Dear Wendy,

Tomorrow, Saturday, March 31, 2012
Historic Manhattan Church
232 West 11th Street, NYC
Presents:

Inspirational Concert with the Fletcher Academy
Department of Music
On Saturday morning, historic Manhattan Church in New York City's Greenwich Village, home to musicians and fine artists, will hold three special events.

Fletcher Academy, which has one of the finest choirs in Virginia, will be presenting a concert to open the Easter Season in the beautiful sanctuary of historic Manhattan Church at 232 West 11th Street, just 1.5 blocks west of Seventh Ave. South. The special worship service and concert will begin at 11:20 a.m.

The Exaltation Bell Ringers will perform such moving hymns as Bless the Lord, O My Soul, with bells and flute, along with many other wonderful and inspiring selections.

The Eleventh Hour Choir will be singing hymns that evoke the true meaning of the season, such as When I Am Lifted Up and Make Me An Instrument. Enjoy music that will lift your spirit as these young people share the joy that they find in Jesus Christ.

After the service and a full vegetarian lunch, you are invited to meet and hear fine artist Nathan Greene give a lecture titled The Master's Brush. The lecture begins at 2:15 p.m. with a presentation of the artist's work.
Nathan Greene is a contemporary painter whose artistic heritage is grounded in the honored tradition of a golden era in American illustration.

Greene is only in his forties, but his ties to the spirit of the great illustrators/painters of the 1940s, like Harry Anderson, Hayden Sundbloom (noted for his classic Santa paintings for Coca Cola), and Tom Lovell, are tangible. Nathan knew the elderly Anderson personally and looked to the legendary artist for inspiration and creative insight.

Nathan Greene has been commissioned by NASA and other famous institutions to capture the historical record of many famous events, including his vast portrayal of the life of Jesus Christ. You will recognize his artwork and now you will have a chance to meet the artist and take a look at the inspiration behind all of his work.

The lecture will begin at 2:15 a.m. Nathan Greene is an approachable and inspirational speaker. Join us for this special event.

You will love being at historic Manhattan Church, and you will be loved here.
