Computer Literacy Training Workshops
This semester, the School of Business Administration, in collaboration with the Office of Human Resources, is providing an opportunity for Staff and Faculty to participate in Computer Literacy Training workshops on Microsoft Excel, Microsoft Outlook, and Microsoft Word.

The following workshops will be offered during the Spring semester, on Wednesdays, from 10:30am-12:20pm, in Chan Shun Hall 226 (PC Lab), beginning on February 11, 2015, and ending on April 1, 2015. Dates and specific topics are listed below:

• Microsoft Excel Introduction Part 2 (2/18/2015)
• Microsoft Excel Advanced (2/25/2015)
• Microsoft Outlook Beginning (3/4/2015)
• Microsoft Outlook Intermediate (3/11/2015)
• Microsoft Word Introduction (3/18/2015)
• Microsoft Word Intermediate (3/25/2015)
• Microsoft Word Advanced (4/1/2015)

RSVP at training@andrews.edu and specify which workshops you would like to attend: Microsoft Excel (3 sessions), Microsoft Outlook (2 sessions) and/or Microsoft Word (3 sessions). When sending an RSVP, we will need your full name, ID#, email address, and the department you work in. Seats are limited to 25.

Microsoft Office Support
Faculty or Staff: Do you have questions about Microsoft 2013? Are you working on a project and would like more one-on-one assistance on how to complete it to better meet your needs? Do you have more general questions about Word, PowerPoint, Excel, or any of the other Microsoft Office applications?

During the month of February we are offering a few opportunities for Microsoft Office Support in various buildings around campus (in the same fashion as "Moodling with Marsha"). These will be general help sessions (with no planned training agenda) opened to Faculty or Staff that have questions and would like some one-on-one support in Microsoft Office.

DATE, TIME, AND LOCATION
February 4, 10:15am-12:15pm, Seminary, Student Lounge
February 6, 9:00-11:00am Bell Hall, Room 179
February 9, 3:15-5:15pm, Chan Shun Hall, Room 224
February 11, 10:15am-12:15pm Administration Building, Room 307
Faculty Book Club

Faculty, are you interested in exploring teaching strategies that can enhance your content delivery in ways that improve student outcomes? Have you ever wished to improve your teaching methods and practices while empowering your students during the learning process? Are you wanting to discover the joy of teaching, and learn how to bring energy and excitement back into the classroom?

The Office of Human Resources and the Department of Teaching, Learning, and Curriculum are excited to provide this opportunity to challenge faculty members to reflect on their current teaching practices and to move from simply delivering lectures to fostering active learning for your students.

Please join us in the upcoming semester for our first Faculty Book Club event. We will be reading Leaving the Lectern: Cooperative Learning and the Critical First Days of Students Working in Groups (McManus, 2005). Come and be inspired to grow professionally as we dive into this book and dialogue with colleagues about the journey of transformation in our teaching. Below are the times and dates that the Faculty Book Club will meet to discuss and process various chapters of the book:

- Tuesday, January 20, 2015, 12:00-1:00pm (Chapters 1-3)
- Monday, February 9, 2015, 12:00-1:00pm (Chapters 4-6)
- Tuesday, March 24, 2015, 12:00-1:00pm (Chapters 7-9)
- Monday, April 6, 2015, 12:00-1:00pm (Chapters 10-Conclusion)

To RSVP, please send an email to training@andrews.edu, and provide your full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which you teach. The first 30 individuals to RSVP will receive a free copy of the book. Also, please know that lunch will be provided during the learning events.

For further information about the book, please refer to the following links:

Advanced Connections for Student Employees--Tuesday Choices
The Office of Human Resources is excited to provide an opportunity for our student employees to participate in Advanced Connections for Student Employees training during Tuesday Choices/University Workshops this Spring semester, beginning on January 13. (Those student employees that are still interested in joining us are welcomed to do so. Those that have missed our first session will have an opportunity to make-up that session.)

Advanced Connections was developed with the intent of improving the quality of service provided to internal and external customers of an educational institution, and Andrews University has been offering this professional development opportunity to its faculty and staff for several years now. We recognize that a significant portion of our workforce on campus is student employees, with many of these students on the "frontlines," providing customer service to many individuals here on campus.

In an effort to improve our culture of service, we are excited to be able to provide this opportunity for student employees to attend Advanced Connections training! Topics to be discussed will include building a service culture, overcoming barriers, effective communication, checking for customer satisfaction, meeting service challenges and more.

Student employees wanting to attend Advanced Connections training during Tuesday Choices will need to RSVP by emailing training@andrews.edu, and they will need to provide their full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which they work. Please note that in order for them to receive the certification, you will need to attend all 6 sessions being offered during Tuesday Choices. There are only 35 seats available for this training.

Test-writing Workshop for Faculty
Faculty, would you like to improve the quality of your exam questions? Are you interested in learning more about measuring students’ knowledge and application of the material?

Come join us for "Assessment of Students, a workshop on test-writing" by Dr. R. Lee Davidson on Friday, January 30, 11:00am-1:00pm. During this training you will learn the basic rules of stem writing, how to provide good multiple-choice answers, how to write questions that tap higher level learning, and much more!

To RSVP for this event, please send an email to training@andrews.edu and include your full name, ID#, email address, and the department in which you teach.

Art Gallery Exhibition by Kevin Gross
The Visual Art & Design Department announces the exhibition titled "Fractals and Art" by Kevin j. Gross. There are a series of fractal images that will be exhibited in the Art & Design Gallery in Smith Hall, on the Andrews University campus. The opening reception is February 3, 2015 from 6-8 PM. All are invited.

Co-curricular credit will be offered and light refreshments will be served. The exhibition is on display through February 15.

Kevin J. Gross will give a talk entitled "Fractals and Art" at the eigen*Talk at 12:30 on Friday, February 6, in Haughey Hall, room 133, the Thompson (Math/Physics) Amphitheater. The talk will include a discussion of his creation of art based on math and a short history of fractals, his history with working with them, and a short discussion of fractals’ appearance and their role in his art. A light luncheon will be available, and guests are welcome.

AICER Presents Dr. Nadia Nosworthy

Dr. Nadia Nosworthy, Graduate Psychology & Counseling Assistant Professor, Andrews University

Assessment of Early Numeracy Skills
There is growing evidence to suggest math skills are just as important as reading skills when predicting a child's academic success and overall well-being. Children's ability to compare symbolic (e.g., Arabic numerals) and non-symbolic (e.g., dot arrays) numerical magnitudes has been found to correlate with their math achievement. Consequently my colleagues and I designed a two-minute paper-and-pencil assessment to measure kindergarten children's ability to compare symbolic and non-symbolic numerical magnitudes and assessed the degree to which performance on this measure explains individual differences in achievement. Research results revealed that symbolic and non-symbolic number comparison accuracy scores correlated with individual differences in arithmetic achievement and participants' scores on the paper-and-pencil test in kindergarten were a significant predictor of math performance in grade one. The findings suggest the important role of symbolic and non-symbolic processing in children's higher-level math abilities and also highlight the potential of this tool for assessment of early foundational numerical abilities.

Dining Services hours for MLK Day

The 2014-2015 Architecture Lecture Series

Present:

Alan Ricks, a graduate of Colorado College and the Harvard University Graduate School of Design, is the chief operating officer and co-founder of MASS Design Group, an impact-driven architecture and design firm that began with the design and construction of the critically acclaimed Butaro Hospital for Partners In Health. MASS has since expanded to twelve countries, focusing on design innovation and health infrastructure development. This spring, Alan was named a Young Global Leader of the World Economic Forum for the 2014-2019 term, which recognizes extraordinary leaders of the world under the age of 40. Chief TED curator Chris Anderson described the TED talk Alan gave in September 2013 as “a different language about what architecture can aspire to be.”

At the age of 28, Alan was named to the Forbes list of ‘30 Under 30’. Often the only architect at the table, Alan has worked with the government of Liberia to develop healthcare policy and addressed the Global Infrastructure Initiative sponsored by McKinsey and the Albright Stonebridge Group. Under the leadership of Michael Murphy and Alan Ricks, MASS has been named finalists for the TED Prize, Aga Khan Award for Architecture, and Buckminster Fuller Challenge, and received the World Architecture News Burro Happold Award, Architecture League Emerging Voices Award, Healthcare Design Changemaker Award, the Curry Stone Design Prize, and Contract Magazine ‘Designer of the Year’, among others.

Alan works to expand dialogue around the role of design in advancing a more equitable world, including regular and guest lectures at the Harvard School of Public Health, Colorado College, the University of Pretoria, and the Harvard Leadership Conference, among others. Alan and Michael have published in the Huffington Post, the Journal of Architecture, and the Stanford Social Innovation Review. MASS’s first book, Empowering Architecture, was published in 2013 as a reflection on the Butaro Hospital design process. Select features on MASS include Wired Magazine, the New York Times, Fast Company, and the Boston Globe, and in architecture publications including Mark, Domus, and Lotus.

Burera District was one of the last two districts in Rwanda without a public hospital, limiting access to care for a population of over 340,000.
Andrews Celebrates Martin Luther King Jr.

by Jenna Neil

On Thursday, January 15, Onleilove Alston, a faith community organizer and contributing writer for Sojourners Magazine, spoke for Andrews University’s 2015 Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration. Her topic was “The Biblical Call to Justice and African Roots of the Sabbath.”

Alston is known for her activism for justice and the poor after firsthand experience with poverty, foster care and homelessness. During her presentation she talked about Biblical justice specifically from Isaiah 61. She began by reading verses 1–4 and asked students to consider what the scripture was saying about God’s justice, a personal walk with God and several other areas.

“Nothing I can talk about,” she said, “can compare to what God says in His word.” Speaking of the recent events in Ferguson, Alston continued, “Do you think God has anything to do with justice? There’s our version of justice and God’s version. We need to use the Bible to examine God’s version of justice.”

As part of her talk, Alston used three examples of how the justice of Isaiah 61 was portrayed. The first was from Matthew and the reverse Exodus, or a return to Egypt to remember the first exodus. The second was Dr. King’s poor people’s campaign, specifically Resurrection City, a shantytown for the poor located on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. The poor people living in Resurrection City rose up in the spirit of God with the support of allies to change their lives. The third and final example Alston used was from her own life.

“The young people where I grew up were starting to reach out,” she said. “They were changing the way things had been between the government and the people.”

Alston, who grew up in East New York, Brooklyn, wasn’t raised in the church. At the age of 10, she started to read the Bible and pray. She was converted while attending a local Baptist Church four years later. Alston has a degree from Penn State University in human development and African-American studies and two master’s degrees, one in divinity from Union Theological Seminary, New York City, and the other in social work from Columbia University School of Social Work, New York, New York. She is currently the interim executive director at Faith in New York and a workshop facilitator, speaker and writer.

For more information about Alston, visit emergingvoicesproject.org/onleilove-alston.

Finley is this year’s featured speaker for the Graduate Student Consecration Service and Week of Activities. All events are free and open to the public. No tickets required; first come, first served, with priority given to Andrews University graduate students.

Thursday’s panel discussion with Finley also includes panelists Nicholas Miller, professor of church history, and Sherine Brown-Frasier, chair of the Department of Public Health, Nutrition & Wellness. Moderators are David Ferguson, director of undergraduate leadership development, and Deborah Weithers, associate dean for student life and diversity.

Finley has been involved in Christian ministry for more than 35 years—preaching, teaching, offering spiritual growth workshops and presenting healthful lifestyle lectures. He currently serves as vice president for global evangelism for the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, and is speaker emeritus for It Is Written, an international Christian television ministry, where he was speaker and director from 1991–2004.

With a passion for reaching people all over the world, Finley pioneered satellite evangelism technology, allowing millions from across the globe to attend his satellite evangelistic campaigns NET ’95, NET ’96 and ACTS 2000. His sermons have been translated into 50 languages, and he has written over 60 books and produced 16 video series, while regularly contributing articles to numerous periodicals.
Adventism in China
by Lucero Castellanos-Guirre

A first-of-its-kind conference reflecting on Adventism in China and Asia held at Hong Kong Adventist College (HKAC) took place at the end of October 2014.

Lawrence W. Onsager, dean of libraries, had the opportunity to attend this conference, which is jointly sponsored by Adventism in China (AIC) and the Association of Seventh-day Adventists Historians (ASDAH).

Onsager represented Andrews University at the official opening of the Center for Chinese Adventist Heritage located in the Hong Kong Adventist College library.

"The purpose of this conference was to renew the interest in studying the history of Adventism in China—the early days and currently as well," stated Onsager when discussing the topic of his paper, "On Fire for China, the Story of Erik Pilquist, Pioneer Adventist Missionary to China," which he presented at the conference.

Onsager’s paper is a preliminary study on the influence that Erik Pilquist had on the early training of the initial group of Adventist inland China missionaries and their methods for bringing the Gospel to the non-Christian Chinese.

Through his own research, Bruce W.N. Lo, the mover and shaker between Adventism in China, found Onsager’s research on early mission work in China—work that Onsager had done while the library director at Union College in the 1980s.

"Out of the blue, last year Bruce Lo approached me and asked me for some of my research so I shared it with him and then he talked about this conference and suggested I might want to do a paper for it, which I did, and then presented," shared Onsager.

"HKAC has made a request for the Center of Adventist Research to share historical resources between our center and theirs," claimed Onsager. "That of course is not an official thing at this point, just a request. This will be quite easy from our part because our Center of Adventist research is working to develop an Adventist digital library."

Technically, there is no Adventist church in China today, although conference presenters pinpointed that...

The Music Moves Him
David Phelps believes in the power of song.

The Christian musician, best known as tenor in the Gaither Vocal Band and for his three-octave vocal range, says whether he’s singing as part of Bill Gaither’s legendary gospel group or as a solo artist, his goal is always the same.

"Music really is a vehicle for emotion," Phelps says by telephone from his farm in Culleoka, Tenn., just outside of Nashville. "If a song can move me in some way then in turn I can figure out how to interpret that so I can then go on out on a nightly basis and look people in the face and hopefully sing it in a way that’s moving to them. To me that’s what it’s all about."

Tonight, Phelps will be trying to move the audience at Andrews University’s Howard Performing Arts Center in a solo tour stop touting the songs off his latest album, 2012's "Classic," as well as a few new tunes from his forthcoming record, "Freedom," which is due out in April.

Horn Museum Exhibits Rarely Seen Artifacts
The Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University will exhibit ancient artifacts rarely seen outside of the nation of Jordan, including many collected by Andrews students.

"Figurines of Tall Jalul" opens today and will be at the museum until late April, Horn Museum Curator Constance Gane said.

Many of the artifacts were collected by Andrews students working alongside Jordanian students during summer archaeological digs in the last few years.

The year-long loan has given museum staff the chance to photograph, draw, measure and analyze the pieces before putting them on exhibit.

BERRIEN SPRINGS - David Phelps believes in the power of song.

The Christian musician, best known as tenor in the Gaither Vocal Band and for his three-octave vocal range, says whether he's singing as part of Bill Gaither's legendary gospel group or as a solo artist, his goal is always the same.

"Music really is a vehicle for emotion," Phelps says by telephone from his farm in Culleoka, Tenn., just outside of Nashville. "If a song can move me in some way then in turn I can figure out how to interpret that so I can then go out on a nightly basis and look people in the face and hopefully sing it in a way that's moving to them. To me that's what it's all about."

Tonight, Phelps will be trying to move the audience at Andrews University's Howard Performing Arts Center in a solo tour stop touting the songs off his latest album, 2012's "Classic," as well as a few new tunes from his forthcoming record, "Freedom," which is due out in April.

"I do everything from sacred pieces to classical songs like 'Nessun Dorma' to traditional pop songs like 'What a Wonderful World' and of course the gospel pieces that I've written and recorded," Phelps says. "Musically I've always been pretty eclectic, which has served me well over the years. As a result of that, I think I have an audience that is made up of everyone from little kids to high school and college students to couples and families to grandparents."

Phelps grew up just north of Houston in Tomball, Texas, knowing from a young age that he wanted to be a performer.

"I just fell in love with music," he says. "Really, I was born into a singing family so it was something that was important to us. It gathered us together. My parents instilled in us a love for all music. They had season tickets to the Houston Grand Opera, and we never missed Dolly Parton when she came to town."

By the time Phelps reached Tomball High School, he looked for any opportunity to sing in front of an
"I had figured out that I had a talent for it, and at that point began to dream about doing it for my whole life," he says. "I tried to just come up with opportunities where I could go and sing. Pretty soon, locally, I was singing wherever I could - at Rotary Club meetings and school assemblies - whatever it was."

His parents, Gene Phelps, a former accountant who teaches business and finance at a college in Houston, and Mary Ella Phelps, a retired English professor, encouraged their son to study music at Baylor University, where he earned a degree in music and vocal performance, instead of heading out on his own. "Since both my parents were educators, when it came time for me deciding that I wanted to be a musician they said I should go and learn as much as I can about it, which is why I went to Baylor," Phelps says. "The program there was very classical oriented, but over the years I've really learned to appreciate that training. There are definitely nights after I've been singing night after night after night where I rely on that to get through."

Phelps headed to Nashville after graduation, releasing his 1994 solo debut "Journey To Grace" before landing a coveted spot in the Gaither Vocal Band. "I was talking to a couple of record labels about doing another solo project and they mentioned that the Gaither Vocal Band just happened to be looking for a new member," Phelps says. "I had always dreamed about singing with Bill and Gloria and learning from them. I went through the audition process and then it happened. It all kind of unfolded."

Since then he's released 15 albums with the Gaithers and another 12 solo projects, winning two Grammy Awards and four Dove Awards along the way. His latest solo effort, "Classic," is an eclectic mix of originals, operatic arias, and familiar popular tunes all given a classical vocal music treatment. Among the highlights are "O Mio Babbino Caro" from Giacomo Puccini's opera "Gianni Schicchi"; "Bring Him Home" from the Broadway musical "Les Misérables"; Bob Thiele and George David Weiss' "What a Wonderful World," which was first recorded by Louis Armstrong; and the sacred song "Agnus Dei," which Phelps sings in duet with his then 14-year-old daughter Maggie Beth Phelps. "That was a magical moment for me," he says. "It's a real highlight for me. My goal for the whole album was really just to create a collection of classic songs. There's a few songs on there that I wrote, but even those are done in a very classic format to give the impression that you might have heard them before."

As much as "Classic" marked a career highlight for Phelps, 2012 also became a personally difficult year. His older sister, Sherri Proctor, who long sang backup vocals for him on tour, died of cancer in September. "It was difficult to go through that," he says. "She had been singing with me for years and years and I learned so much from her. My whole family has always been very close. To lose her has just left a hole that will not be filled. We just move on and try to honor her with doing the best we can knowing that's what she would want."
Phelps says "Freedom," his next album, is a step in that direction. He's planning on introducing several new songs from that album in his live show, including the tunes "Coming Home," and "Ghost Town."

"I wrote nine of the 14 songs on the album, which is the most I've ever written before," Phelps says. "I think it's probably the most heartfelt and vulnerable project that I've ever done. It makes me smile just talking about it. I'm very excited about getting that out and having people hear what's next."

Hibler Design Studio was chosen by the more than 25 million monthly unique users that comprise the Houzz community from among more than 500,000 active home building, remodeling and design industry professionals.

The Best of Houzz award is given in two categories: Design and Customer Satisfaction. Design award winners' work was the most popular among the more than 25 million monthly users on Houzz, known as “Houzzers.” Customer Satisfaction honors are determined by a variety of factors, including the number and quality of client reviews a professional received in 2014. Winners will receive a “Best of Houzz 2015” badge on their profiles, helping Houzz users around the world who discover and love a professional's work to learn even more about that business’ popularity and satisfaction rating among their peers in the Houzz community.

“We are honored to receive this award from Houzz! As design professionals, we use Houzz on a regular basis as we interface with our clients' Ideabooks. We have found Houzz to be an indispensable asset in our design process.” Jesse Hibler, Owner, Hibler Design Studio

“Houzz provides homeowners with a 360 degree view of home building, remodeling and design industry professionals, empowering them to engage the right people and products for their project,” said Liza Hausman, vice president of industry marketing for Houzz. “We’re delighted to recognize Hibler Design Studio among our “Best Of” professionals as judged by our community of homeowners and design enthusiasts who are actively remodeling and decorating their homes.”

BERRIEN SPRINGS - The Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University will exhibit ancient artifacts rarely seen outside of the nation of Jordan, including many collected by Andrews students.

"Figurines of Tall Jalul" opens today and will be at the museum until late April, Horn Museum Curator Constance Gane said.

Many of the artifacts were collected by Andrews students working alongside Jordanian students during summer archaeological digs in the last few years.

The year-long loan has given museum staff the chance to photograph, draw, measure and analyze the pieces before putting them on exhibit.

Gane said she and the rest of the museum staff are grateful for the "extraordinary support" of the new director general of the Jordanian Department of Antiquities, Dr. Monther Jamhawi, and his staff.

"The fact that they allowed these artifacts out of the country is remarkable," she said.

Gane said these artifacts are from the 8th to 6th centuries B.C., and depict miniature human and animal forms. To put that time period in a Biblical perspective, this was the period from the time of the Israelite and Judaen kings to the time of Esther.

While there is still more study and research to do, Gane said she and her colleagues believe these figures are connected in some way to their worship of different gods.

"These figurines could not only represent different gods but also be used to set in front of a divine statue to represent the worshipper being in a constant state of prayer," she said.

She noted that Bible verses such as those found in Isaiah warning people not to worship idols created from molds show that the Jewish people were certainly aware of the figures and statues used in other cultures.

"These artifacts are a window into understanding the minds and thinking of ancient people when it comes to daily life and the divine realm," she said. "They saw a direct cause and effect with everything that happened in their lives. They were in a constant need to appease the gods."
"We're not sure of their meaning, they could be toys or something more," exhibit manager Scott Baker said.

Baker and Jacob Moody, assistant to the curator, have taken part in the archaeological digs and had the joy of discovery when they were able to uncover some of the artifacts on exhibit.

Moody noted that while the Jewish people were monotheistic, most of the other cultures in the Middle East were not and the Jewish people were certainly familiar with the other cultures around them.

Beyond the religious meanings of the figurines, Gane said she's also fascinated to study their artistry.

Individuals and school groups interested in viewing the new exhibit can contact museum to arrange tours. The Horn's public hours are from 3-5 p.m. Saturdays. The museum is located next to the Apple Valley Market on M-139.

Thanks from President & Mrs. Andreasen

To our many friends in the university and the community:

Demetra and I wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the many thoughtful expressions of sympathy we have received and continue to receive following the death of my mother last month. The cards, e-mails, phone calls, kind words along the way and warm handshakes have been overwhelming, encouraging and comforting.

Thank you so much.

Dolores Slikkers Tribute in Holland Paper

Dolores Slikkers was a member of the Andrews University Board of Trustees and a long-time supporter of the University. She was killed in a car accident last month. The below excerpt (full story linked below) is a tribute article published in the Holland (Michigan) Sentinel on Jan. 13.

A woman with boundless energy and a heart for helping, Dolores Slikkers’ legacy extends far beyond the Tiara Yachts facility on 40th Street in Holland Township.

Dolores poured her passion for people into every greeting card she sent — more than 2,000 a year — and into every church she helped to build through her ministry.

Dolores, 85, died as a result of a car crash in December.

The wife of S2 Yachts founder Leon Slikkers, Dolores was very much his first mate.

In the weeks since Dolores’ death, Leon, 86, said there has been an outpouring of support from people that she helped.

“She enjoyed life. She really had a passion for helping others. There was just no end to it. I didn’t realize it that much until afterwards,” Leon said. “I knew she was active, but not to that extent.”

Berrien Springs Camera Club Meeting
FROM: Berrien Springs Camera Club
CONTACT: Madeline Johnston
471-1109

The Berrien Springs Camera Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m. in the Berrien Springs Public Library at Cass (Old 31) and Union. This month’s program consists of a competition of prints and digital images submitted by members. The selected topics for the month include: 1) Chocolate and 2) Abandoned Buildings. Three additional categories are appropriate for all of our competitions: 1) Nature (nothing domesticated, nothing of a human origin), 2) Portraits, and 3) Open (any other subject).

Chocoholics should have fun with this one. Images could include favorite places to eat the confection, pictures of goodies in shop windows, delicacies about to be consumed, and chocolate forms of assorted animals and buildings. The Abandoned Buildings category also has room for much imagination and creativity, as well as travel pictures, and variety from buildings of antiquity to modern slums.

Prints, at least 5” x 7” in size, should be mounted, with the title and photographer’s name on the back. Instructions for submitting images in digital form are available on the club’s Website: http://berrienspringscameraclub.blogspot.com/.

All are welcome, either to observe or to join. Anyone who wishes to join may submit photos to the competition, up to 10 projected images and/or 10 prints. Refreshments will be served.

Free Counseling Services

The Andrews Community Counseling Center (ACCC) has openings for a number of new clients. Graduate practicum students provide FREE services and have training in counseling adults, adolescents and children.

Each counselor is supervised by a trained mental-health professional.

Types of referral issues accepted include (among others):

- Relationship issues
- Depression
- Anxiety
- Adjusting to changes
- Academic challenges
- Behavioral concerns
- Social skills problems
- Bullying problems (victims and perpetrators)
- Parent-child conflict
- Many others

Counselors work with children, teens, or adults; with individuals, couples, or families. We even have a play therapy room to accommodate young clients. Therapy sessions are completely confidential.

To make an appointment or if you have any questions, please contact the ACCC at 269-471-6238. If the ACCC is closed, please leave a message (which is kept confidential) and someone will return your call as soon as possible.

Neighbor To Neighbor is starting off 2015 with a bang—our annual Food Drive. Traditionally we have had our Food Drive in the fall. However, during the winter months demand is usually higher than it is during the rest of the year while donations dwindle. Your assistance with our annual Food Drive helps supplement what we already purchase.

In January and February you can help restock Neighbor To Neighbor’s food pantry. Just pick up a form at Apple Valley, check the items you wish to donate and take the form to the cashier. You pay for it there, and they will deliver your purchased food items to Neighbor To Neighbor. It’s a very simple process.

BABYSITTER NEEDED
I am currently looking for a fun, active and caring babysitter who would be available for some mornings on certain days. I have a 4 year old girl and 8 year old boy. My 4 year old is attending school for a few hours. I would like to have someone who would be available to pick my daughter up from the bus stop or from school at 11:30am. You would be with my 4 year old mostly while my son is at school, unless there is a snow day and he would be at home. Must have a vehicle and previous experience working with children!!! Pay is $9.00hr. If you are interested please call: 269-944-9911.

Massage for Men

Men, did you know that massage therapy can improve your athletic performance? It can also help relax you to concentrate better on studies and exams? Ray McAllister, owner of Healing’s Rays Massage is an AU alumnus as well as a licensed massage therapist. His large, strong hands give that deep, firm touch athletes desire for active backs, necks, arms, legs, feet, and even, pecs and abs. Ray’s total blindness gives him the sensitive precision you need to help you get those toned muscles you want. Ray can also simply relax you and get the blood pumping for academic focus and good grades. It’s $25 for the first hour of massage and stays that way for students and seniors. Sponsored seminary students and conference employees who have Adventist Risk Management can also enjoy 30 no-cost massages from Ray every year. Hot rock, Himalayan salt, and reflexology are also available. So, contact Ray ASAP: (269) 471-7422, raymcal@att.net, 8936 Grove St. Berrien Springs.

NEED A PROOFREADER?

I am a native of Mobile, Alabama, with an excellent command of the English language. I am a certified, retired English instructor. For twenty-two years proofreading and editing students’ papers, my passion is hunting typos and correcting grammar. I am a perfectionist for being grammatically correct. Stop worrying about spelling errors, and just leave your document with me to transform it into an error-free paper. As a diligent, focused worker, I am detailed, organized, and possess the ability to prioritize to meet tight deadlines. All proofreading is done by email and usually a 24-hour turnaround. I work hard to guarantee that your document is impeccable.

Proofreading services are the following:

✓ Grammar
✓ Capitalization
✓ Punctuation
✓ Spelling
✓ Revising weak sentence structure
✓ Clarity
✓ I will edit and proofread website content, resumes, business documents, cover letters, essays, articles, blog posts, etc.

Note: This is not a writing or rewriting service.

Charge: $40/hr.
