Dr. Anderson Begins
10 Year Term as President

A framed, colored reproduction of the Loma Linda University coat of arms was presented to Godfrey T. Anderson, University president, at the Monday morning assembly in the University Church.

The award was made in honor of the beginning of Dr. Anderson’s tenth year as president of the University, and was presented by Jerry L. Pettis, vice president for public relations and development.

Dr. Anderson became president of the University in 1954, after serving as president of La Sierra College, Arlington, California, from 1946 to 1954.

Mr. Pettis noted some occasions that have transpired in the time Dr. Anderson has been president of the University. They include celebration of the University’s 50th anniversary and selection of a new motto, “To Bide Mose Whole,” in 1955, conferment of the first doctor of dental surgery degrees in 1957, and the first doctor of philosophy degree in 1958.

Introduction of the Dental Hygiene and Occupational Therapy curriculums in 1959 and (current) of the first degrees in these areas in 1961; change of the school’s name from College of Medical Evangelists to Loma Linda University and reorganizing of the University to include a broadened purpose in 1962.

Description of Griggs Hall, the new Graduate School building, and addition of new fields for graduate degrees in chemistry and biology have been announced to close the School of Medicine on the Loma Linda campus.

Dr. Anderson was born September 4, 1916, in Chicago, Illinois. He married the former Blanche Shleifer. They have four children, Dennis, Marilyn, Constance and Donald.

He received his B.S. degree from Broadview College in 1931, his M.S. degree from Northwestern University in 1934 and the Ph.D. degree in history from the University of Chicago in 1944. He was granted a LL.D. degree from Walla Walla College in 1961.

Many Responsibilities
Dr. Anderson has been dean of men and instructor in history at Colusa Missionary College in Ontario, Canada; head of the history department and academic dean of Atlantic Union College in South Lancaster, Massachusetts, before becoming president of La Sierra College.

He has traveled through the Caribbean and Central American countries, and in 1959 he and Mrs. Anderson made a three-month tour of the world, visiting 15 countries.

In addition to various community responsibilities, Dr. Anderson is a trustee of La Sierra and Pacific Union colleges and has been a member of the American Historical Association, American Association of School Administrators, Mission Valley Historical Association, National Education Association, Nevada City Club and Town Hall of Los Angeles, Commodore's Club of San Francisco and the Los Angeles Council on World Affairs.

He is listed in Who’s Who in America, Who’s Who in the West, Who’s Who in American Education and is a member of the honorary society of American Scholars.

The University coasts of areas, of which Sears-Roebuck and Co., received a reproduction, bears four emblems which he had chosen to symbolize the search for and the dissemination of truth and open gladness to humanity. He is responsible for the search for and the dissemination of truth and open gladness to humanity. He is responsible for the search for and the dissemination of truth and open gladness to humanity.
The Seventh-day Adventist church is sometimes referred to as a movement, a term that is often used in reference to the transformation of personnel of the Church from one place to another as much as it does to the progress of the denomination's evangelical program.

The president of Loma Linda University, Dr. Godfrey T. Anderson, is one exception. Through his dedication he has defined this tendency to move often - to the great benefit of the institution of higher learning. This month he begins his tenth year with this University as its chief executive.

During this period much has happened in this institution which can be called successful, including the opening of Loma Linda campus. Just this spring President Anderson conferred his first doctor of dental surgery degree.

In 1958 a doctor of philosophy degree was added to the curriculum. And in 1959 dental surgical and occupational therapy programs further expanded the University.

In 1962 the medical record curriculum was established and in the same year the College of Medical Evangelists officially and legally became Loma Linda University.

During the same year the University needed a building on campus, and the honor of a former chairman of the board, dedicated to new fields of graduate study.

To the casual observer this may not seem important. However, from the vantage point of those who function in the administration, these advances have meant literally thousands of agonizing hours to our president, Godfrey T. Anderson, Ph.D.

On this occasion, the University family extends to him a sincere thank you and its very best wishes for the future.

For the Wider Scope

Critical comment about public affairs is the traditional prerogative of a university. History—ancient and recent—is replete with examples of individuals and groups who have come about as the direct result of enlightened commentary from teachers and students at universities.

The employees of Loma Linda University have no less an interest in world affairs than do their counterparts at other institutions of higher learning. Indeed, it may be supposed that their philosophy of man's relation to his environment and fellow men serves to heighten their feeling of responsibility for the intellectual developments at national and international levels.

This issue of University SCOPE carries the first in a projected series of original editorial cartoons reflecting the interest of campus personnel in the world outside the figure of Agriculture. This is our intention that these visual commentaries on people and the times will add interest and color to the editorial pages and provoke, in any of its readers who hold only a passing interest in global events a recognition of the importance of each citizen's informed opinion.

The University's articles of incorporation specifically preclude its adoption of any partisan role, editorially or otherwise. For this reason, and to preserve the dignity appropriate to an educational institution of Loma Linda's heritage and reputation, there will be no editorial bias for or against any political party or candidate. There will be no mud slinging or name calling.

The University does not wish to compromise, an occasional quiet commentary that will arouse the ire of some readers and the thought processes of many. We believe to be the legitimate function of a university.

The importance of public relations in church work was clearly manifested in last week's medical-ministerial fellowship. Nearly 300 physicians and other practitioners of the healing arts met at Coronado, California, with President Anderson in his capacity of medico-ministerial fellowship. The meeting was of great satisfaction to Seventh-day Adventists. The presence of the University, which has been so important to the mission, has been so important to Seventh-day Adventists.

And the work of the school at Loma Linda is clearly manifested in the love and compassion of our alumni. These men have a name for themselves as surgeons, general practitioners and specialists in the treatment of nervous disorders. Still, these men bend their knees to enter the mud huts in Africa or the shacks in Latin American countries, offering free of charge all their knowledge, their means and the message that have made them so kind, so loving and humble.

We would like to commend the members of these men that telling the story is not the act of the braggart. Rather, it is a reminder to those who are yet holding back the flow of goodness from our hands that there is a responsibility and a need for needed. As we visit with our alumni, including dentists, nurses, therapists, technologists, dietitians, hygienists and others, we like to see in each one of them the image of the Great Physician.

Our Alumni -- An Image

The University of Loma Linda, like any other university, extends to him a sincere thank you and his very best wishes for the future.

Pink Ladies Need Help to Work in LLSH

The Volunteer Service League of the Loma Linda Sanitarium and Hospital is in need of more women to serve as Pink Ladies. "We would like as many as we can get," says Mrs. John Peterson, president.

Pink Ladies donate a minimum of six hours a month working in the hospital, taking some of the work burden off the nurses. They also man the courtyard desk and the gift shop in the reception area. Proceeds from the gift shop are used to buy needed equipment for the hospital.

In the past the Pink Ladies have bought furniture, drapes and fixtures for the obstetrics ward and cribs for women to serve as Pink Ladies. Proceeds from the gift shop and to perform duties elsewhere. President's position to take up responsibilities elsewhere. 30 PT Graduates Meet for Post-Internship Assembly

Thirty physical therapy interns who graduated in June from the Loma Linda University School of Physical Therapy returned November 1 for a post-internship assembly in the school.

Pins and certificates were distributed as part of the exercise to mark the completion of the graduates' internships. They informed after graduation for one month each in five different hospitals.

Speaker for the occasion was Charles L. Lowman, MD, orthopedic surgeon and founder of the Orthopedic Hospital of Los Angeles. He spoke on "Physical Therapy, a Service and a Career."

Dr. Lowman was introduced by Fred B. Moor, MD, medical director of the School of Physical Therapy. In charge of the assembly was Ronald Herbery, educational director.

Those who received certificates and pins were Glenn Barlow, Robert Devine, Clinton Don Jr., James Bradford, Leslie Breckendridge, Michael Campbell, Thomas Cates Jr., William Cox, Earl DeWitt, Francis DeWitt, Miss Christiana Ford, Miss Marguerite Foster, Keith Gaden, Miss Donna Grey, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Dale Harmonmer, Miss Monica Helt, Miss Margaret Jane, Harrell Lambert, Miss Yvonne LeVos, Mrs. Allen Libby, Earl McCloud, Donald Merrill, Lloyd Newman, Miss Joanne Parham, Miss Elizabeth Pramas, James Fagan, Wesley Hingerling, Donald Schneider and Howard Salsie.

Keeping Musical, Medical Occupations Occupied
LLU Alumni

Pre-Christmas time is high season for one Loma Linda University alumni. H. Vincent Mitzelfelt, finds himself increasingly occupied in another area than his chosen profession at this time of the year. A professional conductor, he finds himself heavily engaged in musical activities.

The director of the earth bound Mitzelfelt Chorale is also director of music at the White Memorial Seventh-day Adventist Church and the First Congregational Church in Los Angeles.

The Chorale will appear November 9 at Polytechnic High School, 3575 Terrazas Drive, Riverside, at 8:15 p.m., sponsored by the Junior Dental Auxiliary of Loma Linda University.

A castalia, Then Said Isaiah, will be presented by the University College, according to committee officials. A suggestion made to the committee members was to do something for the student members of the University College, who were not invited to the annual concert under the direction of Robert Shaw, Roger Wagner, and Robert Tracy. A suggestion was made to have an extra week’s vacation for the student members of the University College, and this idea was accepted.

The committee also worked out the manner of presentation of the choirs and ensembles which have worked at the University for several years. They receive one-half of their annual wage at vacation time with pay.

At one point in the planning, the committee members decided to do the whole of the choirs and ensembles which have worked at the University for several years, without the American Composers which have worked at the University for a number of years, and this idea was accepted.

This year the oldest continuous music festival in Los Angeles will be conducted under the direction of Perry W. Beech, who will conduct for the third consecutive time. "The Los Angeles 30th Bach Festival" will begin Novem-ber 15 at the Hollywood Bowl, and a "Western Nationals" chamber orchestra under the direction of Dr. Mitzelfelt will be featured.

The festival will include four programs, each with a premiere. On November 15 Orchestral "The Western Nationals" will be conducted by Dr. Mitzelfelt. On November 18, "The American Choirs" will be conducted by Dr. Mitzelfelt and "The Eastern National Choirs" will be conducted by Dr. Mitzelfelt. On November 19, "The Western National Choral Society" will be conducted by Dr. Mitzelfelt. On November 20, "The National Orchestra" will be conducted by Dr. Mitzelfelt.

The program will include a presentation of the first half of "The Christmas Oratorio," a work by J.S. Bach, and a "command performance" of the performance.

The second half, directed by Dr. Mitzelfelt, will be presented on December 13 at the White Memorial Church. This program will definitely mark the first complete Los Angeles performance of Bach’s Christmas Oratorio. The program will begin with a "command performance" of the performance.
