The Theology of Ordination Study Committee:
One Member’s Observations and Reflections

Presented by

Cheryl Doss PhD
Director of the Institute of World Mission
Member, Theology of Ordination Study Committee

Sabbath Afternoon, September 20, 2014
3:30 pm

Chan Shun Hall
Andrews University

About the Topic

Currently, the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, the SDA denomination’s highest administrative authority, does not endorse the ordination of women as ministers.

During the past two years the Theology of Ordination Study Committee appointed by the General Conference has been studying issues related to the ordination of women as ministers in the SDA church. The committee recently made its report as part of a process which is expected to lead to discussion and possible revision of the denomination’s practice of not endorsing the ordination of women as ministers when the church holds its next world-wide General Conference Session in 2015.

Cheryl Doss, a member of the committee and director of the denomination’s Institute of World Mission, will discuss personal observations and reflections growing out of her work on the committee.

About the Speaker
Cheryl Doss, PhD, is the director of the Institute of World Mission, a service of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists that serves the world church. The Institute facilitates the cross-cultural outreach of the Seventh-day Adventist world church. It provides cross-cultural training for full-time, short-term and volunteer workers, and facilitates their re-entry to the home field.

Cheryl's mission experience began as an MK (missionary kid) living in South Africa. Later, with her husband Gorden (also an MK and now a teacher of mission at Andrews University), she served for sixteen years in the country of Malawi.

During her years in Malawi, Cheryl directed rural clinics, developed training programs for pastors’ wives, facilitated women’s ministries programs, and helped start Shepherdess Clubs. She also home schooled her two children, Kristi and Richard, and taught classes in the ministerial training program at Lakeview Seminary. As a nurse she lectured on health and, along with her husband, initiated annual family life training seminars for pastors and their wives. Their book, Christian Marriage, was published in Malawi in 1995.

Combining her mission background and educational training with her passion for family growth, Cheryl's research and writing has largely focused on families in cross-cultural transition. Besides teaching and administrative duties, her specific responsibilities at the Institute of World Mission are developing curriculum and resources for mission training, and the support and education of missionary families through newsletters and re-entry programs.

Since leaving Africa in 1997, Cheryl and Gorden have made their home at Andrews University and are blessed to have their two remaining parents living nearby. Kristi and her family are on the faculty at the Adventist International Institute of Advanced Studies in the Philippines. Richard and his family are serving at Nile Union Academy in Egypt.

Please come join us this Friday at 7:30 for Revive Vespers at the Biology Ampitheatre! What steps should be taken when returning to God? What is the devil doing to keep us from coming to God? ChemSem: Halogen Photochemistry in Changing Arctic Climate Atmospheric chemistry is one of the best examples that chemistry is everywhere. What do you know about the chemistry of the air around you and in you? Do you know the relationship between the color of the sky including the color of sunsets and atmospheric composition? Do you know the facts of climate change? What can the clouds and snow tell about our changing climate? These and other questions will be in play at our first Fall 2014 ChemSem talk. What questions do you have?

Everyone is welcome to attend our first Fall 2014 session in the Andrews University Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series this coming Thursday, September 4 at 4:30pm. As usual we meet in A-107 Halenz Hall.

Our guest speaker is Kerri Pratt, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry & Department of Earth & Environmental Science, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI. Attached is the seminar flyer in pdf format with more details about our speaker’s educational and professional background.

AICER Presents Dr. Christon Arthur

Presenter: Dr. Christon Arthur, Dean, School of Graduate Studies and Research; Associate Provost, Faculty Development, Andrews University

Ways of Knowing: Using Research to Inform Theory & Practice
Humans are constantly making decisions. The quality of our life is inextricably linked to the decisions that we make. It goes without saying that the best decisions are usually Informed-decisions - decisions that are knowledge-based. But, how do we acquire that knowledge? How do we “come to know?” It is true that epistemology is concerned with what knowledge is most important; but how do we acquire or “come to know?” Is empiricism at odds with revelation? Can one know that which is not “testable” or “observable?” Is there such a thing as “objective reality?”

Venue: Bell Hall, Room 013

Online participants to login as "Guest" at https://andrews.adobeconnect.com/_a877709416/research/ or http://www.andrews.edu/sed/aicer/researchwebinars/ whether or not they are registered Andrews students.

The Petar Jankovic Ensemble creates a musical fusion of Spanish guitar and traditional string quartet. The ensemble's expression and technical mastery are evident in their performances of Spanish pieces, passionate tangos, classical masterpieces and contemporary compositions.

The group is comprised of Maria Storm, first violin; Azusa Tashiro, second violin; Amanda Grimm, viola; Kyra Saltman, cello; and Petar Jankovic, guitar. Jankovic teaches at Indiana University–Jacobs School of Music, where he is the coordinator for the guitar department.

Tickets are $15 for general admission, $10 for Andrews University faculty and staff, and $5 for students. They can be purchased online at howard.andrews.edu or at the box office by calling 888-467-6442. Classical radio station 90.7 WAUS is a media sponsor for this concert.

Andrews Hosts Pathfinder Day

On Sunday, August 10, more than 100 Andrews University volunteers welcomed over 700 Pathfinders onto campus. The first-ever Pathfinder Day, coordinated by Rebecca May, community relations coordinator; Shelly Erhard, director of student visits, and Brittany Felder, student visits coordinator, introduced attendees to the University, some for the first time, and many of the great things it has to offer. Representatives from 29 states, as well as from England, Papua New Guinea, Brazil and the British Virgin Islands, were among the groups who came as a precursor to their arrival at the Pathfinder Camporee in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, which began two days later.

*About a year ago several areas on campus started receiving inquiries from Pathfinder groups who wanted to stop by on their way to Oshkosh this summer," says May. "While we wanted to provide that opportunity, we also knew it would be impossible to accommodate multiple groups coming to campus over the course of a couple of weeks at that time of the year."

At the same time as Pathfinders would be making the trek to Wisconsin, Andrews had summer graduation and the arrival of freshmen for the upcoming school year, in addition to many staff and faculty heading to Oshkosh themselves to assist with the Camporee.

"It's a challenging time to have an influx of campus visitors for an extended period of time," says May.

So, in January she got together with three other staff members and decided to create a one-day event for Pathfinders to visit and experience Andrews. With no additional budgetary allocations for the event, the involved departments stretched their collective resources and made a plan.

"We decided to cap the event at 1,000 people," says May. "When a registration link was posted on the Camporee website for Andrews University Pathfinder Day, in less than a week we had over 1,000 registered and we quickly closed registration!"

The number eventually settled to 625, with a few groups showing up unregistered on the day of the event. Participants had 16 different activities to choose from, all staffed by volunteers from across campus. Those who participated in at least four events were eligible to receive the coveted Andrews University pin to wear proudly around Oshkosh.

Activities included a musical petting zoo, tours of the Horn Archaeological Museum, hayrides to the dairy, disc golf, campus tree walks, pipe organ demonstrations and swimming in the pool, in addition to three honors offered: Flower Culture, Livestock and Bones & Muscles.

"Andrews has so much to offer students academically, socially and spiritually," says Ron Whitehead, executive director for the International Pathfinder Camporee. "Most of the 50,000 student Pathfinders are in public education and do not know much about Adventist higher education. So it was a great opportunity to give them a look at a university that represents the world."

In addition to the volunteers, the event could not have happened without the financial partnership of several areas of campus. The Andrews Airpark provided a pancake breakfast, for which Enrollment Management provided eggs and pancake toppings, Andrews Student Gardens obtained fruit at wholesale prices for lunch, Apple Valley supplied cookies for dessert at lunch, and Dining Services offered an extremely good price for lunch and supper to make them affordable. Guest & Convention Services paid for the Pathfinder Day pins that participants received at the end of the day, and the Division of Integrated Marketing & Communication produced and paid for printed promotional materials.

"We will definitely do this again in five years," says May. "It was a blast and I think next time will be even better."

Seminary Releases Statement on Church Headship

by Becky St. Clair

On Thursday, August 21, the Andrews University Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary voted and released a major statement on headship in the church. This document is based on careful study of the scriptures and the Spirit of Prophecy. It represents a consensus of the Seminary faculty who created this document as a service to the worldwide church.
Fusing Traditions
Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don't have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center's 2014-15 season.

How Does Your Garden Roll?
Debra Batson knows what she likes.

"I like everything fresh," she said on Wednesday as she bought green tomatoes, bell peppers, cabbage and other produce from the mobile farm market operated by Andrews University and Be Healthy Berrien.

But Batson uses a wheelchair, and it's difficult for her to get to a grocery store. Having the mobile market make a weekly stop at Red Bud Ministries at 708 Red Bud Trail in Buchanan, across the street from her home, has been a godsend.

"I'm one of their best customers," Batson said.

Student Writes for ASOR Blog
Studying archaeology, reading books related to the subject, and obtaining good grades in archaeology related courses does not turn one into a bona fide archaeologist. Having the privilege to participate in an archaeological excavation on the field is an experience that I will be forever grateful to ASOR and the Platt Fellowship donors. Although I have been studying archaeology for over a year, this is my first dig experience.

BERRIEN SPRINGS - Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don't have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center's 2014-15 season.

Formed in 2008, this classical crossover combination pairs Jankovic's guitar with a traditional string quartet of two violins, a viola and a cello. The result fuses Spanish and Latin American guitar repertoire with the string quartet European music tradition.

"There are some historically good works written for this combination, but very few, a handful, really, and they've been played over and over many times," Jankovic says. "So I really had to come up with a different game plan. Contemporary classical guitar composers are writing some fantastic works that fuse a lot of different styles. So I turned to that repertoire and turned it into this format. That's amplified everything in the music."

While Jankovic has handled some of the arrangements himself, he also hired Elliott Bark to be the ensemble's composer-in-residence. For their first CD, 2012's "From Spain to Tango," Jankovic and Bark created arrangements for Federico Moreno Torroba's "Andante," originally composed as a second movement of Sonatina in A-major for guitar solo, and Isaac Albeniz's "Asturias" (Leyenda), originally written for solo piano. Other tracks include Paulo Bellinati's "Jongo," Astor Piazzolla's "Oblivion" and "Primavera Porteña," and Radamés Gnattali's "Anacleto de Medeiros."

The ensemble, which also includes violinists Maria Storm and Azusa Tashiro, Amanda Grimm on viola, and Kyra Saltman on cello, are currently working on their second CD, "Compassionate Music," due out this fall.

In addition to an original piece by Bark, the CD will include arrangements of Dmitri Shostakovich, Phillip Houghton and Claude Debussy, including Debussy's "Children's Corner," which the ensemble will perform during Sunday's concert.

The six-movement suite originally written for solo piano had its world premiere in Paris in 1908. It was inspired by Debussy's daughter Claude-Emma and her toy collection, and is meant to be to be evocative of childhood.

"The first CD, I brought strings into the guitar world," Jankovic says, "and for the next CD, I'm bringing the guitar into the chamber repertoire."

Jankovic, who has been in the United States the past 20 years, started playing guitar in his native Serbia at age 8 and quickly discovered an affinity for the instrument.

"Serbia has a formal music program and a lot of people start playing music as kids and that's what I did," he says. "It was formal music training, but I never thought I'd end up being a guitarist until it came time for college and I decided to go to the music academy."

In addition to earning his degree in classical guitar from the Music Academy in Belgrade, Jankovic became a two-time gold medal, silver medal, and two-time bronze medal winner at the National Music Competition. War in the Balkans during the early 1990s provided the excuse Jankovic needed to leave Serbia, landing at the Jacobs School of Music at Indiana University, where he earned his master's degree and is now a professor.

"Yes, it was so bad that I wanted to get out of that mess," Jankovic says. "When war is raging around you, you really want to get out, but I think I would have left anyway because I believe artists should leave and travel and experience other cultures and exchange ideas. I think that enriches the life of any artist."

When asked if that same exchange of ideas is what makes the Petar Jankovic Ensemble so special to him, he pauses, then laughs.

"For me, it is special," Jankovic adds. "Yes, it is ... and I no longer have to play alone."

BUCHANAN - Debra Batson knows what she likes.

"I like everything fresh," she said on Wednesday as she bought green tomatoes, bell peppers, cabbage and other produce from the mobile farm market operated by Andrews University and Be Healthy Berrien.

But Batson uses a wheelchair, and it's difficult for her to get to a grocery store. Having the mobile market make a weekly stop at Red Bud Ministries at 708 Red Bud Trail in Buchanan, across the street from her home, has been a godsend.

"I'm one of their best customers," Batson said.

Serving people who do not have easy access to fresh, affordable food is the reason the mobile market was launched this year, said Andrews University student Stephen Erich, who has been managing the operation that sells fruits and vegetables grown in the university's garden and orchards.

The mobile market - a refurbished, refrigerated FedEx truck - makes seven weekly stops in Niles, Buchanan, Berrien Springs and Benton Harbor. The market will continue through Sept. 19.

The project is being funded through a grant from Gov. Rick Snyder's 4x4 initiative to promote healthier lifestyles through better eating and regular exercise.

Many people who live in so-called "food deserts" have to travel miles to get to a grocery store, Erich said, and often they are low-income residents who don't have a car.

The mobile market comes to them. Items are sold at 10 percent above wholesale, and Bridge cards for residents receiving food assistance are accepted.

Along with their seasonal favorites, customers have been learning about new foods through cooking demonstrations provided by Heather Rudnik, a nutrition educator with Lakeland HealthCare.

On Wednesday, Rudnik was making an Asian salad with red cabbage, bell peppers and garlic.

"When they see how easy it is to cook, they're more likely to cook it," Rudnik said. "We show them that it is quick, easy, inexpensive and healthy."

Even Louis Atkins, hired through Bridge Academy to work with the market, said he has tried some new... things this summer.

One versatile vegetable that has proven to be popular is kohlrabi, which Rudnik said means "cabbage-turnip."

The round stem can be eaten raw, or steamed, boiled or roasted. The leaves can be cooked like collard greens. It can be shredded into a low-calorie slaw.

Tomatoes, including unusual strains such as black pearl tomatoes, along with greens, sweet corn, eggplant and squash are available.

Erich expects that beets and apples will be on the stand next week.

The number of customers at the market stops has been increasing as the season progresses and residents know that they are coming, he said.

Sales, however, "are not where we want them to be," he said. "There is a lot of growth needed to make it sustainable."

Erich and his team have been learning as they go and gathering community partners along the way.

They have been coordinating their stops with events at churches and community centers, where people are already congregating, and offering water parties for kids. They have been distributing fliers door to door, and the manager of a housing development in Buchanan copied their brochures and distributed them to tenants.

One of the things they have noticed is that people who see the truck passing through their neighborhoods want to buy items on the spot.

Organizers are considering selling produce "ice cream truck-style" next year, though that would require a different kind of permit, Erich said.

A number of groups with community gardens have expressed an interest in partnerships with the mobile market next year to sell their produce.

Nicki Britten, director of community health planning for the Berrien County Health Department, said that the mobile market is a work in progress.

"As this is the first year of the mobile farm market, we have learned a lot of things that will help our 2015 season be even more successful," she said. "We have been learning about what makes the different stops successful and how to try to adapt to the unique nuances of each neighborhood being served in a way that maximizes the service to those customers. We've also learned about what fruit and vegetable varieties there is a demand for in each of the neighborhoods."

Erich became involved with the project after joining a student organization that was addressing local poverty. He read about the mobile market and its mission of reaching low-income residents, and signed on.
The friendly, helpful service has been another big selling point for Debra Batson.

"I like them, too," she said of the market staff.

Information about the mobile market, and Andrews University's farm stand and Consumer-Supported Agriculture program, can be found at www.augardens.com. Information about Be Healthy Berrien, a coalition of seven organizations promoting exercise and healthy eating, is at www.behealthyberrien.org.

The Twelve Steps: A Spiritual Journey
A series on healing from addictions, starts September 4 at 7 pm. People can experience freedom from the damaging effects of a less-than-nurturing environment. Feelings of unworthiness, anxiety, and inferiority diminish and are replaced by spiritual strength and virtues. Addictions are broken as the journey awakens us to God’s unconditional love and grace in our lives. As our attention is captivated by new life in God, we experience peace, enjoy productive living, and become functioning members of the community. According to the American Diabetes Association, diabetes is the biggest public health crisis of the twenty-first century. Nearly 26 million children and adults in the United States have diabetes, including 7 million people who have not yet been diagnosed, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In 2010, about 1.9 million new cases of diabetes were diagnosed in adults age 20 or older. In addition, another 79 million adults were estimated to have pre-diabetes, a condition that increases the risk for diabetes. Early diagnosis of the disease is critical to successful treatment in order to delay or prevent complications such as heart disease, stroke, blindness, and kidney disease.

According to the American Diabetes Association, diabetes is the biggest public health crisis of the twenty-first century. Nearly 26 million children and adults in the United States have diabetes, including 7 million people who have not yet been diagnosed, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In 2010, about 1.9 million new cases of diabetes were diagnosed in adults age 20 or older. In addition, another 79 million adults were estimated to have pre-diabetes, a condition that increases the risk for diabetes. Early diagnosis of the disease is critical to successful treatment in order to delay or prevent complications such as heart disease, stroke, blindness, and kidney disease.

Free Weight Loss Seminar Offered in St. Joseph
(ST. JOSEPH) - The Lakeland Comprehensive Weight Loss Center is offering a free seminar, "Lose Weight...Find Health." The seminar will be presented from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, September 3 in Room 4 of the Frederick S. Upton Education Center at Lakeland Medical Center, St. Joseph.

Dr. Michael Schuknecht, one of Michigan's most experienced bariatric surgeons, and staff members of the Lakeland Comprehensive Weight Loss Center will discuss programs available for losing weight and maintaining a healthy weight for years to come. The Lakeland Comprehensive Weight Loss Center specializes in working with each person to create a customized lifestyle plan, including medical weight loss management through diet or bariatric surgery, nutrition counseling, individualized exercise programs, and monthly support groups.

According to the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 68.5% of adults in the United States are overweight or obese. Losing as little as five to 15 percent of your initial body weight can reduce your risk of diabetes and other illnesses and can even eliminate your need for some medications.

For more information or to register for the seminar, call (269) 687-4673, or visit www.lakelandhealth.org/hope. Visit www.lakelandhealth.org or find Lakeland HealthCare on Facebook or Twitter for more classes and events.
