At Home and Abroad
The work goes steadily forward

Recently we received a request for English books to be included in a shipment bound for the country of India—almost 8,000 pieces. It’s hard for us to not get excited when we hear of an evangelistic venture taking place—this is what we’re about. We often lament that we cannot do more, but we do what we can and leave the final results with God. These books being sent to India are assisting in a very small part of a much larger work needing to be done across the nation. The books are to be sent to a handful of the many mission stations around the country. With more than a billion Indian people to reach, our efforts often seem so small; but doing what we can is indeed something—which, in the long run, is infinitely better than doing nothing. Often we might ask, “What are my five loaves and two fish when the need is for so much more?” In the hands of Jesus, they are enough.

The pictures to the top right are part of a growing collection sent to us from an elderly couple who use the quieter days of their lives witnessing to the folks who attend social gatherings across mid-western America. They set up tables at fairs, festivals, parades, boat shows and the like. They sent us pictures once from a covered bridge festival being held close to their home; they had set up tables and were giving books to visitors. One of the things they enjoy doing is giving balloons to children; while the children wait for their balloons, the parents are invited to pick from an array of books which are being offered free of charge.

The picture to the right is of the cover for our Portuguese version of “The Perfect Storm Is Coming!” Portuguese is spoken in two main areas of the world: Portugal and Brazil, with a collective population of 213 million people. The project of distributing copies of this booklet across these two great historic nations continues to remain just a little ahead of us. Perhaps someone who is reading this Communicator will be interested in helping us assemble the funds and manpower to print and give away these books by the tens of thousands. We’d love to hear from you.
