Faculty of Religious Studies conduct department camp at Khaoloy Camp Resort ■ Yoko Uchima

From the 29th to 30th of October 2011, the Theology club had a camp at Khaoloy Camp Resort with the theme, “The Round and Edgeless God.”

We had many activities and a lot of fun together. Jonah Nithi, a Theology student, says, “We learned about God through the activities we had.”

First when we arrived, we were blessed by the wonderful nature. The weather was comfortable and nice, the houses around were lovely, and the mountains were so beautiful. I really loved the environment.

On Sabbath day, we enjoyed learning and spending time with God. At Sabbath School, we had time to learn from the Master degree students about pastoral work after graduating from university. They shared the difficulties they faced and some encouragement.

The morning Message was given by Dr Wann Fanwar, Theology department lecturer, with the theme title “The Round and Edgeless God.” Our God has no edge like a square, but is round like a circle. He has no limit in time and space. He has no edge!

In the afternoon, we had some activities, such as discussions, questions and answers, Bible skit game, and hiking. The hiking was quite hard and challenging, but we also learned something. Matthew Paul, a Religious Studies student, learned how to help others from hiking. He says, “Helping others to reach the goal is more important than reaching the goal alone.”

On Saturday evening and Sunday morning, we had a fun time playing games prepared by the Master students and Theology social officers.

Rebekah, Beniel, Khut Ney, Matthew and Matthew posed in front of a cave near the resort.
