48 Exhibitors Sign Up for 1964’s Dentists Convention

The Loma Linda University School of Dentistry has plans ready for the 1964 alumni-student convention scheduled for February 19-23, 1964, at Loma Linda, according to Viola Lutz, executive secretary for the School of Dentistry Alumni Association.

Thus far, 48 commercial exhibitors have signed up for individual booths. The dental students are also preparing their table exhibits with various exhibits and visual aids.

This year the convention will have short courses and lectures in various phases of dentistry. Mrs. Lutz said that the convention will use large circus tents on the parking lot east of the University library.

General chairman of the convention is William Seibly, DDS. Dr. Seibly works closely with Richard Halburg, senior dental student and student convention chairman.

Order University SCOPE!
The Number One Bottleneck

"Loma Linda University is our Number 1 bottleneck," That's what he said! He is a man familiar with the work of Seventh-Day Adventists throughout the world. And there was no tone of hostility or judgment in his voice.

"Look at the whole picture," he said, "and you will agree that progress in many lands is impeded because of a shortage of your graduates. Not only do we have trouble securing qualified personnel for pioneer missions—we have difficulty manning established institutions! So we just mark time—waiting and hoping."

Our friend is not the first to comment on the inadequate supply of professional people for the church's far-flung missions program. The shortage exists and it is felt in many quarters. What he failed to see was that Loma Linda University's productivity is directly related to the denominational attitude toward its divinely inspired health emphasis.

If young people are given a vision of Christian service in a health profession, they will demand educational and training facilities to accomodate and qualify them. If church members, therefore, will listen to what it takes in terms of men and means to operate such a training center and move to break the bottleneck by providing the necessary support.

Whither White Memorial?

The committee which meets Friday to discuss the possibility of White Memorial Hospital and Clinic's passing from University to conference operation faces a decision beset by many complex side issues. Los Angeles campus students, faculty and employees are justifiably impatient to learn what the committee will decide and the continuing security of their jobs and educational or professional pursuits.

The University cannot prolong the anxiety and uncertainty that afflict even some of its most loyal supporters in Los Angeles. A decision must be made soon so that the affected members of the community family—comprising over half of the total number—may provide intelligently for the future. There are many indications that all of the University's concern for the welfare of local church conference control of the hospital will be the least disruptive to its personnel and community service.

This transaction may be recommended by the committee named by University Trustees to study its advantages from the standpoints of both the church agency and the University. Such a decision, however, must not be made hastily in the face of time factors pressing those responsible.

These Are Volunteers...

The art of living lies in the ability to take what is common and mundane and make it useful and beautiful.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the University School of Medicine are accomplishing this at the University Thrift Shop at the Los Angeles campus. They convert used clothing, household articles and furniture into life-saving funds.

Their service of love typifies the role of hundreds of volunteers who work to strengthen Loma Linda University's effort to fulfill its worldwide mission.

Evelyn Strachan and her associates, as well as the many others who give their services day after day, inspire us all to greater dedication.

Whither White Memorial?

Nutter Postpones Sabbatical Leave

Robert L. Nutter, Ph.D., had to decline a senior Fulbright grant for the 1968-69 academic year, and postpone his sabbatical leave from the department of microbiology in the School of Medicine, for the future of which the greatest concern has been over the past year. Dr. Nutter was forced by the circumstances of White Memorial Hospital and Clinic, the School of Medicine, for the future of which he has been so active, to decline as at present, or by stepped-up affiliations with other hospitals, to continue as at present, or by stepped-up affiliations with other hospitals, until the medical center at Loma Linda is completed.

But unless provision for continued hospital study and experience for students of other University curriculums, such as the undergraduate and graduate programs in nursing, is embodied in an agreement for change of administration, the parties to the contract will have taken a step backward. Affiliations with neighboring hospitals for these students would not provide an acceptable educational program even for a short-term period of transition.

The University—the church—the world cannot afford to deny qualified young persons the educational opportunities which have been developed on the University's Los Angeles campus. Far too many lives of service and inspiration have been invested in these programs for them to be crippled for the sake of financial or administrative expediency.

The representatives of the Trustee-appointed committee should then deliberate upon the complex proposal before them with all the wisdom and practical understanding which the greatest concern has been over the past year. Dr. Nutter was forced by the circumstances of White Memorial Hospital and Clinic, the School of Medicine, for the future of which he has been so active, to decline as at present, or by stepped-up affiliations with other hospitals, until the medical center at Loma Linda is completed.

Los Angeles Auxiliary Operates Unique Thrift Shop Near Campus

A corps of energetic women—members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Loma Linda University School of Medicine—is busily converting used clothing, household articles and furniture into funds that will support the University's growing health services here and around the world.

This is taking place at the University Thrift Shop at 1866 East First Street, across from the collection and buying from the store.

"A sale of top quality women's clothing is scheduled for Monday, October 21," states Mrs. Strachan, "the quality and condition of these garments is very high."

According to Mrs. Strachan, the shop needs volunteers to condition, price and sell Thrift Shop merchandise. "And," she continues, "we need more goods. If you are not using it now— sooner or later let us have it while it is still worth something. We can convert it into readily needed health services.

"Half of the proceeds go to the Woman's Auxiliary mission program," adds Mrs. Strachan, while the other half benefits local health projects.

The Thrift Shop is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Friday.

The Loma Linda U Alumni Forum

The sharing of news from numbers of the Loma Linda University family will, we believe, prove interesting reading for students, alumni and faculty alike. While emphasis is given to the Alumni of the School of Nursing, we invite all students and faculty to report on their interests.

News from Nursing Alumni

Some news and clips give a few glimpses from the many areas in which the School of Nursing graduates are involved.

VERNA DOWER, SN42, is filling a vacancy, gratis, for the assistant director of the White Memorial Hospital. Miss Dower has spent part of her vacation visiting friends and relatives in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada, and her husband, Dr. Ralph, has left for ten days of relaxation.

REBECCA DICK, SN24, in her master in nursing degree program at the University of Chicago, is looking forward to her return.

MAXINE ATTEBERRY, SN23, dean of the Loma Linda University School of Nursing, recently gave direction to a four-day workshop at La Sierra College, La Sierra, California.

The theme of the workshop was "Past, Present and Future," and was attended by representatives of the University School of Nursing faculty.

MRS. FRANKIE RAFF, SN09, who in the past has given mission service in Uruguay, Puerto Rico and Panama still finds opportunity to give missionary nurse service in her neighborhood. "I am still very much interested in mission work, and am truly glad to be working in Chapala in a complete sense of the world." VERA KURR, SN61, is also still giving the same experience.

At the present, I am still working and feeling satisfied in the hospital. Service insertion is a comparatively new field for me. In nursing and many avenues are yet to be opened. It remains a real challenge and I do enjoy it here.

Miss SALINE SVELTEKAH, GSN30, has recently been appointed as director of Bokung Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing.

MRS. GLENN LUTHER (Violet Pouthas), SN36, spent part of her vacation visiting friends and relatives in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada, and her husband, David, has left for ten days of relaxation.

R. K. Lepley, SN29, who left the University to work there, her friends are eagerly looking forward to her return.

EVELYN STRACHAN MANAGES the University Thrift Shop. She is the wife of Dr. Charles E. Strachan, (School of Medicine faculty member."

Responsibilities of Recruiting Organizations

A recruiting organization would be defined as any of the following: church organizations, local and national unions, governmental agencies, and industrial companies.

1. The recruiting organization should contact the University placement service in advance regarding interview dates. Any change in plans should be made known promptly to the placement service.

2. The recruiting organization should follow the interview procedure carefully given to students as true apertures as possible of opportunities in it. The student will thereby be able to more than one on-campus contact and evaluation each year, the information shared with the professional and well-planned manner.

3. It is well the recruiting organizations exercise scrupulous care, so as to demand on the time of the faculty members and students in order to minimize as much as possible the distraction of class schedules. The interview should be kept to a minimum, so as to prepare class contact with students.

4. Any recruiting agent who would wish to make contact with a student prior to the time at the time of his interview visit may communicate this desire to individual mail to professor prior to his arrival on campus, but he must at least notify the Placement Office so that the interview may be scheduled at a convenient time.

5. Financial commitments should be carefully considered so that all may understand well and be fully satisfied. In no case should promises or commitments be made that would in any way violate the general policies in vogue.

6. The interviewer should be punctual and available during the interview and have a given time designated for the purpose. He should notify the Placement Office of the time he will arrive as well as his expected departure time. Every effort should be made to avoid last-minute cancellations.

7. The interviewer should carefully follow the interview schedule agreed upon with the Placement Office.

8. Immediately following the interview, the interviewer should communicate with the student and the Placement Office concerning the outcome of the interview.

9. The recruiter should give the student reasonable time to consider his offer and in no case should the recruiter attempt to make a decision.

10. When travel expenses are discussed, the recruiter should avoid referring to the trip as "vacation time." Invitations to visit the area of the recruiting organization should be made on an individual basis.

11. Elaborate entertaining and "overselling" usually leads to misunderstanding and difficulties later on.

12. The student should, under no circumstances, be offered special payments, gifts, bonuses or other inducements, nor should the recruiter compensate or favor a third party to prevail upon the student to accept the offer.

13. The recruiting organization should keep the University Placement Service informed concerning its interests in particular students and their negotiations with the student.

14. When a student has committed himself to a particular recruiting organization, it will be considered highly unethical and unprofessional for him to break him and make him switch over to another organization. The student should attempt to handle in harmony with the spirit of the policy governing these activities.

Private Developer Eyes $750,000 Office Plan

A Newport Beach developer presented plans last week for a $750,000 professional building near the projected Loma Linda Medical Center. John A. Gale, the developer, said the construction will probably begin in January.

According to the plans, the building will contain three floors with a garden-type restaurant on the third floor and parking below the building. The building will be 30,000 square feet. It will have a glass front, concrete walls and a lift-up construction.

Gale is also developing a 25-house tract in northeast Loma Linda. He says he plans to start construction of a 12-unit apartment building at Bristol Street and Barton Road.

A Tahitian type village with nearly 50 units in also on the planning board for a tract near Prospect Avenue and Anderson Street.

SCOPE Will Include News from Advertisers

University SCOPE this week began calling on area merchants and professional people to advertise space on these pages. By establishing advertising policy, the editors state that advertising is an important part of the news and that services and products available in this area are worth reported to the professional, dignified and responsible manner.

The University SCOPE will limit advertising space to 25 percent of its total pages in an attempt to hold down the expenses of publishing the newspaper and at the same time present benefit to the readers and the advertisers alike.

Several of those who were contacted by the SCOPE representatives for future advertising expressed satisfaction with the policy and the opportunity of publication in the paper. According to this, the SCOPE will be presented in a very short time.

A special offer of a third of the regular price of $5.00 makes it possible for readers other than advertisers to receive the University SCOPE weekly for only $3.00 per year or $2.00 for two years.

U Church Pastor Directs Five-Day Plan for Smokers

Loma Linda University Church Pastor Charles W. Teed served as the San Bernardino county director of a five-day quit smoking plan in Hollywood last week. Pastors from southern California churches met at the Hollywood church for five days of training.

The pastor said that the therapeutic sessions for the public started Saturday night for the public at the Hollywood high school. Assisting Pastor Teed in working with would-be non-smokers in San Bernardino county are Pastors Ben Housegling and R. D. Spear, Loma Linda University pastors assisted in the educational and therapeutic sessions. They were Drs. Walter Roberts, Raymond Kraft and Lester Louergen.

Leading out in the pastoral training sessions as well as in the programs for victims of the tobacco habit were Dr. J. Wayne McFarland and Elder Elman Folkenberg.

Sophomores' Dental Fund Dwindles as 9 Get Loans

Only five months after the Sophomore Dental Fund was set up a reviving loan fund for sophomore dental students, the fund was depleted. The vice-president, Vicky Laight, executive secretary for the SD Alumni association, said that the Class of 1963 set up a fund of $200 as a guarantee against which $500 could be borrowed by dental students. The class anticipated that the fund would be increased from time to time, making it possible to add these funds to the fund at any time without the bother to borrow money.

Nine loans have been processed thus far, and the tenth application is in the process at the security First National Bank here. The student loan office screens loan applications, said Mrs. Laight. She added that the sophomore could use many times the available funds and scholarships for their study here.
