Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series

How can you tell if something is acidic or basic? How can you track a toxic substance or diseased tissues inside your body? Scientists often use molecules as probes to see (detect, sense) an environment (cell, protein, reaction, etc) that they otherwise could not 'see'. The color changes of pH paper or the green fluorescent protein all allow us to probe the environment at the molecular level. These techniques are at the heart of microscopy and medical diagnostics. It allows us to detect pathogens, diseases and toxic substances.

View these videos to learn more about fluorescent probes in biology:
Everyone is welcome to attend our second Fall 2014 session in the Andrews University Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series this coming Thursday, September 11 at 4:30pm. As usual we meet in A-107 Halenz Hall.

Thursday's seminar topic is:
Tuning Fluorescent Probes for Biological Applications

Our guest speaker is:
Colleen Nicola Scott, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, IL

Attached is the seminar flyer in pdf format with more details about our speaker's educational and professional background. The pdf formatted flyer is also available at this Dropbox link:
https://www.dropbox.com/s/oq8lnuv1wtdwcyA/CHEMSEM%20NEWS%20Fall%202014%20Flyer%202.pdf?dl=0

Teachers are encouraged to announce this lecture in their classes and/or forward this email to their classes.

For non-Andrews faculty and students wishing to see the talk in the Chemistry Amphitheater:

Howard Center Presents...Shop Small, Shop Local: Small Business Showcase
Small Business Showcase on September 21, 2014 3:00 PM

Concert by Lake Effect Jazz Big Band starts at 5:00 PM

Small businesses come with many perks—individualized service, convenience of a location in your neighborhood, and the money you spend benefits your community. Join the movement to shop small and local by discovering your community’s businesses in an expo in the lobby of the Howard Center. You can expect giveaways, samples and demonstrations! Wrapping things up, Lake Effect Jazz Big Band will take the stage in the concert hall for a concert at 5 p.m. with their blend of classic big band jazz and modern compositions. This group is comprised of local area musicians, many of whom are music teachers in area schools or own small businesses of their own.

International Flag-Raising and Parade

If you're living/studying/working in the area and have international roots, you are invited to sign up to participate in two colorful and meaningful Andrews traditions--the International Flag-Raising and Alumni Parade, to be held this year on Friday, September 26. You're welcome and encouraged to bring your friends and family to participate with you. You may also carry your flag in the Alumni Parade, which will organize at 4:30 in the PMC parking lot.

The flag raising is IMMEDIATELY following the parade, organizing on the International Flag Mall between the library and PMC at 6 pm, ceremony starts at 6:30. While it's ideal if you participate in both events, it is not a requirement to be available for both. And please keep in mind that flag-bearers do not need to be natives of the specific country. Also, if you have international dress, you are invited to wear it for both occasions. Let us know your interest by emailing your name and country you would like to represent to Rebecca May at rmay@andrews.edu, or you can call me at Integrated Marketing & Communication at (269) 471-3345. Be in touch soon because the flags will be assigned on first-come, first-served basis, and will run out fast! We will provide further details upon receipt of your response.

Be sure to look over the complete listing of Homecoming events — it’s a very fun weekend for the entire campus! Details available at andrews.edu/alumni/homecoming/
Theology of Ordination Study Committee:
One Member’s Observations and Reflections

Presented by
Cheryl Doss PhD
Director of the Institute of World Mission
Member, Theology of Ordination Study Committee

Sabbath Afternoon, September 20, 2014
3:30 pm
Chan Shun Hall
Andrews University

About the Topic
Currently, the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, the SDA denomination’s highest administrative authority, does not endorse the ordination of women as ministers.

During the past two years the Theology of Ordination Study Committee appointed by the General Conference has been studying issues related to the ordination of women as ministers in the SDA church. The committee recently made its report as part of a process which is expected to lead to discussion and possible revision of the denomination’s practice of not endorsing the ordination of women as ministers when the church holds its next world-wide General Conference Session in 2015.

Cheryl Doss, a member of the committee and director of the denomination’s Institute of World Mission, will discuss personal observations and reflections growing out of her work on the committee.

About the Speaker
Cheryl Doss, PhD, is the director of the Institute of World Mission, a service of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists that serves the world church. The Institute facilitates the cross-cultural outreach of the Seventh-day Adventist world church. It provides cross-cultural training for full-time, short-term and volunteer workers, and facilitates their re-entry to the home field.

Cheryl’s mission experience began as an MK (missionary kid) living in South Africa. Later, with her husband Gorden (also an MK and now a teacher of mission at Andrews University), she served for sixteen years in the country of Malawi.

During her years in Malawi, Cheryl directed rural clinics, developed training programs for pastors’ wives, facilitated women’s ministries programs, and helped start Shepherdess Clubs. She also home schooled her two children, Kristi and Richard, and taught classes in the ministerial training program at Lakeview Seminary. As a nurse she lectured on health and, along with her husband, initiated annual family life training seminars for pastors and their wives. Their book, Christian Marriage, was published in Malawi in 1995.

Combining her mission background and educational training with her passion for family growth, Cheryl’s research and writing has largely focused on families in cross-cultural transition. Besides teaching and administrative duties, her specific responsibilities at the Institute of World Mission are developing curriculum and resources for mission training, and the support and education of missionary families through newsletters and re-entry programs.

Since leaving Africa in 1997, Cheryl and Gorden have made their home at Andrews University and are blessed to have their two remaining parents living nearby. Kristi and her family are on the faculty at the Adventist International Institute of Advanced Studies in the Philippines. Richard and his family are serving at Nile Union Academy in Egypt.

Revive Vespers

Please come join us this Friday at 7:30 for Revive Vespers at the Biology Amphitheatre! What steps should be taken when returning to God? What is the devil doing to keep us from coming to God? What has God given to us to expose the deceptions of the enemy? Find out the answers to these questions as Joseph Carty presents a message entitled "Lying Spirits."

Club & Organization Orientation

Just a reminder that the Club and Organization Orientation is happening Monday, September 8 and Tuesday, September 9 at 5:30 in the Leadership Lab next to the Student Life Office. This is a MANDATORY meeting for all registered clubs (and for those wanting to be registered). We ask that you send at least 2 representatives from your club/organization. You are not required to attend both days, but you are required to attend either Monday or Tuesday evening. It will be about an hour long and this is also the opportunity to receive information about the Club Fair and get signed up for a topping. The annual Club Fair is going to take place... on Wednesday September 17. In order to be a part of this Fair you must have attended one of the 2 orientation sessions next week. See you there!

ChemSem: Halogen Photochemistry in Changing Arctic Climate
Atmospheric chemistry is one of the best examples that chemistry is everywhere. What do you know about the chemistry of the air around you and in you? Do you know the relationship between the color of the sky including the color of sunsets and atmospheric composition? Do you know the facts of climate change? What can the clouds and snow tell about our changing climate? These and other questions will be in play at our first Fall 2014 ChemSem talk. What questions do you have?

Everyone is welcome to attend our first Fall 2014 session in the Andrews University Chemistry & Biochemistry Departmental Seminar Series this coming Thursday, September 4 at 4:30pm. As usual we meet in A-107 Halen Hall.

Our guest speaker is Kerri Pratt, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry & Department of Earth & Environmental Science, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI. Attached is the seminar flyer in pdf format with more details about our speaker’s educational and professional background.

Andrews Electronics Recycling Day
Andrews University, in partnership with Green Earth Electronics Recycling, will hold its biannual electronics recycling event on Wednesday, September 10, from 3–7 p.m. Community members, businesses and residents from surrounding communities are encouraged to recycle their unwanted electronic items at the Andrews University Transportation building.

Accepted items include computers, laptops, smart phones, monitors, TVs, telephones, cameras, DVD players, cords/cables, printers, toner cartridges, cell phones, refrigerators, air conditioners, appliances and any other electronic items or items with a cord. A hazardous waste fee will be collected for CRT monitors ($5) and tube TVs ($10). All other items are recycled free of charge. All hard drives are wiped to Department of Defense specifications or shredded.

All businesses are encouraged to preregister by emailing pickup@greenearth1.com or calling 269-326-1232. Green Earth Electronics Recycling, headquartered in St. Joseph, Mich., is a company whose focus is to keep unwanted electronics out of the landfill by using the best practices in information destruction and recycling. They are registered as a recycler with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. Their services include corporate and institutional pickups as well as community drop-off events. For more information please visit www.GreenEarth1.com or email pickup@GreenEarth1.com.

New Life weekly Sabbath services begin on August 30, 2014. We look forward to you joining us in the Seminary Chapel starting at 11:45 a.m. All services will begin at 11:45 a.m.
Halogen Photochemistry in a Changing Arctic Climate

Dr. Kerri Pratt, is assistant professor in the Department of Chemistry and Department of Earth & Environmental Sciences at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Her group's environmental and analytical chemistry research focuses on mass spectrometry studies of the interactions of atmospheric trace gases, particles, clouds, and precipitation with biosphere and cryosphere.

Dr. Pratt completed her bachelor's degree in Chemistry at Pennsylvania State University, doing research with Prof. Karl Mueller involving NMR studies of perfluorinated molecules. She then received a Ph.D. in Chemistry from the University of California, San Diego, doing research with Prof. Kim Prather involving development of an aircraft single-particle mass spectrometer and atmospheric particle chemistry studies.

Afterward, Dr. Pratt completed postdoctoral studies at Purdue University with Prof. Paul Shepson and studied biogenic trace gases and Arctic snowpack photochemistry using modeling and mass spectrometry.

Andrews Hosts Pathfinder Day

On Sunday, August 10, more than 100 Andrews University volunteers welcomed over 700 Pathfinders onto campus. The first-ever Pathfinder Day, coordinated by Rebecca May, community relations coordinator, Shelly Erhard, director of student visits, and Brittany Felder, student visits coordinator, introduced attendees to the University, some for the first time, and many of the great things it has to offer. Representatives from 29 states, as well as from England, Papua New Guinea, Brazil and the British Virgin Islands, were among the groups who came as a precursor to their arrival at the Pathfinder Camporee in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, which began two days later.

"About a year ago several areas on campus started receiving inquiries from Pathfinder groups who wanted to stop by on their way to Oshkosh this summer," says May. "While we wanted to provide that opportunity, we also knew it would be impossible to accommodate multiple groups coming to campus over the course of a couple of weeks at that time of the year."

At the same time as Pathfinders would be making the trek to Wisconsin, Andrews had summer graduation and the arrival of freshmen for the upcoming school year, in addition to many staff and faculty heading to Oshkosh themselves to assist with the Camporee.

"It's a challenging time to have an influx of campus visitors for an extended period of time," says May. So, in January she got together with three other staff members and decided to create a one-day event for Pathfinders to visit and experience Andrews. With no additional budgetary allocations for the event, the involved departments stretched their collective resources and made a plan.

"We decided to cap the event at 1,000 people," says May. "When a registration link was posted on the Camporee website for Andrews University Pathfinder Day, in less than a week we had over 1,000 registered and we quickly closed registration!"

The number eventually settled to 625, with a few groups showing up unregistered on the day of the event.

Participants had 16 different activities to choose from, all staffed by volunteers from across campus. Those who participated in at least four events were eligible to receive the coveted Andrews University pin to wear proudly around Oshkosh.

Activities included a musical petting zoo, tours of the Horn Archaeological Museum, hayrides to the dairy, disc golf, campus tree walks, pipe organ demonstrations and swimming in the pool, in addition to three honors offered: Flower Culture, Livestock and Bones & Muscles.

"Andrews has so much to offer students academically, socially and spiritually," says Ron Whitehead, executive director for the International Pathfinder Camporee. "Most of the 50,000 student Pathfinders are in public education and do not know much about Adventist higher education. So it was a great opportunity to give them a look at a university that represents the world."

In addition to the volunteers, the event could not have happened without the financial partnership of several areas of campus. The Andrews Airpark provided a pancake breakfast, for which Enrollment Management provided eggs and pancake toppings, Andrews Student Gardens obtained fruit at wholesale prices for lunch, Apple Valley supplied cookies for dessert at lunch, and Dining Services offered an extremely good price for lunch and supper to make them affordable. Guest & Convention Services paid for the Pathfinder Day pins that participants received at the end of the day, and the Division of Integrated Marketing & Communication produced and paid for printed promotional materials.
Bahamian Alumnus Awarded Scholarship to Oxford

Bahamian Wilfred Adderley II has been awarded the 2014 Chevening Scholarship. He will be participating in the Foreign Service Programme at Oxford University.

Wilfred’s tertiary education led him to study at Northern Caribbean University in Mandeville, Jamaica where he started his degree in Music Education, Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan and the College e Università Villa Aurora in Florence, Italy.

Wilfred holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education and Music, with Honours, and a Master’s Degree in International Relations, Communication and Development, Magna Cum Laude, both from Andrews University.

Fusing Traditions

Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don’t have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center’s 2014-15 season.

How Does Your Garden Roll?

Debra Batson knows what she likes.

"I like everything fresh," she said on Wednesday as she bought green tomatoes, bell peppers, cabbage and other produce from the mobile farm market operated by Andrews University and Be Healthy Berrien. But Batson uses a wheelchair, and it’s difficult for her to get to a grocery store. Having the mobile market make a weekly stop at Red Bud Ministries at 708 Red Bud Trail in Buchanan, across the street from her home, has been a godsend.

"I’m one of their best customers," Batson said.

Wilfred holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education and Music, with Honours, and a Master’s Degree in International Relations, Communication and Development, Magna Cum Laude, both from Andrews University.

He believes that in order for a society to reach its full potential of development, the people of that society must invest in education.

It is this belief that has led him to seek a career in International Relations with a goal of carrying the platform for positive social and economic growth and development for his country.

At present, Wilfred works for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Immigration in his country and is an officer in the International Relations Division.

He has carriage over matters and projects that relate to Latin America and the Caribbean and the Organization of American States.

He enjoys his career and would wish to advance further in the world of foreign relations and diplomacy by one day becoming an Ambassador for his country to an International Organisation. Wilfred will be participating in the Foreign Service Programme at Oxford University beginning this fall.

What is the Chevening Scholarship?

The Chevening Scholarships scheme is the global scholarship programme of the British government.

The Scholarships are awarded to exceptional individuals with leadership potential and they enable recipients to study one-year Masters courses in a range of subjects at UK universities.

The Scholarships are funded by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and aim to support UK foreign policy priorities by creating lasting positive relationships with future leaders, influencers and decision makers.

The Chevening programme has, over 30 years, provided more than 40,000 Scholarships at Higher Education Institutions in the UK for postgraduate students or researchers from countries across the world.

Chevening scholarships are prestigious and sought after awards aimed at extremely capable individuals who have already made an impact and are motivated to pursue a career that will take them to a position of leadership within their own country or region.

The application period for scholarships is open until 15 November.

BERRIEN SPRINGS - Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don't have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center's 2014-15 season.

Formed in 2008, this classical crossover combination pairs Jankovic's guitar with a traditional string quartet of two violins, a viola and a cello. The result fuses Spanish and Latin American guitar repertoire with the string quartet European music tradition.

"There are some historically good works written for this combination, but very few, a handful, really, and they've been played over and over many times," Jankovic says. "So I really had to come up with a different game plan. Contemporary classical guitar composers are writing some fantastic works that fuse a lot of different styles. So I turned to that repertoire and turned it into this format. That's amplified everything in the music."

While Jankovic has handled some of the arrangements himself, he also hired Elliott Bark to be the ensemble's composer-in-residence. For their first CD, 2012's "From Spain to Tango," Jankovic and Bark created arrangements for Federico Moreno Torroba's "Andante," originally composed as a second movement of Sonatina in A-major for guitar solo, and Isaac Albeniz's "Asturias" (Leyenda), originally written for solo piano. Other tracks include Paulo Bellinati's "Jongo," Astor Piazzolla's "Oblivion" and "Primavera Porteña," and Radamés Gnattali's "Anacleto de Medeiros."

The ensemble, which also includes violinists Maria Storm and Azusa Tashiro, Amanda Grimm on viola, and Kyra Saltman on cello, are currently working on their second CD, "Compassionate Music," due out this fall.

In addition to an original piece by Bark, the CD will include arrangements of Dmitri Shostakovich, Phillip Houghton and Claude Debussy, including Debussy's "Children's Corner," which the ensemble will perform during Sunday's concert.

The six-movement suite originally written for solo piano had its world premiere in Paris in 1908. It was inspired by Debussy's daughter Claude-Emma and her toy collection, and is meant to be to be evocative of childhood.

"The first CD, I brought strings into the guitar world," Jankovic says, "and for the next CD, I'm bringing the guitar into the chamber repertoire."

Jankovic, who has been in the United States the past 20 years, started playing guitar in his native Serbia at age 8 and quickly discovered an affinity for the instrument.

"Serbia has a formal music program and a lot of people start playing music as kids and that's what I did," he says. "It was formal music training, but I never thought I'd end up being a guitarist until it came time for college and I decided to go to the music academy."

In addition to earning his degree in classical guitar from the Music Academy in Belgrade, Jankovic became a two-time gold medal, silver medal, and two-time bronze medal winner at the National Music Competition. War in the Balkans during the early 1990s provided the excuse Jankovic needed to leave Serbia, landing at the Jacobs School of Music at Indiana University, where he earned his master's degree and is now a professor.

"Yes, it was so bad that I wanted to get out of that mess," Jankovic says. "When war is raging around you, you really want to get out, but I think I would have left anyway because I believe artists should leave and travel and experience other cultures and exchange ideas. I think that enriches the life of any artist."

When asked if that same exchange of ideas is what makes the Petar Jankovic Ensemble so special to him, he pauses, then laughs.

"For me, it is special," Jankovic adds. "Yes, it is ... and I no longer have to play alone."

Michiana Adventist Forum presents

Michiana Adventist Forum presents:

“The Theology of Ordination Study Committee: One Member¹s Observations and Reflections,” presented by Cheryl Doss, PhD, Director of the Institute of World Mission; Member, Theology of Ordination Study Committee.

The presentation will be Saturday afternoon, September 20, 2014, at 3:30 pm in Chan Shun Hall on the campus of Andrews University.

About the Topic:

Currently, the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, the SDA denomination¹s highest administrative authority, does not endorse the ordination of women as ministers.

During the past two years the Theology of Ordination Study Committee appointed by the General Conference has been studying issues related to the ordination of women as ministers in the SDA church. The committee recently made its report as part of a process which is expected to lead to discussion and possible revision of the denomination¹s practice of not endorsing the ordination of women as ministers when the church holds its next world-wide General Conference Session in 2015.

Cheryl Doss, a member of the committee and director of the denomination¹s Institute of World Mission, will discuss personal observations and reflections growing out of her work on the committee.
About the Speaker

Cheryl Doss, PhD, is the director of the Institute of World Mission, a service of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists that serves the world church. The Institute facilitates the cross-cultural outreach of the Seventh-day Adventist world church. It provides cross-cultural training for full-time, short-term and volunteer workers, and facilitates their re-entry to the home field.

Cheryl¹s mission experience began as an MK (missionary kid) living in South Africa. Later, with her husband Gorden (also an MK and now a teacher of mission at Andrews University), she served for sixteen years in the country of Malawi.

During her years in Malawi, Cheryl directed rural clinics, developed training programs for pastors¹ wives, facilitated women¹s ministries programs, and helped start Shepherdess Clubs. She also home schooled her two children, Kristi and Richard, and taught classes in the ministerial training program at Lakeview Seminary. As a nurse she lectured on health and, along with her husband, initiated annual family life training seminars for pastors and their wives. Their book, Christian Marriage, was published in Malawi in 1995.

Combining her mission background and educational training with her passion for family growth, Cheryl¹s research and writing has largely focused on families in cross-cultural transition. Besides teaching and administrative duties, her specific responsibilities at the Institute of World Mission are developing curriculum and resources for mission training, and the support and education of missionary families through newsletters and re-entry programs.

Since leaving Africa in 1997, Cheryl and Gorden have made their home at Andrews University and are blessed to have their two remaining parents living nearby. Kristi and her family are on the faculty at the Adventist International Institute of Advanced Studies in the Philippines. Richard and his family are serving at Nile Union Academy in Egypt.

Adventist Forum is open to the public. All are welcome. For information, contact Art Robertson at robertsa2@earthlink.net or call 471-7150.

The Building Blocks to Weight Managements
A 10-week program that provides support and encouragement to people desiring to shed pounds and increase their well-being. Being overweight and obese is a chronic problem in the United States and a precursor to heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and depression. This program is based on the concept that basic principles or blocks, when put into place in our lives, promote health and help achieve that sought after ideal weight. Learn how to resist cravings, sleep weight off, change habits, and much more. This program starts Tuesday, September 9, from 7-8:30 pm. For more information, call Melody at 269-782-0457 or email melody@dowagiacadventist.org. This program will be held at the Dowagiac SDA Church at 410 Hill Street in Dowagiac.

The Twelve Steps: A Spiritual Journey
A series on healing from addictions, starts September 4 at 7 pm. People can experience freedom from the damaging effects of a less-than-nurturing environment. Feelings of unworthiness, anxiety, and inferiority diminish and are replaced by spiritual strength and virtues. Addictions are broken as the journey awakens us to God’s unconditional love and grace in our lives. As our attention is captivated by new life in God, we experience peace, enjoy productive living, and become functioning members of the community. For more information, call Melody at 269-782-0457 or email melody@dowagiacadventist.org. This program will be held at the Dowagiac SDA Church at 410 Hill Street in Dowagiac.

Fun with Baroque music!
On Monday, September 22, Marianne Kordas, Andrews University music librarian, and Rev. David Alan Reed will present Fun with Baroque Music at the Berrien Springs Community Library at 7pm.
All are welcome, and admission is FREE.
Do you like Vivaldi’s Four Seasons? Have you wondered what makes Bach rock? Then this presentation is for you! We will explore the main musical genres of the Baroque, why a sexy South American dance, the sarabande, became popular in 17th century Europe, and how missionaries made harpsichords treasured objects in the imperial court in Baroque-era China.
There will be free cookies and lemonade, and a chance to win CDs!
Co-curricular credit will be offered for Andrews University students who attend.
Hope to see you there!
