IGNITING A FIRE IN NEW YORK – A UK PERSPECTIVE
Adventist eyes are focused on New York this month as the World Church initiative, 'Mission to the Cities' (MTTC) is being premiered there.

"A fire has started in New York", stated Pastor Eglan Brooks, Evangelism director for the Adventist Church in the UK and Ireland. Along with 19 British ministers, he is in New York, attending both Pastor Ted Wilson's campaign meetings at the 'historic' Greenwich Village church in Manhattan, and learning at the accompanying month-long Field School of Evangelism.

The results are already being seen. Pastors Wilson and Finley conducted a baptism of seven on Sunday 23 June. "It was an awesome example of the power of God tangibly at work to save souls", Pastor Brooks states. "While still in the pool Pastor Mark Finley made another appeal and approximately 30 people came forward for baptism."

29 new members have already been added to the church with another 40 people preparing for baptism in Pastor Wilson's meeting alone.

This meeting is just a sample of the baptisms that are already taking place across New York in the MTTC initiative. Over the last six months some 600 outreach programmes including different types of health, family life, community services and evangelistic proclamation services, have been taking place. Pastor Gerson Santos, Director for the General Conference Urban Ministries Study Centre, indicated that 260 meetings are taking place with a current tally of 651 baptisms.

This coming Sabbath, 29 June, the two Conferences hosting MTTC, the North Eastern and the Greater New York Conferences, will host a Joint Camp Meeting at the 15,000-seater Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum. Looking forward to the event, over 500 people are being prayerfully prepared for baptism.

"It has been a momentous experience for us, the 23 Trans-European Division representatives, to have been here, seeing the commission of the Gospel fulfilled before our very eyes at this awesome Field School and knowing that Pastor Robert Costa, GC Evangelism director and the directors of the GC are working in harmony to fulfil God's will", Pastor Brooks states. The GC directors have taught on the course or are engaged in presenting the Gospel in some form or other. Pastor Costa states, "The goal is to equip leaders with tools to launch comprehensive evangelism initiatives in their own territories." The 550 attendees at the Field School unequivocally argue that it has successfully achieved its goal.

Pastor Michael Simpson, North England Conference Personal Ministries director reflects that, "the initiative is really a very comprehensive approach to execute mission in urban areas." He especially appreciates the collaborative approach adding, "This is extremely encouraging and MTTC will forever change the way in which the Seventh-day Adventist Church seeks to carry forward the express mission God has commissioned the Church to do."

Pastor Michael Hamilton TED Sabbath School and Personal Ministries director strengthened the point adding, "The Field School of Evangelism has been an inspiration to all who have attended. It has succeeded in reviving and awakening the fire for evangelism and a finished work of saving souls through the grace of Christ." At the forefront of planning for MTTC in Europe he argues that it has created a new zeal for the work in the Trans-European Division and particularly in Britain. "One cannot help but get excited in anticipation of what the Lord will do in London when all the churches pull together in the spirit of cooperation for the Mission to the Cities initiative. Practical lessons have been taught and it is my prayer that much will be implemented in preparation for a bumper harvest in the months and years to come."

With London the focus in 2013 and Dublin in 2014, the prayer is that our members across the British Isles are moved by the Holy Spirit to get involved in some aspect of the MTTC programme, and help start a similar fire in England. Here are some suggestions:

1) Pray for the power of the Holy Spirit to be outpoured upon souls that need to come to the Lord.
2) Rededicate ourselves to the Lord daily so that we might receive the fullness of the Holy Spirit.
3) Get involved with some aspect of evangelism in your local church.
4) Take advantage of training opportunities run by the local church, Mission, Conference or Union.
5) Work with the evangelistic plans of your local Mission or Conference.
6) Make a personal commitment to lead one person; a relative, a friend, a loved one to Christ this year, even if you do not live in London, Dublin or Manchester.
7) Power of 35,000! Use this opportunity to make new contacts and reconnect with missing members.
8) Financially, support the work of evangelism locally and nationally.
9) Conduct or be a part of a Bible study — it will change your life!

One more thing, if God does allow someone to join the church through your ministry, please, please work with that new individual long after 2013 is over.

Let's start a fire in the British Isles and make this year a year to remember!

'WILLING TO BE MADE WILLING' AT SEC CAMP MEETING

"Look back with forgiveness and up with gratitude; let's live the life Jesus wants us to live," prayed Dr Chidi Ngwaba, at the end of his first Health talk, on Tuesday, 25 June, at the South England Conference Camp Meeting, in Wales.
Dr Chidi, a prominent lifestyle doctor, helped to dispel today's top health myths such as, 'high protein is healthy', 'all vegans eat healthily', 'wine helps my heart' and 'it's all in the genes!'. He cited that over 43 million under-five-year-olds worldwide are overweight, or obese, and that there are 2.5 million people in the United Kingdom who have heart disease; but there is hope!

Dr Chidi admitted how he realised he had a problem when he kept going back to the same Dunkin' Donuts to get the 'buy three, get three free offer'. He encouraged those listening to take back their lives, get active, realise their weaknesses and fight their addictions.

Earlier in the day, during the Devotional section, Pastor Mick Smart spoke about how some people believe that because they eat 'right' and behave 'right' that they should, and will, be saved. Through a story about his own childhood, Pastor Smart explained how, just like his own father stood by him in trouble, God does too. He doesn't give us what we think we deserve, but, because He loves us, He has given us the gift of eternal life.

"I think that God is really blessing us, members have said they feel we've excelled this year", enthused SEC President, Pastor Sam Davis. "I think there's a standard that's come to be expected at Camp Meeting; but I feel it's important that there's a spiritual atmosphere and that we're all being blessed in some way or another."

Over in the nearby Welsh town of Rhyl, many of those in the Youth programme, along with the Aeolians choir of Oakwood Adventist University, conducted a 'flash mob'. After prayer, the Aeolians circled the town square singing, which attracted locals who left their restaurant meals, shops and nail salons to listen. At the same time, others handed out leaflets promoting the free Community Gospel Concert that is due to take place at the town hall on Thursday, 27 June.

"Choose you this day who you will serve", quoted Errol Nembhard, Family Life director in Johannesburg and Power Hour speaker for the week. Choosing the topic, 'Willing to be made willing' he described the two options that are laid out before us, the broad and the narrow paths. "Neither gate says 'hell' but one of them goes there!"

"It's time to let God reign," stated Commitment Speaker, Pastor Lawrence Dorsey Snr, who was ushered onto the platform by a dynamic performance from the Aeolians choir. Pastor Dorsey... used the biblical story of Job to remind people that when things go wrong it's not God doing it to you. When your circumstances are hard, we must hold on and trust in Him.

"I was especially touched by the last part where Pastor Dorsey spoke about how Job never complained", commented Patricia Khanye, after the evening service. "The message was important to me because it makes me try not to complain with the problems that I meet; I wish the Lord would give me the strength to not complain!"

A selection of photos from the day are available at the Adventist picture gallery. More reports from SEC Camp Meeting are on our news pages.

NEC CAMP MEETING ROUND-UP

A song fully expressed the theme that ran through North England Conference Camp Meeting 2013. Charlotte Bramble, from the Wellingborough church sang 'Rebuild the walls of my life' during the exceptionally well attended closing concert in the young adults' venue. The words expressed revealed the way that every element of Camp Meeting worked together to express the theme, 'Rebuilding the walls'.

The effects were obvious. In the teens' hall an appeal generated 35 responses – teens who recognised the need to rebuild the walls of their young lives. Children created foundations during the week and showcased them on Sabbath afternoon. Parents and toddlers stood on stage and displayed the rather large Bible book used throughout the week to tell the story of Nehemiah and his wall building exploits. Young Kai Ham-Ying from the Middlesbrough area, spoke of the sketches, interviews, and crafts, adding that "there were lots of things to keep kids interested." He showed he understood the evangelistic side of the theme by saying, "We should help others who are broken and help to rebuild their walls."

The Youth emphasis was on discipleship via small group discussions, in worship and via sermons. It was not an uncommon sight to see groups of young people praying in the hall.
The well-known theme, 'Rebuilding walls' comes from the story of Nehemiah and has been presented as the vision of the North England Conference by the President, Pastor Lorance Johnson. The adults, meeting in the largest hall, were introduced to their own theme tune on the Monday evening. Sung by an excellent praise team and taught well the tune soon embedded itself as a great favourite. Read the lyrics and listen to it here. The audience certainly saw that the song was more than a pleasant introduction to a service. Each line, when meditated upon, revealed the current impact Nehemiah's work had in rebuilding Jerusalem.

The main speakers certainly knew that they had worked hard. Dr Neil Nedley, the Health speaker, spoke in the young adults' venue as well as in the adults' hall under the theme, 'create healthy brains'.

Pastor Emil Peeler, main preacher for the adult congregation, spoke many times during the week. Notably, during the Sabbath morning, when many expressed their deepened trust in God, Peeler clearly showed that deepening faith is a relationship with God that results in more clearly hearing the new and daily things God wills us to do.

Dr Ranko Stefanovic, known to many from appearances on television, took an interested congregation through the Book of Revelation in Bible Study. As one person stated, "I really appreciated the depth of study during the week." The academic side of the study was not the key point. Dr Stefanovic stated, "I want to share with you what God did in my personal life."

South African youth speaker, Elsworth Baxen, likewise shared his gifts with both the youth and adults. Similar sharing came as music minister, Rudy Micelli, moved between the different venues on the site.

Sharing also came naturally as the South England Conference Media team came up to Prestatyn a week early to lend their expertise to assist the North England team led by Keila Agui.

As the weather turned slightly colder for the weekend the mood warmed up for the ordination of Pastor Ikwisa Mwasumbi on the Sabbath afternoon and the evening of praise with a visiting choir from Oakwood Adventist University, the Aeolians.

A fuller version of this article will appear shortly in the Messenger. A gallery of Camp Meeting photos is available on the Adventist picture gallery.

PASTOR IKWISA MWASUMBI ORDAINED AT NEC CAMP MEETING
A Camp Meeting ordination is always a highlight. It is also a never to be forgotten experience for the pastor being ordained. Pastor Ikwisa Mwasumbi, currently minister of the Leeds Central, Beeston and West churches, was ordained on Sabbath afternoon, 22 June, at the 2013 North England Conference Camp Meeting held at Prestatyn.

Tanzanian by origin, Pastor Mwasumbi's lived in Pune, India and studied at Spicer Memorial College where he undertook his primary, high school and undergraduate studies. Pastoral ministry was not the first draw on the young man's life, but the call to serve became louder and more insistent. Time at Newbold College may well have been a drain on the resources of his sponsors and a slight trial on his wife who would find her husband ministering God's Word – but a call from God it was, and who could resist that?

Married for 13 years to Sharon and the father to three children, George, Helen and Lupakisyo, ordination is the culmination of recent pastoral ministerial growth.

The introduction of the candidate to the congregation was given by Pastor Fred Mapp, the spiritual challenge and encouragement given by Pastor Ian Sweeney with his usual opening humorous style that led to the deeper spiritual examination Jesus gave to Peter, "feed my sheep." The specific call being this, "your job is... just love Jesus ...so do what Jesus told you ...Feed the sheep."

Ordination is more than the laying on of hands by a band of brothers but is rather an investiture into a particular role. In the Seventh-day Adventist understanding this is a recognition of God's presence in a life already devoted to ministry. Pastor Mwasumbi responded to the laying on of hands with a response that detailed God's call on his life back through two generations of his family and on into his current pastorate in Yorkshire.

The North England Conference welcomes Pastor Mwasumbi into the ranks of brother and sister pastors serving the Lord in a Conference seeking to rebuild walls of grace in the towns and cities in which they serve.

[Peter Jeynes]
Anyone can go to work for the Lord. It takes a special person to be a Taskforce volunteer. The North England Conference has four such heroes assisting in the growth of the Church.

Wyndel Bacurnay, Florence Manji, Samantha Laurence and Jessica Formanquevski are developing new interests and helping people to become Christians and grow in faith.

Jessica, from Curitiba, Brazil, is working in Southport. Her English is not perfect but she manages well – especially when you find that there are many Portuguese speakers in the town. At the heart of her work is making friends. She helps people in the street, talks with them and provides encouragement. Though only working in the area for three months her fellow volunteers clearly recognise her value in their efforts for God.

At the heart of her work is making friends. She helps people in the street, talks with them and provides encouragement. Though only working in the area for three months her fellow volunteers clearly recognise her value in their efforts for God.

Florence, a graduate from PEACE, the NEC evangelism training institute is one of those sunny characters you love to meet. Once determined to work with animals as a veterinary nurse in Wellingborough, she now volunteers with Jessica in Southport.

Their companion is Samantha, originally from Wolverhampton but baptised in Leeds as the result of the missionary work of her brother. Another PEACE graduate, she has a high-end catering background and used to run her own businesses. While the 'spiritual baby' of the team, baptised just 18 months ago, spiritual maturity characterises her volunteer ministry.

Wyndel is the man in the team. He works in South Cumbria with Pastor Roman Smejkal. Wyndel could be described as a veteran volunteer with 10 years of service on two continents. The Lake District is a new experience for him, rather unlike Moslem Djakarta, or his home country, the Philippines.

Destined to be an engineer he trained as an accountant but wished for more of a spiritual vocation. First a Literature Evangelist, he then joined the 1,000 Missionary Movement in the Philippines. Wyndel is hard at work following up recent contacts in the Barrow-in-Furness area and creating his own new interests using Friendship evangelism – he is already an active member of the local Badminton Club.

Such heroes are unpaid but are supported with a small stipend. Their spiritual growth is assured as they ask for daily strength from God. Their continuing success and support can be assured as they are supported in their work by the prayers and monetary offerings of individuals who make regular donations to fund their work.
Pastor Michael Simpson and his team organise the work of the Taskforce volunteers. A good track record of support has seen these young men and women see work develop in areas of the Conference that have been traditionally rather hard to work in.

To find out more about the Taskforce programme or to provide support to these committed volunteers, please email odunkley@necadventist.org.uk.

SILENT HEALTH FAIR AT HOUNSLOW CORNERSTONE

While Health Fairs are regularly held across many churches in the South England Conference, the one on Sunday 23 June 2013 at Hounslow Cornerstone Seventh-day Adventist church was a first. Conducted in British Sign Language (BSL) it was a health outreach specifically for those with hearing difficulties.

Anna Prozitorska, one of the organisers was the 'speaker' for the health talks. Her enthusiastic signing was interpreted for the hearing, making it inclusive for all. Some hearing members had come along to support and to help out with the blood pressure readings.

In-between the demonstrations there were opportunities to taste healthy smoothies and foods, and to look at the array of printed materials. The success of the day was demonstrated by the animated signed discussions among the attendees.

Hounslow is one of the few Seventh-day Adventist churches in the South England Conference which includes BSL in its worship services.

"It has been a challenge for us to learn to communicate in a different way and slow down in our speaking," explains Pastor Maureen Rock, "but we are so grateful for their presence." The church had some members who took it upon themselves to learn BSL so they could interact and interpret for a group of deaf Latvian Adventists who started attending. When the deaf group approached Pastor Rock with the desire to hold a health outreach she responded, "we were so excited that they wanted to reach out to other deaf people that the church cleared the calendar to accommodate their wish."

COMMUNITY FOCUS MOTIVATION FOR WESTON CHURCH EXTENSION

Weston-Super-Mare is a church with only 40 members. It has a nice sanctuary and a large youth hall. So why the need for an extension? Simply one word: Community.

Pastor Wayne Erasmus states: "Our existing facility is used so much by community, preschool, computer club and Guides, in addition to the church's own run vegetarian cooking club, that instead of asking the various groups to vacate, as the church's own needs grew, we decided to expand the building to encompass both the community and the church's growing outreach programmes."

The extension also makes it easier to find the church, as its entrance is now visible from the road.

Over the weekend of 22-23 June members and community celebrated the official opening of their church extension with South England Conference President, Pastor Sam Davis, and the Deputy Mayor of Weston-Super-Mare, Cllr Mrs Roz Willis.

In his Sabbath address to the church Pastor Davis encouraged and commended the church for its community connections and challenged the congregation to remain connected to their community. A Christian herself, Deputy Mayor, Cllr Willis gave a brief testimony of her personal faith, and in her address, affirmed the value and importance of churches and faith groups to their communities.

Having seen the project from planning to completion, she expressed pleasure at being part of the planning committee which had approved the building and now being at the opening of the completed building project. As she concluded her remarks, she raised her hands and encouraged the assembly to praise the Lord for the great things He has done.

Sunday saw the church opening its doors for a family celebration day. Teas and cakes were served and later a barbeque was lit. The building was buzzing with activities such as games, balloon modelling and face painting. The Newbold Teens mime group, 'Connected', also added to the festivities with their inspirational performance.

The day attracted local residents, friends of members and people who attend the popular cooking club. The importance of the building in this community was demonstrated by the support local residents gave. People went out of their way to help make the day a success, as they recognised the importance of community facilities and appreciation of what the church does. Even the builder's bill came with a donation in form of labour from the local builder.

NEC & SEC GIVE BACK TO COMMUNITY

Adventists pour into Prestatyn each year for one purpose: to receive a blessing at Camp Meeting. During their time in the North Wales holiday resort they bring a different atmosphere to the one evident there for most of the year – an atmosphere noted by Pontins staff and local residents.

Yet campers also want to give back to a community that has hosted them for so many years. With the North and South England Conference Camp Meetings running back-to-back this year, both Conferences have organised events for the local community.

On Wednesday, 19 June, during the NEC Camp Meeting, a health team took over the Scala Cinema in town, attracting crowds in from the sunshine to discover their biological age, and receive basic health advice.

The 'Health Expo' attracted sixty local residents. They took the opportunity to get their blood pressure checked, to assess their lung function and to find their body mass index. The benefit at the end was to have a short health review with a senior health professional including a health age assessment.

John was happy to hear that his health age was six years less than his natural age. Janet, another local resident found reassurance after her checks, while Jose, a holiday-maker, really appreciated the massage he received.

Malcolm Turner, associate pastor of the nearby Rhyl Adventist church stated that he was "thoroughly impressed with the turnout," while Irving Saunders, Welsh Mission Health Ministries sponsor applauded the sensible choice to check health regularly.

He noted that people are interested in their health. "The Seventh-day Adventist Church can claim to have some of the answers to a longer, happier life," he said. "That means we have some tips we can share with our communities."
While Health Ministries has quite a high profile in the Church in Wales, members in Rhyl are really pleased for the extra witness that comes at Camp Meeting time. Recent research has shown that the Seventh-day Adventist lifestyle is attractive and leads to a healthy life.

Camp Meeting II is now fully under-way with members from across the SEC filling the halls and spilling out onto the beach and into the town. Their gift to the local community is music – something the Welsh treasure. On Thursday night the world-renowned choir, the Aeolians, will perform at a free concert at Rhyl town hall. It is fully anticipated that these musical ambassadors will leave a lasting impression on the town.

SCOTTISH WOMEN'S RETREAT: LIVE HEALTHILY IN A COLD CLIMATE

Lendrick Muir, near Kinross, a Scripture Union-owned house in a large park with woodland and fields is an ideal venue for a Scottish Mission Women's Ministries retreat. The woodland paths are easy to get lost in, as we discovered on our Sabbath afternoon walk.

The theme during the 14-16 June event was Body, Mind and Spirit. The walk was an essential part of the programme. With the help of our speakers, Sharon Platt-McDonald, Tessa Saunders and Karen Holford, we explored how these three aspects of our health are interconnected. We learnt how to live healthily in a cold climate, how not to lose our identity when in a transitional situation, and how to lead emotionally balanced lives and have healthy relationships.

We discovered the lives of four prophetesses in the Bible, like Huldah, who most of us had never heard of. She is recorded as living in the reign of King Josiah, and warning Judah of the dangers of the path they were on. We were impressed by the commitment of these women as an example for our lives.

In their evaluations, attendees said that they found it a 'spiritually enriching experience', appreciated 'the opportunity to get away from the daily routine to listen to the Word of God', and thanked the team for a 'fab weekend'.

Like the woman at the well, we came seeking the Living Water, and left refreshed, revived and inspired.

NEW SERIES OF FAITHTALKS TO START 4 JULY

Adventist programming on Revelation TV is making a difference. One viewer wrote in following a programme about peace in a time of difficulty, "I caught the programme halfway but the message in that episode really gave me peace as I was in the middle of grieving for a best friend of mine who had died suddenly." Since then a positive dialogue has developed and he and his wife tune in to Revelation TV every Sunday.

Next week they will enjoy a new series of FaithTalks. In this, the second series by SEC Communication and Media director, Kirsten Øster-Lundqvist, guests will share how they experience God and live out faith through their lives.

Over the next 13 weeks Kirsten will ask if men see spirituality in a different way to women, how does illness affect your faith, can we explore God through art, and what does the Church have to say about depression?

Tune in every Thursday at 8:30 pm or Sunday at 1 pm on Revelation TV (Sky 581 or Freesat 692). Your suggestions for guests or subjects are also welcomed.

Upcoming programmes:

• Men and Health: Patrick Johnson and Chidi Ngwaba: 4 & 7 July

• Men and Spirituality: Patrick Johnson and Chidi Ngwaba: 11 & 14 July

• Christians in Business: Marinko Markek and Deborah Harris: 18 & 21 July

• Faith in Economic Crisis: Marinko Markek and Deborah Harris: 25 & 28 July
