No Ladder and No Climbing Skills Required to Reach Heaven

It is only the gospel of Jesus that puts an end to beggarly pitiful ladders that aspire to reach eternity. We have no such ladder-climbing ability whatsoever. The gospel knows of no climbing skills required by you and me. It only knows of the ladder whereby Jesus Christ came down to earth to do it ALL for you and me. Jesus has nailed to the cross every human ladder that there ever was or will be. He alone stands on offer – it’s a very intimate and personal relationship or nothing. God has forgiven all of your sins, past, present and future. No payment ever required says your God.
He did that so that you wouldn’t relate to him out of guilt, or shame, or out of burdensome duty, but out of love. God knows how awesome He is and He wants you to know that about Him. Until you have felt that tug of love on your heart, you haven’t begun to know the joy of the gospel.

Can you just imagine then how utterly disappointing, saddening and incongruous it must be when you and I come to such a God with what false religions have on offer. In the light of such love and such yearning, consider what sin offers in return. Sit on the top of a tree for a week or two or more… count your rosary beads, climb a certain rise of stairs at least once or twice in your life, go on a religious pilgrimage, pray facing this or that wall, bathe in this or that river, observe a few rituals and abstain from certain foods, wear this and not that, live a 1001 lives before you attain nirvana and are released from the curse of karma.

The very thing that sin takes away, the gospel gives back. Sin’s ultimate achievement would be to take God away from you and me. Nothing makes sin more successful than to sever that very personal and loving relationship between you and your maker. God wants to magnetise you with who He is, with how awesome He is, with how beautiful He is, with how good He is, with how caring He is, with how faithful, true, glorious He is in all that He does, and in all that He is. He is pursuing you like a lover besotted by his bride. Now that’s a God I can fall in love with knowing our love is eternal.
