Graduate schools in jeopardy

Loma Linda University Graduate School students to Loma Linda University school, but hundreds of other gree last autumn, will lose his deferment in July. Look for graduate schools across the nation seems grim. A cross-section of the graduate school enrollment next tion. Granted a deferment to finish the current semester if ed. But the element of uncertainty is still there. To alle instead of the usual 30 days to six weeks.

a 40 percent to 50 percent decline in graduate school enrollments. If this holds true, the graduation of doctoral in health-related professions. Candidates will drop back to the 1963 level of 16,000 per ants, while saving top faculty talent for graduate schools, will reap bitter fruit if the graduate schools are stripped were correct, the contents of make intelligent decisions.

Dear Editor:

In a recent letter published in The Truth, you stated, "the same heresies" pub. The statement was without foundation in the original article written by some of the most knowledgeable members of our church. It is not trying to influence the lives of any individual but to inform others about some of the offbeat heresies of the Modernist movement. The younger generation is being fed a diet that is being contrary to all the truths that have been taught in the past. This can be seen in the books that are currently being published, which are being used in our schools and universities, and in the programs that are being broadcast on television and radio.

We, the Crucifiers, are a group of lay members who believe that the Adventist Church must stand firm on its beliefs and not succumb to the pressures of modernism. We believe that the church should be a sanctuary of truth, where people can find refuge from the false teachings of the world. We encourage all Adventists to stand firm on their beliefs and not to be swayed by the currents of the day.

The City of compromise and is a city of dogmatism, where the truth is twisted to suit the desires of people. It is a city of smooth talkers who speak the same way with the same words but mean different things to different people. It is a city where the truth is twisted and perverted to suit the needs of the moment. It is a city of self-righteousness, where people think that they are right and everyone else is wrong.

The church has the power to change the world, but only if it stands firm on its beliefs and does not allow itself to be swayed by the currents of the day. We encourage all Adventists to stand firm on their beliefs and not to be swayed by the pressures of modernism.

ATTENDING A WEEKLY staff meeting (left to right) are Rosemary Rhodes; Ruth Evans; Leona M. Altmiller; Rita Richards; M. Colleen Coyne; Wilson Murray, director of social service at Riverside General Hospital and University Medical Center; Mrs. Errion; and James F. Dyer. Local developments and problems are discussed in the meetings.

VOLUNTEER SOCIAL SERVICE workers Ruth Evans (left) and Rosemary Rhodes (right) and Mrs. Errion visit with Mrs. Rhodes' two children. Volunteer workers play an important part in hospital social service by providing more personal contact with patients.

SOCIAL WORKER, James F. Dyer, Jr., (center) discusses a new case with C. Sheridan Murphy, SM'70 (left), and D. Larry Miller, SM'70. The sophomore students are assigned to the adult outpatient psychiatric clinic in the University Hospital as part of their training. All prospective patients are interviewed by a social worker before being admitted to the clinic.

Boots before being allowed in to clatter all over the mosaic floor... a City of Administration Buildings and Memorial Hospital. Important Institutions and World Councils and Movements and whatnot—and with the empty boxes of religious creed in stone and waded in fine gold, and the soul parching and aching for living water. A city of conforming people—rarely rejecting the known truths of the past, but because they hardly care enough one way or the other to go to all that trouble, and just as rarely accepting any new truth or error because that's quite as much trouble and "But always are so nice and comfortable, aren't they? rather like slippers you've grown into. In any case, what wonder lasts more than nine days, anyway? A people neither cold nor hot, knowing neither praise nor blame, neither rebelling against God nor remaining true to Him, hardly alive and yet hardly learning death.

Graduate school museum seeks anthropological artifacts

The Loma Linda University Graduate School department of sociology and anthropology received a steel drum from Trinidad. John W. Elick, chairman of the department stated. The drum was sent in response to letters to all overseas University alumni soliciting extra artifacts for the museum. The letters were written by Charles C. Case, director of University Relations. The museum will be used as a teaching aid. "We feel our students should have an idea and concept of what the cultures outside our own are like; it will help them to realize their role as they go to help in these areas," says Mr. Elick.

Persons who have items to donate to the museum should contact John W. Elick, Graduate School department of sociology and anthropology, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda 92354.

No diligence HEREBY, then, but negligence; no commandment-keeping, but money-counting; no love of God, but for goods; no service, but vanity; no patience for the precious fruit of the Spirit, but impatience for the treasures of the earth; and no poverty in spirit for the inheritance of the Kingdom of Heaven, but pride of heart in the riches of the kingdom of this world.

No establishment of hearts, but the Prince of this world... A people spiritually dead, without poorness in spirit for the inheritance of the kingdom of heaven, but pride of heart in the riches of the kingdom of this world. A people neither cold nor hot, knowing neither praise nor blame, neither rebelling against God nor remaining true to Him, hardly alive and yet hardly learning death.

New computer system installed in business department

A new International Business Machine 1330 computer system is in use on the Riverside campus of the University this semester.

In addition to processing records for the business and registrar's offices, the new multiskan 1330, with over one million words of storage capacity, meets an important instructional need in the department of business and secretarial administration.

Students of several classes in accounting, economics, and business administration will use the high-speed system this semester. The departments of mathematics and physics also plan to use the computer system in the future.

In preparing students for the business world of tomorrow, University officials believe the new equipment will be of great value to the business community. In the future, the department can now utilize the new IBM equipment at Riverside as well as that of the University's Scientific Computation Facility on the Loma Linda campus.

Office of the President

David J. Bilder

Probably the two major topics of discussion today are college and university finance and student unrest. In a recent address at the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges held in Washington, Dr. Alan Pifer, president of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, reported that in 1965-66 it took $4.1 billion for capital and recurrent expenditure to accommodate 26 million students in the nation's junior and four-year colleges and universities. Of this amount 12 percent was supplied by the federal government including research and development support. Last year, or two years ago, it took $6.8 billion to provide for six million students, with 28 percent coming from federal sources including research and support base. It is predicted that by 1975 there will be 30 million students in the above category costing, according to the Office of Education, $34 billion and according to Dr. Pifer it may well cost $60 to $70 billion in one or two years. Dr. Pifer added to these facts by stating: "There appears to be a level of confidence on the part of students and universities that they are developing that the financial needs of our colleges and universities are so desperate that nothing will come between them except major amounts of additional Federal financial aid. I do not wish to labor the problem of financing. It is evident that this is the problem that we are facing, and we must not gloss over these facts. The transition year has been calculated to be difficult, but I believe we will go through in history as one of real progress and significant change. The academic departments in the liberal arts field have now been combined on a vertical organizational basis with the exception of religion. Our recommendation is that the various departments in the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Religion and the Loma Linda campus remain separate for a period of two years but with close cooperation between these two segments.

I could elaborate on many special projects that are accomplishments but must mention only a few of what I have included in the progress of the School of Health Professions, the School of Public Health in joining Association recognition; the fifth repurchase of the School of Medicine's interns by the third of the internship; or in the top one percent in the National Board examinations; by the fine record of dental students who were placed in the table clinic for the third time and by the impact made by the heart team in Greece; with the development of length in the liberal arts and education division; with the new and carefully planned associate of arts programs in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences; with the growing extension programs of the University; and with many other things at La Sierra and our campuses in the University.

Building Projects

The main project obviously has been the University Hospital. The old is now going cosset, although the financial problem has been understood and accepted. The most overwhelming problems have been associated with the uncertainty of what unique on each campus, we must constantly make the best decisions. Mr. Nelson will come to the University Hospital in his capacity as Associate of arts program in the College of Religion and Sciences; with the growing extension programs of the University; and with many other things at La Sierra and our campuses in the University.

Education project centered on farm

The Loma Linda University agriculture department will use the farm land in Loma Linda as an educational project, according to John E. Carr, associate professor of agriculture.
The Loma Linda farm has 150 acres of irrigated land and 40 to 50 acres of dry-land farming. Approximately 300 heifers have been shipped from La Sierra to Loma Linda to make use of the green crop that is not used for feed.

Students will operate the farm as a laboratory to learn the process of feeding cattle, says Mr. Carr.

Regional Accrediting Association on the last two visits took a serious exception to the absence of a counseling center. Presently there are no budget, personnel, and no facilities allocated for this purpose.

I feel that our greatest challenge in the immediate future is to work on the establishment of higher education, will be in the area of student personnel services. A sense of failure can result in frustration and futility and act as a catalyst for inverted behavior.

We must attempt to maintain uniqueness of character education on which we pride ourselves — we believe in the education of the whole student — we must be sure that this cannot be accomplished alone in the classroom and an occasional consultation. We will maintain our plant facilities and staff standing in academic community. But drift and erosion, and a separation from our cause to that of others could result if we fail to provide adequate student personnel services. Unless we maintain close personal involvement with the students in our college, particularly on the upper division, the electronic age could result in our losing them from our cause to that of others.

For the interest of influencing human beings, we must try to get a feeling of belonging to something that has no direct access outside the classroom.

The greatest challenge I am not offering this as a panacea, but we should be doing our best to prevent. One of the major concerns of thousands of students we do not do one-on-one counseling.

National social workers month observed

The month of March marks the annual observance of National Social Workers Month. According to Amy E. Errion, director of the Bronx chapter of the University Hospital in Washington, D.C., the month is observed to "serve in a coordinating role in a multi-disciplinary way, to ensure that the integration of services is essential to carrying out the function of the hospital effectively," Mrs. Errion says. "Social work is a leadership function involved in the problem behind social change in people and in communities."

Because of the nature of their training and function, social workers are asked to serve in a coordinating role in a multi-disciplinary way, to ensure that the integration of services is essential to carrying out the function of the hospital effectively, Mrs. Errion says. "Social work is a leadership function involved in the problem behind social change in people and in communities."

The need for social workers is increasing. A report by the American Association of Social Workers, which serves as a professional organization for social workers, states that the need for social workers is increasing. The report notes that there is a growing need for social workers in a variety of fields, including health care, education, and social services. The report also highlights the importance of social workers in providing support and resources to individuals and families who are facing challenges and difficulties in their lives. The report emphasizes the value of social work as a profession and the importance of recognizing and valuing the contributions of social workers in society.

Alumnus helps dedicate new Benghazi Adventist hospital

King Edrin of Libya donated $24,000 to the new Seventh-day Adventist hospital in Benghazi, Libya, according to D. Clifford Ludington, Surgeon, medical director of the hospital.

The King's gift was made for "this noble donation on the part of the staff of the hospital," the country's health minister, Amadou Omar Issa said.

The new 65-bed hospital, located in the suburbs of Benghazi, began operating last January.

The medical staff numbers 65 at present. Over one-half of these are Libyans, while the rest come from other Arab countries, the Philippines, Korea, and Canada.

The staff of physicians will be increased in the near future to include a surgeon, internist, orthopedist, obstetrician, gynecologist, and a general practitioner.

City library shows physician's art

Joseph L. Mosberger, SM34, will exhibit his paintings during the month of March at the Barns Central Library, 151 N. Northland Boulevard, Burbank.

A graduate of Andrews University, B.B., and of Loma Linda University with degrees in science and medicine, Dr. Mosberger has made significant contributions to the field of medicine, as well as medicine.

During his undergraduate days he made numerous paintings which were used in classes, during periods of study, or over entire hospital staffs.

As a student of medicine at Loma Linda University he painted many illustrations for the departments of anatomy, physiology, pathology, and oncology.

In closing, I would suggest that Mr. Kuhn, instead of mouching clutching and static lingering, give us the liberty to penetrate the world of 600, seriously consider and ponder what none of the answers might be to the church and its problems in the world and his church will become an educated society of the future.

Jack L. Gilliland, SM65, President Loma Linda University of Washington State, Seattle, Washington

"Buy Apartments. Lease Cars."

Time was, most people leased things like apartments and bought things like cars. But now, more people are discovering that leasing is not just buying power; it's earning power. Result—they're leasing instead of buying a new car and using the cash they save for growth investments... . like apartments.

Our unique leasing service is designed for the professional man or woman. The person who wants maximum free time, maximum enjoyment, maximum flexibility and freedom. In short, the person who wants the eight benefits of owning a new car... yet wants to keep his cash free for growth investments.

If this sounds like you, stop by or call our office for full details.

Nursery school opens at La Sierra

Teachers at Loma Linda University’s Riverside campus are looking for preschool youngsters, for a model nursery-school program beginning March 14.

The youngsters will enjoy pleasant educational activities from 9:30 to 11 a.m. each Monday and Wednesday for 10 weeks, according to Kay H. Kuzma, director of the new child development laboratory. She says children are sought between the ages of three and four and a half. The preschool program, operated as a teaching project for majors in consumer related sciences (formerly the home economics department), will occupy spacious quarters in the new building on which workmen are putting final touches this week. Parents who would like to watch their children at play with their "school" friends may do so through a one-way mirror in a window, Mrs. Kuzma says.

Parents with children eligible for the program should get further information or make appointment arrangements with Mary P. Rhyne, chairman of the department of consumer related sciences on the La Sierra campus. There is a $5 application fee.

Mrs. Kuzma, directing the program for the first time at Loma Linda University, is a graduate in home economics from the University of California and Sciences. She subsequently earned a master’s degree in child development at Michigan State University, Ann Arbor, and is now working toward a doctoral degree in early childhood education at University of California at Los Angeles.

She is a past director of the preschool laboratory at Ben Fernando Valley State College.

Assisting Mrs. Kuzma in supervising the children and conducting the educational aspects of the laboratory will be Cheryl K. Cassidy, 32, Cassidy, of Riverside; is also a Loma Linda University graduate and the mother of two preschool boys.

Percy K. Cassidy, of Loma Linda University is now supervising the children and conducting the educational aspects of the laboratory will be Christa K. Cassidy, 32, Cassidy, of Riverside; is also a Loma Linda University graduate and the mother of two preschool boys.

Patients' journal reveals hospital history

A recent find of the Loma Linda University Historical Commission is the "Patients' Journal No. 1," according to Rolf J. Reynolds, PhD, emeri- tor vice president for academic affairs, and chairman of the historical commission.

Discovered on January 29, 1968, in a storeroom behind Frank's Barber Shop in the "old business block" on University Avenue, this priceless bit of local institutional history contains the names and ac- counts of every patient admit- ted from the opening day of the Loma Linda Sanitarium and Hospital, October 13, 1905, to 1907.

Horizontal headings across the page record the date of admission, the number of days of the week the patient was in," room, board, treat- ments, nursing care, operations, examinations, and office calls, laundry, pharmacy, livery, store charges, and lobger for each patient.

The first entry for a patient was for Miss Hilda Belland, ad- mitted on Friday, October 13, 1905, her rate was $7.50 a week, $3.50 per week for board, $3; treatments $3. She was admitted on October 13, 1905, for Miss Hilda Belland, ad- mitted on October 13, 1905, into the hospital. Her only "extras" were November

Also admitted on October 13, 1905, was Marie Koecker, at the same rate.

On October 22, a Mr. J. B. Briggs and his sister were ad- mitted to the institution. The sister remained one day, week, for his rate was $15, in- cluding $5 for room, $6 for board, and $7 for treatments.

At the 50th anniversary of the founding of the College of Medical Evangelists, Mr. Briggs was a guest at the celebration, and was thus described as the earliest patient available to re- ceive the honors.

Rates in the early months of operation varied according to the amount of attention the patient received, and also, accord- ing to the quality of the room occupied.

Maximum fee for a room was $30 per week. Treatment charge was $3 to $3.50 per week.

The first surgery was per- formed on a Mr. R. F. Strongil in December for a fee of $30. Office calls were $2 each. Nurs- ing services ranged from $3 a week to $30. Many patients had no nursing changes.

In March 1906, Miss Sue Bil- lone arrived with "George" and a maid. Their laundry charges were $2.86, the highest yet re- corded.

Not much (if any) use was made of the livery rigs or riding horses during the winter months. Charges were generally sim- ple, but since each entry was for a week, there is no way of knowing how many rides could be had for $2.

In February 1906, Mrs. Belle Loflin brought her own horse to share with her the good life at Loma Linda. The charge was $3.50 per week for board for the horse.

The Loma Linda University Historical Commission was created by the act of the President's Committee in the summer of 1967.

The committee's officers for 1967 and 1968 are Dr. Rey- nolds, chairman, Wilfred J. Air- ley, M.D., professor of history cochairman, and Ada L. Tur- ner, editor of academic publica- tions, secretary.

The objectives of the commis- sion are to advise the Univer- sity administration as to poli- cies and procedures for accoun- tency, and housing of materials related with the his- tory of the University, and to define historical materials of in- terest to the University and the surrounding community.

The historical commission seeks liaison with individuals engaged in research with Loma Linda University historical materials.

Not having unqualified historical materials relating to the institution or the commu- nity, the commission seeks liaison with individuals engaged in research with Loma Linda University historical materials.

History professor lectures on Luther

William M. Landeen, PhD, professor of history and presiden- tor emeritus at Loma Linda University, began a series of three lectures on the "Reformation" last Monday evening.

The first annual Fisbahn A. Medcalf Memorial Lecture is sched- uled for the Memorial Meier Memorial Lecture at Loma Linda University, and is devoted to the topic of Luther's "When The Monk Became a Reformer."
