Adventism Imperiled.

The Standish brothers go directly to the Word of God for the principle by which the children that are called to be the sons and daughters of the King of the universe are to be educated. This is a book that every Seventh-day Adventist interested in our children and youth should read. No Christian parents, earnest for the salvation of their children, should miss the opportunity to learn from this book. Both authors are trained educators, having spent decades in education from the elementary to the university level.

In the ministry of the apostle Paul, the culture, philosophy and education of paganism was confronted by the principles of God-given education. Though the world of his day was under the political rulership of Rome, Greece still controlled the mind, and therefore the educational processes of the Mediterranean. As Paul's ministry led him to city after city under the influence of Greek education and philosophy, it was necessary for him to define clearly the differences between pagan and Christian education. Most cultures today face the continued influence of paganistic education. Many who claim to support Christian education nevertheless are not fully aware of the complete contrasts between the two. Christianity wholly defines the curriculum, the teacher selection, the teaching methodology, the extracurricular activities, etc. Its goals, purposes and objectives are entirely different.
