AICER Presents Dr. Ostrander
The Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) is inviting faculty and students to attend a presentation on Wednesday, July 30, 2014 at 12:00 noon.

Presenter: Dr. Raymond Ostrander, Professor of Teaching, Learning & Curriculum, Andrews University

How to Write a Theoretical Framework

Whether you are writing a thesis dissertation, or an article, the ability to craft a cogent and coherent theoretical framework is crucial to the process. Dr. Ostrander will present a practical, four-step process for writing a theoretical framework. These four steps include (1) Looking at the larger theoretical base of your study topic, (2) presenting a brief historical overview of theoretical thinking related to your topic, (3) describing the current context of theoretical thinking, and (4) presenting a series of logic statements specific to your study that identify the variables your study addresses.

AICER Presents Dr. Burnett

The Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) is inviting faculty and students to attend a presentation on Monday, July 14, 2014 at 12:00 noon.

Presenter: Dr. Harvey Burnett, Assistant Professor of Psychology, Andrews University

Understanding the Relationship of Trauma, Substance Use, and Resilience among a Religiously Affiliated University Students

This study examined patterns of association between substance use, trauma, and resilience at a conservative church-affiliated university. The authors used resilience data (N = 278) from a Health Risk and Protective Factors Study that was conducted during the 2012 spring semester. Research team included Dr. Harvey Burnett, Dr. Duane McBride, Kristen Witzel and graduate student Kylah Allers.

AICER Presents Dr. Matthews

The Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) is inviting faculty and students to attend a presentation on Friday, July 11, 2014 at 12:00 noon.

Presenter: Dr. John Matthews, Professor of Educational Administration and Religious Education

Does Religion Manipulate the Minds of Children? A Rejoinder to the Critics

Christians have been accused of manipulating the minds of their children by controlling what they experience. From an extreme secular perspective—secular meaning of the present age (culture)—the approach of Christians in raising their children is regarded as indoctrination akin to brainwashing. This presentation examines whether or not it is acceptable for Christians to raise their children as Christians.

STUDENTS: Take Course Surveys

It is once again time for students to rate their courses through course surveys. Course surveys provide the opportunity to give important (and anonymous) feedback to instructors on the effectiveness of the course.

Most courses will be surveyed electronically through our automated system, Class Climate. Email invitations for each course survey will be sent Sunday morning, June 29. If the survey is not taken, reminders will be sent automatically every three days until July 13. A Certificate of Completion will be generated after each survey is submitted. This may be saved or emailed, and used as proof of completion if the instructor offers any type of incentive.

Thank you in advance for your participation. If you have any questions, please contact the Office of Institutional Effectiveness at ext. 3308 (assessment@andrews.edu)

GC Vice President Presents at Andrews

Geoffrey G. Mbwana, general vice president of the General Conference, will be presenting July 2-6 in Chan Shun Hall and the Howard Center for the 2014 Tanzanian Adventists in the United States Retreat. Click the attachment below for details.

AICER Symposium - Monica Desir

Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) is inviting students and faculty to attend a mock pre-defense entitled, "Curriculum-Related Trends in K-12 Adventist Education in the North American Division: An Inductive Analysis of the Profile Surveys—1987-2007."

Presenter: Monica Desir, Curriculum and Instruction Graduate Student, Andrews University

Ms. Desir’s study is based on 20 years of curriculum research and examines trends related to curriculum guides, textbooks, technology, and other system-wide issues. Such issues include teacher perceptions of the Journey to Excellence (J2E) initiative—an overarching framework designed to guide the course of Adventist education, and to address prominent teacher concerns such as spirituality in schools, instruction-related concerns, and professional development.

Venue: Bell Hall, Room 13, June 30, 2012 at 12:00 noon

Online participants need to login as "Guest" at https://andrews.adobeconnect.com/8a77709415/research/ or http://www.andrews.edu/sed/aicer/researchwebinars/ whether or not they are registered Andrews students.

Gazebo Closed Saturday Nights
Dear Resident Hall Students,

Due to the low number of customers who use the Gazebo on Sabbath evenings, they will now be closing for Sabbath supper. However, they will be providing a small number of box suppers to each residence hall for those in need of a meal. These will be at no cost and will be given on a first-come first-serve basis.

If you are on a meal plan a box supper will be set aside for you until 7 PM tomorrow evening. If you choose to eat somewhere else and do not come to pick it up by that time, we will make it available to others who would like it.

Thank you for your understanding of this change. Feel free to speak with a dean if you have any questions or concerns.

Teresa Reeve Named Seminary Associate Dean

Teresa Reeve, associate professor of New Testament at Andrews University, has been chosen as the new associate dean of the Andrews University Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary. Reeve succeeds R. Clifford Jones, who is now serving as president of the Lake Region Conference of Seventh-day Adventists following 19 years at the seminary, including ten years as associate dean.

Reeve comes to the position with several years of experience in teaching and ministry. She holds an MDiv from the Seminary and a PhD from the University of Notre Dame, and has been teaching in the Department of New Testament of the seminary for 11 years.

"Reeve's appointment is especially significant because she is the first female associate dean in seminary history," says Jiří Moskala, seminary dean. "This is an historical nomination, and I am glad I can play a part in it. With this appointment comes unique diversity in our seminary."

When asked about the significance of her role as first female associate seminary dean, Reeve says, "I will leave others to debate what the appointment means for the church. For the seminary, my appointment is simply an expression of our belief that every believer is gifted by God, and it is our responsibility as the body of Christ to put everyone to work for Him in the places most appropriate to their gifting."

Reeve began her career as an elementary teacher, teaching in Adventist and Montessori schools for ten years and earning an MA in educational and developmental psychology from Andrews. She has developed materials and services in various aspects of child and family ministries for the General Conference and North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists and Advent Source, including work with the Adventure Club and Sabbath School curricula.

Upon returning to Andrews to complete her MDiv, Reeve assisted the pastor and served as head elder at All Nations Church in Berrien Springs for several years, before completing her PhD and joining the New Testament department. During this time she has published numerous articles and served the church on a number of committees, including the Biblical Research Institute Committee, the Theology of Ordination Study Committee and the Seminary Deans' Council.

"My central focus will be to work closely with the dean to pursue, in increasingly effective ways, our mission of preparing effective leaders to make disciples in preparation for Jesus' soon coming," says Reeve. "I especially hope to prioritize preparing students to work in a diverse, multicultural church by providing training, experiences and a diverse faculty that can serve as the needed educators and role models."

Reeve says that she feels humbled by her appointment, but is counting on our gracious and mighty God for His wisdom and leading.

"I love my God, my church, and our seminary," she says. "I am excited about serving the faculty and students and about seeking together the possibilities of the future and planning and working together in God's wisdom for the service of His kingdom."

Howard Performing Arts Center 2014-15 Season Preview

The Howard Performing Arts Center announces the 2014–2015 season of its concert series Howard Center Presents... The Howard Performing Arts Center was designed to enhance the beautiful music of live performance, and this season celebrates the natural qualities of the Howard Performing Arts Center, featuring artists whose music is enhanced by the concert hall's incredible acoustics. Even the well-known Christian contemporary artists, Jars of Clay and David Phelps, will perform in "un-plugged" concerts.

The season will kick off with Petar Jankovic Ensemble, a musical fusion of guitar and string quartet, on Sunday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. The ensemble will play a unique mix of Spanish pieces, passionate tangos, classical masterpieces and contemporary compositions. Later that month, enjoy an evening of classical music by violinist Carla Trynchuk, cellist Stephen Framil and pianist Chi Yong Yun on Saturday, Sept. 20, at 8 p.m.
In support of the community, The Howard Performing Arts Center will offer a free small-business showcase on Sept. 21. Attendees can discover the benefits of “shopping small” as they meet local business owners and learn about their products and services. This is also an opportunity for business owners to network with each other and reach new clientele. The showcase will begin at 3 p.m. and culminate in a concert by Lake Effect Jazz Big Band at 5 p.m. Contact the Howard Center for information on representing your business at this event.

On Sunday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m., violinist Dana Lyn and guitarist Kyle Sanna will present an evening of traditional Irish music. Lyn was featured on “The Raw Bar” and “Geantrai,” documentaries on traditional Irish music that aired on national television in Ireland. Sanna has performed with some of the greatest living interpreters of Irish music including Kevin Burke and Martin Hayes.

As part of the prestigious honor of winning the Fischoff National Chamber Music Competition, The Telegraph Quartet will make a stop at the Howard Performing Arts Center. The winning quartet, made up of two violins, a viola and a cello, is comprised of young adults from San Francisco, California. Their concert at the Howard Center will be Sunday, Oct. 12, at 4 p.m.

Jars of Clay, a well-known Christian band, will perform selections from their new album, “Inland,” as well as fan favorites on Saturday, Oct. 19, at 8 p.m. Jars of Clay is on their 20th anniversary tour. Their music, marked by lush keyboard melodies, strong acoustic rhythm guitar and rich lyrics, has won the group three GRAMMY awards.

On Saturday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m., Charles Reid and the love of his life, Julie Reid, will share an evening of favorite love songs. They will explore the complexities of love, a topic that has captivated poets and musicians throughout time, with their celebrated repertoire.

The Andrews University Symphony Orchestra, producer and pianist Belford Hernandez and conductor Claudio Gonzalez present diverse sounds spanning from classical Christmas themes to Celtic tunes and soulful color in this concert celebrating the Christmas season with “A Christmas Celebration: Sounds of the Season with a Soulful Touch” on Saturday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. The University Singers join them throughout, culminating with the famous “Hallelujah Chorus” from Handel’s Messiah. Other works include arrangements by Hernandez and David Williamson. Celebrate the season with this diverse array of sounds.

The Howard Performing Arts Center will present "HIS Creation," a family-friendly program on Saturday, Jan. 10. Rich Aguileria, "The Mud Guy" from Guide Magazine and 3ABN's "Kids Time," will give an interactive presentation about how the world was designed and created by an all-powerful and loving God. Two showings, at 6 and 8 p.m., will entertain parents and children alike.

Featuring on NBC's hit musical competition "The Sing-Off," The Filharmonic is a six-member a cappella boy band whose vocal style exemplifies an urbanesque hip-hop sound with 90s nostalgia. Their concert at the Howard Center will be on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 7 p.m.

David Phelps, known for his singing with the Gaither Vocal Band, will perform on Sunday, Jan. 25, at 7 p.m. He will showcase his powerhouse tenor voice by singing Christian favorites from his albums over the years. "Tied up in Knotts," a one-woman comedy routine, will be in the Howard Center on Sunday, Feb. 15, at 7 p.m. Karen Knotts will perform and tell stories about her legendary father, Don Knotts. Don Knotts is most known for his role as Barney Fife on the "Andy Griffith Show."

A father-and-son team will wrap up the season on Sunday, Feb. 22, at 7 p.m. Trumpeter Brandon Ridenour and pianist Rich Ridenour will delight the audience with their comedic stage presence while they perform music from classical masterworks to American regime. Brandon also plays trumpet in the entertaining and talented group, Canadian Brass.

All tickets go on sale Monday, August 4, 2014, and can be purchased online at howard.andrews.edu, or by calling the Box Office at 888-467-6442 or 269-471-3560. Ticket prices for concerts will vary, but the Howard Performing Arts Center's 11th season will continue to provide world-class arts to the community at affordable prices.

Andrews University Hires Long-Term Gymnics Coach

Eric Paddock, 2013–14 interim Gymnics coach, has been hired permanently into the position as Gymnics coach at Andrews University. Paddock holds an associate's degree in pre-physical therapy, and a bachelor's degree in sport studies with a concentration in human performance from Southern Adventist University (Collegedale, Tennessee).

Paddock began coaching the Gymnics, a 30-member sports acrobatics group, in September 2013, following previous coach Christian Lighthall's departure. Paddock came to the position with background in leadership, coaching and teambuilding, having served as boys’ director at two youth summer camps and as a coach at the Gym-Kids Gymnastics Program in Collegedale.

"Eric did very well in his first year," says Emmanuel Rudatsikira, dean of the School of Health Professions. "He brought the Gymnics together very quickly. The team members appreciate the fact that he uses a systematic approach to tryouts, and he has had a number of successes such as tour shows that have received high marks and successful routine performances at Acrofest. I am confident that Eric will continue to bring the Gymnics to a higher level of excellence."

"It is a great honor to be able to continue here at Andrews University," Paddock says. "The year behind us
Second Annual Andrews Research Conference

By Melodie Roschman

Andrews University announces its second annual Andrews Research Conference (ARC), to be held May 13–17, 2015, in Buller Hall on the University’s Berrien Springs campus. The focus of the conference next year will be early career research in social sciences.

The event is open to current graduate students or professors within ten years of receiving their PhDs. Researchers must work in the fields of social work, psychology, communication, community & international development, or anthropology. Sponsored by the North American Division and General Conference of Adventists as well as Andrews, this is a minor conference as part of the biannual Adventist Human-Subjects Research Association Conference.

The conference’s purpose, explains Gary Burdick, associate dean for research, is to “network Adventist researchers across North America, building relationships and partnerships that will enhance the professional careers of the participants while providing a place for them to share their research in the context of faith.”

The Office of Research & Creative Scholarship, which organizes ARC, notes that while some Andrews faculty will be involved in the event, most presentations will be by researchers outside of Andrews. They are especially looking for Adventist graduate students outside of Adventist universities, and encourage international students to send representatives. Abstracts are due at the beginning of 2015; an exact deadline will be announced later in 2014.

The first Andrews Research Conference (ARC) was held from May 7–11, 2014, focusing on early career researchers in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math). The conference featured a mixture of academic presentations and social activities, with six presentation sessions spread over two days, as well as a message from Paul Brantley, NAD vice president, hiking, canoeing and volleyball, and a private viewing at the Andrews University Observatory.
Andrews University has announced the names of undergraduate students appearing on the dean's list for spring semester 2014. The following students have achieved a semester GPA of 3.5 or above with at least 12 credits, no incompletes and no grade below a B. There are 574 students on this list.

On June 9, 2014, the Mobile Farm Market, provided by the Andrews University Student Gardens, opened for business for the first time, selling fresh produce in Benton Harbor for six hours.

The farmer's market on wheels is a program sponsored by the Andrews University Student Gardens and partially funded by a Michigan State grant as part of the Be Healthy Berrien initiative. In partnership with the Berrien County Health Department and Planning Commission, the YMCA, Lakeland Healthcare, the cities of Buchanan, Niles and Stevensville, and United Way, the Gardens will be helping host a mobile farm market at strategic locations within the county in an effort to bring affordable healthy food to the community.

"Berrien County has identified seven locations within its borders with a high concentration of low income families who have limited access to produce and groceries," explains Stephen Erich, mobile farm market coordinator. "These areas are classified as food deserts."

The food truck takes fresh produce to specific locations within the neighborhoods in these "food deserts," and sells it to local families for affordable prices. The mobile farm market accepts Bridgecard food stamps, cash and credit/debit cards.

"Everything we're doing is working toward making Berrien County a healthier place," says Erich. "We're not just providing local families with tangible things; we're also helping to educate them. It's about building community and taking care of our neighbors."

The Gardens also have a local intern who accompanies them to the mobile farm market locations. The intern will learn how to operate the market so they can create similar programs in their own neighborhood, all while gaining business skills and work experience. The Gardens also have about 20 student employees during the summer, planting, tending, harvesting and delivering to those signed up for its produce subscription service.

In addition to the partnerships they've established through the county, each location for the mobile farm market represents a positive relationship with a local community center or church.

"Providing good, organic food to the community at an affordable price makes me feel good about what I'm doing," says Arthur Mulyono, gardens manager. "I'm giving something back to my community and serving others. That's what being a Christian is all about."

Though the program is in an experimental phase this summer, if the response is positive they may do it again in the future.

"It's a wonderful witnessing tool," says Erich. "Health is emphasized a lot within the Adventist Church. It's Garth Woodruff, assistant professor of horticulture and landscape design, was on a radio show earlier this week talking about the Student Gardens' new role within the county's Be Healthy Berrien initiative. This includes the Mobile Farm Market, funded by a grant through Berrien County and a partnership with Lakeland Healthcare, United Way, two local YMCAs, and the Berrien County Planning Commission.

Faculty Couple Publishes Book

Biblical counseling is a resource for Christians who need help locating the sin in their lives and cutting it out. Authors David and Beverly Sedlacek offer the truths they have learned through years of clinical practice in their comprehensive guide to "Cleansing the Sanctuary of the Heart."

This book is a distillation of the biblical principles the Sedlaceks have used to heal others who have sought counseling for addictions, mental and emotional disorders, relationship problems and abuse.

Alumnus "Exudes Confidence"

Youssef Yomtoob has yet to meet a school district on which he can't have a positive effect.

The new School City of East Chicago superintendent, affectionately nicknamed "Dr. Joe" by those who know him, told the crowd of parents, teachers and administrators that everyone "is in it together" and that there will be no "they and us" once he takes over the reins July 1. The School Board voted unanimously to offer Yomtoob a five-year contract at a special meeting Friday night, the terms of which will be discussed during a public hearing at the June 30 meeting.

Yomtoob, whose career spanned 50 years before he retired from Hawthorn School District in Vernon Hills, Illinois, said his philosophy stems from research at a district he was in during the 1970s that revealed all students, despite their racial or economic backgrounds, have the potential to succeed. He carried those principles everywhere he went and said he left each place a little better than he found it.

Physics Alum Highlighted in Nature

Dewey Murdick (BS Physics 1999) made the news last month in the article "Text-mining offers clues to success" appearing in the May 2014 issue of Nature, an International Weekly Journal of Science of high repute. The article highlighted one of the many projects Murdick manages for the U.S. Intelligence Advanced Research Projects Activity (IARPA) Foresight and Understanding with Scientific Exposition (FUSE) program.

"So far, it has performed more than 2 million analyses of past data to pick out key advances," says Murdick in reference to his innovative software that reviews multilingual data from scientific, technical, and patent literature. "From these, it has identified several hundred indicators, such as new collaborations or expressions of excitement in text, that highlight emerging areas now."

FUSE seeks to build capabilities and methodologies that assist a diverse set of analysts (e.g., national security, research evaluation, and business intelligence) in prioritizing new claims, methods, and technologies from around the world.

To learn more about this new software and its significant predictive power which puts it on track to forecast the launch of new products and other applications, refer to the full-text article.

Authors David and Beverly Sedlacek have worked for more than 35 years with people who have been ravaged by sin and its effects.

David holds a doctorate in social welfare and currently teaches in the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University. Beverly has a master’s in psychiatric nursing and currently teaches nursing at Andrews University. Through Into His Rest Ministries, they provide counseling, conduct retreats, speak at conferences and write.
EAST CHICAGO — Youssef Yomtoob has yet to meet a school district on which he can’t have a positive effect.

The new School City of East Chicago superintendent, affectionately nicknamed “Dr. Joe” by those who know him, told the crowd of parents, teachers and administrators that everyone “is in it together” and that there will be no “they and us” once he takes over the reins July 1. The School Board voted unanimously to offer Yomtoob a five-year contract at a special meeting Friday night, the terms of which will be discussed during a public hearing at the June 30 meeting.

He carried those principles everywhere he went and said he left each place a little better than he found it.

“I don’t believe in failing, I only believe in success,” Yomtoob said. “We’re going to work to show we have the best school system here in East Chicago.”

Much of that will come in the form of working on student achievement, his first priority, as well as earning and garnering the respect of other units in the city. Yomtoob has not yet met Mayor Anthony Copeland, for example, but he hopes they’ll be able to create a positive relationship.

The board agreed that Yomtoob will be a tremendous asset to the struggling district. Board trustee Frank Ramirez said there was no way he could let Yomtoob get by.

“I will sleep better knowing we made the right choice (in Yomtoob),” trustee Joel Rodriguez said.

Chris Gestiakowski, East Chicago Central High School instructional leader for early college, was impressed with Yomtoob’s confidence.

“He’s not intimidated by the problems we’re facing,” she said. “We have someone who wants to work.”

Yomtoob, who lives in Riverwoods, Illinois, with his wife, Parichehr, received his bachelor’s degree in mathematics from Manchester College; his master of arts degree from Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich.; a master of science degree from the University of Notre Dame; and his doctorate in philosophy from the University of Toledo in Toledo, Ohio. He’s also conducted post-doctoral studies at several Michigan universities.

He retired from Hawthorn in 2009 after 13 years and was asked to come back as a special consultant to Willow Run Schools in Ypsilanti, Michigan, in 2010, after spending seven years there previously.

“I have one more life in education, and it’s here in East Chicago,” Yomtoob said.
Text-mining offers clues to success

US intelligence programme analyses language in patents and papers to identify next big technologies.

BY SARA REARDON

A project backed by a US intelligence agency might soon make it much easier to predict which technologies will one day become game-changers. Results revealed this week by the Intelligence Advanced Research Projects Activity (IARPA) suggest that clues in the wordings of, and relationships between, scientific papers and patents could foretell research successes.

The project, called Foresight and Understanding from Scientific Exposition (FUSE), could enable funders to pick winners, and help governments to keep an eye on ‘disruptive technologies’ — those that they feel might threaten national security or outpace regulations, for instance. Past examples include nanotechnologies and information technologies, such as the use of the Global Positioning System in mobile phones to allow tracking of individuals’ movements. Last week, FUSE, a four-year project that started in 2011, entered its last phase: to predict the successes three to five years from now.

Although abstracts have been text-mined in the past for keywords and other clues in language, FUSE is one of the first projects to mine the whole bodies of papers and patents. So far, it has performed more than 2 million analyses of past data to pick out key advances, says Dewey Murdick, manager of the FUSE project. From these, it has identified several hundred indicators, such as new collaborations or expressions of excitement in text, that highlight emerging areas.

“What we’d like to glean is understanding of the right combination of things that leads to success,” says John Byrnes, a computer scientist at SRI International, an innovation centre in Menlo Park, California, whose team is one of three developing software for FUSE. To make predictions, his program mines text for keywords, citations and phrases that indicate authors’ outlooks in scholarly papers.

One example he cites is the resolution of a technical problem, that, once solved, led to what is now a mainstay of solar-panel technology. In the mid-1990s, millions of dollars were invested in research into solar panels that used aqueous solutions to convert photons into energy. Although promising at first, by 2008, the technology had been overtaken by the much more stable and effective solid-state solar panels. FUSE might have predicted the aqueous panels’ demise, according to results presented by Byrnes and his team this week at the US Department of Energy’s SunShot Grand Challenge Summit in Anaheim, California.

Scientific literature analysis, or ‘scientometrics’, is decades old. Organizations such as Thomson Reuters, an information firm headquartered in New York, have long used these analyses to identify the most influential papers or researchers in a field. FUSE takes this further by mining millions of papers and patents in both English and Chinese, two of the most commonly used languages in scientific literature, says Murdick.

The analysis and indicators can predict whether a nascent field will become prominent or whether it is simply a source of excitement that will soon die out, says Olga Babko-Malaya, a research engineer at BAE Systems in Winchester, Massachusetts, who heads another FUSE team.

Her team uses software algorithms to analyse ‘sentiment’ in the natural language of papers. For instance, authors might say that their work builds on or contradicts a cited paper, or use descriptive language that expresses excitement.

The researchers also found that promising topics invent their own jargon and start using more acronyms. “Abbreviations imply acceptance by the community and are indicators of more mature technologies,” says Babko-Malaya.

The changes in group collaborations in a field over time can also be predictive. FUSE researcher Lance Ramshaw at Raytheon BBN Technologies in Cambridge, Massachusetts, and his team are analysing networks between different topics, keywords and authors. He says that a new topic may be emerging when prominent authors start contributing to a group of papers that share common traits, or when alliances between collaborations shift.

Alan Porter, who specializes in technology forecasting at the Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta, agrees that retrospective predictions, such as the solar-panel example, are useful for modelling what companies have been doing and for tracking the history of a product. The more difficult task, he says, would be to use such a network to identify the “white spaces”: areas between technology clusters that are ripe for new research.

Ideally, analysis will show patterns or tipping points that are common to success stories. Such patterns might eventually allow the project to forecast when a product might launch, or whether a drug will be approved by regulators, explains Babko-Malaya.

Although software is catching up, human analysts remain the best forecasters, says Murdick. “You can ask experts anything you want,” he says.

In another project, Forecasting Science & Technology, IARPA is funding an online crowdsourcing project called SciCast, run by George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. It aims to consult 10,000 scientists to help develop methods for generating accurate forecasts. “My personal bias is that it’s a combination of people and machines that will ultimately provide the most useful value,” says Murdick.
Thank You To Our Friends
Your kind words and cards of sympathy, comfort, and support have meant a lot to us since the passing of Sylvia’s mother. The beautiful bouquet of flowers was very much appreciated and enjoyed in her memory.

We look forward to the day when there will be no more pain or tears.

Death of Elaine Waller
Elaine Louise Waller (retired music librarian at Andrews University) died Thursday, July 3, due to complications from pneumonia. She was 95 years old. Elaine began working in the cataloguing department of the James White Library in the early 60s and then after receiving her master’s in library science, she served as music librarian.

A memorial service is being planned for later this summer, and an announcement regarding date, time and place will be made. Elaine is survived by two nieces (daughters of her brother, Robert), three grandnieces and a grandnephew. She has many friends in the Andrews University community.

David Steen’s Mother Passed Away
By David Steen
My dear mother.
Frances Elizabeth Fuller Steen
December 16, 1919 - June 21, 2014
Brothers and sisters, we do not want you to be uninformed about those who sleep in death, so that you do not grieve like the rest of mankind, who have no hope. 1 Thessalonians 4:13

We now have yet another reason to look forward to that bright morning. Even so come Lord Jesus.
My dear mother died yesterday. She lived for 94 and a half years. And on thinking about how she died, I can't imagine a better way to die. It was an answer to prayer really. Because for a long time, I have been praying to God, asking Him to transition my aging parents from this life to their long sleep in a gentle and dignified way as only He can. God is so good because mother's death was gentle and dignified.

So here is what happened - with some background.

For the last decade or two my folks opted to continue living in their Holly Hill home. It is the home place that they designed and built in 1962. It is where we have all called home since returning from many years of mission service in Ethiopia. It is where they have been very comfortable. But as dad lost his vision and then his mobility, and as mom lost her ability to drive, and with the Pisgah Villa and retirement facility next door, they were often tempted to sell this home place and move so they would have much less to manage in their old age. But indecision always becomes a decision and year after year they stayed here.

They simply could not have managed here on Holly Hill had it not been for Philip, my youngest brother, Geoff, and many others.

Philip lives in neighboring Madison county. Four years ago, he quit his log cabin building/cabinet making/blacksmithing jobs and focused his attention on care giving. He read and studied, asked questions, and with much learning from trial and error, he has lovingly cared for mother and daddy. For him, the day to day caring involved commuting an hour every day to fix their breakfast, keep up with their medications, getting them out for exercise and activities, grocery shopping, taking care of the home place, taking care of the ever present health care issues, cleaning up the ever present physiological accidents, preparing their evening meal and making sure that all was well before commuting back to care for his own place. Many were the times that he stayed overnight to make sure all was well.

Philip could not have done it alone. Grandson Geoff Steen also lives near Asheville. With his heart of gold, his caregiving skills, his culinary skills, and his great gifts for gentle service, Geoff has been a huge blessing to my parents assisting Philip in the day to day care, giving Philip much needed weekly respite. And Geoff's father, my younger brother James, an ER doc in Boston was frequently consulted when there were medical issues. His knowledge and expertise helped keep mother and daddy both healthy. So many have stepped in to help so that they could stay here at home during their old age. Friends, neighbors, all have helped and their demonstrations of love made the difference.

Mother was mobile to the end. Correction, she was highly mobile to the end. She was agile and always a fast walker. When Philip took them out for walks, mother was always far ahead and dad far behind moving slowly with his cane or walker, Philip hard pressed to keep them together. Mother did have down-times with her mobility. She did have periodic TIA-like episodes with loss of mobility, slurred speech, and drooping face and mental confusion. After extensive testing, neurologists called these episodes migraines rather than TIA's. Following every down time of these episodes, she would bounce back to her bright, energetic, social self again.

So it was that about two weeks ago mother had another episode. And to show that she was on the rebound, last Sabbath, after Philip put them to bed and left, the two old timers, like young kids got out of bed, dressed, and walked down their steep driveway to the neighbors to catch a ride to the church social where they had a grand time. Tuesday, Philip took them out to see the great grand kids in Madison county. Mother was mobile to the end. Correction, she was highly mobile to the end. She was agile and always a fast walker. When Philip took them out for walks, mother was always far ahead and dad far behind moving slowly with his cane or walker, Philip hard pressed to keep them together. Mother did have down-times with her mobility. She did have periodic TIA-like episodes with loss of mobility, slurred speech, and drooping face and mental confusion. After extensive testing, neurologists called these episodes migraines rather than TIA's. Following every down time of these episodes, she would bounce back to her bright, energetic, social self again.

All day she slept. No change Thursday. The family started coming together on Friday. No change. No urine output. No response. Jim and Sandy flew in from Boston Friday afternoon, we drove down from MI arriving Friday evening, Claude and Donna cut short a counseling session in WV to drive in late Friday night. Lisa and Kevin arrived from Eastern Carolina Sabbath afternoon. Kind neighbors kept checking in and dropping off food.

Then at 4:45 Sabbath afternoon, God invited her to enter His gracious rest and she accepted. She just stopped breathing. No pain. No struggle. If this isn't a good way to die, I don't know what that would be. At home, with all your family around you, at peace, on a beautiful Sabbath afternoon, after 94.5 years of living an active life of humble service to others, like Jacob in Genesis 49:33, she simply gathered her feet into her bed and yielded up the ghost.

The girls dressed her in pretty clothes, fixed her hair and she looked so quiet and peaceful.

Is there a good way to die?

Thank you sweet Jesus. What a kind way to end this chapter. You are the best.

To comply with the oft-stated wishes of our parents, Claude and Elizabeth Steen, mother's body will be cremated now. Then, after dad follows her in death, we plan on having a public memorial service for the two of them together. They lived and served together as a team. They want to be remembered together.

Ernest Mario Berlin
April 5, 1916 - July 1, 2014

Obituary

Ernest Mario Berlin, 98, of Berrien Springs, passed away Tuesday, July 1, 2014, at his home. Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 5, in the Castelbuono Youth Chapel of Pioneer Memorial Church on the campus of Andrews University, with Pastor Don Dronen officiating. Friends are invited to visit with the family beginning at 3 p.m., and condolences may be left at www.allredfuneralhome.com. On April 5, 1916, in Cantelupe, Italy, Ernie was the firstborn child of Thomas and Christina (Monaco) Berlin. He proudly served with the United States Navy during World War II. He became a Berrien Springs resident in 1966 when he moved from Chicago. He was a brick mason by trade, and he had been self-employed as well as working for Andrews University. Ernie served for 27 years as a greeter at Pioneer Memorial Church (where he was a member)-a position he delighted in because he enjoyed talking to people, and it was said that he could make any baby smile. He also enjoyed bowling, a sport he embraced until he was 90 years old. Ernie is survived by three daughters-Bonnie (Norm) Perry of Berrien Springs, Debbie Smith (Jerry) Blosser of Shepherd, Michigan, and Jane Takizawa of Japan; three sons-William “Mario” of Berkeley, California, Robert of Grand Rapids, and Greg (Robin) of Mt. Pleasant; 17 grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; and two sisters-Virginia Ventura and Eleanor Johnson, both of Chicago. He was preceded in death by his wife, Elaine, in 1998; son-in-law, Hitoshi Takizawa; three sisters-Helen Parise, Jean Nordberg, Mary Lyman; and a brother, Thomas.

Need a place for July

I am looking for a place to stay for July. All I need is a bed in a home. It does not matter if it is a small apartment or house with a family. I am a female undergraduate going into my fifth year at Andrews. I am willing to help clean around the home or yard if it will help with accommodations or do work with benefit of cutting down rent costs. (walk pets, mow lawn, clean rooms, water plants, change lightbulbs, etc). I am SDA, like to meet new people, I love to learn about different cultures and languages and food :) and I am respectful of people's homes. I also have my own car and would be able to handle my own transportation. I do not have a lot of luggage to with me, so things will be spacious.

Preferences:
- No farther than 2 or 3 miles from Andrews University
- no smoking
- clean
- less than $300

If you know someone at least who might have a place, please ask. Thank you!

Looking for a Car

Hi I am a graduate student who is looking for a good reliable daily car. One that will give me no problems for the next two years. I would rather buy my car from someone affiliated with Andrews in some way or another. I feel there is less chance of someone taking advantage of me or selling me a lemon that way. So if you are looking to sell a car or know of someone who is, I am in the market for one!

Black & Decker CHV1510 hand held vacuum only $40.00 OBO

I have a brand new Black & Decker CHV1510 hand held vacuum for sale. It's is still in the original box. Perfect for cleaning inside your car or hard to reach places.

Asking only $40.00 OBO

This vacuum retails for $60+ online. Get in touch now before it goes.

The Black & Decker CHV1510 boasts an innovative shape that allows users to operate the tool in ways that traditionally-shaped hand vacs haven’t performed. The rotating, slim nozzle design targets dirt in tight spaces, and, with over fifty percent more reach than previous Black & Decker models, the extension crevice tool lengthens, gaining accessibility. Additionally, the flip-up brush offers multiple cleaning functions without the hassle of loose accessory pieces.

Features
- Translucent, bagless dirt bowl makes it easy to see dirt and easy to empty
- Removable, washable dirt bowl and filters allow for a thorough, hygienic cleaning
- 3 stage filtration means less clogging and cleaner air exhaust
- 3 versatile ways to store: horizontally, vertically, or mount on a wall
- Charging indicator light allows you to always know you have a good connection
- Lightweight and portable for quick clean-ups
- Energy star approved charging system saves energy and helps protect batteries

Massage Therapy for Childbirth

Did you know that massage therapy during labor can greatly reduce the pain, stress, and length of childbirth? Ray McAllister, blind licensed massage therapist, is offering this service free to some women as he completes training in this. He has a strong but gentle touch, and his total blindness means he’ll see nothing. He can empower the woman’s partner who wishes to help. Ray is also certified in prenatal massage. If you receive this gift, you may enjoy free prenatal and postpartum massage. Contact Healing Rays Massage, (269) 471-7422, raymcal@att.net.
