OLYMPIC FLAME WITNESS CLIMAXES IN LONDON  [Kirsten Øster-Lundqvist / Catherine Anthony Boldeau / Serena Francis / BUC News]  Also a BUC News Video Report

As the 8000 mile Olympic flame tour of the British Isles hit London this week, Adventist church members were well prepared to take the opportunity to share their faith with both Londoners and tourists lining the route.

"This is the best welcome we have had," commented members of the Olympic procession as they crossed the bridge into the Borough of Hounslow on Tuesday, 24 July. The sun was out in full force as Adventurers and Pathfinders lined the street. Pastor Maureen Rock, who was invited by the council to attend, was very enthusiastic about the opportunity for her churches to be part of the community celebration. "It's important that as a church we can take part in community celebrations and that people see that Christians can have fun too." Pastor Rock also invited other Adventist congregations in the area to be part of the day. Borough Councillor, Ruth Cadbury, expressed that the council was happy to welcome the churches to take part, citing that it was important for faith groups to be included. Church members and pastors alike were happily chatting with passers-by as the Pathfinders practised their drum roll. As the torch approached, the drum core led the festivities, and police, officials, entertainers and the torchbearer alike greeted the Adventurers and Pathfinders as the disciplined youths stood to attention. Following the torch relay, the members moved to a nearby park to engage the community in heath outreach. While people exercised in the park to Christian music, South England Conference Health Ministries director, Elsie Staple, sat in the shade and measured people's blood pressure, also performing blood and workout checks. As clearly seen in a BUC News video report, taking the lead in Hounslow helped the churches to build relationships with the local community and with each other through outreach. "The members were true ambassadors for Christ" concludes Pastor Rock.
And it is not just in Hounslow were members have been active. The same evening, Tyler Saunders, a 29-year-old Paralympic hopeful and member of Chiswick Adventist church, carried the Olympic torch through the streets of Ealing. Tyler was heralded as a local hero, and was selected by Lloyds TSB to be a torchbearer for his commitment and dedication to his sport (basketball), and for the inspiration of his peers through his coaching of the Junior Teams within his club. "I used to play able-bodied basketball in school," said Tyler "and then I found out about the wheelchair game through word of mouth and discovered a local team that trained not far from me." Friends and family gathered for this proud moment, to see Tyler wheel down the streets carrying the torch. According to his father, being born without his left leg has never stopped Tyler from striving for achievement, and his actions have clearly been an inspiration to others.

The next day 25 members of the Willesden Adventist church accompanied the torch relay through the Borough of Brent and gave out 1,200 special Olympic editions of LIFE.info magazines along the route and also at the Celebrate Brent big party at the King Edward VII Park in Wembley afterwards. "It was great to see the members take up the Gospel Commission and utilize these public events as outreach opportunities," stated an excited Pastor Des Boldeau.

Members of Ilford church were also in on the act as the flame passed the outside of their church on the route between Redbridge and Bexley. Members handed out around 700 goodie bags to spectators including a bottle of water, sweets for the children, and the book 'Your Friends, the Seventh-day Adventists'. Members sang inspirational songs outside the church gates to encourage the crowd before the torch passed, the Pathfinders and Adventurers waved their flags and the Ilford Drum Corps played their drums. Serena Francis states, "Ilford church certainly made their joyful presence known that day!"

The London Live Community Choir were not waiting for any torch but kicked off their Olympic celebration in Notting Hill on Sabbath, 21 July with a concert in a packed venue. "Rather than just talking about community, we are in the middle of community" said Pastor Paul King-Brown, reflecting on the weekend and the Sunday performance at the Westway Notting Hill Community Festival in particular. He was especially glad to see how the non-believers in the choir not only enjoyed performing at the church concert on Sabbath, but also gladly accepted the invitation to sing in a church on a Sunday morning.

In a gathering of friends, community members and random people simply walking in off the street, more than 200 people filled the church for the Sabbath afternoon performance. As with their three previous concerts, £500 raised at the concert was donated to the Dalgarno Neighbourhood Trust, which works extensively with young people and poverty in the local West London area. Pastor Paul's short gospel message during the service tied well into the Olympic theme of community, and he reminded all the attendees that the church comes together every Sabbath afternoon, and that everyone is welcome. Sunday saw the choir ministering to another congregation that worships in the same venue, followed by a performance in the park for Westway Development Trust's Community Festival.

Twenty-three people were baptised by Pastor George Kumi on Sabbath, 21 July at the Leicester Central Seventh-day Adventist church as a result of the 'Saved to Serve Others' BUC School of Evangelism held at De Montfort University, 15 - 22 July 2012.

This special initiative, that attracted fifty members from across England, Scotland and Wales, was comprised of two strands. The first dealt with different methods of evangelism, from preaching to giving Bible studies and gaining decisions for Christ. They were delivered by Pastor Louis Torres, the President of the Guam-Micronesia Mission and his wife, Carol, who is the Principal of the Guam Mission Academy and President of the Mission College of Evangelism. As well as presenting dynamic lectures during the day, Pastor Torres delivered the word of God 'with power' in the evenings.

Strand B was the training of Literature Evangelists, using the GC LE Seminary Curriculum. These sessions were delivered by Elizabeth Sanguessa, Marketing director at the Stanborough Press, Paul Thompson, Executive Vice Chairman of Experte Credito, and Pastor Eglan Brooks, BUC Evangelism director and programme organizer.

The excitement of the Literature Evangelists was evident as they literally 'drank' in every word and rushed out each afternoon to give out literature and sell books. "I am so excited about becoming a literature evangelist. I thought that the work was dead in this country, but praise God, it has been revived," stated Hermione Davis from the Holloway church. She says that she feels called to this ministry and is actively pursuing what she believes is God's call on her life.

After attending the programme and spending time talking to the trainee lay and literature evangelists, Pastor Ian Sweeney, BUC President commented, "I am excited at the prospect of many more of our lay members being better equipped for personal evangelistic endeavours. With these members, working in partnership with the leadership of our pastoral team, we will see the Gospel Advent message having a greater impact across the British Isles, as well as witnessing people giving their lives to Christ, and become active witnessing Seventh-day Adventist Christians themselves."

Pastor Brooks concludes, "I believe that there were three reasons for the positive outcome of the BUC School of Evangelism. First, the programme was 'bathed' in prayer. Every opportunity was given for individuals to pray as a group, or privately for God to work in the lives of those who attended the nightly meeting. In addition to this, the on-the-job training that each attendee received enabled them to have confidence to witness more effectively. And finally, the team worked alongside the leaders and members of the Leicester Central church."

In addition to the twenty-three that were baptised, there are an additional eleven individuals who have requested baptism.
IQUITOS MISSION TRIP  [Daniel Johnson]

On Wednesday, 27 June a group of six Adventists from Aberdeen and Inverness left Scotland for Lima, Peru, on a short-term mission trip. For some of the group, this being their first time to another country other than that of their heritage or home, they found their surroundings to be quite different to what they were used to, especially as some of them had to get used to international traffic laws, and an extremely friendly culture. However it wasn't until the second day that the group would fly out to Iquitos, their final destination.

Arriving in Iquitos they met with the other students and organisers from America, and found themselves surrounded by a much more humid environment than that of the Peruvian highlands.

The Friday after the group’s arrival in Iquitos was nerve-racking for some as they were scheduled to preach in their own separate churches for 8:00 that evening. However after much prayer most of the group found it was a much less fearful experience than they originally thought and the subsequent nights were a lot easier than the first. However, the hand of the devil was soon seen trying to disrupt the meetings of each speaker.

For instance Daniel discovered that the evangelical church nearby decided to block the road with a (tent-less) tent meeting. However, after prayer with the group organisers and pastors, there was heavy rain, and as they were positioned on a dirt road, the thick mud forced the tent meeting to shut down. Michael noticed that one night his translator was struggling to translate a sermon about the Sabbath truth. After a sleepless night fighting his conscience, the translator decided to back out. In addition almost all the rest had their laptops and projectors shut down in the middle of their sermons – not to mention one of the students whose voice disappeared four different times in the middle of the sermon.

One night, to the shock of everyone participating in the trip, the most powerful witch doctor in the Amazon appeared at the hotel. One of the students arrived in the foyer area to find him tuning a strange four stringed instrument shaped somewhat like a long banana, and playing it in a somewhat dissonant manner. However the group had a prayer the next morning, and with the church members in Aberdeen and Inverness praying from their churches, from that day no one ever heard or saw from the witch doctor or his partner again.

On the final Sabbath the speakers took the Sabbath School and spoke about heaven. At the end each one made an appeal asking who would like to be there. It was an emotional response, both because it was the last day the speakers would be with their members but also because of the congregation's desire to be in heaven.

However after the sermon the speakers all went off with the members to a large venue to witness an even more emotional event. And following a powerful sermon given by the local pastor 814 came forward to give their lives to Christ in baptism. It was a long but emotional baptismal service as each of the students, and other speakers, saw those from their churches being baptised as a result of the Lord using them. Now back in Scotland, each student is even stronger in their faith and motivated to spread God's word 'at home'.

NEW LIFE CLUB HELPS YOUTH 'AIM HIGH'  [Dareen Lester]

An Adventist youth club that keeps community youth off the streets and encourages them to aim high held an open evening on Monday, 16 July, at New Life Adventist church in North London.
The open day marked the beginning of a truly special community ministry for New Life Community Youth Club and celebrated the dedicated efforts of all those who have worked to make the club a success.

Among the array of special guests was the Mayor of Islington, Jilani Chowdhury; Islington MP, Jeremy Corbyn; gospel artist, Jahaziel; light middleweight English champion, Erick Ochieng; and the South England Conference's Teens director, Dejan Stojkovic.

Jeremy Corbyn commended the Youth Club, describing it as a start to fulfilling the church's mission promise to serve the local community. One of the highlights of the evening was hearing from the youth who live in the community. They spoke honestly about why the club is important and motivational for them.

Since the club began in February it has attracted youth from the surrounding estates, Andover and Six Acres, as well as youth from the church. It offers workshops such as drama, cookery, football, fashion, design and many other activities every Monday evening from 6:00 - 8:30 pm.

Run solely by volunteers, the club aims to work with the youth to empower them to bring about a positive change in their community, not only enhancing their lives, but the lives of others.

You can find out more by visiting their Facebook page or if you're interested in volunteering or conducting a workshop email <youthclub@newlifesda.org.uk>.

SPECIAL NEEDS CAMP 2012  [Joy Bussey]

Inclement weather forced the 2012 Special Needs Camp indoors for much of the week, 1 - 8 July. However, the bad weather did not affect the mission of encouraging campers with special needs in their relationship with Jesus. Under the theme, 'Showing Love for Jesus', songs, stories illustrated by the camp drama group, and worship leadership from padre Curtis Murphy and clearly defined presentations from Pastor David Rančić, campers and staff at the Aberdaron campsite were given the opportunity to see ways in which each one of us can show our love for Jesus.

Early in the week, a couple of small groups braved the elements to take minibus trips to the Potteries and then to the Ffestinyo Railway. By Wednesday, most people were ready to take a trip away from the site, so a large number of people, including the summer site team, visited Anglesey Sea Zoo where everyone stayed dry while seeing many examples of God's wonderful water creatures. We were especially appreciative of the restaurant staff who gave the entire group and the boxes of camp sandwiches a warm welcome so that all could stay dry and warm during lunch. Our presence generated some heart-warming comments from others taking their meal, on the warm, caring nature of our mainly young group of carers.

Pastor Cyril Sweeney, President of North England Conference, was a welcome visitor on Wednesday evening, and miraculously, the sun appeared. Previously involved with Special Needs Camp, he was happy to renew friendships with both campers and staff. As the gift of sunshine continued into the next day, sports were arranged for the afternoon in case the weather broke on the scheduled day. This was followed by a wonderful banquet prepared by the excellent kitchen team, under Cecilia Davison and an evening concert.

Friday brought the amount of rain usually seen in three winter months, resulting in boggy grass, flooded paths, a swollen stream outside the site, and a pair of house martins desperately trying to find food for their young nesting above the hall door. As the Sabbath hours drew in, an exhausted team took part in an Agape and used candles to illustrate how we can all share our skills and love for Jesus to benefit others.

We were blessed with a warm sunny day to celebrate Sabbath, which meant that the traditional camp photo and the walk to Whistling Sands could take place. After many requests of "Please can I come back next year?" and "Don't forget my Christmas card," everyone finally boarded the coach on Sunday to return to their own homes.

'THOU SHALT NOT' PLAY REVIEW [Katie Ramharacksingh] Also a BUC News video report. Director Mark Grey continues to entertain, entice and ensnare you in his latest stage play, 'Thou Shalt Not', shown in theatres around the south of England.

Christine Cornwall watched the performance at the Pumphouse Theatre, in Watford, and commented, "I thought it was very deep, really thought-provoking. It really made me think about the challenges and the choices you have to make in life. I brought my two children because I think it's important for them to realise that, as they go through life, they're going to have to make choices and choices are not going to be easy all the time."

The story centres around one of the oldest love triangles of all, two brothers and one woman. Deeper still, there is a secret love story that emerges, not between those the audience expects, but one that was there, almost invisibly, throughout.

The play immerses its audience in personal, physical and emotional struggles, yet manages to bring our first love, Jesus Christ, to the fore. In a brief video, theatre-goers commented on the ingenuity of the plot and the surprising story line, encouraging others to share in the experience. With the play already having been staged in Bethnal Green and Watford, that opportunity is still available at Bristol's 'Tobacco Factory', on 28 July, and the Fairfield Hall in Croydon, on 19 August.

Director Mark Grey states, "My inspiration for the play is that I like to look at the motivation behind why people do things. Not just about what they do, but I like to look at what is motivating them to do those things."

BASINGSTOKE REVIVED AGAIN  [Janet Hamilton]

'Revive Us Again!' was the prayer in the hearts of Basingstoke members and our friends from the Bracknell, Guildford, Oxford and Reading churches who attended the 'Revive Us Again' revival meetings. Desirous of a fresh anointing of the Holy Spirit, members eagerly studied the 'Revive Us Again' book by Pastor Mark Finley. Each meeting focused on a chapter of the book, the six sessions covering two weekends on 13 - 14 and 20 - 21 July 2012. Local pastor Sinisa Horvat conducted one of the sessions and pastor evangelist Ray Patrick preached for the remaining five. Pastor Patrick enlivened the sessions by relaying to the dynamic interactive audience his many experiences of how the Holy Spirit worked through him in miraculous ways to minister to others.

Members responded to the revival in different ways. Some felt spiritually rejuvenated and more able to face the obstacles in their own lives. Others verbalised their eager desire to continue the momentum of the revival by holding regular Friday evening Bible studies at church. For others it has confirmed the need for a mid-week prayer meeting in members' homes, to pray for the needs of the church and the community. Plans to accommodate these suggestions are now in active progress. The revival has indeed revived the church members' desire to serve the Lord.

FIRST, LAST AND NEW FOR WATFORD TOWN  [Katie Ramharacksingh]

Ray and Kathy Stewart closed a chapter of history for Watford Town church as they were baptised on Sabbath, 21 July, by Pastor Jonathan Barrett. It was to be the last baptism held at the now 'old' Watford Town church building on Leavesden Road which opened in 1921.

Church pastors, Jonathan and Mary Barrett, were excited about the move but spoke of how there were many memories for the church at their current location. As a way of remembering the last 91 years they held a final 'Memories' service before the building was officially closed.

Members ready to help facilitate the move to the new building on Brixton Road were on hand after sunset on Saturday and for a long period on Sunday, clearing, packing, moving and cleaning.

After officially receiving the keys on Monday, 23 July, everything was moved into the new, much larger premises. There is now space for around 200 members in the main sanctuary, as well as various rooms throughout the building to be used for Sabbath School classes, socialising, cooking and eating.

Although it will take a few weeks for the church to fully function in their new sanctuary, services will resume in the upper room of the new building until 4 August, when there will be an official opening service. You are welcome to visit at: 1-5 Brixton Road, Watford, WD24 4DX.
DEATH OF PASTOR DEREK BEARDESELL  [Paul Lockham]

We regret to announce the death of Pastor Derek Crowther Beardsell who died in the early hours of Tuesday, 24 July 2012, aged 77. Born of British missionaries in Suji, Tanzania on 26 July 1934, Derek attended Helderberg College in the 1950s and entered church employment in February 1955. Later that year he and Joy (née Barrett) were married. Between 1955 and 1970 Derek and Joy served in various roles in the East and Central Africa Unions during which time their three children were born (Eileen, Beryl & Robert). In July 1970 the family returned to Britain where Derek served first at Newbold College then as Youth director for the British Union. In 1976 Derek and Joy returned to the Tanzania Union Mission to serve as President and for a short time as Youth and Communications director of the Afro-Mideast Division in 1980. Following completion of a PhD at Andrews University they again returned to Britain where from 1983 to 1988 they pastored in the NBC and SEC. In August 1988 they prepared once again to leave for overseas, this time to serve as President in the Pakistan Union until 1991 when he was called to serve as Principal of Newbold College until August 1997. His last assignment was as President to the Iceland Conference where they served until retirement in 1998 after 43 years' service to the Church.

In retirement, Derek and Joy made their home in Cheshire near to their children and grandchildren. Active in the local church and preaching further afield when requested, Derek also supported various activities at the Aberdaron Campsite. It was a shock to all when Derek was diagnosed with a brain tumour earlier this year and his courage in the final months was a testimony to all who have had the privilege to know him.

Our sympathy and expression of love are extended to Joy, Eileen, Beryl and Robert along with their families and grandchildren at this time of loss.

The funeral will be held on Thursday, 2 August at 2:30 pm at the Ringway Life Building, St Mary's Church, Sunbank Lane, Hale Barns, Cheshire, WA15 0PS. The family requests that donations in lieu of flowers may be made to "Cheshire East Hospice" by those who wish to remember Derek in this way.
