What’s Your Bible IQ?

Dear Hartland Friends,

June 26, 2013

The following story is an example of how God uses Last Generation magazine to reach people who would never step foot into a Seventh-day Adventist church.

When Janice Jackson arrived at Hartland lifestyle center to begin a weight loss program, she was startled to find that it was operated by Seventh-day Adventists. “As a sincere Christian, I didn’t want to spend time with a cult that worshiped on the wrong day. If it wasn’t for my $250 nonrefundable deposit, I would have left right then. Fortunately, I decided to stay a few days to get my money’s worth.

“That night I found a complimentary Last Generation magazine about the Sabbath in the drawer of my bedside table. Eager to prove these people wrong, I studied it every spare moment over the next few days. But everything was so biblical and well presented that I couldn’t find any way to refute it. In the end, I had to admit that Saturday was the Bible Sabbath. I began Bible studies with the chaplain and was baptized four months later.

“A few months before this incident, I told God that if He had more truth for me, I wanted to know it,” shares Janice. God honored her sincere prayer and led her to more truth. But someone had to put that magazine in her path.

There are many sincere Christians like Janice with only a surface knowledge of the Bible.
Giving them a Last Generation magazine could open their eyes to truths vital to their spiritual survival at the end of time. That’s where you and I come in.

This year Last Generation celebrates 25 years of ministry. We are producing a commemorative issue of Last Generation magazine on the pillars of our Seventh-day Adventist message entitled “What’s Your Bible IQ?” It offers a unique test to measure a reader’s knowledge of Bible topics like prophecy, the state of man in death, heaven, hell, the law of God, and the way of salvation. Readers will be able to compute their “Bible IQ score” and then read a more in-depth presentation on each of these subjects.

Many people enjoy taking these kinds of “IQ tests.” We pray that “What’s Your Bible IQ?” will motivate them to take a deeper look into God’s Word. It could also be a good resource for you to use in studying the Bible with someone.

If you are looking for an attractive way to share God’s end-time truths, our full-color, 32-page magazine is it. And we can give you substantial pre-press discounts on “What’s Your Bible IQ?” through July 1! We get better prices when we print more magazines and we’re willing to pass these savings on to you. After July 1, magazines will be priced at our regular rates.

Just think, every magazine you share has the potential to produce another great literature story!

Sincerely,

Managing Editor
