service to many individuals here on campus.

In an effort to improve our culture of service, we are excited to be able to provide this opportunity for student employees to attend Advanced Connections training! Topics to be discussed will include building a service culture, overcoming barriers, effective communication, checking for customer satisfaction, meeting service challenges and more.

Student employees wanting to attend Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices will need to RSVP by emailing training@andrews.edu, and they will need to provide their full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which they work. Please note that in order for them to receive the certification, you will need to attend all 6 sessions being offered during Tuesday Choices. There are only 35 seats available for this training.

New Employee Orientation

The next New Employee Orientation is scheduled for Thursday, February 6, 10:00am-3:00pm. New full-time (or part-time with benefits) employees need to RSVP to training@andrews.edu, and include the employee's name, ID#, email address, and department where they work.

Please feel free to contact Anita González at 269-471-3884 (Training & Development, Office of Human Resources) for further information or details.

Ameriprise Financial Seminar

The rising cost of health care. What does it mean for you?

Ameriprise Financial invites you to join us for a special seminar, on Wednesday, January 29, from 12:00-1:00 in room 306 of the Administration Building. This seminar will be hosted and presented by Kim D Wooden, CPA, MBA.

During this complimentary seminar, you'll learn about:
- Health care realities you could face after retirement.
- Costs that may or may not be covered by Medicare.
- Personal health care bills and long-term care expenses.

Please plan to attend the following seminar. This is an informational seminar. There is no cost or obligation.

This semester, the School of Business Administration, in collaboration with the Office of Human Resources, is providing an opportunity for staff and faculty to participate in the next phase of the Computer Literacy Training, Module 2: Practical Approach to Productive Software Skills Technology (PowerPoint, OneNote, and Publisher).

Module 2 will be offered during the Spring semester, on Wednesdays, from 10:30am-12:20pm, in Chan Shun Hall 226 (PC Lab), beginning on January 22, 2014, and ending on February 26, 2014. Dates and specific topics are listed below:
- PowerPoint—Introduction to Presentation Software (1/22/2014)
- PowerPoint—Advanced Techniques (1/29/2014)
- OneNote—Basic Use and Application (2/5/2014)
- OneNote—Sharing and Formatting (2/12/2014)
- Publisher—Introduction to Publisher (2/19/2014)
- Publisher—Publishing your files (2/26/2014)

RSVP at training@andrews.edu and specify whether you would like to attend the entire Module 2 training listed above, or if you are interested in going through the training on PowerPoint (2 sessions), OneNote (2 sessions) or Publisher (2 sessions). When sending an RSVP, we will need your full name, ID#, email address, and the department you work in. Seats are limited to 25.

Module 3 (Basic Analytical Software Applications: Excel and Access) will be offered later in the spring; more information will come at a later date.

If you have any questions you can reach Anita González (Training and Development Coordinator) at ex. 3884 or at training@andrews.edu.

MLK Events 2014
Andrews University invites the community to their annual celebration in honor of Martin Luther King Jr., taking place January 14–20. Events include a presentation by Majora Carter, an internationally renowned urban revitalization strategy consultant, real estate developer and Peabody Award winning broadcaster.

Dining Services Earns Distinction
Congratulations to the Bon Appetit Management Company Terrace Café at Andrews University for receiving their Great Expectation III (GE III) certification this week for the first time. The Bon Appetit staff has worked persistently to contribute to the unique dining experience of every guest in order to achieve this accomplishment.

Advancement Staff Earn Certification
Audrey Castelbou, associate vice president for development, and T. Ryan Keough, senior development officer at Andrews University, received the prestigious credential of Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) from CFRE International this fall.

Census Day 2013
Of the 201 institutions formally ranked in U.S. News & World Report as top national universities (there are 276 listed overall, but 75 are either unranked or do not have published rankings), Andrews is listed at #181 this year, an improvement over the 2013 rankings. Andrews is the only Seventh-day Adventist institution included in this classification and U.S. News list.

Fall Board Report 2013
First addressed in the President’s Report was the issue of diversity. The current trend is a reduction in the number of white students at Andrews University, while the number of Asian and Hispanic international students is rising.

Andrews Among Campuses Seeking to Be More Sustainable
During a chilly November weekend, 45 student leaders from eight colleges and universities gathered for a sustainability summit at Goshen College's Merry Lea Environmental Learning Center.

The goal of the sustainability summit was to bring students from area institutions together to learn, network and brainstorm ways to make their home campuses more sustainable. This year's focus was on food.

Social engineer
Prof teaches computer skills to help rebuild Benton Harbor

BENTON HARBOR—George Agoki has a dream that technology can be used to help people, to re-build communities and heal the world.

Agoki, 63, is a native of Kenya and chairman of the engineering and computer science department at Andrews University. He learned the practical applications of machines while studying at a missionary boarding school in Uganda. He was taught how to repair lawn mowers and ran the water pump for the farm, before working with rudimentary computers that used punch cards and took up entire rooms.

The philosophy of the school was “Teach the head, the heart and the hand,” Agoki said.

Since September, he has been passing along that belief to participants in a computer literacy class at the Benton Harbor Housing Commission, volunteering four days a week. He plans to recruit students from Andrews to assist him.

Agoki has volunteered four days a week since September, and also visits men at the Berrien County jail.

Agoki has taken part in numerous community service projects in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, often recruiting young people to pitch in. Since 2005 he has participated in a ministry that visits men at the Berrien County jail (he prefers to call them “residents,” rather than inmates).

Agoki is the son of a pastor and holds a master’s degree and a Ph.D. from the University of Nairobi, where he previously taught. He is a resident of Berrien Springs and has taught at Andrews since 2001. He and his wife, Elizabeth, have four children.

He spoke with Herald-Palladium Staff Writer John Matuszak about his work and his vision for transforming lives through technology.

What kind of computer skills did your students have at the beginning?

We were starting on a very basic level. They can’t handle a computer. “Do you have an email address?” “No. What is email?” So this is an introduction to computer tools, to help them in everyday living. We show them how to use the keyboard. Showing them how to search on the Internet about anything you want. A couple of them are applying for jobs on the Internet. This is great.

Now that they have gained basic skills, what kind of projects are they involved in?
People are so insulated. They have lived in Benton Harbor all of their lives. They have not had much exposure to how people in other parts of the world live. So I ask “Would you like to have a trip to Africa? Would you like to go on a safari? Where would you like to go? Can you plan a trip? Do you need a passport? How can you do that on the Internet?” They get excited. This way they begin to see the need for computer literacy. It's not just learning the computer for the sake of learning the computer. It's a tool.

How do your students react when they begin to master these skills?

They go from searching the alphabet on the keyboard, spelling out the words, to composing sentences. They realize “Hey, this is do-able. Those baby steps, something we thought was so hard, now we're doing it.” You can see their faces lighting up, “This is useful. We can do it.” Now it comes naturally, and they're asking what is the usefulness of this. ... We are working on something now, as a team, answering the question “Can anything good come out of Benton Harbor?” through poetry. It’s all painted a bleak picture, that’s where you start. Then farther down, you can see something good about it. This is helping them beyond just computer literacy to something they can use. I do feel that they need to tell their own story.

What was your motivation for getting involved with the jail ministry?

I was reading Scripture, Matthew 25, about the end of time, Judgment Day, when Christ separates people into two groups, the sheep and the goats. And he says to the sheep on his right “You saw me hungry and you fed me. You found me naked, and you clothed me. I was sick, and you came to see me. I was in prison, and you came to see me.” Well, my wife was a nurse, so we were able to see a lot of sick people. I ticked than one off. Food—I’ve given food. Clothing—we’ve given that. What about this prison thing? I don’t want Christ to tell me on Judgment Day, ‘I was in prison and you didn't come to see me!'”

What has that experience been like?

I found all kinds of people there. Hispanics, whites, black. I ask “What brings you here?” “Well, I didn't pay my child support,” “I was caught at this and that.” “How many times have you been here?” “Maybe this is my second time.” So we have repeat offenders.

My interest is, when you get out of here, where do you go? Do you have a job? They can’t find a job, they don’t have a driver’s license, their record is not clean. So it’s really a complex cycle of problems. And I’m trying to find a way to help these people. Some need training, some just need support. ... I was told in training “Don't proselytize, don't try to convert them. Share Jesus with them—period.” (Laughs). Fair enough. But I wasn’t quite satisfied. I’m sharing Jesus, but this guy wants a job, this guy wants to reform, this guy wants to be rehabilitated. I asked, “Couldn't we mount a more integrated program?” (The minister) didn’t seem to get my point, at all, so when this call came last summer (to head the computer literacy program) I said I’m going to grab this.

You have a background in urban planning. How does this connect with your interest in renewal for Benton Harbor?

Part of my engagement here is defining the problem, so I can understand the problem. (And) the students can also help me provide solutions. Engineers don’t ask the users what the problem is. Yet the people who are having the problem perhaps could help us define the problem and give us a peak into the solution. So that's why I’m here. ... Someone needs to hold hands with these people and help them. Who knows? If Benton Harbor succeeds, it could be a model to provide solutions around the globe. We must forget about thinking insular. We must think globally.

And technology can help with that.

Exactly.

Death of Leona Running
Leona (Glidden) Running, died Wednesday afternoon, January 22, 2014, at the age of 97. She was living at Jenny’s Place in Berrien Springs, Mich. Dr. Running, a pioneer scholar who was the first woman professor at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, taught biblical languages at the seminary for 46 years. Jiri Moskala, dean of the seminary, shared these thoughts:

"I am saddened to announce the passing of Dr. Leona Running early this afternoon at the age of 97. She was a dedicated and talented Seminary professor of Biblical Languages from 1955 until her retirement in 1981; but even after "retiring," she continued to teach various language classes for the Old Testament Department. Until a few months ago, she was still editing doctoral dissertations! Dr. Running holds a special place in the hearts of her Old Testament and Seminary colleagues and former students, who greatly appreciated her mentoring during their Seminary years. She was the first woman-professor at the SDA Theological Seminary and was indeed a woman of remarkable skills and influence. Among her publications the most notable is William Foxwell Albright: A Twentieth-Century Genius, published by Morgan Press in 1975, a 436-page biography on the "Dean of Biblical Archaeologists." She continued to publish in various professional journals, as well as Adventist Church publications. We praise the Lord for her life and faithful ministry!"

Funeral details will be announced as soon as they become available. Please remember her extended family and friends as they grieve.

Thank You from the Paynes
On behalf of my daughter, Sheri, and her family, I would like to thank my campus community for the outpouring of caring and concern and especially the prayers for my grandson, Ewan, as he underwent chemo for a massive abdominal lymphoma. I am happy to report that he completed all five rounds of chemo in three months (half the time they initially indicated) and was discharged from BC Children's Hospital on December 23, cancer-free and just in time for Christmas. God’s fingerprints could be found all throughout this very difficult but amazing journey. I am particularly thankful for His grace and mercy and of course, your prayers. Ewan turned three years old two weeks ago and is eating well and driving his two older sisters crazy, so all is well in his house!

Bruce Ronk Passed Away

Bruce Ronk, 77, died Monday, January 13, 2014, at Hanson Hospice Center in Stevensville, Mich. Dr. Ronk was a long-time professor in the Department of English and continued to support their work by establishing The Bruce Ronk Research Award for Department of English faculty.

A viewing will occur at Allred's Funeral Home in Berrien Springs on Thursday, Jan. 16, from 5–7 p.m. His funeral service will be held in the PMC Youth Chapel on Friday, Jan. 17, at 3 p.m.

Please remember his family and colleagues in your thoughts and prayers.

Ella Oetman Passes Away

Ella Louise Oetman, the mother of Shirley Lehmann, assistant preschool teacher at The Crayon Box, passed away Saturday, January 11. Read her obituary here. Visitation will take place at Pioneer Memorial Church on Friday, Jan. 17, at 10 a.m., followed by the funeral service at 11 a.m.
Ray Shreve Witzel, 94, passed away Monday, January 13, 2014, at his home in Berrien Springs. Ray was born July 23, 1919, in Viola, Wisconsin, the son of Charles Walter and Susan Edith Witzel. He spent his early years on a dairy farm, and then attended four years at Bethel Adventist Academy, forerunner of Wisconsin Academy in Bethel, Wisconsin. He married Rose Anna Bromley on August 1, 1942. A World War II veteran, Ray worked 30 years in the V. A. Hospital in Tomah, Wisconsin. He was a Seventh-day Adventist his whole life, serving his church in various capacities, including church custodian in Ukiah, California, and sorting donations at Neighbor to Neighbor in Berrien Springs. Ray especially loved camp meetings. While living in Michigan, he would travel back to Wisconsin each summer for Wisconsin Camp Meeting. Ray was inventive and creative, and his woodworking hobby was his pride and joy. He lived in four homes that he built, two of them with the assistance of his son and some of his grandsons. He was always in his shop creating—clocks, wall hangings, baskets, picture frames, stage coaches, Santa and his reindeer, and much more. Ray loved to travel, taking road trips to all the 48 lower states, Alberta, Ontario, and cruises to Alaska and the Panama Canal. He was preceded in death by his wife, Rose; his parents, Charles and Susan Witzel; his brothers—Clifford, Albert, and Harley Witzel; his sisters, Bernice Smith and Goldie VanDeWarker; his son-in-law, Jon Lim; and his granddaughter, Sharon Thompson. Ray is survived by his children—Judy Lim, Geraldine (Bruce) Buttler, Tom (Carletta) Witzel, Nancy McCall; grandchildren—Julianne Lim, Janine (Dan) Show, James (Janine) Lim, Jason (Tonya) Lim, Tim (Colleen) Buttler, David (Hyen-Kyung) Buttler, Michelle Witzel (Anthony Schaller), Kristen Witzel, Michael (Diane) Witzel, and Mary (Tom) George; great-grandchildren—Tyson, Shaelynn, Lacey, Alex, Emily, and Dawn; and great-great-grandchild, Illyana. A Memorial Service will be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, January 19, in the Castelbuono Youth Chapel of Pioneer Memorial Church on the campus of Andrews University, with Pastor Allan Freed officiating. Memorials may be made to the Worthy Student Fund at the Village Adventist Elementary School, 409 West Mars Street, Berrien Springs, MI 49103. Leona Glidden Running: Dialogue with an Adventist linguist and scholar

by Roberto Clouzet

An accomplished scholar. A learned linguist. A respected teacher. With all that, add grace, dignity, and a Christian role model, and you have Dr. Leona Running. Born in central Michigan two years before the end of World War I, she graduated from Emmanuel Missionary College two years before the beginning of World War II. Armed with a major in French and minors in German, English, and education, she was well equipped to begin her career as a language teacher in 1937. In 1955 she received an M.A. in Biblical Greek and Biblical Hebrew from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, and 9 years later she earned her Ph.D. in Semitic languages from Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Running’s outstanding service to the Adventist Church began in 1937 in Laurelwood Academy in Oregon as German and French teacher and later also librarian. Then she served as a secretary at Pacific Union Conference office, Voice of Prophecy’s Foreign Language Division, and the Carolina Conference. From 1950 to 1954 she worked as a copy editor for Ministry magazine and in 1955 began teaching biblical languages at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, then in Takoma Park. In 1960 she moved with the Seminary to Andrews University as professor of biblical languages—a position she held until her “official” retirement in 1981. Thousands of students from around the world have passed through her classes, with fond memories of her scholarship and compassion.

Dr. Running has published numerous articles and reviews in various church and scholarly journals and coauthored William Foxwell Albright: A Twentieth-century Genius (1991) on the life and work of this leading Semitist. Her distinguished and long career has brought her numerous awards. Dr. Leona Running enjoys her “retirement,” still teaching in her specialty as professor emerita at Andrews University.

The saddest note in her life was the death of her husband, Leif H. (Bud) Running, in 1946 after a surgery. They were married in 1942. She also has other difficulties and sorrows, but is thankful for God’s unfailing help and guidance, and the opportunities to use her God-given talents.

Dr. Running, tell us a little about how would you define yourself.

I have often been referred to as “the first Adventist woman teaching biblical languages.” That is not true, but I am the first woman to become a full-time faculty member of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary.

You were born and grew up in difficult days. What motivated you to pursue a good education?

My parents. They strongly believed in Christian education, and they sacrificed much to send my younger sister and me to Adventist schools. They believed and instilled belief in me that God had a plan for my life in His work. Despite several difficulties, I always felt I must work for my church.

Why is the study of biblical languages important for a minister?

How would you like to go to a dentist who says: “I didn’t bother to learn how to use my tools because it’s too hard”? Biblical languages are the tools of a minister. They help you go to the original text and learn for yourself what it says. They help you evaluate the many translations.
They give you authority. But I always tell my students, “Don’t even say the word ‘Hebrew’ or ‘Greek’ from the pulpit. Just tell your people what the original says. And they won’t go out saying, ‘Look how much Hebrew and Greek our pastor knows.’ Instead, they’ll say, ‘Our pastor makes the Bible speak to me.’”

How did you get interested in ancient languages?

I love languages. While working on Ministry magazine with the Seminary next-door, I had an opportunity to study the biblical languages. I began by taking two Hebrew classes. After two years I registered full-time and completed my M.A. in 1955. Then the Seminary hired me to teach the first and second levels of Greek and Hebrew.

That was over 40 years ago. How did you get to doing a doctoral program at Johns Hopkins University?

During my first year of teaching in the Seminary, one of my mentors urged me to work towards a doctoral degree. I started doing it in education. But when my department chairman heard of it, he disagreed strongly. Dr. Siegfried Horn, the great Adventist scholar, was not only my colleague but also a former teacher. “Leona,” he urged, “You must go to Johns Hopkins and get a proper degree in your proper field.”

What was your reaction?

Disbelief. “Could I? At Johns Hopkins?” I asked myself. As far as I was concerned, Johns Hopkins was on the moon! Well, no harm in trying. I passed all my incoming language requirements in one pleasant hour by conversing with Dr. Albright in German, switching to French and Spanish, then translating several selected Greek and Hebrew Scriptures. He didn’t ask me to translate from the Latin Vulgate although I had been studying Latin on my own for six weeks. On the basis of my knowledge of the other languages he accepted my simple statement that I could read the Vulgate as well!

Can you share something of your experience in writing your dissertation?

My dissertation involved the Syriac manuscripts of Isaiah. The world’s leading Syriac scholar taught at a seminary in Chicago and had agreed to guide me through the research process. One summer I was awaiting the arrival of microfilm copies of Isaiah manuscripts I had ordered from the British Museum, the Louvre, the Bibliothèque Nationale, the Vatican Library and other sources from Europe. While doing research, I was also teaching classes. Besides Greek and Hebrew, several times I taught Akkadian (cuneiform), Egyptian (hieroglyphic), and Syriac, close to the Aramaic that Jesus spoke, and this was helpful. My 400-page “monster” of a dissertation included 147 pages of handwritten Syriac presenting the 3,339 variants I had found. We had no computers with the foreign scripts then. I had to write the 147 pages of Syriac by hand twice, with enough pressure on the pen against a metal ruler to make a readable impression on two carbon copies, as I needed six copies and we didn’t yet have photocopy machines.

A doctoral dissertation defense is a sort of “rite of passage.” Anything significant about that “ritual”?

January 30, 1964 was the memorable day of my oral examination. The examining committee sat around a long table: the chairman of the committee, chair of Classics, the chairman of my department of Near Eastern Studies, an Arabist, and an Economics professor, included because my dissertation contained statistical tables, and the chairwoman from the Department of German, knitting at my right. In fact, it was fun! Each person was allowed 10 minutes to question me. My chairman began with easy questions to get me started. The time slipped by rapidly; the experience felt very satisfying. I waited out in the hall while the verdict was being decided. That didn’t take long, and they soon called for “Dr. Running” to enter. After the graduation ceremony, it seemed to me that I had been liberated. But I did not have all the answers. Higher education is a humbling as well as enlightening experience.

Was that the greatest event in your life?
No, it was not. The most important event in my life was my marriage. My husband was already a liberated man in those times. We were equal partners. I still miss him.

As you said earlier, you are the first Adventist woman to become a full-time faculty member of the Seminary. How did you feel in that role?

Socially speaking, it did not bother me to be the only woman in classes at the Seminary and Johns Hopkins, but what was really difficult was going to faculty banquets that are overwhelmingly for couples! Now, in academic terms, I probably gave myself a mental block when I joined the Seminary faculty, restricting myself to languages and methods of teaching. I left the exegesis and theology courses for the men, who preferred that kind of teaching. When the Seminary moved to Michigan, Dr. Horn nominated me to the Chicago Society of Biblical Research, where in 1981-82 I served as the first woman president.

What is your major satisfaction teaching biblical languages?

To work with young ministers in training, young women more recently as well. What fun to open a door into a room they never before could have entered, and let them see all the treasures stored there—looking at the original biblical text, seeing things they had never noticed! It’s a great satisfaction seeing my students applying their knowledge teaching or pastoring or as administrators all over the world. Sometimes they call me for advice or help, or just to say Hello. That means a lot.

How do you see Adventist higher education today?

I’m proud of it. Except for my Ph.D., I completed all my education in our schools. And it’s important that, in college, all our students get a good biblical background and not just limit themselves to a secular liberal-arts program.

What would be your advice to Adventist students in secular universities around the world?

I would hope they all have a local church that really nurtures them. If they don’t have one, they should organize a group to worship and study. While on many campuses you cannot do any open evangelism among your peers and your teachers, you can live your faith and share it quietly. That will arouse curiosity and questions. They may say, “I have a different idea about Adventists since I met you.” Then you are ready to say, “Come and see.” In any case, be open, be available, be helpful.

Interview by Roberto Clouzet. Roberto Clouzet is a doctoral student in educational psychology at Andrews University. Dr. Running’s address: Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Andrews University; Berrien Springs, Michigan 49104; U.S.A.

Resident who fell at mailbox thanks local doctor for helping her

Dear Editor,

On January 2 when it was cold and snowing, I drove my car out to my mailbox which is on M-139 about 10 p.m. I am handicapped. I was going from my car to my mailbox when I slipped and fell. Cars were going by—although there was not a lot of traffic. I was wondering how I was going to get up; I did manage to pull myself up enough to reach some advertisements sticking out of the box and started waving them in hopes someone would see me and help me. I only had my night clothes on and shoes, I was freezing and could feel my fingers freezing. An SUV went by and turned around and came back. The driver introduced himself as Dr. Jason Hamel, an emergency room doctor, and asked me if I needed help. He was on his way to work at the time. He picked me up and drove me into the garage, and helped me into the house. He told me to get my wet clothes off right away. As it was, the next day I had huge blisters from the cold on one of my hands—if I had been out there any longer I would have had frost bite. I want to thank him; others went by and did not stop to help. I want to thank the local doctor for taking time to help a local resident.

Lyndon G. Furst: A Different Perspective
Some Thoughts on Income Inequality

In an attempt to get the eyes of the general public surrounding his introduction of the Affordable Care Act, other-wise known as Obamacare, the President has announced a new legislative agenda for the coming year. One of his major initiatives is dealing with income inequality within the American population. There is a growing disparity between those who social scientists would consider to be within the working-class and people at the upper end of the economic scale. America has for most of its history been a nation of middle-class people. They are the largest group driving the economy through their demand for consumer goods. However, in recent years the middle class has been shrinking rather rapidly. Historically, the middle class is the backbone of America, with declining working class and middle income people. (Please note: I use the term “working class” interchangeably.) Republicans in Congress have been known to even discuss the issue of “class warfare.”

There are a number of reasons for the decline of the middle class. Among those most prominently mentioned is competition from low-wage workers in other countries which has come about as a result of the increasing globalization of the world economy. Another factor is the rapid advancement of technology. For example, when I was a college student there were no scanners or computers from the government. Eventually I ran out of money and had to drop out of school and go to work in a factory as a welder. I had no option other than to accept the low-wage work and was given three days to learn how to operate the different types of welders at my factory. I was paid $2.50 and an hour which was $2/5 times the minimum wage. In today’s economy with the minimum wage being $7.25 that would be an equivalent of a little over $18 an hour. I doubt that there are very many unskilled jobs which pay that kind of wage today. Thus, while 30 years ago it was possible with minimal skills to earn a middle class income its not that way today. How, should the federal government relate to such a situation? Democrats have suggested various forms of government: As a handout as well as a radical increase in the minimum wage. (Some have suggested that it should be $33 an hour) What is it now) Obama’s goal is well-intentioned. He suggests that a person in America who works hard should be able to enjoy the benefits of a middle class life style. Republicans will have nothing to do with a huge increase in the minimum wage or additional entitlements. They view all lower income people and those living in poverty as basically lazy and in need of some motivation. If they want to improve their lot in life they need to get off welfare and into the workforce.

The Republican’s primary response so far is to suggest that low income workers should get the additional training needed to obtain higher paying jobs. They strongly resist what they refer to as the redistribution of wealth” in America. They view with alarm any attempt by the federal government to assist low income or impoverished people with these type benefits. From my perspective, they are at least partly right. Keeping people on the public dole is not a sustainable policy. Neither are radical increases in the minimum wage which would no doubt cause some degree of economic disruption and thus result in unintended consequences for the very people it is intended to help.

From my perspective, the better approach public policy would be to combine with some assistance for job training with a concerted effort by the captives of industry to reward those who do faithful work and thus provide a foundation for the huge profits that American corporations have experienced in recent years. One of the main points is correct in that a person who works hard and leads a law-abiding life should be rewarded for his efforts by more than a subsistence wage. This is not a newfangled idea. A hundred years ago author Herbert Crely, in his book The Promise of American Life, made the same suggestion. And for several years, especially following World War II, the growing middle class in America prospered and supported a growing economy. But in the past 30 years that has all changed as middle income people have rapidly disappeared from the workforce.

Of course, we cannot go back to the good old days of the mid twentieth century. But, from my perspective, it is time for our business leaders to do their... (Continued on Page 6)

Letters to the EDITOR... Reader thanks community for helping him grow in the right direction

Dear Editor,

I have been a Maryland resident for the past 23 years, but I grew up in Berrien Springs. My parents still live there, and through the years I’ve made many trips. During one of these trips I reflected on the gift of growing up in this small southwest Michigan community. The Schuhs helped to heal me; the Ewaltse helped to lead me; Mrs. Prillwitz, Ruth Kaiser, and Rhoda Willa helped to educate me; or rather taught me; that best shot—I wasn’t exactly a model student. Vic Yost and Jim Kester saw it that I was protected from the bad guys, and the team at Whetstone Garage helped to keep my less-than-perfect vehicles in good working order. As for my tax returns, Martin Fishell did those. (True, this was especially convenient since I lived in a house that was tax free, but he did a really good job, too.) This list could go on and on, but I have a job works much as I did many years ago at Twixwood Nursery and later at Edward Furniture.

Today this fine community’s legacy lives on, even beyond genetic lines as represented in Don Damren and Herb Schug. I often read in this very newspaper of the exploits of and good deeds of other businesspersons such as Ric Strelman, Garren Dent, Dave Nelson, the Bitbya and many more. True, Schug Drug is now Simple Updates and Schrader’s Suppermenu has become Harding’s. This simply means that progress continues in Berrien Springs, and that the present and future are in good hands.

It’s true that I have a tendency to avoid taking adulthood too seriously. But I accept my sincere gratitude for being a community that helped me to grow in the right direction.

Music and English Vespers

The Departments of Music and English invite members of the university and the wider community to join in their annual winter vespers service, "Love Encompassing All: A Vespers in Music and Poetry."

Borrowed from a hymn lyric, the theme for this year’s service traces a spiritual and artistic journey encompassed by God’s inescapable love. This hour of worship through music and poetry will take place Friday, January 31, 2014, at 7:30 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center. Co-curricular credit is available for students.

Chan Shun Hall
On March 18, United Way of Southwest Michigan and Honor Credit Union are taking action to promote the impact reading has on our youth. This annual Reading Day of Action asks PreK-5th grade classrooms from all corners of Berrien and Cass County to open their doors to our community members and allow volunteers to share their love of reading with the students. Volunteers will be reading to over 10,000 on one day! Please be a part of raising awareness of the importance of reading on the development in a child’s life.

Early literacy is the single strongest indicator for success later in life. Be an ADVOCATE for early education in Berrien & Cass counties by sharing your love of reading with the children of our community!

Schools and Classrooms- will be able to specify a time range they would like volunteers to come and will have the ability to signup a whole school! After that, United Way will coordinate volunteers to come to you! Volunteers will have a 20 minute appointment at the classroom. Though we strongly encourage volunteers to bring books we ask that classrooms have 5-6 books available just in case.

Volunteers- can volunteer from 9am-Noon or Noon-3pm. Typically volunteers read to multiple classrooms and are asked to bring an age appropriate book if available. Teachers and students love to hear new books! Volunteers can signup in a group of two or as a single. We will do our best to keep multiple volunteer groups from one company at the same school building.

Interested?
Go to www.uwsm.org/reading to sign-up

Apartment for Rent

Apartment located in a low traffic area close to Andrews University (7 min/4.5 miles drive) available for rent starting April 1, 2014. The apartment has a bedroom (easily fits two beds or a bed and a little office), a bathroom, a kitchen, and a living room/office. The owners' laundry room can be used upon agreement. The apartment is located in the basement and has windows towards the garden. It is dry, has good temperature regulation (thermal heating system, good heating good cooling), modern looking (house was build in the mid 90s) and allows private access through the garden as well as through the garage. One of the two parking positions in the 2 car garage can be used by renters. We are presently remodeling some sections of the basement and will be ready to rent the apartment out by April 1. We are looking for one or two renters who are mature, orderly and quiet. The rent for only one person renting would be $400+utilities/month, for two people renting it would be $300+utilities/month per person.

Lost and Found Items at Campus Safety
Good car for sale

For sale is a nice Toyota Previa mini van. The car is running good. It got a tune up on December 2013. Nothing bad with it. Excellent family vehicle. Call, text or send an email for more information.

Thank you!

Reliable Used Vehicle

Initially purchased this car 02/2005 with only 3600 miles on it. I have always kept up with the maintenance of this vehicle. I flushed the transmission fluid in 2010. Tune-up was done in 2012. This is a very reliable vehicle. The drivers seat is worn down on the side (3" x 2"), the headliner needs to be replaced and the radiator fluid needs to be flushed. I am willing to negotiate with the price keeping in mind the things that need to be repaired and maintained. I am only selling it because I have purchased another vehicle.

Regular Caregiver Needed for Infant

I am a single mother of my infant and I am a young healthcare professional with Borgess. I live in Dowagiac, MI. and I am looking for a caregiver who will come to my residence and sit with my infant and provide care while I work Monday through Friday 8:00 am. to 4:30 pm. This would be ideal for an Early Childhood Education student and / or a student taking evening classes.

My current caregiver is providing care in my home for $100.00 / Wk. I also pay a steady paycheck to the caregiver, regardless if I have to take time off of work for doctors appointments, holidays, etc. My infant is almost a toddler and is exclusively breast fed, so it really makes the job easy. I come home at noon on my lunch break and nurse my daughter.

We are a small Christian family and the ideal candidate would respect our beliefs and wishes, not drink, not smoke, not do any drug of any kind, not have any criminal record, have a true passion for children, does not have a pet allergy as we have an elderly fixed feline, cpr certified preferred, and that is willing to commit to our little family.

Interested and qualified candidates should send their resume with at least 3 professional references to Tanya.Thomas@borgess.com as references will be checked.

Massage Therapist

Are the stresses of work and study getting to you? Would you like to boost your athletic performance? Do you have a muscle ache that just won’t go away?

Ray McAllister, an Andrews alumnus who despite total blindness is now a licensed massage therapist, invites you to visit Healing’s Rays Massage. Proficient in deep tissue, sports, and relaxation massage, Ray can relieve aches, help you tone muscles, and give you the energy boost to finish studies. He also offers hydrotherapy, hot stone massage, reflexology and now hot bamboo massage. His wife, Sally, is a certified aromatherapist and will be present for female clients. She sells home-made aromatherapy blends.

Introductory cost is only $25 for your first hour, $15 per half hour, for students all the time. Contact Ray for regular, competitive rates. 30 no-cost massages are available for those with Adventist Risk Management insurance, including sponsored seminary students.
