A PALM STANDS AS A LANDMARK where washing machines and refrigerators occupied the place last month. The moving of that business and the old business building adjacent to it on Central Avenue near Anderson Street has opened up more yard land for University development. The School of Medicine will raise its clover-lined Medical Center. —Staff photo.

Credit Union Pays $5277 Loans For Sick Employee

The University Credit Union has paid third and largest claim insurance covering $2777.15 for the balance of two loans to a University employee. The employee became permanently disabled a year ago.

The Credit Union has insurance coverage for all loans for disability and death, James E. Yoder, treasurer, the Credit Union office, moved to new quarters in the business building on the corner of Anderson Street.

Mr. Yoder added that University employees may now share in the 4.85 per cent paid on savings, a dividend that matches the rate paid by the credit union office.

No Opposition

No written opposition was filed with the county registrar of voters for mailing with the sample ballot which went into the mail June 11.

Some early dissent appeared at a county Board of Supervisors meeting last week, held to white out the bond issue and had it struck off the ballot.

Public Health, Psychiatry Staffs Launch Mental Health Study Here

A team of University scientists, after two years of preptation of a mental health study among seven-day Adventist, as compared with non-members.

The concept was directed by Harry R. Now, MD, professor and chairman of the Division of Public Health and Tropical Medicine, a team of research assistants is conducting questionnaire-guided interviews with Seventh-day Adventist church members and others.

According to Dr. Minar, chief investigator, "There is much speculation as to how Adventists and non-Adventists compare in mental health. Some believe that Adventists have a sovereign inter-cult. Others believe that the concept and way of life give them an advantage."

This question of mental status of the church members may soon be answered, says Dr. Minar. The Division of Public Health and Tropical Medicine and the School of Medicine department of psychiatry earlier received an $800 grant from the Cohen Foundation, Maryland, for the study.

A 36-page-questionnaire, the results of two years study and processing, is being programmed for computer analysis. It is partially patterned after the University of California's clas-

Ssical Midtown Manhattan study of Cornell University. Examples of the questionnaires include religious affiliation the data gathered were reviewed by three psychiatricians, and mental health counseling staff.

Co-investigators are Harrison R. Smith, MD, chairman and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry; John R. Peters, MD, assistant professor; and A. K. Farag, PhD, associate professor and assistant director of the Division of Public Health and Tropical Medicine; Henry E. Andren, MD, Maryland psychiatrist and neurologist; and Raymond O. West, MD, who holds an MS in public health.

The initial project was proposed and supported by Dr. An-dren (SM®77). George T. Harding, Clayton, Ohio, a former university alumnus and his family attended a special service held in the community water system.

SN Alumni Hold Leadership in Most Schools, Hospitals

The School of Nursing Alumni Association, after some research, recently came up with an impressive bit of information. It found that in some 20 affiliates, the program, holding the position of dean or director of nursing was stalled the leaders in a color-ful ceremony.

A TOUR OF LOS ANGELES POLICE HEADQUARTERS was included in a ten-day session of the Loma Linda Institute of Scientific Studies for the Prevention of Alcoholism. Some of the participants here are listening to police officers as they explain recent changes in the drinker's ethics outlined in a five-stage orientation. After these ten days of interest to our readers, we are delighted to announce that the annual banquet of the School of Nursing at Loma Linda University will be held on Friday, November 10.

Many of our readers have told us how much they enjoyed the recent tours of Los Angeles Police Headquarters. The institute is currently operating the program in Boston, where many Americans stop to enjoy the delights of the city. In Boston, we are excited to announce that the institute is now offering an additional tour of Los Angeles Police Headquarters.

The fourth stage—adjustment—sees the drinker pursue his interest in alcohol for the sake of his personal growth. Without alcohol, he may not find the same joy in his life. In this stage, he may even begin to rely on alcohol for emotional support.

Stage five: survival—Termi- nating alcoholic drinking is the effective professional help. Only under the influence of alcohol can the drinker feel the urge to pursue his personal growth.

Dear Editor:

We are sending you an ex- ample of the creative writing we have received from our son, Calvin A. Caine, a member of the general and chest surgery at the Tokyo Sanitarium-Hospital in Japan. The paragraphs read:

We have several inter- esting stories that we would like to share with you. A few weeks ago, I was admitted to the Tokyo Sanitarium-Hospital for a routine check-up. The doctors there were concerned about my health. I was admitted for a few days, but I was discharged after the doctors advised me to return for a follow-up visit.

After Fifty Years

Recently, my wife and I had the privilege to attend the homecoming banquet of the School of Nursing at Loma Linda University. It was a wonderful event, and we were honored to be part of the celebration. We were impressed with the many changes that have taken place since we graduated 50 years ago.

The Loma Linda University Institute of Restorative Dentistry is excited to announce that the institute is now offering a new program in dental casting procedures. The institute is currently offering a ten-day session at Paulson Dental Casting Laboratories in Los Angeles, where participants will learn the science and art of dental casting procedures.

The Loma Linda Institute of Scientific Studies for the Prevention of Alcoholism has been making the acquaintance of Los Angeles police headquarters in recent years. The institute has been making its annual visit to Fatten State Hospital, where many Americans stop to enjoy the delights of the city. In Los Angeles, we are excited to announce that the institute is now offering an additional tour of Los Angeles Police Headquarters.

Technical Tracings
Office Purchases
New Equipment

NEW MACHINE
Lorna Linda University Hospitals, Hamley'squired a new 10-channel electroencephalograph for its technical tracings office to replace an old eight-channel one.

The machine is used for detecting and recording electrical abnormalities in the brain which the machine may reveal are among the food clues and irregularities arising from various diseases affecting the brain.

When the machine is in use, it is in a state of etherization. The etherization is performed in a room adjacent to the machine. The etherization is performed in a room adjacent to the machine.

Each channel of the machine sends a signal to a computer which analyzes the data and transmits it to a monitor. The monitor is linked in combination with each of the other channels in order to localize in its specific region any abnormality which may appear. A complete tracing on a patient requires about 40 minutes.

The machine is operated by two Halie Seline, RN, and Guy M. Hunt, associate professor of anatomy and neurology.

Since the first electroencephalograph was purchased in 1932 over 3000 tracings of individual patients have been made. The frequency of machine use has increased greatly in that time and over 50 tracings are made each month at the hospital.

Dr. Hunt speculates that the reason for the increase, in addition to a large number of patients being seen at the Medical Center, is that more physicians from surrounding communities are becoming aware of this diagnostic service offered by the hospital.

Other machines employed in technical tracings and their functions include an electrocardiograph, used in diagnosing heart diseases; an electromyograph, for investigating muscular disorders; and a plethysmograph, for determining variations occurring in the circulation of the blood in the extremities.
