Following Faith Commitments: Successful Transition to SDA Higher Education

Andrews International Center for Educational Research (AICER) invites students and faculty to attend a research symposium on Wednesday October 1 at 5:30 p.m.

Presenters: Dr. Larry Burton (Professor of Curriculum & Instruction, and Editor of the Journal of Research on Christian Education, Andrews University); Josephine Katenga, Andrews University Curriculum & Instruction Graduate Student; and Christine Moniyung, Nursing Professor, Southern Adventist University

Following Faith Commitments: Successful Transition from Public High School to Adventist Higher Education

This study sought to understand the conditions under which public high school graduates were successful in...
Adventist higher education. Success is defined as both graduating with a Bachelor’s Degree from an Adventist college or university and having a positive attitude toward their Adventist college experience. The research findings indicate that public high school graduates who enrolled and graduated in an Adventist college or university share one central theoretical concern: “following faith commitments.” Because of their personal faith commitments made while in high school or shortly afterwards, these students shared a common desire to study at a faith-based university. It appears the most important factor contributing to their successful transition is the individual student’s faith commitment at the time of college enrollment.

Title: Perceptions of Leadership Characteristics of Principals Who Influence Positive School Culture in Midwest Adventist Union: A Qualitative Study

The purpose of this study was to understand and describe leadership characteristics of principals who foster a positive culture in Adventist schools in a Midwest Seventh-day Adventist Union. Findings revealed principals influenced a positive school culture by embracing their multifaceted role as chief culture leaders in their schools. However, they also acknowledged that the task of maintaining a positive school culture required total dependence on God, and a pervasive attitude of continuous improvement, which could not be achieved without the co-leadership of teachers and collegial collaboration with all stakeholders, staff members and school board, primarily the board chair.

Venue for Face-to-face participants has changed to Bell Hall, Room 180.

International Flag-Raising and Parade

If you're living/studying/working in the area and have international roots, you are invited to sign up to participate in two colorful and meaningful Andrews traditions—the International Flag-Raising and Alumni Parade, to be held this year on Friday, September 26. You're welcome and encouraged to bring your friends and family to participate with you. You may also carry your flag in the Alumni Parade, which will organize at 4:30 in the Andrews Academy parking lot.

The flag raising is IMMEDIATELY following the parade, organizing on the International Flag Mall between the library and PMC at 6 p.m., ceremony starts at 6:30 p.m. While it's ideal if you participate in both events, it is not a requirement to be available for both. Please keep in mind that flag-bearers do not need to be natives of the specific country. Also, if you have international dress, you are invited to wear it for both occasions.

Let us know your interest by emailing your name and country you would like to represent to Rebecca May at rmay@andrews.edu, or you can call me at Integrated Marketing & Communication at 269-471-3345. Be in touch soon because the flags will be assigned on first-come, first-served basis, and will run out fast! We will provide further details upon receipt of your response.

Be sure to look over the complete listing of Homecoming events—it's a very fun weekend for the entire campus! Details available at alumni.andrews.edu/homecoming.

ChemSem News 3: the PADS Project

Chemistry delivers. For countries that lack resources, have inadequate healthcare and access to health care, chemistry is solving problems by delivering affordable and accessible diagnostics using inexpensive paper. The field of paper-based diagnostics is on track to revolutionize individualized point-of-care testing for both developed and underdeveloped countries. Chemistry is central and essential to this effort.

Come and hear how scientists and students in our local Michiana area are helping to solve some of our world problems designing and using paper analytical devices (PADs).

Demonstrations, videotapes, experiential exercises, and practice activities are used to increase the immediate application of techniques "the very next day on the job."

This workshop explores the major principles and strategies of Brief Solution-Focused Counseling (BSFC), a culturally sensitive, research-supported approach to building solutions with young people and caregivers by utilizing their strengths, resources, and possibilities. Based on "what works" in helping people change, BSFC conforms the counseling process to students and others by honoring and accommodating their unique strengths, resources, opinions, and feedback. BSFC strategies include:

- Establishing collaborative, change-focused relationships
- Using language to promote hope and solutions
- Building solutions from people's indigenous resources
- Empowering small improvements whenever they occur

The workshop includes "live" demonstrations, videotapes from counseling sessions, experiential exercises, and practice activities aimed at increasing the immediate relevance and applicability of training content.

Participants will learn how to:

- Build collaborative relationships with hard-to-reach young people, caregivers, and families
- Build hope from the opening moments of contact
- Develop creative interventions based on people's strengths, successes, and resources
- Empower small improvements whenever they occur

Ebola Virus Replication & Budding from Human Cells

Dr. Robert Stahelin received his Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Illinois-Chicago (UIC) studying the structural basis of lipid-protein interactions in health and disease. During postdoctoral work at UIC he investigated the mechanisms with which bioactive lipid signals recruit peripheral proteins in cell signaling and membrane trafficking.

Stahelin is Associate Professor of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology at the Indiana University School of Medicine-South Bend. He is also Adjunct Associate Professor of Chemistry and Biochemistry at Notre Dame. Since joining the faculty in 2006, Stahelin has received grants from the NIH, NSF, and American Heart Association. He serves on several journal editorial boards including Chemistry & Physics of Lipids, Current Drug Targets, and Journal of Biomembranes and Bioenergetics.

In 2013 he received an Indiana University Trustees Teaching Award and was named to the Michiana 40 under 40 class. His research group is currently investigating how the Ebola virus assembles at the plasma membrane of human cells to form the bud site for generation of a new viral particle.

Alumni Homecoming This Weekend

This year Homecoming attendees will have the opportunity to reflect on a year of milestones: the University itself celebrates 140 years, FOCUS, the University magazine, celebrates 50 years, and the Alumni Association celebrates 100 years. Additionally, this year marks 20 years for Niels-Erik Andreasen, president of Andrews University.

"As the longest-serving president of Andrews University, we are honored to have him at the helm," says Tami Condon, director of Alumni Services. "He's personally an inspiration and mentor to me, as I know he is to many current students, faculty, staff and alumni. We look forward to experiencing many more milestones with Dr. Andreasen in the future."

Events over the weekend include a golf tournament, a campus bus tour, the homecoming parade and flag raising, lunch reunions, harvest tours and picnic, the alumni homecoming gala, alumni vs. students basketball game, the Harvest Run, and more.

"As the fall is marked by students arriving and alumni returning, we welcome you back home," says Condon. "May your visit to campus be most memorable and enjoyable."

Frances Faehner & Marcia Kilsby Receive Awards

by Jenna Neil

During the summer commencement held on Sunday, August 3, 2014, Marcia A. Kilsby, associate professor of medical laboratory sciences, emerita, and Frances Mae Faehner, vice president for Student Life, received the J.N. Andrews Medallion.
"I was reminiscing over the 30 years of summer graduations I had attended, rejoicing in the accomplishments of all of our students, knowing this one would be my last one before retirement, and was stunned to hear my name announced," Marcia says.

She was involved at the very beginning of the medical technology program at Andrews University in 1988. One of the original goals of the program was to educate young people from developing countries to take the knowledge and clinical experience they learned back home to their own countries to upgrade the level of diagnostic care available. Unfortunately, she says, "the vast majority of graduates stayed to work in the United States." Faculty looked for a way to keep the sense of mission before their students and got involved with a portable laboratory system called Lab-In-A-Suitcase, that could be used where electricity was unavailable or unreliable.

Kilsby involved her students and gave them the task of identifying key illnesses in different countries to determine if this system would be beneficial and utilized their different language skills to translate a user-friendly manual.

"Expertise in grounded clinical diagnostic knowledge, creative application of problem solving, compassion and a willingness to serve in places that are outside the usual to take help, hope and healing to the suffering in this world are what I prayerfully aspire to exemplify," Marcia says.

Marcia graduated with a BS in biology from Andrews University in 1981 and with a Master of Science the following year. She went on to complete an internship at South Bend Medical Foundation School of Medical Technology, a Master of Science in medical technology, became a specialist in blood banking, studied transfusion medicine, and in 2005 completed a doctorate in educational leadership at Andrews.

Marcia says, "There are so many people who have accomplished so much that to be selected to receive the award is very humbling and I am very honored."

Frances Faehner was cited for her compassion and skill as a counselor and communicator, her creative leadership and expertise in strategic planning and crisis management in Student Life.

She earned a Bachelor of Social Work from Andrews University in 1976, then went on to complete a master's in counseling education from Loma Linda University and a PhD in leadership from Andrews in 2007. After earning her bachelor's degree, she gained five years of professional residence life experience on the secondary level as dean of girls, first at Bass Memorial Academy and then at Shenandoah Valley Academy. In 1981 Frances joined the Loma Linda University/La Sierra Campus student services team as associate dean of women. There she caught a broader vision of the vital role that Student Services can play in the restoration of young men and women in a total educational process. She accepted an invitation to serve as dean of women in 1983, which incorporated the administration of five residence halls.

In 1985, Frances and her husband, David Faehner, vice president for University Advancement, moved to Andrews where she served as dean of women until 2003. She found special joy in the nurture of students, staff training and development, spiritual and educational programming and financial and facility management, which she took to the next level when she became vice president for Student Life in 2003. A hallmark of Faehner's leadership is the high level of care she presents in all situations to ensure every person feels valued and understood.

After 34 years of living in a residence hall and the arrival of two sons, Joshua and Jeremiah, the Faehners moved to a country home in 2001. They regularly open up their home to entertain students, alumni and colleagues. Over the past 13 years she has shared her legendary hospitality with an estimated 10,000 guests.

Frances says, "I am deeply humbled to receive the honor of the J.N. Andrews Medallion and am very thankful for the wonderful team of colleagues with whom I share my work. I love Andrews University and its extraordinary body of students with every fiber of my being."

Fusing Traditions

Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don't have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center's 2014-15 season.

SEPTEMBER 10, 2014 2:00 AM  •  BY PAT COLANDER

Donna Blue Lachman gets a second wind in Three Oaks and local galleries feature Michiana artists in upcoming exhibitions including Mitch Markovitz, Dora Natella, Photographer Marc Ullom, Sara Sokol and Kevin Gross.

Donna Blue Lachman Seeks 50-Somethings:
The Director resets her newly-minted Second Wind Theater Company designed for people 50+ willing to commit to a four-month long, weekly improv workshop (Pure speculation on my part but this may get developed into a show something like the very funny and reality-based Mixed Nuts set at the Acorn last June.) If you are interested bring a story to tell September 13, 20 and 27 to Strip Mall #3 next to Ipso Facto in Three Oaks between 1-3pm (ET).

Ellen Firme Gallery Hosts South Shore Posters Artist Mitch Markovitz:
An opening reception for Mitch Markovitz will be held from 5-8 pm on Friday at the Ellen Firme Art Gallery in Beverly Shores. Wine, cheese, brownies, and spice cake will be served and the show will be open for the next few weeks. Markovitz, best known for his “Just Around the Corner” series of South Shore, was the founding artist and art director for the modern series of posters that consider life in Northwest Indiana cities. Markovitz also co-authored and illustrated the poster collection book, Moonlight in Duneland.

From the Shore In-Box-Multiple Artists Featured in Several Galleries in a Big Opening on October 3:
The Box Factory for the Arts opens the Robert Williams, Heartha Whitlow and the Riverwalk Galleries with four new artist exhibits. The gallery shows will run through November 15.

Robert Williams Gallery – The Sculpture of Dora Natella: Dora was born in Venezuela and was raised and educated in Italy. She studied figurative sculpture at the Academy of Fine Arts in Naples. Having artistic roots in both Europe and the New World has also been a key element of her identity as an artist. Dora earned an MFA in sculpture at Western Michigan University, in Kalamazoo and currently is the head of the sculpture department at IU South Bend.

Also in the Robert Williams Gallery, Photographer Marc Ullom: Marc is a professional... photographer and educator who lives and works in Michigan. Marc earned his MFA in photography from the Academy of Art University and is currently teaching full time at Andrews University.

Heartha Whitlow Gallery, Sara Sokol: Sara is a 2004 graduate of Southwestern Michigan College and has won multiple scholarships for her work. Over the years she has taken on several drawing and painting commissions and has participated in many local group shows. Sara is a multi-media artist currently working in the Arts District of Benton Harbor at 210 Water Street. Sara's paintings are inspired by Paleolithic art and are rich with texture created from the use of recycled paper. This is a technique she began using after studying hand paper-making at Ox-bow School of Art in Saugatuck, a satellite program from the Art Institute of Chicago.

Riverwalk Gallery the Fractal Art of Kevin Gross. Born in South Dakota, Kevin J. Gross is a self-taught artist living in Goshen, Indiana. His fractal artwork is the interface between two worlds. Gross says, “One world is calculated, logical, objective. Fractals are mathematically based and created with computers. The other world is emotional, soul-stirring, and subjective. What fascinated me about my first fractals were their beautiful, organic patterns and luxurious colors. I found them emotionally and spiritually exhilarating!”

Prayer for LaRonda Forsey's Hospitalized Son

Drew, son of La Ronda Forsey, associate dean for the School of Distance Education and K-12 principal for Griggs International Academy, was in a bicycle accident on Tuesday evening, July 22. La Ronda and a friend drove through the night to get to the hospital to be with him. Drew sustained serious head trauma and broken scapula. His lungs were bruised from the impact so he is on a ventilator but at times breathing on his own.

It is believed that Drew's bicycle tire malfunctioned throwing him over the handlebars landing on his head. His helmet was smashed and pushed off to the side of his head, so he received some abrasions. Cyclists happened upon Drew lying in the ditch and called 911. One was trained as a first responder and was able to assess Drew's condition and inform the ambulance team when they arrived.

Currently Drew is in Erlanger hospital in Chattanooga Tennessee. While it has not yet been determined what

An ASAP Ministries Benefit Concert

with Jee Wong

He gained national attention when his multi-media soundtrack “Lotus” was presented at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in 1999. One year later he was given the opportunity to embark on a seven-country concert and workshop tour sponsored by Yamaha Pianos.
