THE LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

VFW Auxiliary Presents Gift for University Research

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department of California, has made a $5454 gift to Loma Linda University for leukemia research.

The funds have been designated for a research project under the direction of Joseph C. Quilligan, MD, research professor of pathology in the University School of Medicine. Dr. Quilligan, who is also director of the school's virus research laboratory in Los Angeles, describes the project as an attempt to learn how new strains of laboratory viruses the animals possibly associated with leukemia in humans.

This is the third consecutive year in which the VFV Auxiliary has made a gift to research at Loma Linda University, according to Walter E. Macpherson, president for financial affairs. Dr. Macpherson is Robert L. Cone, vice president for financial affairs, accepted the gift at a luncheon ceremony in Los Angeles.

Representing the organization of veterans' wives were Dr. Quilligan, Orlyn R. Pratt, MD, professor of pathology, and Harold Ermiston, assistant campus business manager.

Inland Action Inc. Meets, Continues Work

Inland Action Incorporated met last week for luncheon in the Terrace room at Loma Linda Sanitarium and Hospital. Guests at the luncheon were several University and community representatives.

Activities included a talk with activities directed toward assistance in the development of the welfare of the San Bernardino Valley area centers. "San Bernardino Valley 10, the Inland Action group arranged the luncheon in a series of get-acquainted meetings. The group is a non-profit, non-political council headed by Milton H. Sager, president of Sage's Complete Markets.

Among the guests were Godfrey T. Alexander, University president; Robert L. Cone, vice president for financial affairs; Leroy L. Miller, Loma Linda campus personnel and hospital administrator; Irving E. Gray, assistant director of the Administration building; and Robert H. Hervig, associate director of development.

Mr. Sager, the president of Inland Action, in explaining the purpose of the get-acquainted luncheon meetings, said: "We are trying this way to establish lines of communication that will serve the best interests of all and, particularly, that will identify the areas and problems where cooperative effort will be mutually desireable and producive."

US Government Grants $46,495

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded two Public Health Service grants for research totaling $46,805 to the School of Medicine.

A project entitled "Correlation of Reactivity in Surgical Care" will be conducted under the direction of Louis L. Smith, PhD, associate professor of surgery, with a grant of $32,595.

The second grant, $21,540, will be used for a project on "Catecholamine Metabolism in Essential Hypertension."

Project director is Shannon D. Brugman, MD, associate professor of medicine.

SD Seniors Exhibit Clinics in Arizona

Five seniors in the School of Dentistry recently accompanied Howard W. Conley, PhD, assistant professor of orthodontia, to the Arizona "Wild West" meeting where they exhibited five table clinics.

The event was the annual meeting of the Arizona State Dental Association.

Students and table clinics they exhibited are Robert H. Hergenroeder, research associate in the department of microbiology; Don S. Wacker, "Powdered Gold;" William A. Hartwick, "Facial Technique;" Ernest K. Jenkins, "Parodontal Inlays with Loma Linda Investment;" and John D. VanDyken, "Prosthesis Apparatus for the Study of Periodontal Disease.

Two of the table clinics, where the students have exhibited work that was "extremely well done," according to Dr. Conley. Three of the graduates have agreed to return to the University to its annual meeting of public health after, according to Dean Charles T. Smith, "for Loma Linda University.

1963 OT Graduates Take National Board Examination

Five graduates of the Occupational Therapy Curriculum in the class of 1963 took the National Board Examination for American Occupational Therapy registration last week. The association will announce results later in the spring.

Those who took the examination and the place where it was administered are Diana R. Lopez and Lois O. Perk, both at Loma Linda University; Patricia A. Turner, at the University of Illinois; Rachel R. Yatani, at Ohio State University; and Mary C. Feudler, at the University of Washington.

Three of the graduates have accepted positions in hospitals. Future Miss Perk will set up an occupational department at Portland Sanitarium and Hospital, Portland, Oregon; Miss Yatani will return to her home land, Japan, where she will work at a mission hospital. Three other 1963 graduates will take the national examination in June after completing their internships. They are Janet E. Burchette, Paul L. Sadau and Donald A. Chinn.

After graduation a nine-month internship program is required. Three months are spent working in the area of psychiatry, and two months in the area of general medicine and surgery, physical disabilities and pediatrics. Each period is spent in a museum hospital with an accredited training program.

University Trustees last week named a committee to study ways to achieve a somewhat closer working relationship with La Sierra College of Southern California. The committee will meet this month at Loma Linda University.

A cooperative agreement between the schools presently permits graduate courses to be offered by the University on the La Sierra campus for credit in either institution's graduate program. The liberal arts colleges, some 15 miles from Loma Linda by freeway, offers diversified undergraduate programs and graduate programs in education and teaching fields.

The Trustees named the following to the committee: For the General Conference, Erwin E. Constantine, educational secretary, chairman; G. F. Blake and W. F. Bradley. For the Pacific Union Conference, Reinhold R. Blatt, Union conference president; L. R. Roosen, educational secretary; and W. J. Blacker, treasurer.

For La Sierra College: William E. Lamont, president; Richard R. Lewis, academic dean; and R. B. Blevins, business manager.

For Loma Linda University: Godfrey T. Anderson, president; Robert L. Cone, vice president for financial affairs; and Keld L. Baebkes, vice president for academic affairs.

New Greenhouse Near Completion

Construction is nearing completion of the first three greenhouses that will be used in the University to its annual meeting of public health after, according to Dean Charles T. Smith.

WISHING BON VOYAGE. Harold N. Moor, M.D., professor of public health, shakes hands with the first three pioneers in the New Guinea project that will establish a preventive medicine program. The three are Richard T. Scott, administrator for the University Division of Public Health and Tropical Medicine. Dr. Fawcett will spend some three months at the Wabag Mission station where he will seek to organize. Dr. Wood, a 1962 graduate of the School of Medicine, has taken postgraduate work in the division. Mrs. Wood, Phyllis Ann, new nurse, graduated from the School of Nursing in 1962. The Woods have two children, Jonathan (1) and Jensine. -- Staff photo.
Alumni Should Keep in Touch

By JACK G. HALLATT, SM'39

General Chairman, Alumni Postgraduate Convention

Loma Linda University School of Medicine has inherited the great tradition of the College of Medical Evangelists. This tradition lives on in the alumni of the school and is characterized by a sincere dedication to the study and practice of medicine.

For 32 years the school has cooperated with the alumni association to meet the ever-increasing need for continuing education, both for the undergraduate and graduate students through the Alumni Postgraduate Convention (APC). This year's APC scientific assembly will be at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, March 10-12. The refresher courses will be conducted at White Memorial Medical Center March 8 and 9.

The convention will feature authorities from our school and many of the best medical centers of the country, including New York, Boston, Chicago and Rochester. For 32 years the school has cooperated with the alumni association to meet the ever-increasing need for continuing education, both for the undergraduate and graduate students through the Alumni Postgraduate Convention (APC).

The reputation of APC as one of the finest postgraduate meetings in the country is due not only to the outstanding faculty but also to the school's reputation. The multitude of those attending this year's convention will lend a hand in days ahead. Their assistance will be appreciated. There could be only one result of this conflict between the medical profession and the medical schools.

There now may very well ask, "How can one find such human beings?"... And after look at the circumstances in which children found themselves isolated in the first place—war. By adults, believe it or not.

Now you may very well ask, "How can one find such human beings?"... And after look at the circumstances in which children found themselves isolated in the first place—war. By adults, believe it or not.

This Week in History of LLU

At a meeting of the American Expressive Music Society in Chicago the College of Medi- cal Evangelists was given an attorney's rating with no encouragement other than a small step forward in the direction of a more responsible attitude on the part of those connected with medical education. The vote was 15 to 11 in favor of the resolution of the College of Medical Evangelists. The resolution was adopted unanimously to confirm a B rating for the Los Angeles campus and the LLU campus.

The resolution of the College of Medical Evangelists was adopted unanimously to confirm a B rating for the Los Angeles campus and the LLU campus.

Now you may very well ask, "How can one find such human beings?"... And after look at the circumstances in which children found themselves isolated in the first place—war. By adults, believe it or not.

The resolution of the College of Medical Evangelists was adopted unanimously to confirm a B rating for the Los Angeles campus and the LLU campus.
Physicians, Dentists Elect Group's President, Officers

The Loma Linda University Medical-Dental Society recently elected Curtis E. Fairweather, SM'56, Portland, Oregon, as president at its sixth annual meeting at Mammoth Mountain, California. Also elected were Morton M. Woolley, SM'51, associate professor of surgery, vice-president; and Melvin R. Lund, DMD, associate professor of restorative dentistry, secretary-treasurer.

The three-day meeting combined all-day sessions of sking with scientific papers presented on medicine and dentistry in the evenings. A group social hour featured a banquet one evening.

Dentists Urged To Mail Registration Forms Now

All dentists who plan to attend the School of Dentistry fourth annual student-organized program February 19-28 should mail pre-registration forms in time to reach the Alumni Office before February 12th. Charles L. Woolley, SM'51, associate professor of restorative dentistry, states that "dentists will be welcome at the School of Dentistry and will be encouraged to come better acquainted."

Sheila Suitor, senior at the University Church, was one of the three representatives to present the University's heart mission trip in Latin America and other Asian countries.

To Aid Missionary

The Daughters of the United States Foreign Missions will hold an auxiliary meeting at Linda Pharmacy at 10 a.m. February 12th. A brief program of entertainment and refreshments was presented by the Daughters of the United States Foreign Missions.

Biological Archaeologist

John M. Reeves, lecturer in religion and assistant dean of student activities at the Loma Linda campus, attended a banquet honoring Dr. Glueck at a recent convention of the American Protestant Hospital Association held in conjunction with the Chaplains Association of the AHPA at the Sheraton Jefferson Hotel in the Los Angeles area.

M. Sheldon has been professed for the Order of Roman Catholic priests on the occasion of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, October 7th. The ceremony was performed by Father T. S. St. John, O.C. M., on behalf of the Venerable Cardinal Devoto, provincial superior of the Carmelites of the Holy Face of Jesus in the United States.

Charlies W. Velt, pastor of University Church, was one of three representatives from the University Church circle of Adventist Chaplains who recently attended the second annual convening of the American Protestant Hospital Association held in conjunction with the Chaplains Association of the AHPA at the Sheraton Jefferson Hotel in Los Angeles. The two other representatives were Howard F. Monson, from the White Memorial Medical Center, and William Robinson, from the Paradise Valley Sanitarium and Hospital.

There is an increasing demand for chaplains in Seventh-day Adventist rest homes, convalescent homes, private hospitals, and nursing homes, largely in addition to opportunities in state and county hospitals. Robert J. Gehr, president of Loma Linda University, recently presented a paper entitled "An unusual challenge to the clergy," which was sponsored by the American Psychological Association.

A program of graduate study in historical archaeology leading to a Master of Arts degree has been announced by the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. Two students were awarded in the spring of 1965, one specializing in prehistoric and another in political, philosophical, and religious archaeology. The program begins in June or September of 1967, in either case in the first year of application before April 1. Applicants should have a bachelor's degree with a major in the history of archaeology. Applicants must have majored in archaeology at a recognized university.

A limited number of tuition scholarships and teaching fellowships will be available in addition to National Science Foundation fellowships. The Loma Linda University students who may apply for these opportunities in time to reach the University in the fall should mail pre-registration forms in time to reach the Alumni Office before February 12th. Those who wish to attend the School of Dentistry and will be encouraged to come better acquainted."
Service League Hosts Wives of Aerospace Crew
The Volunteer Service League of Loma Linda Sanitarium and Hospital this week had as guest speakers Dr. Donald R. Reynolds, Corporation personnel at a Dinner in Chews Hall. (Chews is a Chinese term which may be translated as "morning tea out weekly for a cappella singing.

The members of the League, who are wives of Aerospace Corporation personnel, sang selections from Gilbert and Sullivan's musical, "The Mikado."