Some of the testimonies coming in have warmed our hearts!

For example, an Advent Christian minister shared the following with a mailing list of other Advent Christian clergy:

"We loved the film. It is funny, maddening, innocently romantic, spiritually inspiring, and God-honoring. It tells how a young preacher chose to follow the truth of Scripture wherever it led him; and, how -- though he was repeatedly "wounded in the house of his friends" -- he came through it all without being consumed by bitterness, or forsaking his call to proclaim God's Word.

"The real "Star" of the story is our sovereign, gracious Savior who has done a surprising work in the life of a man who was raised in a Christian tradition that had "high walls" separating them from other believers, and deep suspicion of a grace Gospel. But the Gospel shone brightly into Edward's heart and illuminated his biblical studies -- including the truth about final punishment.

"Edward's scholarship is impeccable, and his character Christlike... I urge you to see the movie if it is shown anywhere near you."

That is the ultimate goal of our film - to show what God is like. If that's what people come away with, we are pleased.

I crave your prayers for those who come to see Hell and Mr. Fudge - that those will come who need this truth. I crave your prayers for the film's distribution and the means to cover all its expenses. I crave your prayers for wisdom & divine guidance as we look forward to working on the next project. Thank you!

In Christ,

Experts Speak

"A continuous seven-day cycle that runs throughout history paying no attention whatsoever to the moon and its phases is a distinctively Jewish invention. Moreover, the dissociation of the seven-day week from nature has been one of the most significant
Sabbath History

"An Ignorant Phantasy"

London, 1611

Mr. Edward Brerewood's nephew was apprenticed to a master who ordered him to do light work on Sundays - things like bringing wine and feeding a horse. The lad obeyed, but with a troubled conscience. His pastor, Mr. Richard Byfield, had taught him that to work like that on the "Sabbath" was a grievous sin.

Brerewood, seeing his nephew's depressed spirits, asked the cause. The young man's answer spurred his uncle to action. Brerewood addressed A Treatise on the Sabbath to the pastor, hoping to set him straight. He argued, among other things, that the Lord's Day (Sunday) was not the Sabbath of the Fourth Commandment. Instead, he insisted, it was an institution of the early Church, and therefore did not require cessation from work.

Byfield, busy with his clerical duties, answered curtly and somewhat haughtily that he could not waste his time with such a controversy.

Brerewood retorted heatedly: "It is your own... doctrine of the Sabbath, that I impugned.... You teach that the Lord's Day is charged with the Lord's precept, as the old Sabbath was; that I impugned as an ignorant phantasy of yours...."

Brerewood ends his treatise with these words:

"And now let me propound unto your choice these two days: The Sabbath-day on Saturday, or the Lord's Day on Sunday; and keep whether of the twain you shall in conscience find the more safe.

"If you keep the Lord's Day, but profane the Sabbath-day, you walk in great danger and peril (to say the least) of transgressing one of God's eternal and inviolable laws, the Fourth Commandment: But on the other side, if you keep the Sabbath-day, though you profane the Lord's Day, you are out of all gunshot and danger, for so you transgress no law at all, since Christ nor his Apostles did ever leave any law for it."
