During chapel on Sep. 28, Union College recognized the 25-year anniversary celebration of CQ, the Seventh-day Adventist Collegiate Sabbath School Devotional. In 1978, Eugene Shirley, a Union student, began the Collegiate Quarterly with the help of Maylan Schurch, a Union English professor. Schurch, Falvo Fowler, from the General Conference Department of Mission Awareness and Gary Swanson, the current editor of the CQ spoke for chapel and reminded the campus about what one Union College student can accomplish. CQ’s format still reflects the original vision developed by Shirley. In the past 25 years, CQ has used 100,000 writers and the publication now has a circulation of more than 70,000 around the world.

On Sept. 25, Union students returned to Hallam, Neb. Motivated by the tornado cleanup site during Project Impact, a group of more than 30 students spent the afternoon doing yard work and cleaning the town’s main auditorium. The response from the grateful residents was tremendous.

Flamenco guitarist Ronald Radford will be performing in the Union College Amphitheater at 8 p.m., Oct. 26. He has been acclaimed in Mexico City for performances equal to those on any flamenco stage in Madrid, Seville or Andalusia. His Carnegie Recital Hall and Kennedy Center concerts were enthusiastically received, but perhaps the highest tribute comes from a review in Madrid: “He has duende, the Spanish equivalent of soul.” The event is free.

The Tamburitzans of Duquesne University will be performing in the Union College Gymnasium at 8 p.m., on Nov. 21. In a two-part presentation, The Tamburitzans capture the indomitable spirit of Eastern Europe and neighboring cultures. Language (a dozen or more are used) is no barrier, as these emotions strike a universal chord: joy at a wedding, sorrow over lost love, pride in a plentiful harvest. Through music and movement, The Tamburitzans portray the human experience with passion and believability.

The One Book, One Union nominations deadline is Oct. 13. Any Union student, staff or faculty member may nominate a book. E-mail Sabrina Riley at sarily@ucollege.edu or stop by the library and fill out a
