Second Sunday Concert: Southwest Michigan Symphony Orchestra

Concert at 4:00 pm on Sunday, February 8

As much a comfort to the living as a mediation on death, Brahms's moving and uplifting German Requiem, written following the death of his mother, occupies a special place in the hearts of all who have experienced its extraordinary power and beauty.

Pre-concert talk begins at 3pm

Tickets can be purchased from the Southwestern Michigan Symphony Orchestra by calling 269-982-4030 or online at https://smso.secure.force.com/ticket.

Howard Center Presents...Carla Trynchuk, Chi Yong Yun, and Stephen Framil

On Saturday, February 14 at 8:00 p.m., the Howard Performing Arts Center will present Carla Trynchuk, violin; Chi Yong Yun, piano; and Stephen Framil, cello. They will perform Franz Schubert’s Piano Trio in B-flat major and Antonin Dvorak's Trio in F minor.

Violinist Carla Trynchuk has performed as a soloist with orchestras throughout North America and Europe. A graduate of The Juilliard School, she is a professor of music at Andrews University. She will be performing with Stephen Framil, critically acclaimed cellist, who has performed as concert soloist in Carnegie Weill and Avery Fisher Halls and has appeared as a soloist with orchestras around the world. Joining them is Chi Yong Yun, currently the director of piano studies at Andrews University, who has performed as a recitalist, collaborative musician and lecturer around the world.

TICKETS REQUIRED: $10 Reserved Seating, Free for Students

Purchase tickets online, or call our box office at 888-467-6442 for student discounts and more information.
Howard Center Presents...Tied Up in Knotts
Program at 7:00 pm on Sunday, February 15.

Experience the hilarity as Karen Knotts performs and tells stories about her legendary father, Don Knotts. Don Knotts is most known for his role as Barney Fife on the "Andy Griffith Show." Tied Up in Knotts captures the essence of who Don Knotts was as a man because as Karen says, "he was the funniest when he was just being himself." Karen Knotts has acted in theater, film and television, as well as performed in puppet shows and standup comedy. Her one-woman show will have you and your family rolling on the floor with laughter in her family-friendly evening of comedy.

TICKETS REQUIRED: $15 Reserved Seating
Purchase tickets online, or call our box office at 888-467-6442 for student discounts and more information.

TICKETS REQUIRED: General Admission $5, Faculty/Staff $3, Students & Seniors $3, Children 12 & Under Free
Purchase tickets online, or call our box office at 888-467-6442 for student discounts and more information.
Howard Center Presents...Rich & Brandon Ridenour
Concert at 7:00 pm on Sunday, February 22.

Father and son team Rich and Brandon Ridenour have been entertaining onstage together since Brandon was seven years-old. Trumpeter Brandon Ridenour is the youngest member to have joined the prestigious Canadian Brass. He also won the International Trumpet Guild solo competition playing his own composition. Pianist Rich Ridenour has built a grand career performing concerts ranging from classical masterworks to American ragtime, jazz and rock & roll. Their most recent album includes crowd-pleasing favorites ranging from "Flight of the Brandon Bee" to "Rhapsody in Blue." Rich and Brandon weave a comedic stage presence only a father and son can create.

TICKETS REQUIRED: $15 Reserved Seating, $5 Students
Purchase tickets online, or call our box office at 888-467-6442 for student discounts and more information.

Cultural Adaptation to Stress
The Graduate Department of Psychology and Counseling invites you to participate in a research survey that examines cultural adaptation to stress among college students. The researchers hope to identify how cultural group membership effects coping skills developed and one's subsequent ability to mediate stress. The findings should prove valuable for detection, intervention and prevention programs.

Here is the link that will direct you to the survey site: https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/YJNTLBW

The study also involves a qualitative component. Students who are interested in participating in a brief focus group interview, please contact the researchers: Stacey Nicely or Dr Carole Woolford-Hunt at: nicely@andrews.edu

After completing the survey and/or focus group interview, participants will be given the opportunity to participate in a drawing for one of two $25 gift vouchers.

If you are under the age of 18 or not enrolled in Andrews University, please disregard.

Thank you for your participation!

Contact: Stacey Nicely

WSC Call for 2015-16 Scholarship Applications

The 2015-2016 Women's Scholarship Committee scholarship applications for graduate women students are available in paper form at the Administrative Assistant's desk in the English Department in Nethery Hall or through e-mail attachment by writing Dr. Stella Greig at greigs@andrews.edu. Please put "WSC Scholarships" in the subject line. Completed applications are due at noon, Friday, March 20.

There are two kinds of application forms. One form is for the Steele Scholarship, which is for women who have served as cross-cultural missionaries for at least 4 years and who are working on a graduate degree in any of the university schools. The other form is a general application for women working on a graduate degree in any of the university schools.

General application forms will be considered for several different named scholarships (which have their own criteria—e.g., must be: a Seminary student, a School of Education in educational or counseling psychology student, or a student working on a music degree, etc.), as well as the more general WSC Advisory Scholarship and Honored Women Scholarship. To give applicants the best chance to receive an award, the committee will determine for which scholarship an application fits best. Along with the application form, students will need to request letters of recommendation from two different individuals (either from two professors or a professor and a work supervisor). The letters of recommendation should include the professor/supervisor’s assessment of the worthiness of the applicant in terms of scholarship, work habits and the likelihood that the student will meet her goals. Scholarship funds awarded are to be applied towards tuition for the 2015-16 school year. Questions may be sent to greigs@andrews.edu.

This is the fifth Winter-Spring lecture in the annual Department of Chemistry & Biochemistry Seminar Series. Our guest speaker is from Western Michigan University where she is Professor of Inorganic Chemistry and serves as Associate Chair and Graduate Studies Advisor in the Department of Chemistry. She was chosen in 2013 as one of the top 25 Women Professors in Michigan.

Attached is the lecture flyer and abstract with more details about our speaker’s educational and professional background and talk.

For non-Andrews faculty, students and others wishing to attend:

There are directions given to Andrews at: http://www.andrews.edu/about/visiting/get_to_andrews.html

To get to the A-107 Halenz Hall:
Turn in at the J. N. Andrews Blvd. entrance. Go pass the Security Gate House. Make right turn at the first intersection on to E Campus Circle Drive. Then make a left turn at the next intersection (E Campus Circle Drive). Make another left onto Administration Drive. The Science Complex is the bldg on your left. The Chemistry Dept. is on the side of the Science Complex (4270 Administration Drive) opposite the Bookstore parking lot. You can park in the bookstore parking lot or the one straight ahead. My Office # is A-323 Halenz Hall .... on the third floor of the Science Complex.

Teachers are encouraged to announce this lecture in their classes and/or forward this email to their classes. All are welcome to forward this email along to colleagues and friends.

Art Gallery Exhibition by Kevin Gross "SpiritFire Images"
The Visual Art & Design Department announces the exhibition titled "SpiritFire Images" by Kevin j. Gross. There are a series of fractal images that will be exhibited in the Art & Design Gallery in Smith Hall, on the Andrews University campus. The opening reception is February 3, 2015 from 6-8 PM. All are invited. Co-curricular credit will be offered and light refreshments will be served. The exhibition is on display through February 15.

Also, Kevin J. Gross will give a talk entitled "Fractals and Art" at the eigen*Talk at 12:30 on Friday, February 6, in Haughey Hall, room 133, the Thompson (Math/Physics) Amphiteater. The talk will include a discussion of his creation of art based on math and a short history of fractals, his history with working with them, and a short discussion of fractals' appearance and their role in his art. A light luncheon will be available, and guests are welcome.

Campus Signage Policy
As part of the planning for the University entrance, the Arboretum Council and the Facilities Management Committee voted temporary signage would be prohibited at the University entrance and along J.N. Andrews Boulevard. This policy was deemed reasonable because of the increased visibility of the official entrance to the University and the new way-finding signs installed throughout campus.

Signs placed there will be removed and can be picked up at the Integrated Marketing & Communication building. Signage left at IMC for 30 days will be disposed of.

Banners may be placed at the terminus of J.N. Andrews Boulevard on the poles provided.

Reservations/arrangements to install and store banners can be made with Plant Services. When providing guests with directions to campus, weather-resistant boxes to place flyers about your event have been installed for your convenience near the large campus map at the Welcome Globe.

Waldensian Study Tour
RELG 360-04x

Take a religion class and travel to the ancient home of the Waldenses in the Piedmonts of Northern Italy from June 3-11, 2015. The purposes for this study tour is to bring to you the historical and spiritual perspectives of these faithful people, and give you the opportunity for a personal experience of faith.

Before the tour you will meet with Professor Demsky for 7 class periods during spring semester to study the history to have a background on this ancient people of faith. The class times are arranged. Classes are beginning now so don’t delay.

Please contact Professor Kathleen Demsky, Director of the Architecture Resource Center. Phone: 269-471-2418 email: demskyk@andrews.edu

All costs for the trip are covered by the tuition for this 3 credit summer course, RELG 360-04x, plus a $250.00 tour fee. This is a summer class and registration takes place at the end of the spring semester.

For Persons who want to travel with us on this faith journey and are not taking it for academic credit, the cost is $3,584. Please contact Professor Demsky by phone or email for the resources (books/DVDs) that will be needed prior to taking the tour, to gain knowledge beforehand of the amazing historical sites of these ancient people of faith, which we will discover on this faith journey.

Tailored Nanoparticles for Advanced Environmental Processes

Sherine Obare, is currently Professor of Inorganic Chemistry at Western Michigan University (WMU) and serves as Associate Chair and Graduate Studies Advisor at the Department of Chemistry. She has a B.S. in Chemistry from West Virginia State University and a Ph.D. in Chemistry from University of South Carolina. She later joined Professor Meyer's research lab at Johns Hopkins University as a Dreyfus Postdoctoral Fellow. In 2004, Obare joined WMU faculty and was promoted to Full Professor in 2014.

Her research interests include designing nanoscale materials with unique physical properties to exploit these properties toward environmental remediation, improved healthcare, and alternative energy. She is Director of the NIH-sponsored Bridges to the Baccalaureate Program at Western Michigan University, a program that recruits underrepresented minority students from community colleges in Michigan and supports them to pursue advanced degrees in biomedical and behavioral sciences.

Obare received the 2009 George Washington Carver Teaching Excellence Award, the 2009 International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry Young Observer Award, the National Science Foundation CAREER award, and the 2010 NSF Division of Materials Research American Competitiveness and Innovation Fellowship. She is Associate Editor for the Journal of Nanomaterials and was selected in 2013 among the top 25 Women Professors in Michigan.

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY CHEMISTRY & BIOCHEMISTRY
HALENZ HALL AMPHITHEATER (Thursday, February 5, 4:30 pm)
Nanoscale metallic particles are of great interest due to their importance in advanced technological applications. Synthetic procedures that produce gram-scale, well defined and monodisperse metallic nanoparticles with controlled size and shape, especially within the 1-4 nm size range is a continuing challenge in nanoscale science. We have developed new organic ligands that when used as stabilizers for metal nanoparticles, provide the ability to gain control of the particle size in one-step synthetic procedures (Figure 1). Monodisperse metallic nanoparticles were synthesized and characterized using spectroscopic, microscopic and x-ray techniques. We have further investigated the electrochemical quantized double-layer (QDL) charging differences of 1-4 nm metallic nanoparticles. Within this size range, the electronic properties transition from a bulk-like continuum of electronic states to molecule-like, discrete electronic orbital levels. Such properties have led us to investigate their charging and discharging at large band-gap semiconductor interfaces. The results are paramount toward understanding and developing advanced materials for catalysis, and the degradation of toxic environmental pollutants. Furthermore, the functionalization of metallic nanoparticles with various molecules including biologically and environmentally relevant molecules is often carried out to enhance the material’s properties. The presentation will showcase examples of functionalized nanoparticles and their effect on microorganisms.

Wind Symphony Presents Winter Concert

The Andrews University Wind Symphony, under the direction of Alan Mitchell, will present their annual winter concert on Saturday, Feb. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center on the campus of Andrews University.

The first half of the concert will feature the Southwestern Michigan College Brass Band under the direction of Jonathan Korzun. The band will perform "Investiture Antiphonal Fanfare" by Bliss, "Praeludium" by Graham, "Hymn for Diana" by Turin, "Lazos Amistad" by Texidor, "Unsquare Dance" by Brubeck and "Rhapsody in Blue" by Gershwin.

The second half of the concert will feature the Andrews University Wind Symphony performing "The Standard of St. George March" by Alford, "Time Remembered" by Spark, "Journey to the Lion's Castle" by Galante, "English Dances, Set II" by Arnold, and "Selections from 'Into the Woods'" by Sondheim.

General admission is $5, students and senior admission are $3 and children under 12 are free. To order tickets, visit howard.andrews.edu or call the Howard Center Box Office at 269-471-3560.

Tied Up In Knotts

Karen Knotts, daughter of the legendary Don Knotts, will present Tied Up in Knotts, a one-woman family-friendly comedy routine, as part of the 2014–2015 Howard Center Presents... series on Sunday, February 15, at 7 p.m., at the Howard Performing Arts Center.

In Tied Up in Knotts, Karen will perform and tell stories about her father, comedic actor Don Knotts. Don Knotts is most known for his role as Barney Fife on the "Andy Griffith Show," but as Karen says, "he was the funniest when he was just being himself."

Karen has acted in theater, film and television, as well as performed in puppet shows and standup comedy. Her one-woman show will have families rolling on the floor with laughter. It is a must-see for people who grew up watching the Andy Griffith show!

Tickets are $15, $10 for Andrews University faculty and staff, and $5 for students. Tickets can be purchased online at howard.andrews.edu or at the box office by calling 888-467-6442.

Online MBA Program Ranked in Top 50

by Jenna Neil

The Master of Business Administration program at Andrews University has been ranked among the top 50 private online MBA programs in the U.S. for 2014. Onlinembareport.com placed Andrews at number 23, above Columbia College (Columbia, Missouri) and University of Phoenix.

"One significant contributing factor to our high U.S. News & World Report ranking is our online MBA program," says Allen Stembridge, dean of the School of Business Administration. "We are very proud of our growing, synchronous and interactive online learning platform which provides an opportunity for career advancement to students around the world who are unable to physically attend courses here at Andrews University."

For more information about the Master of Business Administration program, email graduate@andrews.edu or call 269-471-6013.

Andrews Celebrates Martin Luther King Jr.

by Jenna Neil

On Thursday, January 15, Onleilove Alston, a faith community organizer and contributing writer for Sojourners Magazine, spoke for Andrews University's 2015 Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration. Her topic was "The Biblical Call to Justice and African Roots of the Sabbath."

Alston is known for her activism for justice and the poor after firsthand experience with poverty, foster care and homelessness. During her presentation she talked about Biblical justice specifically from Isaiah 61. She began by reading verses 1–4 and asked students to consider what the scripture was saying about God's justice, a personal walk with God and several other areas.

"Nothing I can talk about," she said, "can compare to what God says in His word." Speaking of the recent events in Ferguson, Alston continued, "Do you think God has anything to do with justice? There's our version of justice, and God's version. We need to use the Bible to examine God's version of justice."

As part of her talk, Alston used three examples of how the justice of Isaiah 61 was portrayed. The first was from Matthew and the reverse Exodus, or a return to Egypt to remember the first exodus. The second was Dr. King's poor people's campaign, specifically Resurrection City, a shantytown for the poor located on the National Mall in Washington, D.C. The poor people living in Resurrection City rose up in the spirit of God with the support of allies to change their lives. The third and final example Alston used was from her own life.
Driving Force Behind Andrews Study Bible Dies
Erno Gyeresi, a Romanian pastor-turned-business executive who became a key force behind the popular Andrews Study Bible, has died after a long struggle with cancer. He was 54.

Gyeresi died peacefully on Sabbath afternoon, Jan. 31, at his home in Niles, Michigan, with his family by his side, his family said.

Gyeresi spent the first 13 years of his career working as a pastor and church administrator in Romania, and the last 13 years of his life working at Andrews University Press, where he served as managing editor of the Andrews Study Bible, first released in the New King James Version in 2010.

The Music Moves Him
David Phelps believes in the power of song.
The Christian musician, best known as tenor in the Gaither Vocal Band and for his three-octave vocal range, says whether he's singing as part of Bill Gaither's legendary gospel group or as a solo artist, his goal is always the same.

"Music really is a vehicle for emotion," Phelps says by telephone from his farm in Culleoka, Tenn., just outside of Nashville. "If a song can move me in some way then in turn I can figure out how to interpret that so I can then go out on a nightly basis and look people in the face and hopefully sing it in a way that's moving to them. To me that's what it's all about."

Tonight, Phelps will be trying to move the audience at Andrews University's Howard Performing Arts Center in a solo tour stop touting the songs off his latest album, 2012's "Classic," as well as a few new tunes from his forthcoming record, "Freedom," which is due out in April.

Architecture Alum Wins Award
Hibler Design Studio of Berrien Springs, Michigan has been awarded "Best of Houzz" for Design by Houzz, the leading platform for home remodeling and design. Hibler Design Studio was founded in 2005 and has grown to a tightly knit team of seven talented professionals.

Jesse Hibler, owner of Hibler Design Studio, is a graduate of Andrews University.
Horn Museum Exhibits Rarely Seen Artifacts

The Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University will exhibit ancient artifacts rarely seen outside of the nation of Jordan, including many collected by Andrews students.

"Figurines of Tall Jalul" opens today and will be at the museum until late April, Horn Museum Curator Constance Gane said.

Many of the artifacts were collected by Andrews students working alongside Jordanian students during summer archaeological digs in the last few years.

The year-long loan has given museum staff the chance to photograph, draw, measure and analyze the pieces before putting them on exhibit.

Acapella Group is Pitch Perfect

NOTE: The following is an excerpt (link to full story follows) from an interview with The Filharmonic done by the Herald Palladium. The Filharmonic will perform at the Howard Performing Arts Center on the campus of Andrews University on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 7 p.m. Visit howard.andrews.edu for tickets.

Joe Caigoy had already transferred to Michigan State University when he got the call.

Vocal bass Jules Cruz and beat boxer Niko Del Rey, who Caigoy had previously performed with, were putting together an all-Filipino-American a capella group to audition for the fourth season of NBC’s musical competition, "The Sing-Off."

"They asked me if I wanted to be a part of it so I flew home to Los Angeles," Caigoy says by telephone from Lansing.

In addition to Caigoy, Cruz and Del Rey also recruited vocalists VJ Rosales, Trace Gaynor and Barry Fortgang to form the group now known as The Filharmonic.

"Jules knew Barry from middle school and they grabbed the other two guys from other singing competitions," Caigoy says. "The day I flew in was the day we all met, and it was the day we filmed our audition tape."

Andrews Seeks Mark in Biotech

Andrews University is launching a biotechnology program to help students make a mark in the growing research and health field, the university announced.

Five Questions With... Rich Aguilera

Rich Aguilera was a successful architect when he decided to make a change.

The Andrews University graduate, who now lives in Niles, realized that working in the architecture industry was just a career, while his real passion was serving as youth director at church and with children's ministries. So in 2008, he closed his architecture practice and opened One Mustard Seed, a ministry that finds fun, creative ways to explore nature and the biblical creation story.

Aguilera, "The Mud Guy" from Guide Magazine and 3ABN's "Kids' Time," travels the world looking for evidence of creation and sharing his discoveries with kids and adults in his columns, books and speaking engagements. His latest interactive presentation, called "HIS Creation," takes place Saturday as part of Andrews University's Howard Center Presents Series at the Howard Performing Arts Center.
Serving the World's Cities: An Andrews University Response

Cities have been interwoven in human experience from the beginning of time. Some will argue that humans prefer the gentle pastoral beauty and pace of life familiar to uncrowded rural settings, but the reality tells us otherwise. For whatever reason, we gather in cities. Today's cities are larger, more creative, diverse and global than ever. In the mid-19th century less than 10 percent of the world's population lived in a metropolis of 100,000 or more. By 1900 the urban population in the world had increased to 14 percent. Today, 60 percent of the human population is in the city, and in developed nations like Canada and America it is an astounding 75 percent. And the pace of migration to urban life is quickening. Today's cities are the center of power, culture, economy and spirituality.

Christians bring their influence into the life of the city as they live there, work there, play there and socialize there. Most young adults leaving our colleges and universities establish careers in one of our world's urban centers. They need support as they bring the presence of Christ into those cultures.

Recognizing this challenge, the Andrews University Doctor of Ministry program offers an Urban Ministry Concentration. The next cohort in this concentration will begin in March 2015 in Chicago. Skip Bell, professor of Christian leadership, leads the concentration.

Four Alumni Build Company

Founded by four alumni of Andrews University, Galileo's mission is to create UAV systems that enhance human life and help solve critical health, logistics, security, and entertainment challenges.

The team realized that both professionals and consumers desire to interact with drones but are commonly faced with complexities that limit their use of the technology. Galileo is pushing to change this reality with their motto: "Personality to make it yours. Apps to make it powerful. Hardware to make it happen."

Galileo will launch the first of its two models, the Alpha, through crowdfunding in 2015. The Alpha will be designed for personal use with a simplicity tailored for the mass market.

Professor Speaks on Cuba-U.S. Relations

The Obama administration's announcement this week that it will be normalizing relations with Cuba came as a surprise to many, including Andrews University Professor of History or Political Science Doctor Gary Wood.

Professor's Book Used in Romanian Ministry

Adventist students in Romania have decided to share a book of drawings with their classmates that place Jesus in New York in hope that the unusual illustrations will prompt people to reach for the Bible for answers.

The Romanian chapter of AMiCUS, an organization that strives to share Jesus with non-Adventist students, chose the book, Jesus of New York: Premonitions of New York Teenager, as its main missionary tool for 2015, and demand has already exceeded the initial print run of 2,500 copies by the Adventist-operated Romanian Publishing House.
The 43 drawings by retired Andrews University professor Greg Constantine are replete with allusions to characters, situations, actions, dialogues, and objects from the gospel stories that the students hope will encourage readers to double-check their literacy of the Bible.

March for Justice at Andrews University
More than 200 students at Andrews University took part in the March for Justice.

"I felt like not being involved was also saying I didn't care," said Jevon McAllister, a student at the school. "So I felt like now was the time to get involved and for my voice to be heard."

For students, this was a chance to lend their voice to a larger movement.

Family on the Mend After Plane Crash
A plane crash on Friday in Berrien Springs is still affecting the aviation community at Andrews University.

Bryce Fisher, the man that made the miraculous landing just two miles from the school's airport, obtained his pilot's license from their aviation department.

He is also an airplane mechanic and has an aviation maintenance license from Andrews University too.

His family was heading from Richmond, Indiana to Berrien Springs for a family function when Bryce believes the engine failed.

Great Leaps Forward
Although she was born in 1965, Rachel Williams-Smith's story could have been set in the 1800s. Wearing long dresses and broad-brimmed bonnets, she grew up without modern conveniences like electricity, telephone, radio, television or indoor plumbing. She, along with her two older brothers, was shaped by the extreme religious views of her iron-willed, Vietnam veteran father and practical-minded mother.

Cardinals win vs. Holy Cross College
The Holy Cross men's basketball team hosted Andrews University Saturday night in their 2014-15 home opener. The Saints fell to the Cardinals, 59-57. The loss drop the Saints to a 2-3 record for the season.

Grace Place: Caring for the Community
The Grace Place may be fairly new to the community, but members have already made their presence known with their programs on health, marriage and finances and their regular outreach to South Bend neighborhoods.

Mobile Farm Market Puts End to Food Deserts
A mobile farm market is making a difference in Michigan one vegetable at a time. Andrews University said due to its success this summer they are going to expand next year.

Mobile Farm Market Proves Success
Be Healthy Berrien's mobile farm market, operated with Andrews University, had a fruitful first season and... will continue to grow, the Berrien County Board of Health heard Wednesday.

Nicki Britten, director of community health planning, reported that 60 percent of survey respondents said they were eating more vegetables as a result of shopping at the mobile market.

The project was launched last summer to sell produce grown at Andrews' student gardens and orchards. The mobile market made stops in low-income neighborhoods in Benton Harbor, Benton Township, Buchanan, Niles and Berrien Springs, where residents have limited access to fresh fruits and vegetables.

The health department and Andrews "consider this a very successful pilot year of this program," Britten said.

Horn Museum to Host Rare Exhibit

At a time when many archaeological museums at religious-affiliated schools in the United States are struggling to add to their displays, the Siegfried Horn Museum at Andrews University (AU) will soon host an exhibit of 48 ancient artifacts, reports the New York Times.

"In recent decades, countries that house remains of the ancient world have become determined to keep archaeological finds within their borders," explains the New York Times article. Furthermore, small museums often lack "the financial resources to buy works or borrow actively from other collections." Because of these constraints, Dr. Constance Gane, curator of the Horn Museum and assistant professor of archaeology and Old Testament at AU, told Adventist Today that the museum is thrilled to exhibit the ceramic figurine fragments.

Farm to School Success

Berrien County Juvenile Center food service manager Charity Hackett first took an interest in serving more fresh fruits and vegetables to residents, utilizing a garden at the Center. Since then, the Center has obtained food preservation equipment, developed resident food handling skills training and purchased CSA shares aided by the Michigan Farm to School Grant program. The Berrien County Juvenile Center was one of 21 MI Farm to School Grant recipients in 2014.

In the first year of the farm-to-school initiative, Hackett found difficulty in obtaining small quantities of a variety of produce from many different commercial farm vendors. Working with Michigan State University Extension and the MSU Product Center, the nearby Andrews University's CSA and market garden program was identified as a reliable source of fresh fruits and vegetables. Bulk apples are purchased from a separate grower.

Horn Museum in New York Times

In a few months, the Siegfried Horn Museum at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich., will exhibit 48 ancient fragments of possibly religious ceramic figures depicting humans and horses. Dating from the 8th to the 6th century B.C., they were excavated over more than a decade ending in 2012 at Tall Jalul in Jordan.

While small, the exhibition, part of a one-year loan agreement with Jordan, will be something of a rarity.

"There is no easy life."

The giant acorns under the chestnut oak trees at Monte Sano State Park in Huntsville, Ala., remind Rachel Williams-Smith of how her family collected them and attempted to make something edible during the year they camped there in a converted school bus. The cliffs behind Monte Sano Lodge are where the family took refuge during the tornado of April 1974. And Williams-Smith smiles when she sees a line of ants marching along.

"The ants were my friends," Williams-Smith said this week, as she gazed at the wooded lot around the Lodge. "I didn't have much else to do - our main curriculum was, as my mother put it, 'Bible and survival.'"

Williams-Smith is chair of the Department of Communication at Andrews University and recently published a book, "Born Yesterday," a telling of the story of her growing up years.

Free Haircuts and Fun Fair for Kids

Now that school is back in session, it is time to smile wide for the yearbook picture.
Some people in southwest Michigan wanted to make sure students looked their best.
On Sunday afternoon, hair stylists across Michiana snipped, braided, and buzzed in a studio set up in the Berrien Springs High School gym.
The selling point?
No cost for kids in preschool up to fifth grade!

Professors Speak: Ebola Small Threat in U.S.
The Ebola virus ravaging West Africa poses little threat to the U.S., a researcher told an Andrews University audience Thursday.
But doing nothing about the deadly outbreak is not an option.

Scholars Discuss Interplay of Faith and Science
Dr. Deborah Haarsma stood in front of the audience at Granger Community Church and described the layers of glaciers that have preserved evidence of 720,000 winters. She presented layers of sedimentary rock that go back millions of years and radiometric dating that puts some earthly rock formations at 3.6 billion years old.
She described her own work as an astronomer, where she studies distant galaxies over a billion lightyears from Earth.
Speaking to a sold-out crowd attending Michiana Forum on Wednesday evening, Sept. 17, Haarsma was one of four panelists invited to speak about scholarship and reconciling Christian faith with scientific evidence that appears to contradict Biblical teachings.
Other panelists took different approaches, but also spoke of reconciliation between science and faith.
Dr. Roy Gane, a professor of Hebrew Bible and ancient near eastern languages at Andrews University, spoke of the importance of recognizing both the Bible and scientific evidence as legitimate sources of knowledge.

Professor Shows Art in Gallery

Bahamian Alumnus Awarded Scholarship to Oxford
Bahamian Wilfred Adderley II has been awarded the 2014 Chevening Scholarship. He will be participating in the Foreign Service Programme at Oxford University.

Wilfred’s tertiary education led him to study at Northern Caribbean University in Mandeville, Jamaica where he started his degree in Music Education, Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan and the College e Università Villa Aurora in Florence, Italy.

Wilfred holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education and Music, with Honours, and a Master’s Degree in International Relations, Communication and Development, Magna Cum Laude, both from Andrews University.

Fusing Traditions

Petar Jankovic is the rarest of musicians.

While the Serbian-born classical guitarist traveled the world performing solo shows, he longed to share that spotlight with other players.

"I just had this sheer desire to play with other people on stage, but classical guitarists just don’t have that many chances to play with other ensembles," Jankovic says by telephone from his home in Bloomington, Ind. "At one point, I just got a little tired of traveling alone and playing alone. I always liked chamber music, where you can collaborate with other people, so I wanted to come up with something to fill that void."

That something is the Petar Jankovic Ensemble, which performs Sunday at Andrews University to open the Howard Performing Arts Center's 2014-15 season.

How Does Your Garden Roll?

Debra Batson knows what she likes.

"I like everything fresh," she said on Wednesday as she bought green tomatoes, bell peppers, cabbage and other produce from the mobile farm market operated by Andrews University and Be Healthy Berrien. But Batson uses a wheelchair, and it’s difficult for her to get to a grocery store. Having the mobile market make a weekly stop at Red Bud Ministries at 708 Red Bud Trail in Buchanan, across the street from her home, has been a godsend.

"I’m one of their best customers," Batson said.

Student Writes for ASOR Blog

Studying archaeology, reading books related to the subject, and obtaining good grades in archaeology related courses does not turn one into a bona fide archaeologist. Having the privilege to participate in an archaeological excavation on the field is an experience that I will be forever grateful to ASOR and the Platt Fellowship donors. Although I have been studying archaeology for over a year, this is my first dig experience.
Lessons in Leadership
What makes a good leader?
It's a question Skip Bell, professor of leadership studies and director of the Doctor of Ministry program at Andrews University's Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, has pondered more than most.
Bell, who is also founding director of the Christian Leadership Center at Andrews, has traveled the world speaking about leadership, proudly proclaiming that he has taught the subject on every continent except Antarctica. About four years ago, however, Bell began brooding about the literary void on what the Bible actually says on the topic.

"Money" Ranks Andrews A Best College
Money magazine announced its ranking of the best colleges in the country based on graduation rates, degree costs and return on investment, and one Michigan university made the top 25.
The list ranked 665 of the nation's more than 1,500 public and private colleges and universities, eliminating schools that had below-average graduation rates, insufficient data or bond ratings that indicated financial problems, according to the magazine's editors.
Once the schools were selected, each one was ranked on affordability, quality of education and post-graduation outcomes to determine which schools provided the highest-quality education for the best value.

Student Gardens Featured in NAD News
On June 9, 2014, the Mobile Farm Market, provided by the Andrews University Student Gardens, opened for business for the first time, selling fresh produce in Benton Harbor for six hours.
The farmer’s market on wheels is a program sponsored by the Andrews University Student Gardens and partially funded by a Michigan State grant as part of the Be Healthy Berrien initiative. In partnership with the Berrien County Health Department and Planning Commission, the YMCA, Lakeland Healthcare, the cities of Buchanan, Niles and Stevensville, and United Way, the Gardens will be helping host a mobile farm market at strategic locations within the county in an effort to bring affordable healthy food to the community.

Faculty Couple Publishes Book
Biblical counseling is a resource for Christians who need help locating the sin in their lives and cutting it out. Authors David and Beverly Sedlacek offer the truths they have learned through years of clinical practice in their comprehensive guide to "Cleansing the Sanctuary of the Heart."

This book is a distillation of the biblical principles the Sedlaceks have used to heal others who have sought counseling for addictions, mental and emotional disorders, relationship problems and abuse.

Alumnus "Exudes Confidence"
Youssef Yomtoob has yet to meet a school district on which he can't have a positive effect.

The new School City of East Chicago superintendent, affectionately nicknamed "Dr. Joe" by those who know him, told the crowd of parents, teachers and administrators that everyone "is in it together" and that there will be no "they and us" once he takes over the reins July 1. The School Board voted unanimously to offer Yomtoob a five-year contract at a special meeting Friday night, the terms of which will be discussed during a public hearing at the June 30 meeting.

Yomtoob, whose career spanned 50 years before he retired from Hawthorn School District in Vernon Hills, Illinois, said his philosophy stems from research at a district he was in during the 1970s that revealed all students, despite their racial or economic backgrounds, have the potential to succeed. He carried those principles everywhere he went and said he left each place a little better than he found it.

Physics Alum Highlighted in Nature
Dewey Murdick (BS Physics 1999) made the news last month in the article "Text-mining offers clues to success" appearing in the May 2014 issue of Nature, an International Weekly Journal of Science of high repute. The article highlighted one of the many projects Murdick manages for the U.S. Intelligence Advanced Research Projects Activity (IARPA) Foresight and Understanding with Scientific Exposition (FUSE) program.

"So far, it has performed more than 2 million analyses of past data to pick out key advances," says Murdick in reference to his innovative software that reviews multilingual data from scientific, technical, and patent literature. "From these, it has identified several hundred indicators, such as new collaborations or expressions of excitement in text, that highlight emerging areas now."

FUSE seeks to build capabilities and methodologies that assist a diverse set of analysts (e.g., national security, research evaluation, and business intelligence) in prioritizing new claims, methods, and technologies from around the world.

To learn more about this new software and its significant predictive power which puts it on track to forecast the launch of new products and other applications, refer to the full-text article.
Benton Harbor: Healthy & Mobile

The Be Healthy Berrien mobile farm market, a partnership with Andrews University's student garden, is ready to roll, starting today.

The truck, carrying locally grown produce to communities with limited access to fresh foods, will run five days a week to seven locations, reported Nicki Britten, Berrien County Health Department's director of community health.

Garth Woodruff, a professor of horticulture at Andrews who oversees the student garden, said 16 items, including Swiss chard, collard greens, kale, romaine lettuce, cucumbers and herbs, will be available in the first weeks.

That will grow to as many as 40 as the season progresses, he said.

Prof Talks On Food Consumption vs. Production

“It’s pretty well known that we’re second in crop diversity only to California,” said Lee LaVanway, president, CEO and market master of the Benton Harbor Fruit Exchange. “As a temperate zone, we’re probably number one.”

As such, residents and tourists should be able to find a cornucopia of Michigan produce in every supermarket in the region, but taking a trip to any of the local groceries will show you that, in 2014, such is not the case. Rather, finding produce advertised as “Michigan grown” is pretty rare—even during the peaks of the various harvest seasons.

“We have a $500 million gap between what we consume and what we produce in this county,” explained Mark Moreno, associate professor of architecture at Andrews University and founding director of the New Berrien Food Foundation. “We’re spending $680 million, and we’re producing less than $100 million.”

Business Alumnus Named CEO of Medical Center

ohn Harding has been named the interim CEO of Phoebe Sumter Medical Center, effective June 9.

“We are very pleased to have John come aboard and serve as the interim CEO at Phoebe Sumter as we continue to search for a permanent person for that role,” said Joe Austin, chief operating officer (COO) of the Phoebe Putney Health System. “He brings a wealth of knowledge and has tremendous success in leadership in the healthcare industry, and he will be a welcomed asset not only to Phoebe Sumter but to the community as a whole.”
Art Alumna Mentors Artists

FUSION is proud to announce its next Mentorship Program in the Toronto Region, commencing September 2014. The program will culminate in an exhibition at the Ontario Craft Gallery Fall 2015. This mentorship is intended to be a significant, transformative learning experience for the participating artists.

Linda Sormin will be the mentor of this selected group. She studied ceramics at Andrews University, Sheridan College's Craft & Design program (Diploma in Ceramics) and Alfred University (MFA 2003).

Professor Interviewed on TorahResource Radio

This month on TorahResource Radio we interview Dr. Jacques Doukhan.

Jacques B. Doukhan was born in Algeria and educated in France, where he completed his doctorate in Hebrew language and literature at the University of Strasbourg. He was then the recipient of a post doctorate research scholarship from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Doukhan also holds a doctorate in Old Testament exegesis from Andrews University, where he is now professor of Hebrew, Old Testament exegesis, and Jewish Studies. He also is editor of L'Olivier and Shabbat Shalom and director of the Institute of Jewish-Christian Studies. His books include Drinking at the Sources; The Genesis Creation Story: Its Literary Structure; Hebrew for Theologians; Secrets of Daniel, and Secrets of Revelation. He is the editor of two journals, Shabbat Shalom and L'Olivier.

Alumnus to Hold Art Show

For his latest solo show, Ohio artist Lee Kirschbaum will be "coming home."

Kirschbaum's work, "Feathers and other Fine Art," will be on display Tuesday through June 28 at the KK Berge gallery in downtown Granite Falls. An artist reception will be from 7-9 p.m. Thursday, June 5.

Kirschbaum grew up on a farm outside of Granite Falls. He received a master of arts degree in mathematics from Andrews University in Michigan and at the same time, he had completed the requirements for a commercial art certificate from Art Instruction Schools in Minneapolis.

Students Document Ice Festival; Build Community

What began as a class assignment for an Andrews University film documentary class has evolved into a lot more for students Kal Anglin and Jourdain Smith. They've discovered a love for the documentary film, and they see their short documentary about this year's St. Joseph Magical Ice Fest as a way to bring people and communities together.

Andrews Alumna Named Union College President

Union College has hired its first woman president. Dr. Vinita Sauder replaces John Wagner, retiring this summer.

Dr. Vinita Sauder, currently vice president for strategic initiatives at Southern Adventist University, has accepted the invitation of the Union College Board of Trustees to serve as Union’s next president.

Professor Develops Early Math Skills Test

Getting help early is critical, but unlike reading, there are very few math assessments for young students that may explain why they struggle to perform calculations such as addition and subtraction.

Now, Researchers at the University of Western Ontario have developed a two-minute screening test to determine whether students as early as senior kindergarten have a handle on numeracy skills – and to catch those who may be showing signs of early learning problems or who just need extra help.

The remarkably simple test was created by Daniel Ansari, the Canada Research Chair in developmental cognitive neuroscience, and Nadia Nosworthy, now an assistant professor at Michigan’s Andrews University, because there was a need for math assessments in developing countries that did not require a computer to administer.

Compassion Passion

Nurses, doctors and other hospital personnel don't always get to hear the words “thank you” from patients, but they did Thursday from motivational speaker and burn survivor Allison Massari on behalf of all patients.

Massari, who survived a fiery car crash in 1998 and spent more than a year in the hospital, gave a moving talk to Lakeland Health System employees Thursday morning in a presentation at the Howard Performing Arts Center at Andrews University. Her speech was part of Lakeland’s celebration of National Hospital Week.

Student Speaks On Nigeria Kidnappings

Lots of attention has come to Nigeria after the kidnapping of hundreds of schoolgirls by the terror group Boko Haram. A local woman born in Nigeria wants people to know this is not the way it normally is in her native land.
Ejiro Elems came to Andrews University with her family in 2005. She says it’s okay for women to get an education in Nigeria. In fact, that’s where she got her first college degree.

Elems says men are very respectful and protective of women in Nigeria, so she says the men involved in the kidnappings are not real Nigerians.

Bringing the Real World to Genesis
The late Siegfried Horn, who at the time was dean of the Theological Seminary at Andrews University, authored the following article. In it, we encounter reasons for thinking twice about using biblical chronology as a measure for the age of the earth. Dr. Horn points out that many dates we rely upon prophetically are not universally embraced for their historicity. He further notes that many dates about which there is little controversy are frequently derived by relying upon secular source material—not from Scripture itself.

Professor Quoted in Article
A couple articles ago I started a look at some popular food myths that have no real scientific merit. I love these things as they help people make better, more informed choices about food without being mislead by popular hearsay. Here are a few more food myths for you to ponder:

Your body can’t use the protein from beans unless you eat them with rice.
This is a myth that I once believed in as it pertained to how we would design complementary ingredients when creating new dishes. Now we know better. Proteins - which our bodies need to make everything from new muscle to hormones - are made up of different combinations of 20 amino acids. Thing is, our bodies can make only 11 of these amino acids; we must get the other nine from food. Animal-based protein-rich foods like eggs and meat provide all nine of these “essential” amino acids, but nearly all plant foods are low in at least one. Experts used to say that to get what your body needs to make proteins, you needed to pair plant-based foods with complementary sets of amino acids - like rice and beans. Now they know that you don’t have to eat those foods at the same meal. "If you get a variety of foods throughout the day, they all go into the ‘basket’ of amino acids that are available for the body to use,” says Winston J. Craig, Ph.D., R.D., nutrition department chair at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Good food for a good cause. That can describe a variety of food events from potlucks to bake sales. What makes the Andrews University International Food Fair unique is that people can sample food from around the world and at the same time support more than 20 international student organizations.

With sunny skies and temperatures in the 50s, people flocked to the 50th annual international food fair Sunday afternoon in the Johnson Gym on the Andrews campus.

Organizers predicted that 5,000 people or more would attend the annual event and help raise $30,000 to $35,000 for student and community organizations.

If you’ve ever driven into Berrien Springs, chances are that you’ve driven right past the Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University. But, have you ever stopped and gone into the unassuming building that once served as a bank?

If you haven’t, then you have no idea the ancient treasures that lie inside, waiting to be discovered by visitors, just as they were discovered by archaeologists on desert digs.

"We have quite a nice collection, actually," said Dr. Constance Gane, curator of the museum and assistant professor of archaeology and Old Testament at Andrews. "Altogether, we have almost 9,000 artifacts."

Alumna Publishes Book
Tracy Weakly, a McMinnville, Oregon, resident, recently published a book titled The Mission Through God's Eyes. The book presents the life and death of Christ in a narrative format from the perspective of the interaction of each member of the Trinity—God the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

It was Weakly's study of Jesus' life that prompted her to write this book. As she dug deeper into the Bible and other commentaries, she began to imagine how a triune God experienced the events. Based on her research of Jesus' life and the culture of that time, Weakly weaves in insights about the customs of Jesus' day as she tells the familiar Bible stories as first-person accounts from each member of the Trinity.

When Tonya Snyder graduated from Andrews University in June 2000, she headed right to the Berrien Regional Education Service Agency without missing a proverbial beat. However, the path to a public relations degree took time to emerge, as Snyder said.

These days, Snyder wears two hats.

Student Gardens Partner with Health Department
If the people can't get to the farm, bring the farm to the people. That's the philosophy behind a new partnership between the Berrien County Health Department and Andrews University's student garden to operate a mobile farmers' market this year.

Garth Woodruff, an Andrews horticulture instructor who oversees the garden project, said it is unbelievable that there are people in Berrien County who can't get freshly grown produce.

"It is shocking to me that in this county, where 90 percent of the land is used for agriculture, where you can't find better vegetable growing land in the region, and probably the United States, you would have food deserts in areas such as Berrien Springs, Benton Harbor and Niles," Woodruff said.

Faculty Member Wins International Competition

The Jonas Center for Nursing Excellence, Khan Academy, and the American Association of Colleges of Nursing are pleased to announce that 14 individuals have been selected to join a select group of educators working to transform how health education is delivered across disciplines around the globe. The partnering organizations launched an international competition last fall to generate interest among health profession students, faculty, and practitioners in creating innovative healthcare tutorials with videos and exercises, which will be made available for free through the Khan Academy website. This content will support graduates of nursing programs in preparation for the NCLEX-RN exam.

The competition received almost 100 submissions from individuals around the world, emerging from over 60 hospitals and academic institutions. Competition submissions represented the disciplines of medicine, nursing, pharmacy, dentistry, public health, and graduate studies in biological science. The competition winners include Leslie Samuel, physical therapy instructor at Andrews University, among others.

Student Writes on Learning from Holidays
Katelyn Ruiz, communications graduate student, writes for U.S. News & World Report

As an international student, I miss my folks, but being away from home over the holidays makes the distance between us seem much greater.

To combat this calendar-induced bout of seasonal homesickness, I committed to celebrating in my own way with whatever traditions I could sneak across the border.

First, I realized that I was not alone in feeling lonely. Many of my fellow international students, whom I came to know through classes or campus-sponsored activities, also missed their own holiday celebrations.

Erno Gyeresi, who worked 13 years as a pastor in Romania and 13 years at Andrews University Press, dies after a struggle with cancer.

Posted February 2, 2015

Erno Gyeresi, a Romanian pastor-turned-business executive who became a key force behind the popular Andrews Study Bible, has died after a long struggle with cancer. He was 54.

Gyeresi died peacefully on Sabbath afternoon, Jan. 31, at his home in Niles, Michigan, with his family by his side, his family said.

Gyeresi spent the first 13 years of his career working as a pastor and church administrator in Romania, and the last 13 years of his life working at Andrews University Press, where he served as managing editor of the Andrews Study Bible, first released in the New King James Version in 2010.

He also was the managing editor of the same Bible in the New International Version (forthcoming); editorial consultant for the Romanian edition of the Bible (2014); and managing editor of the Andrews Bible Commentary (forthcoming).

At the same time, he worked as associate director responsible for business management and marketing at Andrews University Press.

“His influence as both a theologian and businessman on the work of the church’s only regularly established academic publishing house will long be felt through our roster of important works in the last 13 years, and particularly through the ministry of the Andrews Study Bible,” said Ronald Knott, director of Andrews University Press.

“The listing of his name in such a vital position in every one of the scores of thousands of copies of the Bible that have been distributed around the world is only a token acknowledgment of the truly profound influence he had on the development of that landmark publication,” Knott said Monday.

Gyeresi, born on Feb. 27, 1960, in Nyaradszereda, Romania, gave up a promising career in mathematics to follow in the footsteps of his father, grandfather, and eight other family members in working for the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

He made the decision while simultaneously studying mathematics and theology in Bucharest, Romania. He worked as a local pastor and church administrator for 13 years in the North Transylvania Conference after graduating with an undergraduate degree from the Adventist seminary in Bucharest in 1985.

“As a faithful servant of the Lord, Erno touched many lives during his years of ministry,” his family said in a statement.

In 1998, Gyeresi moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, and completed all but his doctoral dissertation in systematic theology at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University by the early 2000s. He obtained an MBA from Andrews in 2009.
Meanwhile, he started working at Andrews University Press as a student and was promoted to associate director in 2011.

But he probably will be best remembered for his contribution to the Andrews Study Bible.

“T. valued Erno’s careful, quiet, yet insightful observations and suggestions. When Erno spoke, it was good to pay attention,” said Gerald A. Klingbeil, who worked with Gyeresi as a contributor to the Andrews Study Bible and one of the associate editors of the Andrews Bible Commentary. Klingbeil also is an associate editor at the Adventist Review and Adventist World.

“While Erno’s death appears to be a point victory of the archenemy of human life and happiness,” Klingbeil said, “I am looking forward to resurrection morning when we will praise the Lamb whose sacrifice made victory sure.”

Erno is survived by his wife of 29 years, Ildiko Gyeresi; his son, Lehel Gyeresi, of Houston, Texas; his daughter, Harmat Beebe, of Altamonte Springs, Florida; his parents, Iosif and Marta Gyeresi, of Tirgu Mures, Romania, and his sister, Judit Dan, of Madrid, Spain.

A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Sabbath, Feb. 7, in the chapel of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University.

We reserve the right to approve and disapprove comments accordingly and will not be able to respond to inquiries regarding that. Please keep all comments respectful and courteous to authors and fellow readers.

Scott Moncrieff's Father Died

Robert E. Moncrieff, father of Scott Moncrieff, professor of English, passed away last week in Loma Linda, California. He was born in China in 1926 where he lived for the first 13 years of his life. He attended Andrews Academy after returning from China, and served in the army in WWII, mainly stationed on Guam in the South Pacific.

Returning after the war, Robert completed a business degree at La Sierra and married. He later went back to school and received a medical technologist degree, worked in a lab and decided to go to medical school. He graduated from Loma Linda with his MD in 1967, specializing in pathology and blood banking, and worked at Loma Linda University for many years as the chief medical consultant for the blood bank, giving occasional lectures to med tech and medical students.

For over twenty years Robert had Parkinson's disease, and his quality of life was severely diminished for the last three quarters of that time. He was a kind, patient, generous and attentive father, and though not a great reader outside of medical books, US News and World Report and Time Magazine, Robert loved words and helped stimulate his son's interest in them.

The memorial service is scheduled to be held at the Brian S. Bull Pathology Building in Redlands, CA on Saturday, February 7, 2015 at 3:30 p.m.

Thank you for keeping the Moncrieff family in your prayers as they say goodbye to a beloved father.

Death of Erno Gyeresi

Erno Gyeresi, associate director of Andrews University Press, died surrounded by family shortly before 1 p.m. on Sabbath, January 31. Erno’s death followed a long battle with cancer.

A memorial service will be held on Saturday, February 7, at 4 p.m. in the chapel of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan. Visitation with the family will begin a half hour before the service.

Our prayers and thoughts go out to Ildiko Gyeresi, Financial Records accountant, her son Lehel and daughter Harmat, and other family, friends and colleagues at this time of loss.
Erno Gyeresi Obituary
1960–2015

Erno Gyeresi, 54, died peacefully on Saturday afternoon, January 31, at his home in Niles, Michigan, with his family by his side. Erno’s death followed a long battle with cancer.

He was born on February 27, 1960, in Nyaradszereda, Romania to Iosif and Marta (Csongvay) Gyeresi. Erno earned his high school diploma from Bolyai Farkas Theoretical Lyceum in June of 1979. Later that year, he was accepted into the Babes-Bolyai University Faculty of Mathematics program. Before he could begin his undergraduate program, he completed nine months of mandatory military service. In June of 1985, Erno fulfilled all degree requirements for a BS in Mathematics, except for his final thesis. His natural and widely recognized aptitude for a bright career in mathematics was balanced by a calling to the gospel ministry, a calling pursued by his father, a grandfather and a total of 10 members of his extended family. So while working on his mathematics degree, Erno concurrently attended the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in Bucharest, Romania, where he graduated in June of 1985 with an undergraduate degree in theology. By the early 2000s, he had completed all but his dissertation for a PhD in Systematic Theology from Andrews University, and in 2009 he completed a Master of Business Administration with an emphasis in marketing, also from Andrews.

Erno married Ildiko Ilona Galfi on August 4, 1985, in Tirgu Mures, Romania. They lived in Cluj Napoca for 13 years, where Erno served in various roles in the Seventh-day Adventist Church as a pastor and secretary/treasurer for the North Transylvania Conference. As a faithful servant of the Lord, Erno touched many lives during his years of ministry. In 1998, he moved his family to Berrien Springs, Michigan, to attend the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University. As a student, Erno worked in several departments, including Physics Enterprises, the James White Library, and Andrews University Press. In 2005, he began full-time employment at the Press, and in 2011 he was named associate director, responsible for all business management and marketing.

In addition to his service as a pastor and church administrator in Romania, Erno’s professional influence and legacy will long be felt for his 13 years at Andrews University Press. Most significantly, he was the managing editor of the “Andrews Study Bible,” first released in the New King James Version in 2010; managing editor of the same study Bible in the New International Version (forthcoming); editorial consultant for the Romanian edition of the study Bible (2014); and managing editor of the “Andrews Bible Commentary” (forthcoming). All of this was in addition to his profound editorial and business influence on the regular operations of the Press, the only regularly established academic publishing house operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Erno is survived by his wife of 29 years, Ildiko Gyeresi of Niles, Michigan; his son Lehel Gyeresi of Houston, Texas; his daughter Harmat (Kyle) Beebe of Altamonte Springs, Florida; his parents Iosif and Marta Gyeresi of Tirgu Mures, Romania, and his sister Judit (Viorel) Dan of Madrid, Spain.

You may leave a message for the Gyeresi family in the Comments section.

Condolences for the family may be sent to:

Thanks from President & Mrs. Andreasen

To our many friends in the university and the community:

Demetra and I wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the many thoughtful expressions of sympathy we have received and continue to receive following the death of my mother last month. The cards, e-mails, phone calls, kind words along the way and warm handshakes have been overwhelming, encouraging and comforting.

Thank you so much.

Dolores Slikkers Tribute in Holland Paper
NEWTON COUNTY, Ind. (WLFI) — Two people killed in a crash in Newton County Monday morning have now been identified.

The Newton County Coroner said Robert and Ilea McDaniel, of Berrien Springs, Michigan, died after their car collided with a van on State Road 10, near County Road 475 West.

Five people in the van were taken to a medical center in Kankakee with injuries that are not believed to be life-threatening.

Autopsies are scheduled for Wednesday in Tippecanoe County.
Date of Death - January 5, 2015

Robert L. McDaniel, 86, and his wife, Ilea A. McDaniel, 77, of Berrien Springs, died Monday, January 5, 2015, in an auto accident in Newton County, Indiana. Memorial services will be announced at a later date. Allred Funeral Home in Berrien Springs is serving the family, and online messages may be left at www.allredfuneralhome.com. Memorials may be made to Your Story Hour, where Bob was a frequent contributor. Bob and Ilea married in 1961. He had two daughters (Sherry and Janice), and he adopted Ilea's two children (Kevin and Karen). Surviving are Janice (William) Watts of Washington, Illinois; Kevin (Susan) McDaniel of Montana; Karen McDaniel of California; six grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren. Sherry McDaniel preceded them in death in 2009. Bob was born November 27, 1928, to Ray and Fannie McDaniel in Petersburg, Illinois, where he graduated from high school in 1947. In 1950 he went to barber college and began barbering in 1951. After losing his job in 1953 because he had become a Seventh-day Adventist and would not work on Saturday, he moved his family to Berrien Springs. He served his residency, wrote the Michigan barber exam and went to work with Charlie Martz in 1954. In 1959 he was offered the operation of the Barber Shop on the campus of Emmanuel Missionary College (now Andrews University), which he operated until 2007 when he sold, and he worked part-time until February of 2008. Bob liked sports, and while working at the university, he played softball, volleyball, basketball, racquetball and golf. As he got older, he gave up the fast sports for golf, which he enjoyed playing well into his mid-80s. He and Ilea both enjoyed gardening and sharing their produce with neighbors and friends. In addition to his children, he is survived by a sister, Lois (Kenny) White of Petersburg. He was preceded in death by his parents; a brother, Gerald; and a sister, Carol Haynes. Ilea was born February 18, 1937, in Madison, Wisconsin, to Harold and Solane Ahlers. She graduated from Wisconsin Academy in 1955, and shortly after, her father sold the farm and moved the family to Berrien Springs for education. Ilea worked at VM in Benton Harbor, and later at Andrews University in the Library and for Custodial Services. She completed her pilot training and soloed, and earned her pilot's license. Additional survivors include her brothers, Floyd (Irene) Ahlers of Berrien Springs and Larry Crawford of Owosso; sisters, Joyce Shepard of Owosso and Bonnie McGowan of McLaughlin, SD. She was preceded in death by her parents; her stepmother, Dorothy; and brother, Lloyd Ahlers.

Stronger than Before: A Gift of Hope
First Congregational Church UCC will host a benefit concert titled "Stronger than Before: A Gift of Hope" on Sunday, Feb. 22 at 4:30 p.m. The church is located at 2001 Niles Avenue in St. Joseph, Michigan.

The concert will feature uplifting music that is based on "HOPE" and will benefit two cancer organizations and a bereavement center, which provide needed services and support for people and their caregivers dealing with cancer and grief. We are supporting Handles of Hope, associated with the Marie Yeager Cancer Center of Lakeland HealthCare, Berrien County Cancer Services, and Lory's Place Grief Healing and Education Center.

It is common for people to be affected by cancer, either in their immediate family or their circle of acquaintances. Paul Flyger, the church’s director of music ministry, says he is "excited to work on this project because it has potential to speak to anyone. My family was affected by my father's battle with pancreatic cancer."

First Congregational Church is indirectly connected to these organizations through three of its members: Lisa Bartoszek, director of Lory’s Place; Ruth Beach, founder of the Handles of Hope project; and David Resch, a volunteer for the annual bike ride at the Berrien County Cancer Services. The concert’s aim is both to support these organizations and to provide an opportunity to come together and celebrate the power of healing and joy generated by uplifting music.

The concert will include both choral and instrumental music and will feature the First Congregational Church Chancel Choir, under the direction of Stephen Zork and the Alleluia and Jubilate Ringers, under the direction of Paul Flyger. Guest musicians include Mike Perkins (alto saxophone) and Beth Oeseburg (violin) from Stevensville, Christina Gibson (flute) from Niles, and Janene Bergen-Bock (soprano) from Chicago. She will sing Olivia Newton-John’s "Stronger than Before," the cover title for Newton-John’s album of inspiration and encouragement for women who have dealt with breast cancer, written after her personal cancer experience.

The local jazz combo, Jazzmin II, under the direction of Steven Reed, will perform three well-known tunes in a jazz setting.

The Andrews University Singers, under the direction of Stephen Zork, will perform the center piece of the program, "This House of Peace," composed by Ralph M. Johnson and commissioned for the opening of Sacred Heart Medical Center (Portland, Oregon) in 2008. The words are from patients and family members, and the composition is dedicated to all healthcare givers.

The First Congregational Church UCC has served the St. Joseph community with music and other ministries for 160 years. Weekly Sunday worship is at 10:25 a.m. with childcare provided from 9:15 am. More information is available at www.fccstjoseph.org or 269-983-5519.

Free Counseling Services (available a bit longer)

The Andrews Community Counseling Center (ACCC) still has openings for a number of new clients for a bit longer. Graduate practicum students provide FREE services and have training in counseling adults, adolescents and children.

Each counselor is supervised by a trained mental-health professional.

Types of referral issues accepted include (among others):
- relationship issues
- depression
- anxiety
- adjusting to changes
- academic challenges
- behavioral concerns
- social skills problems
- bullying problems (victims and perpetrators)
- parent-child conflict
- many others

Counselors work with children, teens, or adults; with individuals, couples, or families. We even have a play therapy room to accommodate young clients. Therapy sessions are completely confidential.

To make an appointment or if you have any questions, please contact the ACCC at 269-471-6238. If the ACCC is closed, please leave a message (which is kept confidential) and someone will return your call as soon as possible.
