Dear Center for www.revelationofhope.org

Ted Wilson's NY13 Revelation of Hope Meetings at the Manhattan church have begun! This past Friday night, June 7, was the opening of a reaping thrust, called Revelation of Hope, that is part of the NY13 comprehensive Mission to the Cities plan. In spite of a torrential downpour, about 668 guests came to the venue in the first two nights where Elder Ted Wilson, General Conference president, is conducting meetings. New guests have come each night, with standing room only in the overflow room at the church.

Wilson's meetings are just one of nearly 160 other evangelistic meetings currently taking place in the greater New York City area. Leaders from around the world, including General Conference leaders, are joining with many local leaders in conducting these meetings. More reports will be shared as they become available.

This city-wide campaign follows months of various comprehensive outreach events, including prayer ministries, community services, health education events, women's ministries, and youth ministries, including a March for Compassion across the Brooklyn Bridge, and, most recently a gathering of youth and Pathfinders in front of City Hall. To date, 1,100 people have been baptized in the Greater New York Conference, and 52 people were baptized on Sabbath, June 8, at the North Bronx church as a result of the Breath of Life meetings with Dr. Carlton Byrd. The Northeastern Conference has a goal to baptize 5,000 people.

On June 29, a Revelation of Hope joint camp meeting of the Northeastern and Greater New York conferences is planned to celebrate what God has done and what He will continue to do through the end of 2013 and beyond. This will be broadcast live by Hope Channel and 3 Angels Broadcasting Network (3ABN) and streamed online by the Atlantic Union Adventist Media (AUAM.tv) and by Praizevision.com.

Leaders and members from the General Conference, North American Division and participating unions and conferences will be in attendance as well as the visiting evangelists and pastors from the 13 Divisions. (See attached flyer.)

Please continue to pray throughout the day, and at 7am and 7pm, 7 days a week for NY13 and the Holy Spirit's outpouring on this endeavor.

Elder Wilson's meetings are being recorded and will be re-broadcast on Hope Channel at a later date.

International Field School of Evangelism. Watch Live: More than 300 leaders and preachers from all 13 divisions are attending the Field School of Evangelism currently running in New York City and participating in the evening meetings. The purpose of this school is to equip division/union/conference/mission leaders with the tools necessary to launch a comprehensive evangelistic approach in their respective territories. For those who were unable to attend, here is a link to watch the programs live, and view past training programs: http://www.schoolofevangelismlive.com.

One Year in Mission Story: The One Year In Mission young adult volunteers from each division have conducted English language classes at the Fort Washington Spanish church. They registered 37 students for Revelation of Hope, and told them that the Revelation of Hope meetings are the practical part of the English classes, where they would have to listen to the presentations in English with earphones in Spanish. The One Year In Mission volunteers have each been developing a long-range plan that they can implement in their divisions when they return home. The June issue of Adventist World has many reports on Mission to the Cities as well as a cover story on these young adult volunteers.

Storms Don't Diminish NY13’s
‘Revelation of Hope’ Opening

More than 500 pack Greenwich Village church for campaign kickoff (Posted June 9, 2013)

BY MARK A. KELLNER, News Editor, reporting from New York, N.Y.

The drenching rains of Tropical Storm Andrea, which deposited two inches of water on the streets of New York’s Greenwich Village, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of people who attended the initial “Revelation of Hope” campaign meeting on the evening of June 7, 2013.

Sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the meeting is one of hundreds being held in metropolitan area during June as part of the movement’s “Mission to the Cities” campaign.

Already, officials of the Atlantic Union and the two area conferences say 1,100 people have been baptized as Seventh-day Adventists during the months leading up to the event. The NY13 campaign – which features 160 different evangelistic events across the region in June alone -- is expected to culminate June 29 at the Nassau Coliseum with a rally attended by more than 15,000 people. The overall effort includes the participation of the Atlantic and Columbia Unions, as well as the Southern New England, Greater New York, Northeast and New Jersey Conferences.

Pastor Ted N.C. Wilson, General Conference president, served briefly at what is today the Historic Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church some 40 years ago when he first began his ministry. Following graduate education, Wilson also worked for several years as a leader of a city-wide ministry in the 1970s. He returned to the church to open the three-week evangelistic series, with his wife, Nancy, greeting visitors as they entered the lobby. Calling himself a “New Yorker at heart,” Wilson told the audience he had “started ministry right here.”

In recognition of the event, New York City’s public advocate, Bill De Blasio, sent his assistant Warren Gardiner to attend the opening meeting. Other public officials are expected to attend related NY13 events, said James Richmond, a community liaison for the Church’s Greater New York Conference.

Inside the 132-year-old church building, more than 500 people gathered in what master of ceremonies Mark Finley called an “oasis of peace” to hear a message which stretched beyond today’s storms.

Tatiana Featherstone, a 20-year-old woman originally from Barbados, said she attended in part because her father, a Seventh-day Adventist, invited her. She added the meeting met her expectations: “It was all good.”

Visitor David Tan, who called himself “a Singaporean retired and living in Thailand,” said Wilson’s message was a “good and clear” introduction to the book of Revelation.

In his message, Wilson declared: “The Bible is amazingly accurate. The Bible is filled with hope for the future.”

He added, citing Amos 3:7, “Surely the Earth’s events are not going to ‘sneak up’ on God. Unlike the dismal predictions of human beings, the Bible gives us hope.”
