El Salvador: Inter-America set to launch Heeding the Word revival initiative

In just a few hours, the Seventh-day Church in Inter-America will officially launch the second phase of its comprehensive spiritual revival and reformation initiative called "Heeding the Word" through a special live program from San Salvador, El Salvador.

Local church leaders and members have been preparing to host the Inter-American Division (IAD) event which will gather more than 11,000 at the International Convention Center tomorrow morning.

The program seeks to inspire ministers, laypeople, educators, young people, children, young people and children throughout the IAD to deepen their study of the Scriptures and the prophetic ministry of Ellen G. White—one of the church's co-founders, says Pastor Roberto Herrera, coordinator for revival and reformation for the church in the IAD.

The event, which will be streamed live over the internet, will focus on the importance of living by the truths of the Bible, reaching out to a hurting world with the Bible and preparing for the Second Coming through the message of the Spirit of Prophecy books.

Music and drama performances will be featured during the two-and-a-half program.

Pastor Armando Miranda, general vice president of the Adventist World Church will deliver the spiritual message.

 Already, churches and small groups have been participating in the revival and reformation initiative Constant in Prayer launched earlier this year. The church's two radio stations have carried the initiative and have keep the small Central American country informed of the spiritual revival.

"We are excited to carry the program live to let our listeners be part of this revival initiative," says Edwin Guzman, director of Radio Adventista 96.5 which reaches three-fourths of the country with its broadcast everyday. The church's other radio station on 106.5 will also carry the live program.

The program will be broadcast once again in El Salvador nationwide television Channel 33 at 7 p.m. on July 23, 2011.

To view the live program in Spanish on Saturday, July 23, 2011, beginning at 9:45 a.m. El Salvador Time or 11:45 a.m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, go to www.interamerica.org.
