"A Conversation with LGBT Students"

April 19, 4 p.m.
Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall
Sponsored by Division of Student Life

A facilitated Andrews University conversation with LGBT students that is focused on bridge building, listening, understanding and caring in a context that affirms the Church and its standards. Curtis VanderVaal, chair and professor of social work at Andrews University, and Nancy Carbonell, associate professor, Graduate Psychology & Counseling, will moderate this afternoon program.

It’s important to note that while this is not an event about advocacy or proposed changes to our church’s policy, it is one that is designed to be a supportive environment where Andrews University LGBT students can honestly and safely share their stories. Those of us who are not LGBT will have an opportunity to listen and learn from these students about their journeys.

For further information, please visit http://www.andrews.edu/agenda/2014/04/15/presentations-on-lgbt-issues.

Advanced Connections Training

Andrews University is dedicated to providing excellent service to all the individuals that interact on its campus, whether that be students, parents, venders, faculty and staff. Advanced Connections was developed with the intent of improving the service to internal and external customers of an educational institution, and Andrews University is proud to offer this professional development opportunity to its faculty and staff.

We will be offering the one-day Advanced Connections Training during the month of May on two separate dates:

- Tuesday, May 6, 8:30am-4:30am
- Wednesday, May 14, 8:30am-4:30am

If you are interested in participating, please send an email to RSVP at training@andrews.edu and specify which training date you are registering for. When sending in an RSVP, please include your full name, ID#, email address, and your department of employment.

Contact: Anita Gonzalez training@andrews.edu 269-471-3884

Farewell Reception for Dr. Jeanette Bryson

The Department of English is bidding adieu to Dr. Jeanette Bryson as she takes up her new position at Washington Adventist University.

Come help us thank her for her service and wish her all the best.

The reception will be held in the Department of English, Nethery Hall, Tuesday, April 22, 2014, from noon to 1:30 pm.

PLEASE NOTE: The invitations sent via campus mail mistakenly announced the day as Monday, not Tuesday.

Panel Discussion on the Cape Town Summit

"In God’s Image: Scripture. Sexuality. Society.”
Reflections from the Cape Town Summit
April 26, 5 p.m., Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall
Sponsored by the Division of Student Life

This panel discussion will feature Nicholas Miller, Peter Swanson, Miroslav Kiš, Roy Gane and Steve Yeagley, who participated and/or presented at the Adventist Church’s summit on LGBT issues in Cape Town, South Africa.

This panel discussion and presentation will review the studies, discussion and stories that were a part of that March 2014 summit, while also sharing and reflecting on the summit’s impact on our church and our own Andrews University community.

For further information, please visit http://www.andrews.edu/agenda/2014/04/15/presentations-on-lgbt-issues.

Ameriprise Financial Seminar

Plan for retirement, challenge your concerns, and take control of your future!

Ameriprise Financial invites you to join us for a special seminar, on Wednesday, April 16, from 12:00-1:00 in room 306 of the Administration Building. This seminar will be hosted and presented by Kim D Wooden, CPA, MBA.

During this complimentary seminar, you’ll learn about:
- How to make your retirement dreams and goals more within reach.
- Determining how much you need to save and ways to do so.
- Ways to generate dependable income.

Please plan to attend the following seminar. This is an informational seminar. There is no cost or obligation.

Andrews Produce Subscription

Love fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables? This summer you can have fresh produce delivered to your door for 18 weeks, courtesy of Andrews University Student Gardens. The program begins early-June and continues through mid-October.

Each basket includes at least six types of fresh produce, such as tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, broccoli, corn, kale, carrots and cucumbers. In addition to the classic vegetables, this year AUGardens will have the options to add fresh flowers and fruit to your baskets.

Delivery is free within a 20-mile radius of the campus, but those who prefer can pick up their share on Friday.

mornings from 11 a.m.–2 p.m. at the local farm stand, which will be located at the Neighbor-to-Neighbor parking lot at 9147 Hwy M-139 in Berrien Springs, Mich.

Andrews student gardens are designed to give students practical gardening experience, provide income, offer student employment, support farming, and provide the community with the opportunity to receive fresh produce that will aid a healthy lifestyle. The gardens include three acres of Gala apples, four acres of peaches, 2,500 feet of raspberries, 1,000 feet of blackberries, three greenhouses, and ten acres of vegetable production. The produce delivery program and the farm stand are part of the CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) program. Currently, the program is working to receive organic certification. Weekly newsletters accompany the baskets with fresh recipes and helpful information. For more information, call 269-471-6006 or email info@augardens.com.

There is a Place for you Premiere event

There is a Place for You

Laura Whidden has just released her first professional music video of her song “Table for One.” Laura and Campus Ministries would like to invite you to come and share live music, community, and refreshments at the live premiere of this music video. The message of Laura’s music is to let everyone know that there is a place for you, there is a place at the table for everyone, and no one is alone. So on the last day classes come and share hope with us and the Andrews University community. Thursday April 24th 8-10pm in the Lobby of the Howard Performing Arts Center we will share Table for One in a live venue for the first time. Join Laura Whidden, Alison Brook, Eryca Nelson, Bucktown Ramblers, Matthew Master, and other local musicians in sharing hope together.

University Garden Plots 2014

Cost:
$30 per plot. Rules apply.
$20 per plot for AU students.

Size: 30 sq. ft.

Please bring your valid AU ID.

No early sign in accepted.

If you are unable to come and reserve your plot, you may come to the Agriculture office after April 28 from 8 a.m.-12 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Gymnics Home Show

Tomorrow, Friday, April 11, is the annual Gymnics show for local elementary school children. Which means parking near Johnson Gymnasium will be limited.

Campus Safety is planning to block off about half of the gym parking lot to make it possible for the vehicles—busses and cars—to drop off over 1000 school kids to watch this much-anticipated performance. There are also two school groups walking to the performance, so please be extra attentive to the pedestrian traffic in that part of campus tomorrow morning.

We acknowledge this is an inconvenience to add to your already-busy Friday schedules. Thank you for graciously making this adjustment this one time each year to support our team and local school children.

Bike, Pedestrian & Vehicle Safety on Campus

With the weather warming up more people are taking to walking, jogging, bicycling, rollerblading, and more in the great outdoors. We recommend you exercise extra caution while traveling on and around Andrews campus. Whether you walk, ride a bike, drive, or use alternative methods of transportation, be aware of your surroundings and take extra care.

The Michigan Secretary of State's office has published a handy book, "What Every Driver Should Know." Here are some key tips included in the book:

When there are no sidewalks, pedestrians should walk on the side of the road facing oncoming traffic. Parents should teach their children this, but drivers must watch for pedestrians

Be alert for joggers running along roadways. Joggers should wear reflective clothing, use sidewalks or roadway shoulders, and avoid jogging at night, dawn, dusk, or during bad weather. Joggers, like other pedestrians, should be on the side of the road facing oncoming traffic.

A bicycle lane is a portion of the roadway with pavement markings and signs exclusively for bicyclists. This lane shall not be used by motorists as a driving lane or for parking.

Pages 116-117 of the book include tips for bicyclists.

The Campus Safety Handbook is available online; please contact Campus Safety with any questions.

Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series

Everyone is welcome to attend our Andrews University Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series this coming Thursday, April 10 at 4:30 p.m. As usual we meet in A-107 Halenz Hall.

Thursday’s student presentation topics are:

Detection of Copper (II) Using Stilbene Fluorophores presented by: Stephen Gilbert (biochemistry senior) and

Hydroxyl Number Determination Using NIR presented by: HwukChan Woo (biochemistry senior)

Attached are the seminar flyers in pdf format with more details about our speaker’s and their talks.

Teachers are encouraged to announce this lecture in their classes and/or forward this email to their classes.

For non-Andrews faculty and students wishing to see the talk in the Chemistry Amphitheater:

There are directions given to Andrews at: http://www.andrews.edu/about/visiting/get_to_andrews.html

Here are the directions to the chemistry dept:

Andrews Photography Submission Opportunity

Greetings Photographers!

The Office of Academic Records is making some modifications to the online bulletin for the academic year 2014-2015. We are doing some design changes and would like to include an image from a current student, staff, faculty or alumni on the bulletin home page. We are looking for photographs that emphasize art or active learning here at Andrews.

We plan to collect several images from which one will be chosen for the home page. We will add a small bio and link (just below the image) to a website to highlight the photographer.

Our deadline is Friday, April 18. Department staff will then meet and decide which image will be used. Once selected, we will contact the photographer to obtain the bio information and website link.

Please submit your images by Friday, April 18, to bulletin@andrews.edu while noting the following Image requirements:

- JPG or PNG format
- No larger than 5MB
- Landscape orientation

Please ensure photographs are consistent with the Andrews University community.

AICER Symposium Panel Discussion

The Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) will host a research team panel discussion entitled Research Team Experiences on April 17, 2014 at 5:30 pm.
The research teams include:

- Dr. H. Burnett's team (Behavioral Sciences)
- Dr. L. Burton's team (Teaching, Learning & Curriculum)
- Dr. S. Hansen's team (Mathematics)
- Dr. J. Hayward's team (Biology)

What is it like to be part of a research team? Whether you would like to join a research team or have accrued stories of research team experiences, this panel discussion will interest you. Graduate and undergraduate research teams from different disciplines will discuss their research methodologies and how their teams function. Students will discuss why they became team members and what prepared them for their role.

Face-to-face participants meet in Buller Hall, Room 251

Online participants to login as "Guest" at https://andrews.adobeconnect.com/_a877709416/research/ or http://www.andrews.edu/sed/aicer/researchwebinars/ whether or not they are registered at Andrews University.

Counseling Center Offers Wellness Support Group

Lifestyle Improvement Focused Team (LIFT)
A Psychoeducational Health & Wellness Support Group

40 Days to Embracing a Healthier Lifestyle

If you are looking for a support group to initiate or maintain your health goals

You are invited to join us on Saturday afternoons. Our next gathering is:

Date: Saturday afternoon, April 12, 2014
Place: Counseling & Testing Center, Bell Hall #123 (on the campus of Andrews University)
Time: 5–6:15 p.m.

We are still offering a few more complimentary copy of the book 40 Days to Better Living—A Seven-Step Model to Healthy Living, addressing areas of spiritual, medical, emotional, family, physical, nutrition and vocational health.

The LIFT program includes:
- Support meetings
- Health information
- Weekly objectives
- Inspirational readings
- Opportunity to reflect, share and receive feedback

Space is limited

Facilitated by Judith Fisher, psychologist, and LaKesha Morris, counselor. The group is open to students, faculty, staff & members of the community.

This health & wellness series will last six weeks, ending May 10, 2014, with weekly Saturday afternoon meetings. We strongly recommend you plan to attend all meetings!

Signing up for the group is simple: Call or send an email message with your name and contact information: 269-471-3470 or ctcenter@andrews.edu.

Your investment in your health is the most lucrative one you could ever make. It’s priceless!

2014 Summit on Social Consciousness

Andrews University invites you to attend its third annual Summit for Social Consciousness from Wednesday, April 9, through Sunday, April 13. This year’s symposium will focus on the theme of “The Poor Next Door: Poverty In America,” with the objective of informing the community of this chronic problem in our nation, and also providing a means for students and community leaders to engage in social action. All events are free and open to the public.

Michael Snyder’s 2010 article in the Business Insider about poverty in America, states that "The "America" that so many of us have taken for granted for so many decades is literally disintegrating right in front of our eyes...millions upon millions of Americans are slipping out of the middle class and into the devastating grip of poverty" (Snyder, 2010). It is our responsibility to explore the reasons behind this devastating fact and take action. The Summit on Social Consciousness is designed to bring awareness and public education to the subject through the knowledge of different speakers and the opportunity to serve the community hands on.

On Wednesday, April 9, at 6:45 p.m., the summit kicks off in the Pioneer Memorial Church Youth Chapel with Rachel Wade from United Way of Southwest Michigan who will engage attendees in a discussion on relevant facts regarding poverty in our country. In addition to the evening’s presentation, the audience will have the opportunity to participate in a poverty simulation activity. On Thursday April 10, there will be a documentary screening of "Inequality for All" in the Newbold Auditorium in Buller Hall beginning at 7 p.m.

The film features former Secretary of Labor Robert Reich and is directed by Jacob Kornbluth. On Friday April 11, there will be a University Vespers held at Pioneer Memorial Church at 7 p.m. featuring special guest speakers Bonnie Bazata and Taurus Montgomery. On Saturday April 12, a church service will be held at the Howard Performing Arts Center at 11 a.m. with Dr. Timothy Nixon as the keynote speaker, followed by afternoon breakout sessions held in the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University, beginning at 3 p.m.

The breakout sessions will explore the different factors involved in increased poverty levels in the U.S. and will cover various topics addressing the social implications of poverty and economic inequalities. Presenters for these sessions include the following: Joel Raveloharimisy, director of the community & international development masters program at Andrews University; Peter Lombardo from the Center for the Homeless in South Bend, Ind.; Twyla Smith, assistant professor of social work & director of field education at Andrews University; Lucy Randall from Neighbor to Neighbor; Nicholas Miller, assistant professor of church history at the Seminary and director of the International Religious Liberty Institute; and Sarah Kimakwa, reference & marketing librarian at the James White Library at Andrews University.

Optimization of Solvent-based NIR Hydroxyl Number Determination for Dendritic Polyols

HwukChan Woo is a Biochemistry major student planning to attend Loma Linda Dental School this coming fall.

Dendritic polymers are an emerging class of additives for a variety of industries such as paints and coatings, plastics, adhesives, inks, and personal care products.

This research and the subject of this talk is about finding a way to optimize the sample concentration using dendrimers and solvents to provide low cost analysis.

Investigation into the Mechanism of Copper(II) Ion Sensing Using Dimethylaminocyanostilbene Fluorescence

Stephen Gilbert, a pre-med biochemistry senior, plans to pursue graduate studies in chemical engineering. Cu$^{2+}$ is important biologically and environmentally—it is the third most abundant essential transition element in the body. However, too much copper has been connected to several diseases, and is also a significant metal pollutant. The EPA has set strict guidelines for the concentration of copper that can be present in drinking water. This concentration is 1.3 ppm which translates to 20.5 μM.

Previous work has determined that Cu$^{2+}$ quench DCS’s fluorescence at a 1:1 mole ratio. The Cu$^{2+}$ detection level is set by the DCS concentration. In addition, DCS showed selectivity for Cu$^{2+}$ when tested against interfering metals.

In the results that follow we have set DCS concentration to be 50 μM in an effort to sense for Cu$^{2+}$ around the EPA desired level. The goal of this project was to discover and analyze any other possible interferences in fluorescence including other interfering metals, pH, and water sample size, and to speculate and propose a possible mechanism as to how Cu$^{2+}$ complexes to DCS.
Presentations on LGBT Issues

Andrews Joins Adventist Church in its Ongoing Study of LGBT Issues & Lives

This month Andrews University will take the opportunity, in a variety of settings, to reflect on and seek to better understand the issues surrounding the lives of LGBT individuals within our University community, within the church and throughout the world at large.

Recently, this conversation and search for understanding within our Seventh-day Adventist Church community centered on a March 2014 summit in Cape Town, South Africa, coordinated by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

As Andrews University reflects on the Cape Town summit on LGBT issues, and the University’s own participation in and exploration of these issues in this variety of settings, President Niels-Erik Andreasen says, “In each of these significant conversations about these critical issues, and in those that will continue, throughout the world, our Church and this campus, it’s important that we seek to offer compassion and support for all members of our community. That process best begins with listening and understanding each other. I invite you to become a meaningful participant in this journey.”

The Cape Town summit, “In God’s Image: Scripture. Sexuality. Society.,” was attended by nearly 350 pastors, educators, behavioral scientists, theologians, church leaders and others. Among those attendees were five Andrews University representatives: Nicholas Miller, Roy Gane, Miroslav Kiš and Peter Swanson from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, and Steve Yeagley from the Division of Student Life.

In the context of this now global conversation, it’s important that Andrews University, as the flagship university of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and especially as a community of faith and learning, also takes the opportunity for reflection that is marked by study, prayer, and direct and honest communication.

That has already begun in a variety of ways, and with a common understanding that these are each opportunities for information, bridge building, caring and support—all within the context of Andrews University’s support for the Seventh-day Adventist Church and its standards.

A short while ago, Nicholas Miller, one of the presenters at that Cape Town Summit, gave a report on the issues and discussions at Pioneer Memorial Church Sabbath School.

The discussion continued with the April 9 Student Movement, where our students, along with some faculty and staff, wrote articles and editorials that seek to better understand those with an LGBT orientation and the need for caring and support.

Finally, on the last two Saturdays of the month, there will be two public meetings that will explore LGBT issues in the context of the Seventh-day Adventist church and its standards, and in the context of the lives of those who face these issues.

First, on Saturday, April 19, our Student Life team is coordinating an event, facilitated by two of our faculty, which welcomes our students and community into a supportive environment where LGBT students can share their stories.

Then, on Saturday, April 26, all five of the Andrews representatives who attended the Cape Town summit will offer a panel presentation to discuss its impact on our church and the Andrews University community.

Details of those two presentations can be found below.

"A Conversation With LGBT Students"
April 19, 4 p.m., Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall
Sponsored by the Division of Student Life

A facilitated Andrews University conversation with LGBT students that is focused on bridge building, listening, understanding and caring in a context that affirms the Church and its standards. Curtis VanderWaal, chair and professor of social work at Andrews University, and Nancy Carbonell, associate professor, Graduate Psychology & Counseling, will moderate this afternoon program.

It’s important to note that while this is not an event about advocacy or proposed changes to our church’s policy, it is one that is designed to be a supportive environment where Andrews University LGBT students can honestly and safely share their stories. Those of us who are not LGBT will have an opportunity to listen and learn from these students about their journeys.

"In God’s Image: Scripture. Sexuality. Society."
Reflections from the Cape Town Summit
April 26, 5 p.m., Newbold Auditorium, Buller Hall
Sponsored by the Division of Student Life

This panel discussion will feature Nicholas Miller, Peter Swanson, Miroslav Kiš, Roy Gane and Steve Yeagley, who participated and/or presented at the Adventist Church’s summit on LGBT issues in Cape Town, South Africa.

This panel discussion and presentation will review the studies, discussion and stories that were a part of that March 2014 summit, while also sharing and reflecting on the summit’s impact on our church and our own Andrews University community.

Art Student Featured in Local Exhibition

By Eloise Ravell

Lynda Lee, Andrews University undergraduate student studying visual arts and chemistry, was recently accepted into the Michigan Emerging Graduate Artist (MEGA) Juried Exhibition hosted by the Master of Fine Arts (MFA) Collective of Kendall College of Art and Design at the Urban Institute for Contemporary Arts in Grand Rapids for two of her oil paintings completed this year. Lee was also one of three recipients of the Juror’s Choice award.

The exhibition showcases 21 regional artists who will display their work in media such as drawing, painting, printmaking, photography, sculpture and mixed media. It also allows newly working artists to expand their professional network in their field of interest.

The MEGA exhibition allows Lee and other artists to be officially introduced to the artist community and connect with professionals in the region. Networking is vital in an art career and is a means of building relationships with fellow artists and potential customers. It also is a way of obtaining information about gallery showings and creating a following of supporters.

“As a student, Lynda works incredibly hard and has pushed herself during the past two years that I have had her as a student,” says Kari Friestad, assistant professor of painting and drawing, whose work is also featured in the exhibition. “By participating in this state-wide show and being selected as a Juror’s choice from among BFA and MFA candidates, it has shown that Lynda’s work is at a high level of creative accomplishment.”

Lee, who plans to travel to South Korea upon graduation to teach English and give Bible studies, plans to attend Loma Linda University this coming fall to study dentistry. She is currently in her fifth and final year at Andrews. Lee submitted two paintings that she had been working on for her Honors Thesis Project, a yearlong project that seniors in the J.N. Andrews Honors Program must complete as part of their Honors requirements.

“The two paintings that I submitted for the exhibition are part of a series of male portraits that attempt to explore the concept of connection and disconnection between the self and other identities,” explains Lee. “I am working with the idea that our identity is the result of being both separate and related to the other, which requires some degree of openness and vulnerability. Being vulnerable can often be a challenge and has always been and still is a personal struggle for me. I wanted there to be a lack of intimacy and tried to portray the individuals in my paintings as being withdrawn and introverted by averting their gazes as well as giving them a more contemplative and meditative mood.”

Lee was inspired by Dutch-born sculptor Hanneke Beaumont who creates pieces in which human figures seem to be neither male nor female in appearance and neither young nor old. The ambiguous nature of Beaumont’s figures represents universal ideas of how people relate to each other. The sculptor also works with the idea of separation and often creates groups of figures that are close enough to interact with each other, yet remain separate and withdrawn.

“I tried watercolor and a bit of acrylic painting in some of my art classes in high school, but I didn’t start working with oil paint until I took an intro painting class here at Andrews,” says Lee. Her time at Andrews has enriched her experience as a painter and the MEGA exhibition has helped her become more confident in her artistic abilities.

“Andrews is not a large school, and there are only a handful of fine art students,” says Lee. “But I want to believe that this exhibition shows that if you’re focused, motivated and diligent in your work, you will get better at what you’re doing and be acknowledged.”

Lee feels blessed to have been featured in the exhibition and is grateful to be introduced into the artist community.

“Lynda is seriously committed to her work and a very gifted artist,” says Friestad. “It has been a wonderful experience having her as a student. I am excited to see what other opportunities might come her way as a result of her hard work.”
Andrews Electronics Recycling Day

Andrews University, in partnership with Green Earth Electronics Recycling, will hold its biannual electronics recycling event on Wednesday, April 23, from 3–7 p.m. Community members, businesses and residents from surrounding communities are encouraged to recycle their unwanted electronic items at the Andrews University Transportation building.

Accepted items include computers, laptops, smart phones, monitors, TVs, telephones, cameras, DVD players, cords/cables, printers, toner cartridges, cell phones, refrigerators, air conditioners, appliances and any other electronic items or items with a cord. A hazardous waste fee will be collected for CRT monitors ($5) and tube TVs ($10). All other items are recycled free of charge. All hard drives are wiped to Department of Defense specifications or shredded.

All businesses are encouraged to preregister by emailing pickup@greenearth1.com or calling 269-326-1232. Green Earth Electronics Recycling, headquartered in St. Joseph, Mich., is a company whose focus is to keep unwanted electronics out of the landfill by using the best practices in information destruction and recycling. They are registered as a recycler with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. Their services include corporate and institutional pickups as well as community drop-off events. For more information please visit www.GreenEarth1.com or email pickup@GreenEarth1.com.

Librarian Trains Others in Lebanon

by Becky St. Clair and Chandler Jordana

Felipe Tan, senior cataloger at the Andrews University James White Library, visited Middle East University in Beirut, Lebanon, earlier in March to host a workshop for the personnel of the George Arthur Keough Library.

"The overall goal was to help the MEU personnel re-catalog the growing collection of Islamic, Arabic and theology collections of the library," explains Tan. "I provided them with the know-how and tools to accomplish this task."

The Dewey Decimal Classification is a commonly used scheme that, according to Larry Lichtenwalter, dean of the faculty of philosophy and theology at MEU, "scatters books under broad headings." The Library of Congress Classification, however, has been designed for academic and research collections in specialized disciplines. It is used by most academic libraries in the United States and in several other countries. Lichtenwalter hinted at his own partiality towards the newly implemented system, emphasizing that it will make all of the holdings within his department easier to find.
Tan carefully initiated the re-cataloging process at the MEU Library. According to Lichtenwalter, he wanted Tan to reorganize the library collection to foster a more effective research environment for graduate and undergraduate students in anticipation of more cooperative programs with Andrews.

"Because of our close collaboration with Andrews University, especially in the School of Theology, it was advised that we transform our collection," asserted Farid Khoury, head librarian, who also noted that the Library of Congress Classification is used by most American academic libraries. "Therefore," continued Khoury, "in our last academic resource committee, we made the decision to start this process with the collection of the Faculty of Philosophy and Theology and the Institute of Arabic and Islamic Studies."

Khoury additionally emphasized that this transition will serve as a "pilot step after which the overall process will be revisited and evaluated" and that the entire library would not be converted until the staff had experienced and evaluated the changes brought about by the switch firsthand.

"A decision will later be made as to whether we will use both the Dewey Decimal System and the LC Classification System for our library or if everything will be transformed into the latter scheme."

Lyndy Khalil, assistant librarian, also participated in the workshop.

"Felipe was very professional and knowledgeable and helped us to consider things we didn't realize needed to be considered," says Khalil. "He would love to come back and visit our library and told us that he's always available for email consultation should any future dilemmas occur."

MEU is constantly seeking for innovative ways in which their facilities and infrastructure can be positively altered, however, the re-cataloging of the library archives of an entire faculty is exceptionally noteworthy because it would make MEU's George Arthur Keough Library the first academic library in Lebanon to utilize the precise Library of Congress Classification System.

"I found the MEU library personnel intelligent and eager to learn," says Tan. "I enjoyed the exposure to the culture of the Middle East and learned a lot from mingling with the people. The Lebanese are friendly, approachable and eager to learn and move forward. I was glad for the opportunity to help Middle East University."
For a voice masterclass such as this one, Asamoah would stand on stage, introduce herself and the song she would be singing, and then perform. Following the performance, the expert critiques the singer.

"Basically they take apart the song to improve your overall performance," she says. "The purpose is to help the student grow in their performance style and have the opportunity to perform in front of peers and experts."

On March 20, Asamoah sang for a crowd of about 200 people while Brown stood in the back and observed. She chose to perform "Gimme Gimme" from Thoroughly Modern Millie by Jeanine Tesori.

When she finished the song, Brown came up on stage and, asking the accompanist to step aside, started playing, transposing the song into various different keys to play with Asamoah's sound.

"He refined my performance in a few notable ways," she says. "First, he helped me to internalize my character and properly convey the feeling and emotions. Secondly, he got me to open up my voice more in the ‘belt’ range which was a fun learning experience."

Asamoah said Brown paid her many compliments, but "fantastic" and "gorgeous instrument" were some that stuck out the most, and were part of what made the whole experience unforgettable.

"I'm grateful to have talented, learned professors who are still compassionate and humble enough to work with me on an individual level and encourage me to succeed," she says.

Though she doesn't know for sure what she wants to do with her life, Asamoah has many high hopes for her future.

"I have many dreams," she says, "but I just put everything in God's hands and trust Him to work out everything for the best."
in ecology from Duke University.

His interest is how species adapt to their environment and the effect of both natural and human-induced habitat changes on their behavior. His research focus is the behavioral ecology and plasticity of various tropical mammals and his aim is to incorporate behavioral data into sound conservation strategies that are species- and location-specific.

“I was one of those rare freshmen that went in thinking, 'I want to do biology,'” he says. "I always wanted to pursue it more because it was something that I genuinely loved.”

Gonzalez-Socoloske first became introduced to manatee research when he began working on his master's degree at Loma Linda.

“I was always interested in wildlife and I was always interested in mammals,” he says. "It was just a matter of honing in on a particular area.”

Manatees posed a beneficial area of study because of the lack of research that was currently focused on them. Now, Gonzalez-Socoloske’s expertise lies within manatee research and his work has contributed to the advancement of study in this area.

"I went in with a lot of preconceived ideas as to what manatees were and their behavior," he says. "Through the years I’ve gained an awesome respect for these creatures and realized they are much more complex than I initially gave them credit for. They’re much more intelligent than people typically think.”

Not only did he have the opportunity to work with manatees in the U.S., Gonzalez-Socoloske traveled to more than five countries in Central America to further study the creatures. This summer he will be working on an island off of Cuba, which differs from the tannin-stained water of river systems with which he is used to working.

"Every location has unique challenges and you bond with the people there," he says. "Each spot has its own charm.”

For his PhD work in feeding ecology, he did distribution studies in Honduras focusing on the behavior of manatees. On-site, he and his team were able to capture the manatees, radio-tag them and track them. The water at the site varied by almost 20 feet between the dry season and the wet season affecting the food availability of the herbivorous mammals. Although they are generalists with a wide variety of food they can eat, manatees are picky about what they consume.

With colleagues not only in Honduras and Cuba, but Mexico, Japan, Costa Rica and Panama as well, he seeks to continue his research and hopes to incorporate these studies into the classes he teaches at Andrews. One day, he hopes to bring graduate students on the trips as part of their coursework.

"Having a research program for students tremendously enriches their experience," he says. "It opens their world to something larger than themselves, larger than their own unique goals.”

As far as his teaching career, Gonzalez-Socoloske says that his research creates a more concrete foundation to the concepts he teaches because of his real-world experience and application.

"Students can see that we are teachers, but we are biologists first,” he says. "They can see that we are a community of science and they can see what we are actually striving to do.”

One of the highlights from his research occurred in Tabasco, Mexico when he was concluding his data research for his PhD. It was the dry season when he and his team encountered an adult female separated from the other manatees, a highly unusual incident, as they are usually shy and hard to see.

After wading in the water for some time, the seven and a half foot manatee, later named Francisca, approached the team sociably and wanted to interact with them. The unique behavior of this manatee allowed the team to study her closely. Two years later, when Gonzalez-Socoloske returned to the site, Francisca was spotted in the very same area.

"When you connect the local community to an individual creature like Francisca,” he says, "it was so amazing to see the transformation of how the people began looking out for her and there was an acceptance and an accountability that was built into having this experience with this animal.”

Gonzalez-Socoloske has not only grown attached to manatees, but continues to enjoy what he does for a living.

"Research was important to me early on,” he says. "To fall in love with science. I was already in love with nature. I enjoyed tremendously working with animals and being outside. Engaging in the research really helped me to enjoy the element of discovery and pushing the frontiers of our knowledge.”

2014 Summit on Social Consciousness

Andrews University invites you to attend its third annual Summit for Social Consciousness from Wednesday, April 9, through Sunday, April 13. This year's symposium will focus on the theme of "The Poor Next Door: Poverty In America," with the objective of informing the community of this chronic problem in our nation, and also providing a means for students and community leaders to engage in social action. All events are free and open to the public.

Michael Snyder's 2010 article in the Business Insider about poverty in America, states that "The "America" that so many of us have taken for granted for so many decades is literally disintegrating right in front of our eyes...millions upon millions of Americans are slipping out of the middle class and into the devastating grip of poverty" (Snyder, 2010). It is our responsibility to explore the reasons behind this devastating fact and take action. The Summit on Social Consciousness is designed to bring awareness and public education to the subject through the knowledge of different speakers and the opportunity to serve the community hands on.

On Wednesday, April 9, at 6:45 p.m., the summit kicks off in the Pioneer Memorial Church Youth Chapel with Rachel Wade from United Way of Southwest Michigan who will engage attendees in a discussion on relevant facts regarding poverty in our country. In addition to the evening's presentation, the audience will have the opportunity to participate in a poverty simulation activity. On Thursday April 10, there will be a documentary screening of "Inequality for All" in the Newbold Auditorium in Buller Hall beginning at 7 p.m. The film features former Secretary of Labor Robert Reich and is directed by Jacob Kornbluth. On Friday April 11, there will be a University Vespers held at Pioneer Memorial Church at 7 p.m. featuring special guest speakers Bonnie Bazata and Taurus Montgomery. On Saturday April 12, a church service will be held at the Howard Performing Arts Center at 11 a.m. with Dr. Timothy Nixon as the keynote speaker, followed by afternoon breakout sessions held in the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University, beginning at 3 p.m.

The breakout sessions will explore the different factors involved in increased poverty levels in the U.S. and will cover various topics addressing the social implications of poverty and economic inequalities. Presenters for these sessions include the following: Joel Raveloharimisy, director of the community & international development masters program at Andrews University; Peter Lombardo from the Center for the Homeless in South Bend, Ind.; Twyla Smith, assistant professor of social work & director of field education at Andrews University; Lucy Randall from Neighbor to Neighbor; Nicholas Miller, assistant professor of church history at the Seminary and director of the International Religious Liberty Institute; and Sarah Kimakwa, reference & marketing librarian at the James White Library at Andrews University.
"Passion of Christ According to Matthew" Roundtable

Sunday, April 6, 3 p.m.
Buller Hall Student Lounge

Andrews University Department of Music invites the community to attend a special roundtable discussion event with the production team of the Easter performance of "Passion of Christ According to Matthew." The roundtable will take place on Sunday, April 6, at 3 p.m., in the Buller Hall Student Lounge. It is free and open to the public.

Presented by the Andrews University Department of Music, "Passion of Christ According to Matthew" will take place Easter weekend, April 18 and 19, at 7 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center. The "St. Matthew Passion" is traditionally performed as a concert work, set to the music of Johann Sebastian Bach and telling the story of the death of Christ straight from the Gospel of Matthew. The Department of Music uses this concert piece to present a fully staged modern drama.

The story is essentially verbatim from the Bible, and intermingled with the story are lots of meditation points—opportunities to dwell on the story in a personal way before moving on.

"The idea of 'stations of the cross' is common in many other denominations, where participants take time to really think about different parts of the story of Christ's death and resurrection and what they mean," says Charles Reid, associate professor of voice and producer of the performance. "This is what the Andrews University annual Passion Play has strived to create as well. You get not only into what happens to Jesus, but how everything relates to the other characters in the story. It's truly eye-opening."

David Ortiz, a sophomore music major, will play the role of evangelist/narrator. Deneile Clark, a student in the Seventh-day Adventist Seminary on the campus of Andrews University, plays the role of Jesus.

Something Reid and his cast and crew paid special attention to was allowing the audience to connect with the characters and, as a result, the story. Reid and student Aleks Kravig translated the piece from its original German into a more connectable, common American English, while still staying true to Bach’s intent with the language.

Not only is the dialogue more modern, the producers have also opted for a more contemporary, casual approach to costuming.

"Jesus didn’t get dressed up to be Jesus," Reid points out. "He just wore clothes. Same for the disciples. Era-appropriate costuming adds another disconnect of that's how it was 'back then.' We want this story to be

Berrien Springs Camera Club May Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Berrien Springs Camera Club will be on Wednesday, May 7, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library at Cass (Old 31) and Union. May is the month for the final competition of the year, when prints and digital submissions that were judged acceptable or honored in competition during the current season will be reviewed again by three judges, who will select the top five projected images and prints, in the categories of Nature and Open (everything else).

The club’s season runs from September to June, with four competitions each year. Besides two special topics for each competition, three other categories are always acceptable: Nature, Portraits, and Open. The special topics for this season were as follows: for October: Action, and Cracks and Crevices; for December: Graffiti/Street Art, and Mist/Fog; for February: Patterns, and Shadows: and for April: The Sky and Things in It, and Grates, Vents, and Manhole Covers.

Anyone is welcome to come and enjoy viewing the images, seeing how the club operates, and learning from the judging process. Refreshments will be served. One can also read more about the club and its activities at http://berrienspringscameraclub.blogspot.com.

Spring Gardening Class
Maybe you pour over seed catalogs from the time the first snowflakes flies until your seeds arrive at your doorstep. Or maybe you’ve never experienced the joy of plucking your own first tomato from the vine. Avid chemical free gardener, or straight-out-of-the-city novice, there is something for each to learn at the Spring Gardening Class on April 13, 4-6 p.m. in the Youth Room.

Darryl Hosford, owner of Simple Updates in town, is an organic gardener and also has his own green house. He experiments with heirloom seeds (seeds which are passed from grower to grower for generations). Sharing his love for growing. Darryl gave a similar workshop to the Fairplain Church, and also coordinates a garden club for local organic and heirloom seed enthusiasts. He sometimes invites them to his home garden
Darryl's presentation will include a little bit of everything from how to grow greens on your kitchen counter (sprouting) to organic gardening tips. The program will be about an hour-and-a-half and will be followed by a Q & A for a total of about 2 hours.

A.G. Daniels:
Lessons in Leadership

presented by

Dr. Benjamin McArthur
Professor of History at Southern Adventist University

Sabbath, April 12, 3:30 p.m.

Chan Shun Hall
Andrews University
Berrien Springs, MI

McArthur is a graduate of Andrews University. He subsequently earned MA and PhD degrees from the University of Chicago. Following graduate school, he joined the faculty at Southern where he taught history.
for 30 years.

He then spent three years at Southwestern Adventist University where he served as academic dean. He returned to the classroom and to Southern Adventist University in 2012. His primary teaching interests are in American history, from colonial times through the early twentieth century. He also enjoys writing screenplays and has written two books on the American theater.

In recent years his scholarly interest has focused on the Adventist church. He is currently involved in writing a biography of A.G. Daniells, the longest-serving president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, who is the subject of his presentation.

The following information from Wikipedia provides a brief background on A.G. Daniells:

Arthur Grosvenor Daniells (1858–1935) was a Seventh-day Adventist minister and administrator, most notably the longest serving president of the General Conference.

He served as secretary to James and Ellen White for one year. He later worked as an evangelist and was one the pioneers of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in the South Pacific. He became the president of the Australasia Union Conference, and then the president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists (1901 to 1922). He led the church in developing a new level of church government, the union conference. He was the first chairperson of the Ellen G. White Estate (1915 to 1935).

He was not reelected in 1922. In his retirement Daniells formed the Seventh-day Adventist Ministerial Association and Ministry magazine.

Affordable Summer Housing

Need a place for the summer? Want to live close to campus but can’t afford campus housing? This might just be the perfect place for you!

I am looking for a male to sublet one of the rooms of the two bedroom basement apartment I am currently leasing until July 2014. If you would like to renew the lease then for next year, you will be the first in line to do so!

As mentioned before this is a two-bedroom basement apartment, with full access to the kitchen, living room and bathroom. It is located on University Blvd at about a two-minute walk to PMC. Very close to campus and very affordable. You will be sharing the apt with my friend that is staying for the summer. The all-inclusive price is only $250, and that literally includes everything.

I will be graduating on May 4 and going back home about a couple days after that, so the place will be available on either the 5th or 6th of May. Contact me as soon as possible so I can set you up for a quick tour of the place to see if you are interested! Thank you.

Three-cushion couch

This is a soft, medium brown, three-cushion couch. We have lovingly used it for years, but we're moving and it's time to sell it. There is some wear on a couple of the cushions, but other than that it's in great shape. No other tears or odors, comes from a pet-free, smoke-free home. The slip cover/pillows aren't included but show that it can easily be dressed up to be cute as it is comfortable. Very spacious (approximately 6 ft. long) and a great price!

Massage Therapist

Are the stresses of work and study getting to you?
Would you like to boost your athletic performance?
Do you have a muscle ache that just won't go away?

Ray McAllister, an Andrews alumnus who despite total blindness is now a licensed massage therapist, invites you to visit Healing's Rays Massage. Proficient in deep tissue, sports and relaxation massage, Ray can relieve aches, help you tone muscles, and give you the energy boost to finish studies. He also offers hydrotherapy, hot stone massage, reflexology and now hot bamboo massage. His wife, Sally, is a certified aromatherapist and will be present for female clients. She sells home-made aromatherapy blends.

Introductory cost is only $25 for your first hour, $15 per half hour, for students all the time. Contact Ray for regular, competitive rates. 30 no-cost massages are available for those with Adventist Risk Management insurance, including sponsored seminary students.
