Faculty of Science hosts the 9th WA Shipton Public Lecture Series

Dr Chew Sze Ted, Faculty of Science

The 9th Warren Shipton Public Lecture Series, that took place on AIU Campus, September 8, 2011 was indeed special to the audience.

It came in the person of Professor Dr. Pilai Poonswad, a microbiologist in the Faculty of Science, Department of Microbiology, Mahidol University. She is currently the director of three projects dealing with hornbill research and conservation; had penned 18 publications, and received 2 international awards and 14 national awards for her achievements.

Her, more than one hour, lively and impressive power point presentation, substantiated by her personal research of more than 20 years, and tough on the ground personal experiences, convinced the audience of her authenticity and total dedication to the protection and conservation of the hornbills of Thailand and abroad. It was a real privilege to sit and listen to her. Her jo-

SA officer receive national teacher award

Asia-Pacific International University is proud to announce that Ajarn Tirat Somphan received a national teaching award from the Thai Ministry of Education Office of the Welfare Promotion Commission for Teachers and Educational Personnel.

This award is conferred in recognition of Somphan’s outstanding contributions in the area of education as well as serving as excellent model to the community.

Ajarn Tirat served in many capacities at the Office of Student Administration since June 1998. He is the Student Activities and Campus Safety Coordinator at AIU Muak Lek campus.

We wish Ajarn Tirat God’s blessings as he continues to serve on this campus.
