Wounded soldiers closer to hospital than U. S. citizens

A soldier wounded in Vietnam is closer in time to a hospital than a citizen living in an American city, according to Col. Samuel W. Caldwell, post surgeon of the United States Army Hospital at Fort Derussy.

Col. Caldwell recently spoke before a class in the School of Medicine on the topic "Preventive Medicine in Vietnam - An Appraisal." A wounded soldier who survives the critical first 24 hours has better than an 85-to-1 chance of recovering, said Col. Caldwell. This is almost eight times the survival rate of World War I.

In the past four years, the number of hospital beds available in Vietnam has expanded from 30,000 to 60,000, he added. There are now more than 1,000 doctors, 250 dentists, 740 nurses, 600 Medical Service Corps officers and 200 medical technicians in the service in Vietnam.

University lecture series features Scandinavian film

Loma Linda University Artist and Lecture Series will feature the internationally known Kittil Parker, Saturday, January 13.

"Look to Finland," scheduled for 8 p.m. on the Loma Linda campus, is the fourth event in the series.

Scandinavian background and hesitancy, as well as the famous iconography, will convey to her audiences a realistic picture of the life of the people of Finland. Her film will illustrate some of the factors in the form of voluntary contributions through which and legacies for capital improvements.

Will the University be patient should there be a halt in the projected plans only when the time comes that the campus should become available? This would depend, of course, on the circumstances; there would perhaps be consensus of opinion as to the need and would be in the direction of faith.

Walter H. Roberts, MD

Associate Professor of Anatomy

Loma Linda University

Scarlet and gold flag unfurled, the Loma Linda campus is the fourth in the University Artist and Lecture Series.

The University of Chicago was originally founded in 1890, and its record is outstanding. The University is regarded as one of the leading universities in the United States and in other countries.

It is to be devoutly hoped, however, that no frenzied rush to be among the first will emerge among surgeons finding at their disposal such an exciting opportunity. The precedent fair better followed is that set by Dr. Shumway, who, though first with the technique, chose to await circumstances most favorable for the success of the procedure and for the survival of his patient.

We endorse the spirit of a telegram sent to Dr. Shumway within hours of the operation at Stanford by Ellis Shumway, Jr., MD, professor of surgery at Loma Linda University and head of the Loma Linda transplant team. Dr. wareham, a longtime friend of the Stanford surgeon, wired:

"Your team's triumph last night crowning achievement of years of pioneer research. Heart patients, heart surgeons everywhere indebted. We at Loma Linda University join the world in extending congratulations richly deserved.

Ironically, this operation was the first attempt on a human heart for transplant in the United States and in other countries.

The University of Chicago is to be congratulated on the initiation of this operation. The enterprise is one that is to be congratulated.

The merger of La Sierra College and Loma Linda University with David J. Bieler elected president was the main news event from Loma Linda University last year. In July, the $20-million hospital opened, and 125 patients from the old hospital were transferred with the help of the Army Reserve medical corp. The return of the eight member open-heart team from a six-week clinical program in Greece, Athens, ended the year with a major highlight.

News was being made in other areas, too, as can be seen by these highlights from the more than 800 separate news stories released by the University's Public Information Office in 1967:

JANUARY — Loma Linda University Hospital's first 1967 baby was Virginia Anne Chavira, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Chavira of South Los Angeles radio station KNX. Representatives from 10 western and midwestern universities participated in the third sectional conference on Dental Auxiliary Utilization at the School of Dentistry. Loma Linda Hill Church officially adopted the name Campus Hill Church. Open house was held for the Faculty Dental Office located on the corner of Taylor Street and Loma Linda Drive.

Edward Hittenstall, PhD, professor of theology and Christian philosophy at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan, conducted the spring week, "President's Award" scholarships of $300 to $500. Entries by the public relations staff won six journalism annual competition. In an extensive study by U. D. Register, PhD, associate professor of biochemistry, it was discovered that persons who drink a lot of coffee, live on nutritionally poor diets, and use a lot of spices may be driving themselves to alcoholic drink.

JUNE — Traditional commencement services saw 323 seniors graduated from baccalaureate, graduate, and professional curriculums. The first doctor of dental surgery team left for a six-week clinical program at the University Hospital during the University's 55th anniversary. Western and midwestern universities participated in the third sectional conference on Dental Auxiliary Utilization at the School of Dentistry. Loma Linda University launched a "internship" program in educational psychology technology. Twelve dietetics interns were awarded certificates and pins by the American Dietetic Association upon completion of internships at the La Sierra campus.

AUGUST — The eight member open-heart team arrived home from Greece after performing 30 open-heart surgeries and seeing more than 1,000 patients in clinical cardiac conferences. Twelve dietetics interns were awarded certificates and pins by the American Dietetic Association upon completion of internships at the University. University inaugurated a new psychiatric service for children, the first in the University's 63-year history.

Small plane crash injures senior medical student

DeWayne F. Butcher, SR9M, a retired surgeon, received a phone call December 25 when his small plane crashed near some telephone wires and crashed down in the Roosevelt Park area.

According to the Redlands police department, Mr. Butcher was preparing to land his plane, a Cessna 140 belonging to the San Linda Flying Club, at the airport about 10:30 a.m. when he descended too low and caught the landing gear on the wire. He apparently lost control, hit another set of wires approximately 100 feet closer to the airport, and crashed in a rocky terrain, less than a quarter mile from the end of the runway.

The plane's fuel tank at $2,700, was destroyed in the accident, according to a member of the flying club who purchased the plane about three months ago for student training and member use.

Mr. Butcher was taken to Redlands Community Hospital and then transferred to Loma Linda University Hospital for treatment. He suffered fractured jaw and multiple cuts and bruises.
