North American Division Presents
Report to General Conference Session
The North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists presented its report to the delegates of the 60th General Conference Session on Saturday evening, July 4, 2015. The report focused on the division's accomplishments, the missional focus of the church and the six "Building Blocks" or initiatives, a priority over the past three years. Blended into the report were personal stories of church members who make sharing Jesus with others part of their everyday lives. The report was mainly composed of a 27 minute video that was produced by the division and was hosted by Marquis Johns, a pastor from Hyattsville, Maryland.

The video report can be viewed on the North American Division website.
