Enrollment Reaches New High; 3,000 to Register

Over 3,000 students are expected to enroll in the various Loma Linda University schools and current campus camps this year, according to University officials.

Registration on the Loma Linda campus ends today. Preregistration was held August 14 to September 1 for returning Loma Linda campus students. Registration on the La Sierra campus is scheduled for Friday, September 15, and September 17. Registration begins today on the Loma Linda campus and Monday, September 18, on the La Sierra campus.

Speaking Engagements Set For SDA Division President

Paul H. Eldridge, president of the Far Eastern Division of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, will speak to the Loma Linda University Missionary Mission, Saturday, September 30. He is currently finishing several speaking engagements in the San Bernardino valley area.

United Crusade One-Day Campaign is October 5

United Crusade announces that in the offing at Loma Linda University. The first successful lobby trans- mission in the Southern California was completed last April; the first inte- rnational transmission in the San Bernardino-Riverside area was performed last June; and on December 6, 1965, the first one-day United Crusade campaign in the Loma Linda area and the Inland Empire will begin.

The United Crusade supports the activities of United Commu- nity Services agencies offering family and child care serv- ices, youth guidance and school building programs, and health and rehabilitation serv- ices to nearly people living in the San Bernardino-Loma Linda areas.

On October 5, all University employees will receive a com- plete mail card with their paychecks, providing the employees an opportunity to make a monthly payroll deduction or "one-time" gift. Employees are urged to return the cards whether they give or not, as the mail will be held until December 31.

Student Missionaries Begin Teaching in Hong Kong School

Two Loma Linda University students have arrived in Hong Kong for a year of teaching at the Seventh-day Adventist School. They are Thomas L. Dybdahl, both seniors on the La Sierra campus.

Mr. Dybdahl and Mr. Doe- gersness have a long list of classes to teach. In addition to their normal teaching skills, they also are responsible for the Wednesday chapel service and the Sabbath service, both of which have compulsory attendance.

The major of the students at the Sian Yik school (equiv- alent of grades six through 12) must meet the requirements of those being non-Chris- tian. Only about 20 percent of the total enrollment of over 600 students are Seventh-day Adventists. Presently there are three Seventh-day Adventist operated schools in the Hong Kong colony.

The current political crisis has calmed down considerably, Mr. Dybdahl reports. "The ma- jor remaining threat is hunger. Some of the families are unable to obtain bread. It is expected that the government will supply bread to the community."

New Law Forbids Liquor Sales Near La Sierra Campus

California Governor Ronald Reagan has signed into law a bill prohibiting the sale of liq- uor within a one-mile radius of the main entrance to Loma Linda University-La Sierra campus.

The measure, introduced in the state legislature by Senator Gordon E. Colgrove, whose Ree- d Student Work Projects Commission includes the campus, applies only to liquor, essentially ending several years of legal battles for the sale of hard liquor in the area. The measure will permit the campus to have exclusive use of liquor with meals in restaurants. Drinking within the campus will be permitted, as long as people are over 21 and the area is completely enclosed by a fence.

Applications Open

Applications are open this year to students in the School of Public Health Related Profes- sions, 46 in the Department of Dental Hygiene, 25 in the School of Public Health, and 150 in the Graduate School.

Nearly 160 will enroll in the various departments of the School of Health Related Profes- sions, 46 in the Department of Dental Hygiene, 25 in the School of Public Health, and 150 in the Graduate School.

A student who applies to the University is considered a "one-time" gift. Employees are urged to return the cards whether they give or not, as the mail will be held until December 31.

Important as it is to be aware of the right way to help others, we also lose sight of why we do it, and what we have accomplished. It is heart warming to help a child get well, a boy to learn self-reliance principles of good citizenship, an emotionally disturbed mother to reign her family, a blind grandmother to find peace and companionship.

When you have pledged Your finest Hour, you can take pride in knowing that your gift was given wisely. The tries for our medicine, the offers to a who is and who is$, and to the family who to find and faces all kinds of needs, . . .

Who will help all of them? Are our hands and hearts big enough to find room enough for all? When you pledge Your finest Hour, you can be sure that no one is forgotten.

Greater Days Ahead
By Ernest Lloyd

Just before leaving Loma Linda a few months ago, we took a last look at the old monument just beyond Cutter Hall, the monument that stands as a memorial to the men, women and medical students and faculty members of the American Medical Missionary College in Battle Creek, Michigan, some of whom became our first medical workers in Loma Linda.

Those early years in Loma Linda were hard ones, yet they were hard with all about. There were the Burdens, the Merrills, and Thomason, Risley, Shryock and others—all of them from Battle Creek, and all of them by the grace of a gynecology in God's plan for Loma Linda. They were possessed by a high courage, and a determination that moved forward in the face of discouragement.

How simple things were when I first saw Loma Linda sixty-one years ago! I see the picture now—mighty workers with humble equipment. Whatever halo was connected to an occupation was carried in.

Let us beware of this weakness. Greater days are ahead for our medical institutions. If we follow the light, our influence will cover the earth, and we must never be satisfied with less.

The miracle of Spring

We have accomplished much, but things have a natural tendency to grow.

Black earth becoming yellow crocus

Moral and spiritual values are not made, and sometimes they are explored. Not many medicine is developed, but the reader is challenged to make a few observations himself.

Getting Down to Fundamentals

It is strangely shrill, our earthly shade, until it is cast upon antipode. Then, odes to the planet gone, we'll consider what we rest upon.

Mitchell Singing Boys Lead 67-68 Artist-Lecture Series

The Bob Mitchell Singing Boys will be featured next Saturday, September 16, in the University Auditorium. The program begins at 8 p.m. in Ranging in age from 9 to 14, the Bob Mitchell Singing Boys have appeared in more than 150 motion pictures and television programs. Over 600 boys have been members of the singing group since its inception in 1938.

The accomplishments of the Bob Mitchell Singing Boys are unique. Every attempt to increase the radio and television audiences of these young performers includes a wide variety of musical and dramatic efforts.

Students are admitted free on presentation of a University identification card. Student tickets are $1 per person, and $2 for members of students' families. Additional tickets are available at the door for $1 person. Seniors, staff, faculty, and University employees are admitted at $1. The program will be broadcast on University Radio, KUHL.

In its 67th-68th season include Alonzo L. Barlow, KUHL, professor of psychology at La Verne University, Los Angeles, December 2; lecturers in music at the University of California at Berkeley, February 15; and lecture courses in French and English at the University of California at Berkeley, March 12.

The Bob Mitchell Singing Boys have sung with the Bob Williams Orchestra and the San Bernardino Symphony Orchestra.

The program begins at 8 p.m. in
Students Register For New Year

THE REGISTRAR’S OFFICE was the first stop for many University students. D. Aleta Melvin, PT ’69, receives registration instructions from Ardith J. Holstad, secretary in the Registrar’s Office.

REGISTRATION would not be complete without Audiovisual Service photos of all students. Paul R. Tharp photographs Miss Melvin for the University yearbook. Color photographs of students are used on University identification cards.

SCHOOL OF HEALTH Related Professions, School of Nursing, and dental hygiene students all participate in the orientation testing program. The program included the California Test of Mental Maturity (CTMM), California Personality Inventory (CPI), and a reading comprehension test.

PENETRATING to a painless depth of one millimeter (1/25 inch), the Sterneedle Gun uniformly injects purified tuberculin protein derivative. The test, which is interpreted 48-72 hours later, was administered by Ronald S. Wu, SM ’68. If positive, the student will receive a chest x-ray to determine the extent of contact and the stage of a possible illness.

MISS MELVIN purchases a few of her physical therapy textbooks from University Supply clerk Julia A. Blake. Student purchases amount to more than $125,000 each year.
Letters to the Editor

domain of confidence in church leadership, in church discipline, and in the Church Manual. It discards the Ten Commandment Law of God. How then can such reformers be a "step toward Christ-like-ness"?

The note implies that there may be situations where there is a moral difference between the spirit of the law and the letter of the law. But is God divided against Himself? Is He inconsistent? Is He mocked?

Under all circumstances and in all situations, when moral decisions are made, either we obey the spirit and letter of the law, or we do not obey the law at all. To think that one may obey the spirit of the law, and at the same time deliberately disobey the letter of the law, is self-deception and presumption.

The controversy between Christ and Satan is over the law of God. Those who love and admire and idolize situation "law" are cast into the adversary.

Is He inconsistent? Is He mocked?

Thank you for your contribution.

Family Life in an ERA Subject to Marriage Seminar

The foundation of society is still the family unit. But in our changing world, special effort is needed to preserve that unit.

This was the premise of three participants who attended a seminar on marriage and the family held on the La Sierra campus last month. They were Harrison S. Evans, MD, professor and chairman of the department of psychiatry; Jack R. Kennedy, MD, assistant professor of gynecology and obstetrics; and Charles W. Teel, Jr., assistant chaplain and counselor for church leadership and chaplain at University of Southern California.

Emphasizing the importance of the family, Teel said that the creation of a healthy society is impossible. When the family situation is emotionally charged, and when a parent can’t be a good therapist, the psychiatrist can play an important role in resolving disturbed family situations.

Dr. Evans finds that being a good parent and being a good psychiatrist have something in common. In each case, you must encourage independence and responsibility in the person with whom you are dealing.

"Parents," Dr. Evans said, "must learn to tolerate a child's behavior. You must learn to attach yourself to the child. You must be realistic and honest, and at the same time you must love the children. Indulgence is not kindness. The needs of the child are not the same as the child's needs. The needs of the child are the needs of the family. The child is capable of loving parents."

"The family is the basis of society. Any family is a property on which we can build. A sound family is the foundation of any community," Dr. Evans said. "A successful marriage is made up of two maturing people. In productive marriage, the partners are not just two individuals who have decided to live together. They must be able to work together in a productive manner. They must learn to share responsibilities. They must learn to accommodate each other."

"Anxiety," Dr. Evans said, "is built on communication, on a man's ability to understand another's reactions, and on a man's ability to express himself."

"A child who is not loved is not cared for. A child who is not cared for is not loved. A child who is not loved is not loved by his parents. A child who is not loved by his parents is not loved by his community. A child who is not loved by his community is not loved by his society."

Religion Professor
Is Guest Speaker
At Lake Arrowhead

Jack W. Provost (MD, PhD), associate professor of Christian ethics, was a guest speaker at the University of California Extension's third annual conference on medicine and religion last month.

For physicians and clergymen of all faiths, the conference focused on pluralistic problems inherent in attending the "whole person" as a physical, emotional, and spiritual being.

Other speakers at the Lake Arrowhead conference included former Episcopal bishop James A. Pike, staff member at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara, and Edward J. Stainbrook, MD, professor and chairman of the department of psychiatry, University of Southern California school of medicine, Los Angeles.

La Sierra Campus Students
Finish Job Readiness Program

Ceremonies last month marked the completion of a ten-week job readiness program by ten students on the La Sierra campus, according to summer session director Vernon H. Koening, EdD, assistant professor of education.

A first at La Sierra Linda University, the job readiness program seeks to prepare students for employment in receptionists, clerks, and general office workers. Students are given intensive training in filing and record keeping procedures, typing, spelling, telephone procedures, and in the use of various types of business machines.

At a dinner program in the Commons dining room the ten participants were addressed by Frank E. Phillips, personnel director of the White Memorial Medical Center, Los Angeles, and received completion certificates for the training program from University president David J. Frieder.

The program is an effort to provide work advancement opportunities for students unable to spend full time in college education now, and to enlarge the resources of trained office personnel to church employers, according to Dr. Koening.

New Men's Residence Hall
Completed; Open House Held

A public open house of the newly completed high-rise men's residence hall on the La Sierra campus was held Sunday, September 10, according to John T. Hamilton, director of public affairs for the La Sierra campus.

The multi-level, $1,100,000 residence hall will accommodate 284 men when it is ready for occupancy next week. A typical floor houses 22 dormitory rooms, shower and toilet facilities, lounge, study rooms, typing area, and a laundry room complete with ironing boards and coin operated washer-dryer combinations.

All living quarters contain built-in wardrobes, chests of drawers, desks, wash basins, and medicine cabinets. Wall-to-wall carpeting is laid throughout the building. Each room is wired for private outside telephones which may be installed at a later date.

Eighteen months in construction, the eight-level residence hall has two three-bedroom apartments for the dean, two guest rooms with private baths, sick room, lobby area, storage rooms, recreation area, and several office areas.

Occupancy of the new hall and Calkins Hall by men students will free Mt. Beta Kappa Hall, former residence of women students. The women's residence will be known as South Hall instead of MBK.

Two LLU Graduates Serve in Caribbean With Peace Corps

Mildred Duge Elorado, '60E, and her husband, Gary, a 1965 U.S. Peace Corps Volunteer, have recently been named Peace Corps Volunteers after completing six weeks of training at Lincoln University, Pennsylvania, and three weeks of training at Emiriel Teacher Training College, Barbados.

Mr. and Mrs. Elorado are two of approximately 25 new Peace Corps Volunteers who will work in secondary teaching and teacher training. Some of the new volunteers, who began their teaching assignments September 11, will work in the eastern Caribbean Islands, while others will serve in Guyana or British Honduras. The Elorados have been assigned to Saint Vincent Island, an island of 335 square miles and a population of approximately 50,000. During their training, the volunteers received intensive instruction in Caribbean history and culture, American studies, community development techniques, and teaching skills. The main efforts of the volunteers will be to upgrade teaching methods, update the curricula, and stimulate student government activities and parent interest.

Mr. Elorado received a masters of arts degree from University of Southern California, Los Angeles, this past summer. Their arrival in the Caribbean brings to over 250 the number of Peace Corps Volunteers in the area.

Some who have returned from overseas duty and are serving in the homeland are:

- Ellen Dick Wadfield, '68, from Singapore to Takoma Park, Maryland, where she teaches public health nursing at Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Maryland.
- Leda D. Blount, '58, from the Far Eastern Division to the faculty of the University.
- Pearl Bailey Martin, '41, from the Orient to Takoma Park, Maryland, doing office nursing.
- Mildred Mattison Case, '55, from Peru to University Hospital, serving in the delivery room.
- Dorcas Elviolab New, '50, from Bangkok to the University Nursing faculty.
- Reatha Venden Ekvall, '48, from the Philippines to surgical nursing at University Hospital.

Jean Chapman Hileheleandri, YS, from Beninhal, Libya, to Minnesota, Michigan.
- Lucille Montany Small, '31, from Velice, India, to Loma Linda, adjusting to the American way of life.
- Eva White, '68/69, went to Bella Vista, Puerto Rico, to prepare for work and volunteer for accreditation of the school of nursing.
- Frances Fickers, '67/68, has been teaching at Columbia Union College, Takoma Park, Maryland.
- Evelyn Deneke Blieger, '68/69, was named "Nurse of the Week" of the San Francisco bay area and was featured daily on the radio for a week. Evelyn is teaching in the VN program under the auspices of the manpower Development Training Act, financed by government funds.

PASTORAL EDUCATION COURSE

MEETING NEXT MONTH

The Loma Linda University School of Dentistry announces a continuing education course in modern dental materials to be offered October 8 and 9. Ralph W. Phillips, DSc, research professor of dental materials at Loma Linda University, Bloomington, Illinois, will lecture on the most recent advances in the field of dental materials. The adhesive restorative materials will be discussed as well as up-to-date discussions on marginal leakage.

The course, stressing selection and manipulation of restorative materials, is intended to bring the dentist and the dental assisting staff of knowledge in the rapidly changing field of dental materials.

Reservations must be made with the School of Dentistry by September 28. Enrollment is $60 for dentists and $20 for dental auxiliaries. Further information is available from the Continuing Education Course, Loma Linda University, School of Dentistry, Loma Linda, California 92354.

Tax Shelters Benefit You and Your University

Loma Linda University offers a valuable service to its alumni and their patients and friends through Estate Planning. The Charitable Remainder Trust described below offers you real tax savings as you aid your University.

The Charitable Remainder Trust is designed to give you income tax benefits and to avoid executor's fees, attorney's fees, court costs, and probate expenses at the time of your death. Although the income from the trust may be paid to you, the trustor, title to the original assets will pass to the University at some future date, usually upon the death of the trustor or on the death of the surviving trustor in case of husband and wife. The trustor may claim a charitable contribution for income tax purposes on the remainder, which will eventually go to the University. An estimate of this amount is based on the information provided by the Internal Revenue Service.

For example, a husband, age 60, and his wife, age 55, might place into a Charitable Remainder Trust $10,000, but now worth $25,000. They reserve the income for the remainder of their lives and provide for the distribution of the assets to the University upon the death of the survivor.

It is possible for income on a portion of the trust assets to continue for the benefit of the children of the trustors or other parties. This will increase the charitable remainder factor, but other benefits will remain the same.

If you currently have a revocable trust agreement with the University, it is possible to avoid it by establishing a Charitable Remainder Trust and receive a higher rate of return on your funds. Income on funds held in Charitable Remainder Trusts is at the rate of lifetime income. In addition, the University's endowment funds, presently 3.9% per year.

University Hosts Alumni Directors

Loma Linda University will host the Little AAC Group next Monday, September 18, according to Georgia R. Wilcox, alumni relations officer.

The group is composed of local alumni directors from various colleges and universities in San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, and Los Angeles counties. They are all members of the American Alumni Council from which they derive their name.

The breakdown of the extended family, according to Dr. Somerville, leaves the children with few adults to relate to and an intense emotional life. Urbanization and industrialization have rendered in law authoritarism in the interaction between family members. "In the 19th century, the father was king. Today there is very little power wielded by the father." This has resulted in the children's looking to teachers, the mass media, and non-kin-folk for support and education.

How will this all end? "Perhaps," Dr. Somerville suggests, "in the future, the woman will open doors for her husband, make all major decisions, and forswear the role of housewife or working wife to become the major breadwinner in her husband's place."
