A Forum On State and Regional Conferences

A Forum on State and Regional Conferences.

This forum seeks to educate the Andrews community about a very current issue in our church: the administrative separation of our conferences along racial lines.

In light of the recent national conversations on race and race relations, this aspect of our church organization can seem strange. We want to learn about the current structure, the history behind it, and some of the opinions people have about it.

This Sabbath, Newbold Auditorium, doors open at 4:00 pm. Event begins 4:30. Come to learn. Open minds welcome.

Please note the following hours for the Andrews University Bookstore during spring break:

Monday–Thursday, 10 a.m.–4 p.m.

Friday, 10 a.m.–noon

Hooked on Games

Andrews University has invited Andrew Doan, a neuroscientist, to talk with undergraduate students about the effects of video games on the brain. His main presentation will be at Pioneer Memorial Church on Thursday, March 5, at 11:30 a.m. for Thursday Series.

Doan is a recognized expert in technology and video game addiction. With a doctoral degree in neuroscience, his background in molecular neuroscience adds in-depth knowledge of the areas of internet addiction, video game addiction, and technology addiction. He spends 80 percent of his time in medical research as head of addictions & resilience research for the U.S. Navy in the Department of Mental Health. Doan is also the author of "Hooked on Games."

"Hooked on Games" provides insight into the minds of hardcore gamers, helping us understand how and why gamers are lured to and trapped within the digital world of video games and the Internet. This book outlines methods on how to escape the addiction and to start on the path of recovery.

Doan enjoys talking to kids and their parents about video games and their effects on those who play them. To this end, there will be an open program for parents and the community on Thursday evening, March 5, at 7 p.m., in the Andrews Academy chapel.

Free Storm-Spotter Training

In cooperation with the National Weather Service, we are pleased to offer Skywarn® Spotter Training for 2015.

"This free training opportunity is an excellent way for citizens to learn about severe weather threats and help prepare them to react to severe weather," said Capt. Rockey Adams of the Berrien County Emergency Management Office. "Spotters will also learn how to contact the NWS Northern Indiana Office, to give specific information about storm conditions. This information is used to warn others in the community of these threats," Capt. Adams added. Read More

Chem/Biochem Student Seminar

All are encouraged to attend and hear Rosanne Thornhill, Seth Campbell, Adrianne Magsipoc and Alanna James present their topics on Thursday, March 5, 2015 at 4:30pm in A-107 Halenz Hall.

Their topics are:

- Synthesis of Isoxazoline Derivatives as Potentials Anti-Cancer Agents (Thornhill)
- Myelination in Jeopardy: Polyethylene Glycol for CNS Repairs (Campbell, Magsipoc, James)

This is the first installment of our 2015 Winter-Spring Department of Chemistry & Biochemistry Student Seminar Series. See the attached flyers for more speaker information.

For non-Andrews faculty, students and others wishing to attend:

There are directions given to Andrews at: http://www.andrews.edu/about/visiting/get_to_andrews.html

To get to the A-107 Halenz Hall:

Turn in at the J. N. Andrews Blvd. entrance. Go pass the Security Gate House. Make right turn at the first intersection on to E Campus Circle Drive. Then make a left turn at the next intersection (E Campus Circle Drive). Make another left onto Administration Drive. The Science Complex is the bldg on your left. The Chemistry Dept. is on the side of the Science Complex (4270 Administration Drive) opposite the Bookstore parking lot. You can park in the bookstore parking lot or the one straight ahead. My Office # is A-323 Halenz Hall .... on the third floor of the Science Complex.

Teachers are encouraged to announce this seminar in their classes and/or forward this email to their classes. All are welcome to forward this email along to colleagues and friends.

Caribbean Nations Club Social
The Caribbean Nations Club (CNC) is an organization based on the Andrews University campus that aims to facilitate the education, empowerment, and enjoyment of Caribbean culture.

On February 28, 2015, at Burman Hall, CNC invites all to celebrate the history and culture of the Caribbean!

Come play games, win prizes, socialize and listen to conscious, uplifting Calypso music, and taste some awesome Caribbean food!

Admission will be free for all and doors open at 8pm.

Food for members of CNC will be free and non-members will be charged $2 per plate.

Members will also receive their club T-shirts for this year!

Myelination in Jeopardy: Polyethylene Glycol for CNS Repair

Seth Campbell is a 3rd year Biochemistry student at Andrews University, an avid sports fan, and an aspiring physician. As an academic enthusiast, he currently conducts research on dendrimers. His experience in biochemistry has led to his interest in the field of neuroscience.

Adrienne Magsipoc is a 3rd year Biochemistry student at Andrews University, and hopes to use experiences gained here to pursue a career as a medical missionary. She currently serves as Religious Vice President of AUSA, where her passion for service and burden for souls culminate.

Alanna James is a 3rd year Biochemistry student at Andrews University. Serving as the Junior Class President, she leads and inspires others to achieve their goals. She aspires to become a medical missionary, and will begin her studies in medicine in the fall of 2015 at Loma Linda University.

The estimated number of deaths attributed to cancer each year has been decreasing thanks to tremendous efforts in the vast field of cancer research, however, the estimate of nearly 600,000 cancer-related deaths in 2014 is still largely problematic. A class of organic compounds called isoxazolines are currently explored for their many biological applications including anti-cancer activity.

Rosanne’s research focuses on an isoxazoline derivative that has shown great promise against cancer, with the goal of modifying the compound’s chemical structure towards increased activity.

This presentation explores the design and synthesis of a specific isoxazoline derivative as a potential agent to be incorporated in anti-cancer therapy.

Rosanne Thornhill is a senior biochemistry pre-med major at Andrews University, with plans to attend medical school and aspirations to become a cardiovascular surgeon.
Honoring George Knight

Please join Andrews University for the presentation of a festschrift to George Knight in honor of his distinguished teaching, research, editorial and publishing career.

The recently released book, "Adventist Maverick: A Celebration of George Knight’s Contribution to Adventist Thought," is a collection of writings by colleagues and students who have come to highly respect Knight and his scholarship.

The event will take place on Tuesday, April 21, at 11:30 a.m. in the Seminary Chapel at Andrews University and will feature tributes by the editors and a response from Knight. A reception will follow in the Seminary Commons. All are welcome.

Medicine for the Cause of Peace

On Thursday, March 12, two Israeli doctors who are treating wounded Syrians in a war zone will present at Andrews University. Arie Eisenman, head of the internal division in the Emergency Medicine Department, and Ohad Ronen, senior physician-surgeon in the Department of Otolaryngology, will present in Newbold Auditorium in Buller Hall at 11:30 a.m. This event is free and open to the public.

Hailing from the Medical Center to the Galilee in Israel, the doctors will share personal experiences treating hundreds of wounded Syrians who are brought to their hospital from the Israel-Syria border for life-saving surgeries. More than 1,500 casualties of the Syrian war have been treated in Israel to date.

Eisenman studied medicine at Tel Aviv University, graduating in 1981, and was trained in emergency medicine at Witwatersrand University in Johannesburg and Elim Hospital in South Africa, then specialized in internal medicine at Carmel Medical Center in Haifa and served as senior physician of internal medicine at Rambam Medical Center there.

His research focuses on emergency medicine and resuscitation, and he has participated in writing nearly 30 articles, reviews and descriptions dealing with the promotion of CPR knowledge and emergency medicine. A worldwide presenter, in 2009 Eisenman shared his personal experiences treating victims of the second Lebanon war in Nahariya to four hospitals and EMS teams in New Jersey.

Ronen received his MD in 1995 from the Technion, Israel Institute of Technology in Haifa and completed his internship at Shaare Zedek Hospital in Jerusalem. He spent several months doing humanitarian work at a rural hospital in South Africa before completing his residency in otolaryngology (head and neck surgery) at Carmel Medical Center. He then moved to Southern Illinois University School of Medicine (Springfield) for a two-year fellowship in head and neck cancer surgery.

He is currently a lecturer at Bar Ilan Faculty of Medicine in the Galilee, and mentors sixth-year medical students' MD theses. He is also involved in several areas of research, including human papilloma virus and cancer, micro biome of ENT patients and genetics of hearing loss. He has authored numerous medical journal publications and book chapters.

Music Festival Concert & More

The Andrews University Department of Music will host three events the first week of March. All events are free (no tickets required) and open to the public.

On Thursday, March 5, the department’s faculty members will present the annual Showcase Recital as part of the University’s Band & Keyboard Music Festival. The recital will take place at 7 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center.

Featured will be Chris Gibson, flute; Jason Gresl, bass clarinet; Lisa Bubar, bassoon; Debra Inglefield, horn; Dan McCarthy, trumpet; Alan Mitchell, trombone; Charles Reid, voice; Claudio Gonzalez, violin; Carla Trynchuk, violin; and Carlos Flores, piano.

On Friday, March 6, the Department of Music will present a vespers concert featuring the Wind Symphony and University Singers, as individual ensembles and in a cooperative piece. The concert will take place at 7 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center.

The Wind Symphony, under the direction of Alan Mitchell, will perform "Alleluia" by Cross, "The Spheres" by Gjelio, "Sunrise at Angel’s Gate" by Sparke and the Michigan premiere of Gregory Youtz’s "For Those Who Wait." The University Singers, under the direction of Stephen Zork, will perform "Caritas Et Amor" by Stroope, "Alleluia" from "Songs of Faith" by Basler and "Jesus, The Very Thought of Thee" by Slater. The Wind Symphony and the University Singers will combine to perform Ola Gjeilo’s "Meridian."

On Saturday, March 7, 97 high school students from four states and Canada will present the Andrews University Band & Keyboard Music Festival Concert. It will take place at 4 p.m. in the Howard Performing Arts Center.

The festival band is directed by Edwin Powell from Pacific Lutheran University (Tacoma, Washington) and Alan Mitchell, Wind Symphony director at Andrews. Keyboard festival students will present several selections under the direction of Carlos Flores, professor of music theory and piano, and Trina Thompson, assistant professor of theory and piano, both at Andrews University.

The Festival Band will perform "Be Thou My Vision" by Gillingham, "Hymn of St. James" by Clark, "Jesus, Jesus Rest Your Head" by Wallace, "My Jesus! Oh, What Anguish" by Reed and "Joy in All Things" by Balmages.

For more information about these events contact the Andrews University Department of Music at music@andrews.edu or 269-471-3555.

Play Celebrates Legendary Filipino's Influence

The role of Philippine national hero and liberator Jose Rizal initially seemed like an intimidating assignment for Kyle Lucrida - who hadn’t acted since middle school.

However, once the Andrews University senior dug more deeply into the subject, he gained all the necessary confidence.

"At first, I wasn't sure - I didn't know if I could take on the role," Lucrida said. "Going in, I knew his name, and that was the extent of my knowledge. But as I looked into him, and all that he did for the Philippines, it definitely inspired me to portray it better."

Lucrida, a biological pre-medicine student, performed the lead role in "Our Story: Jose Rizal" - an original play written and directed by Andrews University engineering senior James Magbanua.

Rare Exhibit from Jordan at Andrews

Area residents have the opportunity to see artifacts rarely seen outside the nation of Jordan in a new exhibit at the Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University.

"Figurines of Tall Jalul" opened in mid-January and will be at the museum until April 30, Horn Museum curator Constance Gane said. Individuals and school groups interested in viewing the new exhibit can contact the museum to arrange tours. The museum is located next to the Apple Valley Market on Old U.S. 31.

Biochemistry Grad on Alzheimers Research

A new British study highlighting the fact that memory-destroying Alzheimer's has become the leading cause of death in women in the UK, should ring alarm bells in the US, says a leading brain-health specialist.

...Dr. Daniel Thomas, founder of DementiaQuiz.com, said, "There is every reason to believe that what has been seen in the British study may soon be seen here in the states. Alzheimer's is not only the most-feared disease, but is also the fastest-growing disease in America. This is an unprecedented health-care crisis that could cost this country $1 trillion a year. The scope of the looming medical-care disaster is beyond comparison. If this disease is not contained, it may bankrupt the US healthcare system!"

...Dr. Thomas is a brain-health specialist and founder of DementiaQuiz.com. He is a leader in the promising field of neurogenesis. Dr. Thomas earned his medical degree from Des Moines University, a Master's degree in Metabolic and Nutritional Medicine from the University of South Florida College of Medicine, and a Bachelor's degree in Biochemistry from Andrews University.

Film Program Brings Social Consciousness

In this digital era, films are not only a main source of entertainment, but also one of the most effective ways of communicating ideas. Documentaries in particular are a form of visual storytelling that can address important social issues through the lens of nonfiction narrative.

...Documentaries have become the voice for Adventist filmmakers like Paul Kim, who wishes to use his creative force towards social causes relevant today. Paul Kim is an associate professor of documentary film at Andrew's University. As a professor, his stated mission is to help the Adventist community engage and create culture.

Professor Judges Music Competition

Thirty of the most promising college and high school vocal music performance students from the Midwest will compete at the annual Kalamazoo Bach Festival Young Vocalists Competition on Saturday, March 14, in Kalamazoo College's Recital Hall in the Light Fine Arts Building. The competition, which is a free event open to the public, begins at 9:30 a.m. The purpose of the Young Vocalists Competition is to encourage the study and performance of vocal music.

...Judges for the competition are Maura Janton Cock, Lecturer in Music at Valparaiso University, and Stephen Zork, Associate Professor of Music at Andrews University. They will choose first, second and third place winners as well as honorable mentions in both divisions.

Dynamic Duo

Rich and Brandon Ridenour have the kind of on stage rapport you might suspect from a father-son musical duo.

Which is why it doesn't take long for them to deflect a serious question about playing together with a few tongue-in-cheek jabs and self-deprecating humor.

"We put up with each other just fine," Brandon Ridenour says by telephone from Grand Rapids. "He does everything I tell him to do."

Andrews on WSJM re: "Selma"
Play celebrates legendary Filipino's influence

By Ralph Heibutzki - HP Correspondent | Posted: Monday, March 2, 2015 5:00 am

BERRIEN SPRINGS - The role of Philippine national hero and liberator Jose Rizal initially seemed like an intimidating assignment for Kyle Lucrida - who hadn't acted since middle school.

However, once the Andrews University senior dug more deeply into the subject, he gained all the necessary confidence.

"At first, I wasn't sure - I didn't know if I could take on the role," Lucrida said. "Going in, I knew his name, and that was the extent of my knowledge. But as I looked into him, and all that he did for the Philippines, it definitely inspired me to portray it better."

Lucrida, a biological pre-medicine student, performed the lead role in "Our Story: Jose Rizal" - an original play written and directed by Andrews University engineering senior James Magbanua.

"Our Story" served as the centerpiece of the Andrews Filipino International Association's cultural night, which drew about 350 people Sunday to Andrews Academy, organizers estimated.

The two-hour production retraced the personal and political struggles of Rizal - a Filipino nationalist whose efforts to free his nation from its Spanish rulers ended with his execution for conspiracy and sedition on Dec. 30, 1896.

Rizal's death at 35 came only two years before the outbreak of Spain's war against America that broke its hold on the Philippines, and also ended its dominance in the region.

Magbanua said he'd wanted to do a historical drama for awhile, and Rizal's life seemed like the right opportunity.

"A lot of exciting things happened in his life, and it was a great thing to have a play (written) off this (subject)," he said.

Magbanua began writing "Our Story" in September and started working with his cast in January.

 Asked if he encountered any surprises while researching Rizal's life, Magbanua said, "He's more than what you think he is. He's more than just an inspiring writer or someone who leads rebellions. He has a sense of humor, is passionate about what he does and has a big heart for his people."

The two-hour production also included a couple of extended dance numbers, which required the cast to move fast, in unison, bearing poles and fans. There also was a humorous game show segment during the intermission, which allowed the audience to interact briefly with the cast.

The event closed with a dinner of traditional and contemporary Filipino dishes.

Now in its 15th year, the AFIA's cultural night has grown into a big draw for the club, which has about 224 members, according to co-sponsor Fares Magesa, a financial aid adviser at Andrews.

"All the members are not Filipinos, but they're one of the largest active clubs (on campus)," Magesa said. Judging by the turnout, Sunday's event more than accomplished its perennial purpose of spreading awareness of Filipino culture, Magesa said.

"People sometimes don't know who Filipinos are or (much) about their history or their background," he said.
BERRIEN SPRINGS — Area residents have the opportunity to see artifacts rarely seen outside the nation of Jordan in a new exhibit at the Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum at Andrews University.

“Figurines of Tall Jalul” opened in mid-January and will be at the museum until April 30, Horn Museum curator Constance Gane said. Individuals and school groups interested in viewing the new exhibit can contact the museum to arrange tours. The Horn’s public hours are from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturdays. The museum is located next to the Apple Valley Market on Old U.S. 31.

This exhibition is special for Horn Museum staff not only because of the rarity of museums outside Jordan being able to have artifacts on loan, but also because many of the artifacts were collected by Andrews students working alongside Jordanian students during summer archaeological digs in the last few years.

Although the exhibit is just now opening to the public, the yearlong loan has given museum staff the chance to photograph, draw, measure and analyze the pieces before putting them on exhibit.

Gane said she and the rest of the museum staff are grateful for the “extraordinary support” of the new director general of the Jordanian Department of Antiquities, Monther Jamhawi, and his staff. “The fact that they allowed these artifacts out of the country is remarkable,” she said.

“Other museums have wondered how we got this exhibit, it’s really significant,” she added. “I’ve asked for several years and last summer I mentioned it again. One of our friends (in Jordan) said to get him a letter with a list of what we wanted and he would see what he could do. Within days, we got our answer. … We’re well respected in Jordan and have made personal connections.”

Gane said these artifacts are from the eighth to sixth centuries B.C., and depict miniature human and animal forms. To put that time period in a biblical perspective, this was the period from the time of the Israelite and Judean kings to the time of Esther.

While there is still more study and research to do, Gane said, she and her colleagues believe at least some of these figurines are may be connected in some way to their worship of different gods.

“Some of these figurines may have represented various gods, but also it is also possible that some could have been set in front of a divine statue to represent the worshipper being in a constant state of prayer,” she said.

She noted that Bible verses such as those found in Isaiah warning people not to worship idols created from molds show that the Jewish people were certainly aware of the figures and statues used in other cultures.

“These artifacts are a window into understanding the minds and thinking of ancient people when it comes to daily life and the divine realm,” she said. “They saw a direct cause and effect with everything that happened in their lives. They were in a constant need to appease the gods.”

“We’re not sure of their meaning, they could be toys or something more,” exhibit manager Scott Baker said.

Baker and Jacob Moody, assistant to the curator, have taken part in the archaeological digs and uncovered some of the artifacts on exhibit.

Moody noted that while the Jewish people were monotheistic, most of the other cultures in the Middle East were not and the Jewish people were certainly familiar with the other cultures around them.

Beyond the religious meanings of the figurines, Gane said she’s also fascinated to study their artistry. “The way the figurines were rendered is quite fine,” she said. “There is a nuancing of the facial features and an eclectic mix of different influences. One thing I would love to know is where the clay came from, whether it was from the local area or not. There’s a lot we can glean from these figurines.”

In addition to this exhibit, the Horn museum has nearly 9,000 objects in its holdings ranging from cuneiform tablets from the Sumerian period to coins, pottery, glass vessels, tools and weapons, jewelry and figurines. The museum’s emphasis is on Middle Eastern history. The museum offers not only exhibit space, but classrooms where students and professors can conduct research.
Coming Explosion in Alzheimer's Disease May be Starting Sooner Than Expected

Alzheimer's just became #1 cause of death for women in UK--new study

MOUNT DORA, FL, March 02, 2015 /24-7PressRelease/ -- A new British study highlighting the fact that memory-destroying Alzheimer's has become the leading cause of death in women in the UK, should ring alarm bells in the US, says a leading brain-health specialist.

The study, conducted by Alzheimer's Research UK, also found that women are far more likely than men to become caretakers of Alzheimer's sufferers, causing them to experience physical and emotional stress, and often times lose their jobs in the process.

Alzheimer's disease is currently the #6 leading cause of death of men and women in the US, and it is predicted that two billion people worldwide could be at risk for the disease by the year 2050.

Dr. Daniel Thomas, founder of DementiaQuiz.com, said, "There is every reason to believe that what has been seen in the British study may soon be seen here in the states. Alzheimer's is not only the most-feared disease, but is also the fastest-growing disease in America. This is an unprecedented health-care crisis that could cost this country $1 trillion a year. The scope of the looming medical-care disaster is beyond comparison. If this disease is not contained, it may bankrupt the US healthcare system!"

Dr. Thomas presented some sobering facts about dementia: There are over 100 different types. Alzheimer's disease accounts for 75% of the dementia cases, but they all have one thing in common: Massive loss (death) of brain cells. Conventional medicine has little to offer. FDA-approved drugs may reduce some symptoms, but generally only do so for 6-12 months, and half of all patients show no improvement whatsoever. Furthermore, these drugs do nothing to prevent, stop, or reverse the underlying disease process itself.

Added Dr. Thomas, "But there is new hope emerging from the field of neurogenesis—a process whereby new nerve cells are generated in the areas of the brain that are dead or dying."

A forerunner to brain-destroying Alzheimer's disease is a medical condition called Mild Cognitive Impairment (MCI). You enter a room and cannot remember why. You misplace your keys, stumble for a word, or can't put a name to a familiar face. You might even experience a slight delay in deciding to do something and actually doing it, such as changing lanes on the highway. Any one of these events could be blamed on the fast pace and high stress of today's world. Or they could be the first signs of MCI. People with MCI are 14 times more likely than cognitively-healthy adults to progress to full-blown Alzheimer's disease. To learn if you may be at risk for developing MCI or Alzheimer's disease, there is a free online dementia quiz at DementiaQuiz.com. It takes less than 10 minutes to complete.

About Dr. Daniel Thomas, DO, MS: Dr. Thomas is a brain-health specialist and founder of DementiaQuiz.com. He is a leader in the promising field of neurogenesis. Dr. Thomas earned his medical degree from Des Moines University, a Master's degree Metabolic and Nutritional Medicine from the University of South Florida College of Medicine, and a Bachelor's degree in Biochemistry from Andrews University.

Coming Explosion in Alzheimer's Disease May be Starting Sooner Than... http://thenumbers.marketplace.org/publicradio/news/read/29374245/com...
In this digital era, films are not only a main source of entertainment, but also one of the most effective ways of communicating ideas. Documentaries in particular are a form of visual storytelling that can address important social issues through the lens of nonfiction narrative.

Take for example the impact “Blackfish” (2013) had on SeaWorld. The film documented the controversial captivity of killer whales and exposed the dangers captive orcas pose to humans and to themselves. Following the film’s July 2013 release, park attendance began to drop. By August 2014, SeaWorld announced a stock drop of 30%, and by November, its shares had fallen 50% according to the Blackfish website’s accounting.

In a similar way, "Food Inc." (2008) shone a bright light on the corporatization of agriculture, revealing the ways unregulated agribusiness harms consumers and the environment.

Within the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, we have seen the impact of documentaries like "Seventh-Gay Adventists," which opened ground for conversation with LGBT individuals in the Adventist community. Martin Doblmeier's look at the denomination in his series, "The ADVENTISTS," "The ADVENTISTS 2," and "The BLUEPRINT," have extended localized conversations about Adventist education and the church’s health message to a broad national audience.

Documentaries have become the voice for Adventist filmmakers like Paul Kim, who wishes to use his creative force towards social causes relevant today. Paul Kim is an associate professor of documentary film at Andrew's University. As a professor, his stated mission is to help the Adventist community engage and create culture.

In an email exchange, Kim shared his vision:

> “With the digital revolution that we’re still undergoing, film and new media have an outsized impact in this realm, and so to me it’s a no brainer to have a film program that not only develops content creators, but helps all students—including non-filmmakers—better understand the medium that they spend more time with than anything else.”

Kim believes that global pressures are pushing content creators to make films that reach an extremely broad audience; Kim finds this troubling, and argues that “these films cater the lowest common denominator of basic human interest and emotion.” This is why, he argues, it is important for Adventist higher education to grow and support local and niche storytellers who are exploring topics, narratives, and characters whose stories might never be told otherwise. For Kim documentary film has a special part in creating culture and community.

"Documentaries have a unique place in society. On one end of the spectrum, it's art. Thus like all good art the work is its own justification, and yet is designed to elicit a response that is its own unique experiences and especially valuable to a thriving society. On the other hand it can also be seen as a form of journalism, which has a very specific purpose to inform viewers on specific topics so that they can be active members of a functioning democracy. Documentary film is neither one nor the other, but has a relationship with both."

The Andrews program was intentionally called "Documentary Film," as opposed to "documentary production," because, Kim says, "we wanted to emphasize that our program is not simply teaching students the creative trade, it's teaching critical thinkers." To that end, the curriculum includes courses in film studies and critical analysis, which are now also available to Andrews University’s general education students. Kim says of film students that they stretch themselves on an array of projects, "but the major emphasis is on their senior thesis film, which is at least a yearlong effort."

Current student projects include a personal narrative documentary about a student's struggle with an arthritic spinal condition that ends up crippling him on the eve of his university graduation; a story about a Mexican-American who is trying to come to terms with his ethnic heritage by comparing the side of his family who immigrated to the States with those who decided to stay in their mother country; and an upcoming story about a filmmaker who is telling the story of her sister, an autistic high school graduate who is trying to navigate their way into a college experience, and how this impacts the trajectory of her entire family.

"These would be extremely ambitious projects even for experienced professionals," Kim noted, "so we can be really proud that this upcoming generation is so willing to tackle such major themes."

Nina Vallado is one of Kim’s students. Vallado, currently a sophomore in Documentary Film, has taken her learning outside of the classroom by becoming assistant director of AUFilms, a student-led collective that created promotional content for the Andrews Student Association and original content for student entertainment.

"I caught a small glimpse of what is in store for me in the future. This job has kept me busier than my schoolwork. It has given me so much real life production knowledge," Vallado said.

Asked why she had chosen this major Vallado explained, “I knew I loved documentary film and its purpose. [Kim] showed me so many possibilities with documentary, and it inspired me all the more. More so than the future possibilities, I had a story I wanted to tell.” Reflecting on her immediate goals, Vallado adds, “Right now my primary goal is to finish my Senior Thesis Documentary about autism.” As for the future she says, “I want to tell stories that make a difference in society. I want to tell stories that contribute to making a better world for those who need their stories to be told.”

The goal for Adventist filmmakers and educators like Kim is to raise a new generation of Adventists who are in tune with the culture of the time, but remain active with the Church’s mission of bringing healing to the world. In Kim’s words, “I think our young talent can use [Documentary Film] as part of being that prophetic voice that Adventism used to be—as is described by the Adventist Peace Fellowship in being ‘concerned with restoring personal and social wholeness through a commitment to justice and peace.’ (from their vision statement)."

College and high school vocalists compete for prizes and performance opportunity at annual Kalamazoo Bach Young Vocalists Competition

Thirty of the most promising college and high school vocal music performance students from the Midwest will compete at the annual Kalamazoo Bach Festival Young Vocalists Competition on Saturday, March 14, in Kalamazoo College’s Recital Hall in the Light Fine Arts Building. The competition, which is a free event open to the public, begins at 9:30 a.m. The purpose of the Young Vocalists Competition is to encourage the study and performance of vocal music.

This year's competitors will come from schools and colleges in Michigan and Indiana. They include Calvin College, Depauw University, Grand Valley State University, Holland High School, Indiana University-Purdue University Fort Wayne, John Adams High School, South Bend, Indiana, Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo Valley Community College, Kelloggsville High School, Mattawan High School, Michigan State University, Northwestern Michigan College, Tecumseh High School, University of Michigan, University of Notre Dame, and Western Michigan University.

Entrants in the College Division are required to sing one 20th or 21st Century art song by an American, British, or Canadian composer sung in English, one foreign language art song sung in the original language and an appropriate aria from opera, oratorio, or musical theatre. Entrants in the High School Division will sing one 20th or 21st Century art song by an American, British, or Canadian composer sung in English, and one foreign language art song sung in the original language. The competition, which is open to the public, begins at 9:30 am for the High School Division and runs from 10:40 a.m. to 3:40 p.m. for the College Division.

Judges for the competition are Maura Janton Cock, Lecturer in Music at Valparaiso University, and Stephen Zork, Associate Professor of Music at Andrews University. They will choose first, second and third place winners as well as honorable mentions in both divisions.

Maura Janton Cock, soprano, teaches voice and conducts the Women's Choir at Valparaiso University. She has appeared as soloist with the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony, the Tucson Symphony, the Southwest Michigan Symphony, and the Northwest Indiana Symphony. Ms. Cock worked extensively with Robert Shaw and the Robert Shaw Festival Singers as both soloist and chorus member, and Helmuth Rilling of the Oregon Bach Festival.

Stephen Zork is the director of Choral Studies at Andrews University--a position he has held since 1991. His primary responsibility is the programming of and conducting the Department of Music's choirs: University Chorale, University Singers, Canta Bella, and Pioneer Men's Chorus. As one of three teachers on the conducting faculty, he oversees the graduate choral conducting degree. Zork keeps an active schedule guest-conducting choral festivals and lecturing throughout the United States and abroad.

The winning vocalists will be showcased in the Young Vocalists Concert on Saturday, April 11, at 3 p.m., in the Light Fine Arts Building, Kalamazoo College. They will receive their cash prizes at the free recital and a reception to meet the vocalists will follow. For information about the Kalamazoo Bach Festival Education and Outreach programs or their Concert Series, please call the Bach Festival office at 269-337-7407 or visit their web site at...

Werner Lehmann Life Story

Werner W. Lehmann, former employee of Plant Services at Andrews University, passed away Thursday, Feb. 26, from the results of a massive stroke.

He was born Feb. 4, 1934 in Rosthern, Saskatchewan, Canada. His parents being grain and dairy farmers gave Werner an appreciation for an honest work ethic that followed him the rest of his life. He was a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church where he faithfully served in various capacities throughout his lifetime.

His early education began in a little country school in the town of his birth. He graduated from La Sierra University in 1970 with a BS in biology and from Loma Linda University with a master's degree in public health.

In 1995, he and his family moved to Eau Claire, Michigan, where he worked for Andrews University Plant Services. After retirement, he spent many pleasant hours composing music to the honor of his precious Savior.

He is survived by his loving wife of 45 years, Shirley (Oetman) Lehmann; daughter Leandra Block of Bullhead City, Arizona; daughter Jennifer Wittum of North Carolina; son Kevin ('04) (Linaea) Lehmann of Granger, Indiana; daughter Karyn ('06) (Zach) Owen of Loveland, Colorado; four priceless grandchildren; and sister Ellen (Lyle) Thunstrom of Abbotsford, British Columbia, Canada.

The funeral service will be held at the Eau Claire Seventh-day Adventist Church at 6562 Naomi Rd, Eau Claire, Michigan, at 3 p.m., Tuesday, March 3, 2015. Viewing will precede from 1–3 p.m. at the same location.

Werner was a lifelong advocate of Seventh-day Adventist education. In lieu of flowers, donations can be given to the Eau Claire SDA Elementary School.

Thank You From Gyeresi Family

Dear Andrews Family,

We would like to express our heartfelt and sincere appreciation for the loving kindness you surrounded our family with during our dear Erno’s illness and after his passing. Your gentle words of encouragement and support have meant a lot to us. We appreciated the countless prayers, cards, flowers, hugs and food we received.

May the Lord richly bless you for everything you have done for us. We can't wait to see our dear Erno in heaven, very soon.

Looking for an apartment

Hello,

My wife and I are looking for an apartment to rent as I plan to begin the Mdiv program in the fall semester. We are currently working as missionaries in Hong Kong and would be arriving around the end of July or the beginning of August.

We would like the price to be $600 or less, utilities included (one or two bedroom apartment). We have no children and two very well-behaved pets (one cat and one dog) that we adopted from animal shelters (we are willing to pay an additional deposit for them, although we have no reason to suspect that they would cause any damage to the house).

We can be contacted via email at navarro@andrews.edu or martha.j.dettwiler@gmail.com. You can also leave a voicemail at 740 485 0649.

Thank you!

Joel and Martha Navarro

Administrative Assistant Position Available Immediately

Administrative Assistant
Adventist Information Ministry
Part time
Wages based on experience
Max hours: 19/week

Position summary: The Adventist information Ministry (AIM) is a service/ministry of the North American Division of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The Administrative Assistant performs diverse office/secretarial duties for AIM. Assists in designated administrative details using initiative and sound judgment. May handle documents and correspondence of a highly confidential nature. A high level of technical skills (well developed keyboard/computer, etc) plus superior communication skills, tact, friendliness and other aspects of strongly developed interpersonal skills and organizational levels are crucial.

Authority, Accountability: The work is extremely varied and performed with limited supervision. Authority as delegated by the supervisor. There are specific guidelines to follow but the work requires the ability to carry out duties and meet deadlines independently. Responsible to the AIM Director and Senior Staff.

Essential job functions:

- Perform receptionist functions for those visiting AIM
- Maintain a well organized office (including filing system and routine supplies), often in the absence of a supervisor.
- Take business line telephone calls; assist in call-ins during heavy call loads; maintain familiarity with phone system and call procedures.
- Process incoming mail–opening, sorting and distribution as well as familiarity with postage system and making certain daily mail is delivered to post office in a timely manner.
- Prepare correspondence and other communication items at the request of AIM staff.
- Attend staff and employee meetings; serve as custodian of minutes, documents and distribution to staff
- Keep "visual" inventory of office supplies, replace as needed
- Carry much of the office responsibilities when supervisor is unavailable.
- Ability to communication through all levels of organization.

Knowledge and Skill: Must exhibit extensive initiative, producing first rate work with minimal supervision. Adaptable and able to evaluate priorities. Ability to perform secretarial and support duties with speed and accuracy. Must be creative in writing letters/documents/handbooks, etc. Requires well developed knowledge of AIM policies and practices. This individual should have a well-developed knowledge of principles, policies and beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Physical requirements: Must be able to read, hear and speak English clearly, to effectively communicate both orally and in writing. Some standing, walking, bending, kneeling, carrying of light items, etc. required.
