On Feb. 16 Union College and the Wachiska Audubon Society will welcome to campus Bobby Harrison, one of the first people to sight the rediscovered ivory-billed woodpecker. During academic convocation at 10:30 a.m. Harrison, an associate professor of art and photography at Oakwood College and a renowned expert on the ivory bill, will share his nature and science journey from a faith perspective. At 6:30 p.m. Harrison will present “Obsessed with the ivory-billed woodpecker,” a discussion of his three-decade connection to the long-thought extinct bird, including a description of its habitat and documentation of sightings. The evening presentation is open to the public. Both events will be in the administration building amphitheater. For more details about the magnitude of this species rediscovery, visit the link from Union’s Web home page. Harrison was invited to campus by Union’s contract Ornithology instructor, Russell Duerksen.

CAMPUS TRIVIA

Q: Where did Union’s school pep song, “Slinga de Ink,” come from?
A: Originally named “I want to Go Back to Coe Again,” and written in 1910 by the music director of Coe College in Iowa, a student from Iowa adapted “Slinga de Ink” and sung it in a quartet at Union College in 1924. The catchy tune caught on.

Who is Jorgensen Hall named after?
