Physician's Work Week
Planning the easy life? Like short work hours, lots of time off? Intend to take medicine?

Forget it. If statistics on California physicians are any guide, the prospective medical student can look forward to a professional life more demanding of his time than most.

A socio-economic report of the California Medical Association's bureau of research and planning reveals that California physicians, on the average, devoted 54.1 hours to professional life more demanding of his time than most.

Mr. McConnell attributes the success of the Library to public cooperation.

It is encouraging to note that as Loma Linda moves further into the future, the university concept is striving to give full support with its materials and services.

Including refills. The remaining $5.60 was spent for non-prescribed medicines including tonics, pills, salves, ointments, vitamins, and first-aid supplies. The average prescription cost was $3.60.

The collection thus contains 70,000 medical volumes and 56,000 liberal arts volumes. The distribution then, is 58.5 per cent medically related and 41.5 per cent liberal arts.

There are 4,500 books in process and 90 per cent of which are liberal arts in nature.

PERIODICAL SERVICES
Robert G. Cooper, Assistant Librarian and Head of Periodicals

The library subscribes to approximately 1,800 currently-received periodicals, 735 of which are liberal arts in nature. These latter titles represent the following subject areas:

- Anthropology
- Sociology
- Archeology
- Speech
- Biology
- Zoology
- Botany
- Business and Economics
- Chemistry
- Education
- Forestry
- Geology
- History and Geography
- Egyptology

CIRCULATION-REFERENCE SERVICES
Charles Davis, Assistant Librarian and Head of Circulation-Reference

Last year this department loaned 22,941 books and 15,383 journals, an average of 3,194 items circulated per month.

Book circulation indicates a definite trend in the use of more liberal arts materials:

- Medicine 6,447
- Dentistry 536
- Religion 3,054
- Nutrition 333
- Biology 1,502
- Speech & Hearing 32
- History 1,464
- English 1,126
- Other 4,050
- Theses 1,009
- Paperbacks 389
- Anthropology 723
- Sociology 169

Sixty-seven libraries in the US requested inter-library loan services from us. A total of 50 books and 2,400 Xerox copy pages were sent out during the year. Our own faculty requested 160 items.

In addition to our own campus the library also extends a reference service to the entire area of southern California, especially the San Bernardino Valley.

SDA ROOM
Irene Schmidt, Associate Librarian and Head of Historical Records

For many years the library has maintained a small Historical Records Office. It has collected pictures and written materials relative to Loma Linda University history. Its archival-type collection includes Ellen G. White manuscripts from the files of the E. G. White Estate in Washington, DC.

The library's plan is to establish an SDA Room in the basement, which will include not only the above-mentioned items, but also all books and periodicals published by denominational publishers. This will be a center for scholars doing research in the history of Seventh-day Adventism and Loma Linda University in particular.

As the plan develops, the library will receive more materials from the E. G. White Estate and, hopefully, will continue to receive donations of out-of-print books and periodicals from Seventh-day Adventists on the West Coast.
BARLEY CLENDENON (RIGHT), production superintendent, set up the new Heidelberg press recently acquired by the Printing Service.

To meet the increased demands of new ideas and products demanded by the University and its affiliated organizations, the Printing Service has decided to make the transition to an offset printing plant by the addition last week of a new 18 by 24 1/2 inch Heidelberg Single-Color Offset Press.

In the past month also noted increasing demands for full-color offset printing, which will permit the service to handle the production of our many letterheads, brochures, and booklets in their original colors. The press should prove extremely valuable in preparing the actual lead for the press, while offset printing, as used in this book, omits direct contact in favor of a roundabout photographic process, eliminating much of the mess, cost, and photographic process on a metal plate, which when being printed, directs exact font in favor of a roundabout transfer of the ink likeness to paper via a rubber “blanket.”

Some of the advantages of the offset press are as follows: greater freedom of type composition; greater variety of stock paper, as picture are reproduced with smooth and even surfaces; no need for expensive letter-cutting; greater press-run speed; elimination of made-ready work, and easier execution of layout and design.

Future plans for press equipment include a complete camera and plate-making setup, which will permit the service to perform all operations in its own plant. At the present time, camera operators are furnished by local graphic arts specialists.

In order to do their best work, the University Printing Service to provide adequate service to all areas of the University, and to make this equipment available at a reasonable cost while maintaining quality work.

Student Offered Various Cultural Classes

Graduate and upper division courses to be offered by various departments in the Graduate School next semester may be taken without tuition charges providing the student is a full-time academic or non-academic employee, according to Herbert A. Walls, University registrar.

Late afternoon and evening classes in cultural anthropology, Japanese, Chinese, Spanish, French, German, Russian, Italian, and other classes will be offered.

George E. Quittmeyer, '66, and his wife, Tami, have moved to West Lebanon, New Hampshire, where he has set up dental practice.

Dr. Quittmeyer attended Atlantic Union College, South Lancaster, Massachusetts, and spent four and a half years at the Seoul Slinson and one year at Lower Gems in Southern Ethiopia, and five years at Helderberg College in South Africa, where he gained his secondary education.

Physical Therapy

RAY E. CRISSEY, '65, writes that he is now director of Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Center, Scranton, Pennsylvania. The center offers physical therapy, occupational therapy, social service, psychological testing and evaluation, speech and hearing service, vocational evaluation service, and also has a sheltered workshop for employment of handicapped individuals from the community.

Lyndon Dale Curtis, '65, writes from Foxconn Park, Michigan, that they have a daughter, Tami Lynn, 6 months old.

JIM L. ARMSTRONG, '66, writes from Mason City, Iowa, that as of September he is administrator of the American Nursing Center, which is an 80 bed facility. He serves also as consultant in physical therapy. He writes that John Thiele, '66, came quite a bit with patients, employees, and physicians while interfering there.

Vernon D. Puts, '65, writes from DePere, Wisconsin, that he has charge of physical therapy at the American Nursing Home in Green Bay, Wisconsin. He says he works at Door County Memorial Hospital, Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin. He states that there is need for another therapist in this area. Vernon’s wife, Ruth, does office work for a Seventh-day Adventist physician in De Pere. Her present resuming a call to the mission field.

ERNEST V. EIFF, '54, and LILIAN WELTT, '54, are now living at 821 Regine Lane in Corpus Christi, Texas. They have recently returned from Sao Paulo, Brazil, where they both have been working since 1954.

Dr. Russell Dobbert, '63, writes that he is stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, as a first lieutenant in the physical therapy service at Fort Knox Army Hospital.

Herbert R. Prust, '65, stationed at the US Public Health Service Hospital, New Orleans, Louisiana, has developed a white plate guard which readjusts the face. Herbert reports to Journal of the American Physical Therapy Association. Herbert has been with the US Public Health Service since 1959.
